Summer economy looks strong

Cold spring may impact overall numbers for some

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — It's been a beautiful summer in Charlevoix, and the tourism-based revenues stream looks strong.

Charlevoix area businesses and officials report that summer visitors arrived in solid numbers and spent money here, like usual. The trouble is, some companies may experience a decrease in overall income this season thanks to the terrible winter and slow-incoming spring.

"Business was good in downtown Charlevoix this year, depending on who you ask," said Bethany Pearson, the city's community economic development director.

"The weather as we all know plays a big part in commerce downtown. Retail business and restaurants seem to have a very good summer according to their projections, specifically in August," she said. "Kirby Dipert of Charlevoix Wear said he was up this year compared to last year and last year was a great year for

City council sets second marina expansion hearing

Testimony taken, concerns heard at Monday session

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL

CHARLEVOIX — City leaders on Monday voted to host a second public hearing before they vote on a controversial marina expansion proposal for downtown Charlevoix's Round Lake.

The 5-1 decision came after the first public hearing on the city's proposed new pier along city-owned seawall between the existing northerly dock and the Beaver Island Boat Company dock. Councilman Leon Perron, of the 2nd Ward, cast the sole dissenting vote because he is opposed to the project and wants city investments made to benefit year-round residents, comments he made after the meeting adjourned.

City manager Rob Straebel said the preliminary estimated cost of a new pier is about $500,000, but that does not include the cost of bottomland

Charlevoix's little but mighty bridge walk

Rain or shine event set for Labor Day

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — You don't have to travel to the Straits of Mackinac to walk a bridge on Labor Day.

This year's annual Charlevoix "Little but Mighty Bridge Walk" which takes place at 12:45 p.m. on Labor Day, will offer participants fellowship, fun and the satisfaction of donating to a worthwhile cause.

"The Bridge Walk started all in fun 27 years ago by a group from the Town House Bar," said Patty Sitzema, long time coordinator of the walk. "I decided to turn it into an annual fundraising event the following year. From that time on, I found myself in charge, ordering T-shirts and collecting money for various causes."

In fact, in the 26 years Sitzema spearheaded the event, it began with money to provide the Charlevoix ambulance and Charlevoix fire department-gan, the Charlevoix County Humane Society, the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, BASES teen recovery center, the victims of the fireworks tragedy and Charlevoix's Community Food Pantry.

Some of the proceeds from this year's walk will be donated to the family of a young cancer patient to help defray the cost of her treatments, and a portion will be used as seed money to set up a fund under the umbrella of the Charlevoix Community Foundation for future worthwhile charitable projects. Her name is Kiara Leigh Darling, 13, daughter of William and Jennifer Darling of Charlevoix.

Sitzema is a native of Charlevoix who also remains active in Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's Operation Penumbra project and served on the board of the Charlevoix Pool.

"It's a fun event and I am happy to give back to my community. People

Lost and found: Antique register returns to Charlevoix

Piece found at auction by local businessman

EMILY WHITE
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — A mystery purchase is now a Charlevoix hometown treasure.

"I didn't know what it was at first, but after I opened the drawer and saw 'Charlevoix,' I knew I had to have it," said David Foulkrod, Charlevoix's American Man Cave store owner.

Recently, Foulkrod purchased an old McCaskey filing-type register at a Downstate auction and now displays it in his downtown Charlevoix store. Foulkrod kept it on display for approximately three weeks and said he's had seven or eight people stop in who recognized a name or two as relatives or friends.

Built in 1907, Foulkrod said the Charlevoix Lumber Company originally used the register while the company remained in business. Numbered and handwritten nametags arranged alphabetically in neat rows allowed for easy access to customer accounts. The numbers corresponded to a rectangular pad in the top fold-down portion of the register where spring-loaded metal clips presumably held customer receipts or bills that were to be paid.

The register boasts many recognizable local names such as Charlevoix Hospital, Charlevoix School and even Charlevoix's famous mushroom home architect and builder, Earl Young. In a way, the register is "essentially a record of the people who built Charlevoix" in the early to mid-1900s.

It's whereabouts between the early to mid-1970s and just a few short weeks ago when Foulkrod purchased the turn-of-the-century piece is unknown to him. "I'd really love for all the locals who've lived here for any length of time to be able to stop in and see if they can recognize any of the names before it walks out the door with a new owner," Foulkrod said.

Shortly after acquiring the antique, Foulkrod began researching it. He said, as of yet, he was unable to find another model exactly like it. Many of the other registers researched online were similar, but unlike his doublewide register, they held half as many slots for name cards.

"It just felt right bringing it home — back to where it belongs," Foulkrod said.

EAST JORDAN

Affordable art to support building upgrades at JRAC

ERICA RAKOWICZ
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — Since the purchase of East Jordan's Carnegie building by the Jordan River Arts Council early this summer, the council has been working with community members and officials to improve the building in order to better serve the arts council's visitors and artists.

These adjustments will revolve around accessibility such as increasing gallery space with additional space to conduct classes, workshops and cultural gatherings and making both the building and the restrooms accessible to all.

The blueprint used as a plan increases the building's space affordably while maintaining the historical elements.

"The board members of the Jordan River Arts Council are enthusiastic about taking on these new challenges," said Cynthia Tschudy of the council.

"You will be amazed by the artwork you see," she said.

The event, titled "6" x 6", is an exhibit open from 1-4 p.m., except for Mondays, from Aug. 24 through Sept. 19 at Jordan River Arts Council at 301 Main Street in downtown East Jordan.

The opening reception takes place from 1-4 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 24.

The reception includes art materials available on the lower level for any children or individuals interested in creating their own 6-inch by 6-inch artwork.

Artists from around the area are to create small pieces of art, measuring 6 inches by 6 inches, in many media — oils, watercolor, fabric, printmaking, photography and pottery.

"This is a way for the artists to give back to the arts council," said Sylvia Walworth of the Jordan River Arts Council.

"Art will be available in styles for everyone from funky and modern to very traditional," Tschudy added.

As a way to keep the prices reasonable, the artwork will be sold unframed.

The highest price for a piece of artwork will be $100 and many other pieces will be ticketed at $25.

"If you are a collector of art this will be a great occasion to add to your collection. If you have never bought art, this is a perfect time to start, with so many pieces on display that are small enough to fit into the perfect spot in your home and affordable enough to purchase more than one," said Tschudy.

"It's a way to say to the public 'Come on in because there will be a lot of affordable art,'" Walworth added.

The Jordan River Arts Council has provided local artists with an exhibition space for the past 25 years.

The council has reached out to Antrim and Charlevoix county schools to bring art into the classroom, invited community members to share in viewing and learning about the talent in the area and created exhibitions to inspire artists.

"With the purchase of the building our dream is to continue this tradition and to expand our outreach. We hope to see many old friends and make new ones during this exhibit," said Tschudy.

"We're so excited about owning the building and so excited about making plans to make the building better both for artists and the public and this is just sort of our first step to do so," she said.

Trail work postponed

CRAM CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Scheduled to begin this summer, construction on the first phase of a 15-mile non-motorized recreation trail between Boyne City and Charlevoix has been delayed until next year.

The project has been in development stages for several years with Charlevoix County as the lead agency. Parks department director Ross Maxwell told the county board of commissioners late last month the plan to start building the trail this year is no longer realistic.

In a phone interview Wednesday, Maxwell said construction had to be postponed while county officials obtained the necessary easement from the state parks department for a portion of the trail that travels through Young State Park in Boyne City.

"It took months and months and months to get that," Maxwell said. "That's really all that held it up."

County leaders will begin seeking bids for the construction this fall, Maxwell said, putting the earliest possible construction start date after the winter season. Even if construction started as scheduled, Maxwell said it is unlikely the trail would have been ready for substantial use this year.

"It was getting late, by the time that would have even been finished probably the snow would have been flying," he said.

The trail will be built in five phases, starting with a 3.2-mile section in Boyne City with the portion that passes through Young State Park. A second phase stretching 3.3 miles originating from the Little Traverse Wheelway in Charlevoix should be completed next year, too. A third phase in CHARLEVOIX — The city's airport manager announced his resignation this week during a public meeting because he said he has been "micro-managed."

Scott Woody told Charlevoix city councilors on Monday that he would resign — effective on Saturday, Aug. 23 — after he presented a report about a more than $1.5 million grant from the Federal Aviation Administration to be used on a multi-million-dollar infrastructure improvement in 2015 at the airport.

"I was made a promise by Roh Straebel that I wouldn't be micro-managed and it's happened," Woody told the Charlevoix airport manager Scott Woody says he is resigning from his city job because he has been "micro-managed," specifically when it comes to his effort to change a policy that charges customers parking fees in a separate credit card transaction from their flight tickets as they stand at the same counter within the airport lobby.

Compromise reached on Boss driveway issue Paved parking on public right-of-way to shorten

CHARLEVOIX — It took three Charlevoix City Council meetings within a week to sort out the Boss family driveway on Alice Street, and not everyone is happy with the outcome.

City councilors ended up in a 5-1 vote to allow a 25-foot-wide area for paved parking in front of the home, with about 13 feet returned to grassy right-of-way space. But it took a while to get there.

Ken and Myrna Boss for decades used an approximately 38-foot-wide blacktopped section of public right-of-way in front of their Alice Street home, but city officials tore up the area this spring to repair an underground utility line that broke there in winter's deep freeze and subsequent thaw.

Ken and Myrna Boss on Wednesday sit in council chambers at Charlevoix City Hall, when the latest vote about their driveway on Alice Street happened among city councilors in a second special meeting called to address the issue within a single week, in addition to a lengthy discussion at Monday's regularly scheduled city council meeting.

Ken Boss said they wanted to pave the section back over, but city officials weren't sure if they should allow that — especially considering incoming complaints from neighbors.

"Not one of (the neighbors) wants this," said councilwoman Shirley Gibson, who cast the sole dissenting vote to approve the 25-foot-wide paved area as part of a widened section of the Boss family's driveway — something allowed by city ordinance if the neighborhood contained curb and gutters, though it doesn't.

However, Gibson said since most of the Boss driveway is the width of a single car, the driveway should be that wide throughout, as well. She called this move by council a "government giveaway" and asked whether the Boss family will be charged taxes on the entire paved area.

"Just because something's been done forever doesn't mean it's right," Gibson said.

But Ken Boss said there are countless other examples around town where residents maintain driveways wider than a single car, and also those parking within street right-of-ways. He argued he

He decided not to accept the nomination, should he receive it, because he will be moving out of town in coming months for his wife's medical condition.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Life's journey has purpose

This summer seemed briefer than most, especially after a Dr. Zhivago-like winter. I wasn't certain whether it was the change in our weather system or the onset of old age, but I feel like life is flying by at break-neck speed. Between scooping up grandkids and pulling weeds, I took time to contemplate.

"What attributes do we possess that give us extended warranty on life?" That's pretty deep for an end of summer thought; I must be preparing my mind for winter hibernation.

In my 20s and 30s it was easy to pick a direction and be eager to learn about life and the fruits of happiness. I was young and thought I would live forever. Now I am in this chapter referred to as the golden years, and it's easy to lose your way. AAA doesn't have a road map for this one.

Once out of the day-to-day work/life you oftentimes lose contact with friends you worked with and though you have more time to spend with others, those others may be on another track in their lives.

In my time spent with newly retired individuals, I cannot stress enough the importance that you need to continue to feel the purpose in your life. Retirement is not about sitting on the front porch rocking in a chair, though I do enjoy my time spent doing this very thing. It isn't about cutting out store coupons and planning your funeral, though I have found myself doing that, as well.

Retirement is a gift of time to help others with your ability and time to do so. It's a time to take on a new activity, whether it is learning to play the piano or tackling a new language. It's important to remain physical, exercising your body as well as your mind and challenging yourself each day — even if it's to learn how program ynu TV's remote.

The key to healthy aging is having a sense of purpose. Rush University Medical Center in Chicago uses questionnaires to rate the sense of purpose of retired men and women. Those individuals who enjoyed making plans and carrying them out and involved with daily activities and still setting goals lived a healthier life with less risk of dementia. Dying from any cause was nearly cut in half among men and women who were active later in life. In Japan, researchers did a similar study and found evidence of protection from heart attacks and stroke in middle-aged men if they stayed active physically and became involved in their community. Staying engaged with others and finding life meaningful also protects us from depression.

It's good to wring out as much pleasure from everyday life as you can. Doing things you love doing only enhances an appreciation for life. Even though it appears narcissistic, one needs to focus on themselves occasionally to better help those around them. Role modeling loving life is infectious, so if you are having a good time doing volunteer work others will follow your lead.

We all have inevitable upsets in life, but those are our teachable moments. They give us time to re-examine what is really important. Becoming and staying healthy is not a competition to outlive your friends. Life is a gift that can be rescinded at any given moment. It's enjoying life because you simply can. Happiness is looking at old pictures and reviewing your life's journey. Or taking a walk and noticing all that is around you as if seeing nature for the first time. Tasting your food rather than rushing to another project. Listening to a child's laughter and watching squirrels at play. Reflect once in awhile about the good things you've done in the past and how you can share yourself with others in the future. We all have a purpose and though we may not always know what it is, retirement is a gift to find out.

Gayle Gennett is a retired educator and counselor with more than 30 years experience. She is currently a licensed professional counselor in private practice focusing on youth and couples counseling. She also oversees the Lay Chaplaincy Program at Charlevoix, Area Hospital. She holds a bachelor's degree in art education, a master's degree in guidance and counseling and postgraduate work in administration all from Eastern Michigan University.

LETTERS to the editor

'Compulsory secrecy certainly does little to instill confidence'

Editor:
There is a disturbing note in your account of the meeting of the St. Marys community advisory committee's meeting to discuss the swap of land in Fisherman's Island State Park proposed by St. Marys Council. ("St. Marys hosts closed-door land swap meeting," 7-18-2014)

The representative of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council would sign a contract not to discuss with the media a matter of such intense public interest is puzzling. Who is the contract with? What are the consequences of breaching it?

Compulsory secrecy certainly does little to instill confidence that the public interest is being protected.

Avern Cohn, U.S. District Judge, Detroit

A monumental victory for our country

Editor:
There have been many lawsuits over the years opposing public prayers, usually involving Christianity. In a landmark decision, the Supreme Court of the United States reaffirmed that prayer before legislative meeting is constitutional. Decades ago, in Marsh v. Chambers, the high court held that prayer before legislative meetings (Congress, county, town councils, etc.) did not violate the Constitution. In the most recent case, a group opposed to legislative prayer attacked the town of Greece, N.Y., for allowing prayer before meetings offered "in Jesus' name." They argued that these prayers must be offered in a generic way — to a generic god. This decision shatters that notion.

The court noted as a matter of historical fact that "the Congress" that drafted the First Amendment would have been accustomed to invocations containing explicitly religious themes." "The decidedly Christian nature of these prayers," the majority stated, "must not be dismissed as a relic of time when our nation was less pluralistic than it is today." The court also correctly noted that to delve into contents of individual invocations would force courts to act as supervisors and censors of religious speech. This decision is a monumental victory as it underscores what has been argued from the beginning: The prayer in this case is constitutionally protected speech. Reaffirming the value of prayer, and especially in the context of legislative assemblies, this ruling deals a stunning blow to those seeking to eradicate our religious heritage and its free exercise from public life. Duty and honor for god and country.

In 1867, companies Redington, Nelson & Co. made a bargain with pioneer settler John Dixon for a parcel of his property on the channel neck for a lumheryard. By spring of 1868, mill machinery and supplies arrived, a building went up and operations began. By 1869, the mill was in full working order. In 1870, George Esterly bought the business and ran it until 1876, when he sold to John Nichols, who gave it its final name, the Charlevoix Lumber Company, a local institution and landmark for more than the next century. Millions of board feet of lumber came out of this mill until about 1915, when the lumber industry crashed from the over-logging of what had been once considered an inexhaustible resource. But the company hung on, even through the lean years of the Great Depression and World War II. The last of the complex, this portion of a much-remodeled building, came out in 1986 prior to the second phase of the construction of the Edgewater Inn. Toward the end, it housed various businesses, such as the Bit of Finland gift store and Michigan Properties Realty. Currently, the site is occupied by the new Drawbridge Bistro. Readers might like to visit the Man Cave store on Bridge Street to inspect its recently acquired large wooden accounts file cabinet from the Charlevoix Lumber Company and its dozens of old Charlevoix names.

Distinct vocals, tight harmonies, instrumental expertise, and creative arrangements are all essential characteristics of their unique sound. The group focuses on the original tunes of Lindsay Lou Rilko, which include true-life tales of bank-robbing aunts, moonshinin' grandpas, and celebrations of love, life and nature. Don't be surprised to hear bluegrass standards, Beatles hits, and contemporary classics at a Flatbellys show as well. Local drug store raises funds for veteran service dogs CHARLEVOIX — Central Drug Store raised $1,100 in July for Paws 4 Liberty, an organization which raises and trains dogs to help disabled veterans.

Paws 4 Liberty is an organization that changes lives, one dog at a time. For disabled veterans in need, a trained service dog increases independence in daily activities and enriches their lives with a loyal companion. Since 2006, Paws 4 Liberty has been raising, training and placing service dogs with skills that include pulling a wheelchair, retrieving a telephone, providing physical support for balance and alerting deaf individuals.

Officials at the Charlevoix pharmacy said they feel honored and proud to be able to, along with the donations of their customers, be part of helping to make others' lives better, especially those who have given so much for our freedom.

More information about Paws 4 Liberty is available at www.paws4liberty.org online.

Grand Bay Marine is number one in the world

Charlevoix and TC stores are favorites for Regal Boats

CHARLEVOIX — Regal Marine Industries of Orlando, Fla., recently announced that a Traverse City- and Charlevoix-based business topped the list for unit sales of Regal Boats for the 2014 model year.

Central U.S. sales manager James Krueger, of Regal Marine Industries, announced that Grand Bay Marine of 291 N. U.S. 31 South in Traverse City and of 6472 N. M-66 in Charlevoix were ranked number one for sales of Regal Boats.

"To be number one in any field is a great accomplishment, but when you consider that Regal builds boats for dealers and boaters in 44 different countries, many of which are in tropical climates, that makes the achievement even more impressive," Krueger said.

Grand Bay Marine stocks several Regal models for Michigan boaters and the business is consistently rated 95 percent or higher in their customer satisfaction index. Krueger believes that the high sales percentage is indicative of the hard work of the device and sales staff, he said.

Cancer treatment now available at Charlevoix Area Hospital

RACHEL BROUHAAM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — While construction isn't scheduled to begin until fall on Charlevoix Area Hospital's Chemotherapy-Infusion Center, the hospital is already treating area cancer patients.

Rooms in one section of the hospital have been temporarily converted to treat patients who require oncology and non-oncology infusion services. These temporary rooms will serve these patients until construction has been completed for the new center, which will be located in another area of the hospital.

According to the hospital, the new Chemotherapy-Infusion Center, which crews will break ground on this fall, will have unparalleled views of Lake Michigan and offer patients a comforting, peaceful environment for their care.

"Offering this treatment close to home is part of the hospital's vision to provide the right care in the right place," the hospital stated in a release. "Being able to make chemotherapy and infusion services more convenient, eliminating long and often frequent times for patients and family, and providing warm and compassionate care contributes to the well-being of our entire community."

For more information about the Infusion Center at Charlevoix Area Hospital, call (231) 547-8571. For more information about this and other services offered at Charlevoix Area Hospital, visit www.cah.org.

Bemis takes on new role

Constant Contact names new regional development director for Great Lakes region

CHARLEVOIX — As part of its continued commitment to educating small businesses and nonprofits everywhere, Constant Contact Inc. recently announced it expanded its local education program into a new territory: the Great Lakes Region, covering Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky.

At the helm for that territory is Charlevoix's own Erin Bemis.

Small organizations in the Great Lakes area will now have access to seminars and training workshops on best practices in online marketing, hosted at locations within their communities.

"In 2013 alone, roughly 180,000 attendees participated in classes and workshops hosted by Constant Contact's team of local educators across North America. It's clear that small businesses and nonprofits are hungry for this type of marketing education, and we intend on being there to support them in their local communities," said Richard Israel, senior director of North American local market development at Constant Contact. "The continued growth and expansion of our local education team underscores that commitment and will give even more small organizations access to business-building education."

In line with this program expansion, the company named Erin Bemis as the regional development director for its new Great Lakes region. Based in Charlevoix, Bemis will oversee the regional team of in-the-field educators.

With nearly 20 years working with nonprofits in a variety of roles, Bemis brings a wealth of experience to her position. Most recently, she served as the president and chief executive officer of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. While there, she earned the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Institute for Organization Management graduate recognition, Michigan Chamber Professional designation and led the chamber to consecutive titles of Michigan Chamber of the Year.

Bemis' experiences provided her a strong knowledge of the challenges that small businesses face coupled with the skills to make marketing easy and effective, a combination that allows her to be a crucial resource to small businesses and organizations throughout her region.

EPA Begins Review of Charlevoix Municipal Well Superfund Site Charlevoix, Michigan

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is conducting a five-year review of the Charlevoix Municipal Well Superfund site located in northwest Charlevoix. The Superfund law requires regular checkups of sites that have been cleaned up to make sure the cleanup continues to protect people and the environment. This is the fourth five-year review of the site.

EPA's cleanup of contaminated groundwater included groundwater monitoring and restrictions on groundwater use. The contaminants of concern in the groundwater are trichloroethylene and perchloroethylene. During this review, a potential environmental problem called vapor intrusion and contaminants benzene and chloroform will be evaluated.

More information is available at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., and at www.epa.gov/region5/cleanup/charlevoix. The review should be completed by September 2015.

The five-year review is an opportunity for you to tell EPA and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality about site conditions and any concerns you have.

In fact, it may be a tremendous year for some — the type that comes with welcomed waiting lines.

"We had an exceptional summer. Venetian seemed to carry on and on. The people in town seemed to stay. They were here all last week," said Eric Wlodarczyk, manager at Scovic's Gourmet on Bridge Street. "We were at capacity every day. With 108 seats, we were turning over the restaurant several times a day."

The Venetian Festival itself even counts this among its greatest years.

"In 2014, the festival dodged threatening weather on several occasions and celebrated the first-ever full evening closure of Bridge Street. As a result, Venetian enjoyed a banner year," said Dan Barron, festival president. "In addition to moderate attendance increases at most of the major Venetian venues, continued record attendance was seen at Aquapalooza, Kid's Day, the Ryan Shay Mile and the street parade. The boat parade and Venetian fireworks were again fantastic, providing a growing base of support for the record revenues realized from the Tiki tent, the carnival and food sales."

But not every organization will see record incomes this summer.

In the city's marina, the late spring is expected to impact total revenues at season's end.

"We are down overall, but it's only because of May. We've been full since the Fourth of July," said Hal Evans, Charlevoix harbormaster. "We've been setting records every year since the marina was re-done, and hopefully this year will be a blip."

Evans said the marina continues to hold strong, though, with 70 boats still moored in the filled-to-capacity facility in Round Lake.

Beaver Island Boat Company officials say they also expect the long-lasting winter to impact their overall numbers for the season.

"I would say we are down slightly, mainly due to the extended winter and getting a late start," said Tim McQueer, of the ferry company. "The last few years we have remained relatively flat in passenger counts. We predict due to the slow start and the relatively cool summer we may end up a little behind last year."

Lodging facilities in Charlevoix seemed to make out OK this summer, but a change in the convention and visitor's bureau assessments this year makes it impossible to specifically tell how many overnight stays Charlevoix counted this season, said the organization's Ananda Wilkin.

"That being said, the lodging industry in Charlevoix has had a good summer thus far. The unruly weather this spring set the beginning of the year back a tiny bit from 2013's numbers. But for the actual summer months of June, July and August... we are seeing an increase of approximately 4-5 percent," she said. "We are looking to finish the summer off with great numbers and roll into the fall color season."

And that's the ultimate goal, Wilkin said, to increase tourism during the fast-approaching shoulder season between summer and autumn colors.

Pearson said investment in downtown and real estate made a big jump this year and the area is seeing higher property valuations than normal since the Great Recession and a jump in private investment and development.

"This is evidenced by the six new year-round stores that have opened their doors just this year," she said.

Additionally, the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority will this week be surveying its downtown business owners about the summer economy and results are expected by mid-September.

come back every year to walk. One guy, who used to come and watch, just had two knee replacements and says he's walking the bridge this year," she said.

Others make it part of a bridge-walking marathon of a day.

"One Charlevoix participant, Lee Barta, has been doing the walk since 2001. He does 14 bridge walks in one day," Sitzema said. "A senior group from Traverse City, always joins us after they have completed the Mackinac Bridge, on their way home."

There have been anywhere from 200-400 bridge walkers at one time, Sitzema said.

"If I have sold two-thirds of the T-shirts I ordered prior to the walk, on the day I will easily sell out of the remainders because visitors to town get in the spirit and join right in," she said. "Some people come back every year to add to their Bridge Walk T-shirt collection. This year's is orange with a Detroit Tiger motif."

Prior to the walk, T-shirts may be purchased at the Town House on Bridge Street or by calling Sitzema at (231) 547-5190. Sizes run from small to extra large for $13, double-extra large for $16 and triple-extra large for $18.

On Labor Day, participants are asked to gather in front of the Town House at 12:30 p.m. At 12:45 p.m., the group will cross the bridge and gather in the driveway of the Weathervane Restaurant. After the 1 p.m. bridge elevation, the group of bridge-walkers will cross back over.

Charlevoix's annual bridge walk will be held regardless of the weather, so appropriate clothing is recommended. Everyone is welcome and is encouraged to participate.

city council. "Today he told me my heart is not in this job."

Woody said he intends to remain in Charlevoix and be available to help with aviation across the area.

Straebel, Charlevoix city manager, said out of respect for Woody he would not make specific comments about the personnel issue.

"I wish him well on future endeavors and thank him for his time working for the city," he said.

Woody came nearly two years ago to Charlevoix to administrate the municipal airport, which a recent state-completed community benefits assessment showed, makes an annual $20 million impact to the area. During his time in the post he found inefficiencies to remedy, but

"I've tried to make this more efficient, but I've been prohibited from making these changes."

— Scott Woody, Charlevoix airport manager said he found resistance to his latest suggestion. The issue became the "last straw," he said.

"I've tried to make this more efficient, but I've been prohibited from making these changes," Woody said.

The first inefficiency Woody said recently was successfully addressed is the prior policy of frequently driving a city-owned fuel truck down the airfield to Fresh Air Aviation. Now the mid-field airline owns and operates its own fuel wagon, saving expenses for both the city and the business.

"I wish him well on future endeavors and thank him for his time working for the city."

Woody said he next wanted to change how the city charges customers parking fees to leave vehicles in the municipal lot in front of the airport along U.S. 31 South. Currently, Island Airways customers must first pay for their tickets and freight to Beaver Island, then slide down the counter and in a second transaction pay the city parking fee.

"People always complain about having to do that. Some actually get irate about it," Woody said.

To solve the customer service problem, Woody said he worked out a deal with the airline to charge the city parking fee in addition to its ticket and freight rates, in exchange for a 10-percent cut of the revenue. Despite the loss of some parking fee money, Woody said the city could save funds by a combination of not paying an employee to stay late to charge night flight customers parking fees, along with saving thousands of dollars each year in credit card transaction fees.

Straebel declined to comment on the parking fee situation, other than to say, "the issue was much bigger than that specific issue."

"fixed-base operator" until in April 2011 the city government took over operations. Officials at the time said the move would make the facility more self-sufficient and reduce the need to use general fund dollars to supplement the airport budget.

On Wednesday, Woody showed a reporter city revenue reports that show during the last year the Charlevoix airport experienced an approximate 48-percent increase in overall landing fees, even though officials dropped a previously charged single-engine landing fee. He also pointed to an increase by 5 percent in parking fee revenues, something Woody attributes to improvements in the airport's customer service.

Woody previously worked as the airport manager at Gaylord Regional Airport, owned and operated by Otsego County.

This is the area where the Boss family formerly maintained paved parking in front of their home, but which city leaders ordered to be shortened by more than 10 feet to a maximum 25 feet wide.

is being specifically targeted because of meddling neighbors.

"Am I being singled out?" Boss asked the council members.

Councilman Jeff Porter explained how parallel parking in that area would not violate any city laws, but it's the Boss family's perpendicular parking to the street "that's driving the neighbors crazy."

The first special city council meeting to address this issue happened on Thursday, Aug. 14, followed by more discussion at the regularly scheduled meeting on Monday, Aug. 18. But then a third session for this topic — the second specially called session within a week — happened Wednesday afternoon.

City employees and the Boss family last week agreed to reduce the paved area to 25 feet wide, but on Monday council members reneged and instead approved a further reduced 20 feet wide area. Porter cast the single dissenting vote.

Ken Boss harked right then and there.

"I guess I'm wondering, why?" he asked before the meeting adjourned Monday.

Come Wednesday, Charlevoix City Council members convened again and decided in to allow the 25-foot agreement to stand. Gibson predicted the Alice Street neighborhood won't be satisfied with this outcome.

However, mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said he wants the issue settled and officials moved past it.

"I don't really care who is upset with who on the block," the mayor said.

the Horton Bay area is planned for construction in 2016 and the final two phases will follow that.

State grants are expected to pay for the project, though officials have said funding exists only for a portion of the construction. There are also concerns among county commissioners about ongoing maintenance costs associated with the trails.

Maxwell said before construction begins the county also will be notifying property owners along the second phase near Charlevoix. In all, Maxwell said he will meet with 24 property owners in that portion, seeking their signatures on a document that signifies little more than formal notification of the county's legal right of way to build the trail along its proposed route.

County officials say all property owners along the proposed route signed documents in the 1950s acknowledging the public right of way extended from 33 feet on each side of the roadway's center line to 49.5 feet. Maxwell said he's meeting with property owners to clear up any confusion.

"We want to work with everybody," Maxwell said.

EXPANSION

pilings now expected to be needed to moor the Keweenaw Star along what was first pitched as a floating dock. Plans call for the new pier to be financed through pre-lease revenues, he said.

"We are not considering extending the (East Park and marina) bonds issued or taking on any additional debt," Strabel said.

Primary concerns among the public and marina-related commercial businesses involve safety and navigation in Round Lake, while other issues involve impacts to the aesthetics of the waterscape and the natural environment. Most of those who testified at the hearing spoke either against the project or raised concerns about elements of the plan, though some simply asked questions or made suggestions.

Charlevoix resident Mary Eveleigh criticized the city's drawings of the marina that exclude a "use line" shown on a Michigan Department of Environmental Quality map of the public Round Lake marina. Eveleigh said after investigating with the DEQ what the meaning of that "use line" is, she learned it is a navigation line meant to show safe areas of passage for vessels on Round Lake.

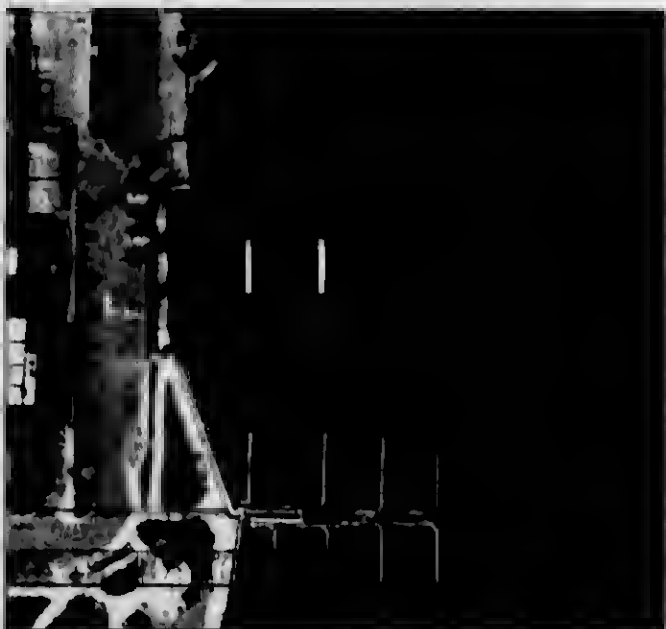

"I think we better really pay attention to that," Eveleigh said. "Just to remove the use line off the map because nobody knew what it is for is not correct."

She further argued the city's marina expansion committee was "one-sided" in that it included only city employees or elected officials — no other interests or expert opinions represented. Councilwoman Shirley Gibson agreed with that point and also questioned why no engineering or marine experts sat on the special committee.

"The committee was inappropriate," Gibson said.

Retired U.S. Coast Guard commander Keith Bills, who captained the formerly Charlevoix-based Acacia, told city councilors the safety and navigation issues raised by Beaver Island Boat Co. at prior public meetings will carry significant weight with the state and federal regulatory agencies, agencies that eventually will review any proposed marina expansion in Charlevoix.

"At first glance, it looks as though the navigation concerns are real," Bills said, adding that he worked for multiple years bringing the Coast Guard vessel in and out of Charlevoix's Round Lake via the Pine River Channel.

This is a sketch of a proposed new pier in the Charlevoix marina in Round Lake.

"We had some pretty hairy approaches there," he said.

Delbert "Chip" Terrill Jr., another city resident, suggested that if officials power ahead with the marina expansion, they use buoys to designate navigation lanes.

"It's getting tight, even for 21-foot day sailors," Terrill Jr. said. "It will be a harbor and not a lake."

Nancy Wood Loening, of Evangeline Township and a past president of the Lake Charlevoix Association, also echoed the navigation and beauty-related complaints. She clarified after the meeting that she didn't speak on behalf of the association.

"I moved up here for the aesthetic beauty of the area and we are fast losing that," she said, adding how the area proposed for the new pier is important as a space for navigational emergencies, when boaters run into trouble and need to bail out of their channel approaches.

"Piloting a boat is not like driving a car," Wood Loening said.

Jerry Puhl, board member with nonprofit WATCH, said he served as the agency's president years ago when the city first agreed with the community how big the renovated marina at East Park would be — a compromise reached after public backlash about the size of the initial park and marina overhaul proposal. Puhl said the city's continued focus on this issue up is an attempt "to wear us down."

"The people do not want to see more docks. The people do not want to see more boats," Puhl said, adding the public appreciates how the marina currently is arranged.

Charlevoix resident Steve Libert said he sees the validity of arguments on both sides of this issue. "I think everything comes down to safety and navigation," he said. "On the other hand, I do see the economic benefit of it and that is very important for the city, but the main issue is safety."

Councilman Lyle Gennett, who ran the Monday meeting as mayor pro tem in mayor Norman Carlson Jr.'s absence, said the second public hearing is intended to provide increased opportunities for public input on this issue.

The next public hearing about the proposed Charlevoix marina expansion will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 2, on the second floor of Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix. The meeting will not be on a Monday, as is usual, because of the Labor Day holiday that first week of September.

City officials in recent months explored a marina expansion as an effort to lure into Charlevoix's marina more large yachts, a plan to increase mooring revenues to be used to pay back the decade-old park and marina renovation bonds. Expected tax revenues fell short after a drop in local property values after the recent recession, according to city treasurer Joe Zielinski.

A prior plan panned in recent months called to extend existing Pier A farther into Round Lake, but faced heavy criticism from the public. This latest plan for an altogether new pier is an attempt by city authorities to find another marina expansion option.

TRIATHLON

Mancelona's Smith, Grosse Pointe's Levan win triathlons

KURT GRANGOOD

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

PETOSKEY — Dave Smith of Mancelona and Sara Levan of Grosse Pointe were the overall male and female winners, respectively, in the ninth annual Petoskey Triathlon Sunday.

Smith, a four-time winner of the event, finished the 1,000-meter swim, 25-mile bike and 10K run in 2 hours, 55 seconds; Levan won in 2:23:45.

After coming out of the water second behind Justin Amoski of Houston, Smith, 30, made a winning break-out during the last leg of the event, which was the run.

"Justin and I went back and forth on the bikes," Smith said. "I wasn't for sure how fast he was running, I finally went ahead, quickly, at the 15K mark."

Levan, competing in her first Petoskey Triathlon, was the fifth Olympic female out of the water, but made her move through the hills of the bike leg.

"I didn't preview the bike at all," the 44-year old Levan said. "Which is good. It's hilly, but it was a nice ride."

Smith will be competing with fellow Northern Michigan native and 2005 Petoskey graduate Ben McMurray in the Ironman 70.3 World Championships in Mont Tremblant, Quebec, on Sept. 7.

"This event is run really well," Smith said. "I just love the course, I prefer the hilly bike courses and, of course, the run along the water, you really can't beat that."

The Triathlons attracted 210 athletes from 11 states competing in five events according to the event organizer Kenny Krell of 3Disciplines.

"This is a great area for an event like this," Krell said. "It has the most hills and can be considered one of the toughest events in Michigan, and the area attracts several athletes from various states."

In the sprint triathlon, Britt Vallad, 31, of Bay City, finished first in overall women's division in the 500-meter swim, 20K bike and 5K run in 1:14:24; while Travis Dittmer of Grand Rapids, 25, won the male sprint in 1:04:44.

Petoskey's Michael Smith, 26, was the overall male winner in the kayak/paddle board triathlon (one mile kayak, 20K bike, 5K run) as he finished in 1:11:55; while Traverse City's Keith Conway, 46, was second, 1:17:31; and Ben Crockett, 34, of Petoskey was third, 1:18:07.

We are very excited to have Amber Way from Charlevoix who set the meet record last year and was the D3 State champion in track and a Nike All-American," said Joe Shay, race co-director.

Participating D4 schools are Alba, Bellaire, Boyne Falls, Central Lake, Ellsworth, Gaylord St. Mary, Harbor Springs, Inland Lakes, Johannesburg-Lewiston, Mancelona, Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart, North Trails, Onaway, Pellston and Wolverine. Outdoor dining rules in formulation

Committee to forward proposal to city council

CHARLEVOIX — Downtown restaurants and cateries may be able to do business on the sidewalk next summer, if outdoor dining regulations are approved in coming months.

Charlevoix's outdoor dining committee members agreed on Tuesday to forward to city council the proposed regulations for Bridge Street food and beverage businesses to next year serve customers at tables set up on the city sidewalk. Public review of the coming policy is expected during council's consideration.

City planner Mike Spencer said he prefers the city establish some standards to go by, "rather than a free for all." The committee collectively agreed, though city manager Rob Strachel said he doesn't want

Stepping forward on Main Street: Charlevoix goes to the next level in statewide initiative

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix officials agreed to take the next step in the Michigan Main Street program.

Downtown Development Authority board members on Monday unanimously agreed to pursue the next step in the Michigan Main Street program, an effort to move from an associate community to a select member community in the statewide initiative.

"It's going to require more people getting involved to help change downtown," said Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic development director.

The Michigan Main Street program is meant to support and promote downtowns and traditional commercial neighborhood districts in participating communities across the state. It uses a community-driven, comprehensive strategy that encourages economic development

Charlevoix schools to launch non-traditional program

Blended learning program to be housed at Round Lake campus

CHARLEVOIX — A new, non-traditional high school program will launch this academic year within Charlevoix Public Schools.

More than a dozen students are now enrolled in the new Round Lake High School North, what can be described as an alternative, or blended learning program that will combine both on-line and classroom courses with a focus on the arts. The students recently transferred from Northwest Academy in Charlevoix, said Bob Gendron, Charlevoix Schools superintendent.

ATWOOD

Interactive art center now in Atwood

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

ATWOOD — The greater Charlevoix area is home to a fully functioning art center, utilizing a multifaceted approach for its patrons and practitioners alike.

Artists North opened on July 12 and hit the ground running, already offering classes, providing lodging for out of town guests and offering a spectacular location with trails for visitors to experience.

But Artists North is more than just a gallery; it is an interactive experience between the art and the land.

"It is a really unique place. The members have access to over five acres of land, and the center is used as a tool," said Kathie Liebert, executive director of Artists North. "We have studios to work, we have a kiln to fire pottery and we have the location for inspiration. With the beautiful views, you just feel good coming here."

Classes offered are not confined to the indoors or a regimented setting at the new facility.

"Artists are free to teach the classes here. Some of our popular classes are the sunset view art classes and Art Uncork'd with Sharon Smithem," Liebert said. "Beginning pottery classes are taught by Tyler Bier every Tuesday, and the tools for working the clay are provided."

Artists North displays both ceramics and paintings, as well as other mediums.

During the summer months, it can be difficult to host art classes in this region because of the lack of available accommodations during the height of the tourist season. Artists North solves that conundrum by providing lodging for the artists.

"Not only do we have a place the artists can stay, but we have great spaces for them to work, as well," Liebert said. "We have a great artists lounge, with a great vantage that allows you to see all the way to Harbor Springs, Charlevoix and you can see the Fox Islands. The idea is to have a working art center and we want the arts here and using our facility.

"Right now we have an artist living with us and taking advantage of the kiln we have to offer. It was a great site at the beginning of the summer as there were tables set about the property covered in pottery awaiting firing."

Future plans include beer and wine tastings, as well as being able to offer culinary classes.

"The colors, the tastes and the sensations being blended together when cooking are works of art, as well," Liebert said, smiling.

As the location backs up to Tiller International Farms, which will be using the property to teach sustainable farming practices, traditional working art and agricultural arts will be implemented.

"We eventually plan to line the dirt road between us and Tillers with artisan shops, like glass blowing, blacksmithing, basket weaving and other historical traditional arts," Liebert said. Artists North is found behind the existing Bier Art Gallery at 17959 Ferry Road, south of Charlevoix along U.S. Highway 31

Nuisance property ordinance proposed

Charlevoix planner says new process envisioned

SHAWN MCWHITER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — A possible nuisance property ordinance is in the works for Charlevoix.

City planner Mike Spencer said the idea is to develop a procedure under the umbrella of city government to remedy blighted properties in Charlevoix. The concept is modeled after one in Brighton, a policy recently upheld by the Michigan Supreme Court regarding how landowners have no absolute right to avoid demolition of structures by making repairs.

"A lot of communities are looking to do this, especially more metropolitan areas," Spencer said.

The concept is to develop a city procedure to allow authorities to avoid going to court to require property owners to correct safety code violations and other blight issues.

Currently, there are four known properties within Charlevoix Spencer said could be targeted if the proposed nuisance property ordinance is approved and put into effect.

"There may be others we don't know about," he said.

To qualify as a nuisance property, Spencer said that can involve structural problems, building and electrical code violations, and structures classified as not safe for occupancy. Charlevoix's planning department could take complaints for future inspections, should the nuisance ordinance be adopted.

"There's a safety element to this, not just blight," Spencer underscored.

The possible nuisance property ordinance is expected to be introduced to Charlevoix City Council members at the Sept. 15 meeting at City Hall, including legal language proposed to enforce the changes to city building or structure restrictions.

Board chairman: County will resume search for new attorney next year

CRAM CORMIER
NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Even as Charlevoix County commissioners unanimously voted to extend for one year their board's contract with a Bellaire-based law firm, chairman Joel Evans said he hopes to renew the search for a new attorney when two recently elected members take their seats in January.

For months, Evans has pushed for the county to create a new staff attorney position, but when it was put to a vote board members were split 3-3 on the move.

The board agreed Wednesday night during a regularly scheduled meeting to extend its contract with the Young, Graham, Elsenheimer & Wendling law firm in Bellaire through the end of August 2015. Evans, though, said he still believes the county would benefit from having a full-time civil attorney.

"I don't think some of the commissioners understand the need for having in-house civil counsel," Evans said. "The intent was to get someone who would focus on Charlevoix County and give up their private practice to come here."

Evans along with fellow commissioners Ron Reinhardt and Chris Christensen voted in favor of hiring Boyne City attorney Tim Amer to fill a newly created staff position. But commissioners George Lasater, Rich Gillespie and Larry Sullivan voted to hire a Traverse City-based attorney on a contract basis.

Evans said prior to interviewing the two attorneys in April he thought the board members all agreed a full-time position was the best decision. After Wednesday's meeting, Lasater said he opposes hiring a staff attorney because of the anticipated extra cost to the county. Lasater said county coordinator Kevin Shepard frequently communicates with the contract attorneys and board members to answer questions and solve problems.

According to Evans, the proposed position for Amer would have paid about $70,000 annually. Under its contract with the Bellaire law firm, the county will pay $155 per hour of services as well as a "telephone retainer" of $300 each month, which allows unlimited access to the firm's attorneys by phone or through email so long as the discussion and subsequent work doesn't exceed 20 minutes. Evans said in the end the costs total about the same.

"I'm still going to pursue this at a later date," Evans said.

EAST JORDAN

East Jordan woman killed in Antrim County crash

EAST JORDAN — Deputies are still investigating the cause of a one-vehicle traffic crash that claimed the life of an East Jordan woman early Saturday.

In a news release issued Monday, Antrim County Sheriff Daniel S. Bean identified the deceased as the passenger in the car, Jennifer Lee Reiland, 20.

According to the release, the crash happened at about 8:15 a.m. on Saturday on M-32 near Hejhal Road in Antrim County's Echo Township.

Authorities said the crash happened when the driver of a 1999 Mercury, Duane Alan Skrocki Jr., 24, of East Jordan failed to negotiate a curve and struck a tree.

Reiland was pronounced dead at the scene.

Skrocki was transported by East Jordan Ambulance to McLaren Northern Michigan hospital where he was listed in serious condition at the time of the press release.

Alcohol may have been a factor in the crash and the occupants of the vehicle were wearing seat belts, Bean said in the news release.

Antrim County deputies were also assisted at the scene by the East Jordan Fire Department and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office.

The crash remains under investigation.

CHARLEVOIX

Four injured in U.S.-31 collision

CHARLEVOIX — Four people sustained minor injuries on Aug. 20 in a traffic crash in Charlevoix Township.

In a news release, Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as one driver, Elizabeth Grice, 19, of Elmira and her passenger, Sydney Denise Bennett, 19, of Boyne City; the other driver, Patricia Ann Zukas, 83, of Boynton Beach, Fla., and her passenger Joan Catharine Maule, 85, of Traverse City.

Sheriff's officials said the crash happened at about 12:13 p.m. on U.S. 31 near Equestrian Way when Grice, who was driving a 2001 Subaru Outback, was stopped in the road's northbound lane, waiting to make a left turn on to Equestrian Way. Authorities said Zukas, who was driving a 2002 Toyota Avalon, also headed north on U.S. 31, said she didn't see the Subaru stopped in the road in front of her in time and struck the Subaru from behind.

Authorities said all four occupants were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix Ambulance to be treated for minor cuts, bruises and possible neck injuries.

Deputies also were assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix Township Fire Department.

Deputies cited Zukas for failing to stop in assured clear distance ahead.

Reminder: 2nd marina hearing coming

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix City Council will host a second public hearing about a proposal to expand the city marina in downtown's East Park.

Testimony will be taken at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 2, the day after Labor Day, at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. Typically the city council meet on the first and third Mondays, but this session is delayed by the national holiday.

Charlevoix city leaders could vote on the proposal after the hearing, during their regularly scheduled meeting.

The proposed expansion calls for a new pier to be built north of existing Pier A, an effort to increase slips to accommodate larger yachts in the Round Lake marina. With a required reconfiguration on the nearby existing dock, the proposal calls to increase 80-foot slips by four or five, along with a new shopper's dock and a different alignment for the Keweenaw Star, now moored against the seawall in that leased spot.

City updates about the proposal can be reviewed at www.cityofcharlevoix.org online, under the link for marina expansion updates. Call (231) 547-3270 for more details.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Fear of new things is irrational

Do genetically modified organisms (GMOs), sometimes called genetically engineered organisms, make you nervous? Does the idea that scientists can install a gene from a bacterial cell into corn plants cause you to shudder? Should people be doing such things? How do you feel about genetically modified organisms becoming part of the food you eat? Should we all be worried that genetic modification of our food will make us sick?

These are all questions we will have to answer one way or the other. It is now possible to transfer genes from almost any organism to almost any other organism. We have developed corn plants and cotton plants that produce their own internal insecticides. We can produce salmon that grow at twice the rate of non-modified salmon. We can make crops that would normally be susceptible to common herbicides resistant to them. This makes it possible to spray soybean fields with herbicides that kill all or most of the weeds without harming soybeans so, we don't need so much fuel to cultivate the crop. We have developed rice that is more nutritious than ordinary rice. And we will have plants that use less irrigation water or less fertilizer to get the same or greater yield.

All of this seems to qualify as a brave new world that we might judge as either good for us or deadly. And various authority figures are telling us what to believe.

Critics of GMOs have managed to pass laws and rules in many parts of the world that restrict the use of such processes and/or require that any food with such modified organisms must be clearly labeled. Genetically engineered organisms are not allowed in human food in many places. The more nutritious rice is banned in some places and is the target of vandalism and even terrorism in some others.

It is very easy to induce fear of something new. Fear of GMOs is widespread and mostly unjustified. There are no instances of genetically engineered crops causing disease in humans; although, there are people who link such new crops to autism and asthma. There is no such link.

We have welcomed genetic engineering in medicine where human insulin is made by installing human genes in bacteria. Thyroid hormones for human treatment are made in the same way. No one seems to be objecting to those advances.

If you want to be afraid of something, be afraid of terrorists acquiring nuclear weapons, but don't worry about GMOs. They will bring us cheaper, more nutritious food and fiber with less use of chemical pesticides and eventually less water and fertilizer use. Any look at real evidence rather than fear tactics will convince you.

Saving green

By replacing incandescent light bulbs with LED bulbs, the Charlevoix Country Club is expected to save $5,400 per year in electricity costs. The club received a $3,872 rebate from Great Lakes Energy's Energy Optimization (EO) program that helped make the project possible. Shown here are (from left) Great Lakes Energy's Thomas Mann, club representative William Alward, and energy optimization program consultant Kevin Phillips. The energy optimization program is funded by a surcharge that Great Lakes Energy members pay on their electric bill.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Edward Walter Clifford Newman was one of the Newman brothers who put down early roots in Charlevoix. He enlisted during the Civil War using his two middle names, by which he became known from then on, and between military assignments always returned to reside in Charlevoix. Walter Clifford was a brilliant man, a born socializer who befriended everyone in town, a natural inventor, and a soldier born to the uniform who rose through the ranks to become a captain. As a respected American Indian agent stationed at Fort Buford in the Dakota Territories, he was the officer appointed to go out to meet Sitting Bull when the chief had to surrender his starving people in July 1881, after they had retreated to Canada following the Battle of Little Big Horn five years prior. A letter to the Charlevoix Sentinel recounting the event expressed Clifford's outrage at the conditions to which these natives had been reduced. Walter Clifford died at Fort Bridger, Wyoming on Feb. 23, 1883, from the consequences of a campaign undertaken in bitter freezing weather. The Traverse Region 1884 book paid him tribute: "He considered Charlevoix his home, and his death occasioned general sorrow in this place."

Local missionary seeks donations for Argentina trip

CHARLEVOIX — A rummage sale fundraiser is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Aug. 29-30, at the Church of the Nazarene Fellowship Hall in Charlevoix to benefit the mission work of church member Rachel Gilmore.

Gilmore will travel to Argentina on Jan. 8, 2015, and spend 28 months as part of Extreme Nazarene, an international organization of Peru, that is tasked with establishing churches in each of 16 major metropolitan areas in South America. Gilmore will live and work in Cordoba, Argentina's second largest city, after Buenos Aires, with more than 1.3 million residents.

The mission's goal at the end of two years is to leave Cordoba with an established, self-governing and self-sustaining church.

But mission work carries with it a sizable price tag and Rachel Gilmore's goal is $52,000, the total estimated cost of the trip. This amount will cover her travel, visa and living expenses, plus stipends and salaries for Gilmore's South American mission co-worker, pastor and lay workers. Through speaking engagements, Gilmore already raised more than $17,000 in donations and pledges.

"I'm one-third of the way there," she said.

The Church of the Nazarene worldwide maintains a strong commitment to missions and missionary support. The commitment is felt on a local level as well.

"We have a small congregation, but we are very mission-minded," said Gilmore's father, the Rev. Dan Gilmore, pastor of Charlevoix's Church of the Nazarene.

"Every year, our little congregation is one of our district's biggest donors."

The Gilmore family, too, has a missionary past.

"We have had relatives who were in the missions," the Rev. Gilmore said, "but Rachel will be the first in a couple of generations. Her mother and I are very excited for her."

Rachel Gilmore is a graduate of Olivet Nazarene University, found south of Chicago in Bourbonnais, Ill., and prepared for mission work through her major in intercultural studies with a minor in Spanish. She already participated in two mission trips to Nicaragua.

Rummage sale organizer Edna Fales expects the sale and the turnout to be substantial.

"Donations have come in from all over through church communities and word of mouth," Fales said.

Items include everything from dishes and typical rummage sale items to furniture and electronics. The sale is scheduled from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday, at the church at 12023 Waller Road, at the corner of U.S. 31 North and Waller Road in Charlevoix.

To learn more about the Nazarene mission and fundraising efforts, find Rachel Gilmore's blog at www.missionargentina.weebly.com online.

Joppa House to benefit from Iron Man golf tourney

Benefit game Sept. 6 at Charlevoix Country Club

CHARLEVOIX — Joppa House invites area golfers to participate in its coming benefit Iron Man Golf Tournament.

The tournament will be on Saturday, Sept. 6, hosted by the Charlevoix Country Club to help raise funds for the charity's core mission.

Golfers are asked to pay a $55 registration fee, which includes lunch, dinner and use of a golf cart. Each entrant is then asked to request family, friends and employers to sponsor them, either by the hole or for a set amount. From dawn until dusk, the iron men and women golf as many holes as they wish.

Sponsorships for registration fees also are sought for local youth golfers to participate in the all-day event.

In an effort to increase proceeds, Joppa House would like for at least 25 businesses to commit one staff member to golf and for their peers to sponsor them. If a business is without golfers, hole sponsorships are available. Participants do not have to be associated with a business to golf. And anyone is welcome to golf and/or sponsor.

Joppa House is a children and women's transitional house on the corner of State and Garfield streets in Charlevoix. Its mission is to provide temporary housing for those in need.

To register or for more information, call (231) 881-7335 or visit the organization on Facebook at www.facebook.com/joppahouse.

Brewing comes to town

Beards Brewery to open facility along Ferry Road

RYAN BENTLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Facing production constraints at its downtown Petoskey location, Beards Brewery is pursuing an additional site in Charlevoix to house brewing operations.

Beards announced the expansion plans Saturday, the day of its second-anniversary celebration.

"Essentially, we have just not been able to keep up with demand," said Beards co-owner Ben Slocum.

Beards, which Slocum and Peter Manthel launched in 2012, has a one-barrel brewing system at its Howard Street site in Petoskey. With this limited capacity, Slocum said the brewery has had to carefully plan production to ensure an adequate supply for customers during its taproom's busy summer months.

Beer styles that age well, for example, have been brewed and stockpiled many months in advance.

The capacity constraints also have forced Beards to turn down some requests from other drinking establishments interested in offering its products on tap.

Beards has secured a 4,000-square-foot space off of Ferry Road in Charlevoix, where Slocum said a production system with 15 times the capacity of the Petoskey site will be put in place.

Beards hasn't set a firm date to have that location up and running, but Slocum said the operators hope to reach that point by next summer.

Beards currently has seven employees, and Slocum said the total could grow to the 10-12 range once the new site is running.

The Charlevoix site's output will help supply the taproom in Petoskey, but Slocum said the brewing system there will remain as well — letting Beards offer distinctive, small-batch beers to customers.

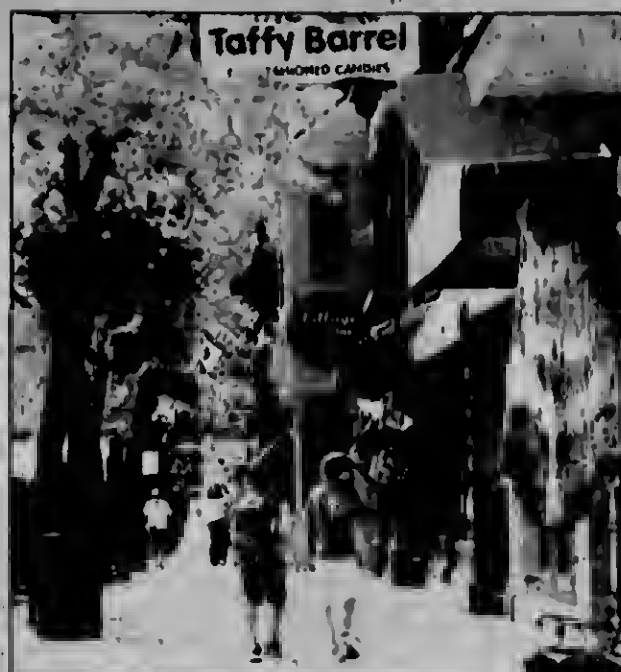

When new production ramps up, Slocum said Beards could expand its taproom hours as well.

As for expanding off-site distribution, Slocum said Beards will focus first on serving tap outlets around Emmett and Charlevoix counties, and then perhaps reach out gradually to key establishments elsewhere in Michigan.

Once the expanded keg distribution is working smoothly, Slocum said Beards then might begin canning and bottling beer. "The goal is to make the best beer possible, not the most," he noted.

Charlevoix planning commissioners will on Sept. 8 discuss outdoor merchandise displays by downtown shops, something currently not allowed.

Planning commission mulls policy on merchandise display

SHERI MCWHINTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Downtown outdoor merchandise display standards are expected to be revealed at the next Charlevoix Planning Commission session on Monday, Sept. 8.

A months-long discussion, including a public hearing in July, is about last year's zoning change that prevents shops from displaying items outdoors to lure in customers. Officials said the policy has been met with some push back and on Aug. 11 planning commissioners asked for some "reasonable standards," though they won't apply to everyone.

Part of the concern is some downtown shop owners own up to 2 feet of space between their building and the official city sidewalk. Authorities questioned in recent weeks whether to allow modest displays on such private land since it only really becomes a problem when the sidewalks are crowded with summertime visitors.

Earlier this spring, planning commissioner Keith Sherwood said city officials should distinguish between those who use their own property and those who use "even 1 inch" of public sidewalk.

City planner Mike Spencer said the coming standards are expected to include measurements for a standard clothing rack size with specific height and length allowances. Also, it is expected the displays will not be permitted to encompass the full length of any storefront, he said.

The only other pending measurement issue involves figures for a maximum allowable square footage of outdoor storage bins on residential lots, products often used in place of typical wooden sheds that require permit approval as structures.

Other topics the planning commissioners could address in the ordinance proposal include: sandwich boards and whether to allow the plastic type onto which plastic letters can be slid into place; and, whether to allow with special use permits second dwelling units within the city, sometimes called "granny flats."

Christmas items sought for annual benefit party

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation officials are busy with preparations for the coming annual holiday event, Holly Daze, the organization's biggest fundraiser of the year.

The event committee is working on decorations and is seeking contributions of unused Christmas items they may be able to re-purpose.

Items especially sought include white, red and silver Christmas balls, holly leaves or ornaments, working white lights and artificial greenery, such as garland, wreaths and trees.

Anyone with these types of items who can contribute them to the cause is asked to contact the committee via Faye Parrish at (231) 547-8501; to make arrangements to drop off the items at the foundation, 14634 Park, Charlevoix.

BOYNE CITY

Groundbreaking takes place for new Holiness building

Aug. 24 event involved 39 area churches

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — Organizers with the Northern Michigan Holiness Association broke ground on a major building project on the organization's site in Boyne City.

The association, which comprises 39 churches from across Northern Michigan, hosted a groundbreaking ceremony for the project following its hymn sing on Sunday, Aug. 24, at its campground at 630 N. Park St., Boyne City.

The ground-breaking ceremony was led by the Rev. Jason Reynolds from the Boyne City Free Methodist Church.

Last month the group received conditional approval from the Boyne City Planning Commission to move forward with its building project that will include replacing its current tabernacle (gathering) building which was built in 1933.

The plans call for the new building to be about the same size as the current one, but in a different location on the roughly 3-acre site.

Association president Harold Severance said the existing building is in poor condition and needs to be replaced. "We were surprised it survived last winter with all that snow," Severance said.

Plans also call for the bathhouse on the property, which Severance called "a glorified outhouse," to be removed as the new building will include restroom facilities inside. He added the plan calls for the site's parking lot to be paved if funds permit.

Severance said the total estimated cost of the project is $175,000. He said the association has $115,000 in hand already, thanks largely to one major donation. He said the group is stepping out in faith that once the project gets started, donations will come in to pay for the rest of the project.

He said work is expected to begin on the site in the next few weeks — as soon as all the necessary paperwork and approvals come through from county building officials. The building is expected to be ready in time for next June's camp meeting.

The camp was organized in 1911 by men and women from the various Holiness churches of the area as a meeting place for people of all church denominations to attend an old-fashioned camp meeting. In recent years, the organization's primary activity has been its eight-day-long annual camp meeting on the grounds, but the organization also hosts quarterly hymn sings, hosted by member churches during cold weather months.

However, Severance said there have been discussions among the group to expand its offerings, including some programs specifically geared toward children.

Anyone interested in contributing to the Northern Michigan Holiness Camp Association's building fund may contact Tricia Shirley at (231) 547-9552.

Lasater said he's "open to change my mind if I'm wrong."

Among those who opposed hiring Amer, Lasater is the only commissioner who will remain on the board after this year. Sullivan and Giffespie were ousted by Republican opponents in the Aug. 5 primary election.

Shirley Rotoff, a commissioner-elect who defeated Sullivan last month, attended Wednesday's meeting but said she didn't know enough about the issue to say whether she'd support the new position.

"I'd have to look at it money-wise and see what would be best for the county," Rotoff said.

Amer is a second cousin to Evans, but the board chairman said he made the other members aware of the relationship and maintained the Boyne City attorney was fully qualified for the job. Stitt, Evans said, when he brings the issue back to board members next year he expects another search for applicants will be conducted.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL

"We were approached by parents about doing something," Gendron said.

Those 13 students who are new to the public district will start their school days at the Round Lake Educational Center, the former Charlevoix middle school building on East Garfield Street. In the afternoon they will travel to the Charlevoix Middle-High School on Marion Center Road to finish out their academic days, Gendron said.

A benefit for these new students is being able to participate in Rayder athletics and extra-curricular activities, he said, something previously off-limits to them as Northwest Academy students.

Parents of these students transferred them into the Charlevoix district after the controversial dismissal of former Northwest Academy teacher Christine Eanes in February, which led to an Open Meetings Act lawsuit the court eventually dismissed on a technicality. Northwest Academy is a small K-12 public charter school in Charlevoix that opened in 1996, but financial reports show it struggled in recent years with declining enrollment.

Meanwhile, the newly developed Round Lake High School North blended learning program essentially will be housed beneath the same roof as an existing court-related recovery high school the district operates out of the Round Lake Educational Center — an institution now called Round Lake High School South.

Students in the recovery high program come both from within Charlevoix County and across the region, ordered by a judge into the program for 90-day stints. They also will begin their academic days at the Round Lake campus, but then move to the nearby Bay Area Substance Education Services facility on West Lincoln, Gendron said.

"We do the education, they do the therapy," the superintendent said.

Charlevoix Board of Education members in recent August meetings approved the hiring of two teachers to serve the two high school programs at the Round Lake Educational Center, Gendron confirmed.

Anyone interested in enrolling a student in the blended learning program can call (231) 547-8100 for more information.

through historic preservation. Local volunteers receive technical assistance to help build partnerships among stakeholders. Goals include environmentally sustainable redevelopment, integration of cultural assets, entrepreneurial development and downtown living.

Benefits include not only the state consulting services, but it also opens the community up to additional sources of grant funding. Successful efforts in Michigan Main Street communities often involve an army of volunteers dedicated to fostering a thriving downtown region, Pearson told the authority board.

Charlevoix's Downtown Development Authority administers the Main Street program, like so many other communities across the state.

Dan Barron, authority board chairman, questioned whether additional restrictions regarding historical buildings is something Charlevoix will embrace, knowing such efforts haven't always been well received.

Pearson replied that every Main Street community is different and to be approved for the select level state officials look for something called "historic preservation ethic," of which examples can be found throughout Charlevoix.

Now the next key event is a public meeting about implementing the Main Street program set for 6-7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 4, at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St. Two speakers will discuss how the state program works, including Patrick Reagan of the Portland Downtown Development Authority and Brittney Hoszkow from the state program headquarters.

Pearson said the meeting is important for two reasons: Michigan Main Street officials will gauge the community's expected involvement by the number of attendees, and it's an opportunity to recruit program volunteers after they learn how the initiative will work.

TAP ROOM

FILE PHOTO

Bridge Street Tap Room already offers outdoor dining in Charlevoix, but officials currently are working on regulations so other downtown food and beverage businesses can next year also serve customers on the Bridge Street sidewalk.

PROPOSAL

to "never-regulate" this new downtown effort.

Committee members in attendance included not only Spencer and Straebel, but also city economic development director Bethany Pearson, city councilwoman Shirley Gibson, downtown development authority board member Todd Wyatt and planning commissioner Luther Kurtz. Absent was city councilman Jeff Porter and councilwoman Peggy Brennan.

The agreed upon rules include: chairs must face north and south only; tables and chairs must not be plastic and instead be dark-colored wood or metal; tables and chairs must remain a certain distance from the Bridge Street curb, likely to be set at one or two feet; solid color umbrellas will be permitted and would preferably be forest green; tables and chairs must remain within a well-defined and clearly marked area incorporating live vegetation; no 90-degree angled solid barriers will be allowed; a minimum $1 million insurance policy will be required by participating businesses; and, no advertising will be permitted on the sidewalk tables or umbrellas beyond typical menus.

"I just don't want the outdoor seating area to become a big advertisement space," Spencer said.

Also, downtown restaurants can on a case-by-case basis expand outdoor seating beyond their storefront boundaries with written permission of neighboring businesses. However, the area cannot stretch beyond the limits of the storefronts of the immediately adjacent business on either side. That means an eatery can provide outdoor seating in an area up to three full storefronts, but only if the next-door neighbors grant permission and officials approve.

Spencer and Straebel are meant to enforce the rules, with appeals permitted to the Charlevoix outdoor dining committee, which will remain intact and will reconvene if any such appeals materialize.

Downtown businesses that receive approval must pay a $200 license fee for the permitted outdoor dining season from April 1 to Oct. 31, according to the proposed regulations.

Finally, not only must businesses receive a city permit for outdoor dining on the sidewalk, permission also is required from the Michigan Department of Transportation because Bridge Street also is U.S.

31. If alcohol will be served outdoors, an additional license also will be required from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

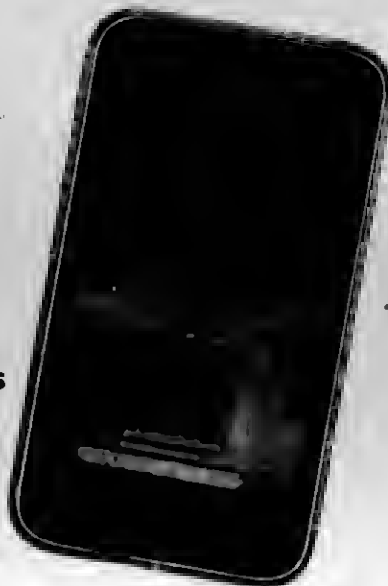

This proposed outdoor dining policy for Charlevoix is set to be introduced to the full city council on Monday, Sept. 15, with a public hearing tentatively scheduled for Oct. 6 at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. downtown.

Rayders look to take another step under Bindi

Charlevoix to move into Northern Michigan Football League II

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It takes time to change the culture of a team.

For Charlevoix varsity football coach Ron Bindi, that change seems to be taking place in his second year in leading the program.

"We've been at it for a year now and I think they're starting to understand what I expect, but also that it's your team and the only way we're going to change this thing from being 1-8 is you're going to have to accept the responsibility and start going on it," said Bindi. "That's the biggest thing it took."

A second year of the same coaches, players and scheme seems to have certainly helped both Bindi and his players, evident following the team's first week of fall camp.

"We're pretty pleased with what's going on. I think we're a lot sharper than we were last year. We're practicing at a faster pace," added Bindi. "We're further ahead in the offense because we've had more repetitions at it."

Coming off a 1-8 season a year ago, the Rayders will move into the newly formed Northern Michigan Football League II, a conference merger between their former Lake Michigan Conference and the Northwest Conference.

But while the shift was made to pair teams with more like-size programs, the Rayders won't shy away from competition, as they open the year with four non-conference games against larger schools that made the postseason last year, beginning with a trip to Elk Rapids on Thursday, Aug. 28.

"I don't mind playing them," said Bindi of the larger programs. "Our goal is to get into the playoffs. So I'd rather play the tough teams that are going to be challenging because I think it gears you up for what you're going to be facing."

With 11 seniors and 10 juniors making up the varsity roster, Bindi has a good mix of talent to work with this season, particularly at the skill set positions in the backfield, led by senior running back Sam Hovie, who led the Rayders in rushing a year ago.

"We're blessed with skill people and having athletes," Bindi said. "I think we're about eight guys coming back on offense and the majority of those guys that are playing last year played a lot of downs for us, both ways."

Quarterback will be a position of change for the Rayders, with senior Nate Moon and junior Forrest Noirot both capable options for the coaching staff.

"Moon is running it," said Bindi. "He's there and Forrest Noirot is more than capable. So we've got both of those guys and either way we feel real confident in both of them."

STEVE FOLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — With a solid returning senior class mixed with talented juniors and sophomores, all appears to be well for the Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team this season.

The Rayders, 5-1 this season following a runner-up finish at the season-opening Pellston Invitational, feature a solid quartet in returning letter winners Madeline Boss, Gloria Greene, Olivia Storm and Alexis Tribelfner. "All four girls play key roles for the team and their chemistry is awesome," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said.

Boss, a 5-foot-10 outsider hitter, is back following a season in which she earned Michigan Interscholastic Volleyball Coaches Association All-State Class C second-team honors. Boss, who as a sophomore was a third-team All-State selection, is a full-time rotation player who according to Randall will be moved throughout the front row.

Last season, Boss finished with 717 kills, 302 digs, 75 aces and was 94 percent on serve receive.

"She is very dynamic and is ready to contribute not only offensively at the net, but taking on a defensive mind with blocking," Randall said. "She has a strong sense of her opponents' hitting as a back row defender."

Greene returns as one of the Rayders' setters who Randall said "has really matured as an athlete and really plays a key role in our offense."

Greene also has taken on a role in hitting from the outside and is "dynamic and is looking forward to the challenge," Randall added. "She has a strong serve and is refining her jump serve to make it a threat to all."

Storm is another setter, who displays soft hands and has a strong connection with her hitters.

"She (Storm) works hard at her skill set and continues to improve in all aspects of the game," Randall said. "Olivia on the court makes others around her more suc-

CENTRAL LAKE — It was a strong start to the season Saturday for the Charlevoix High School cross country team.

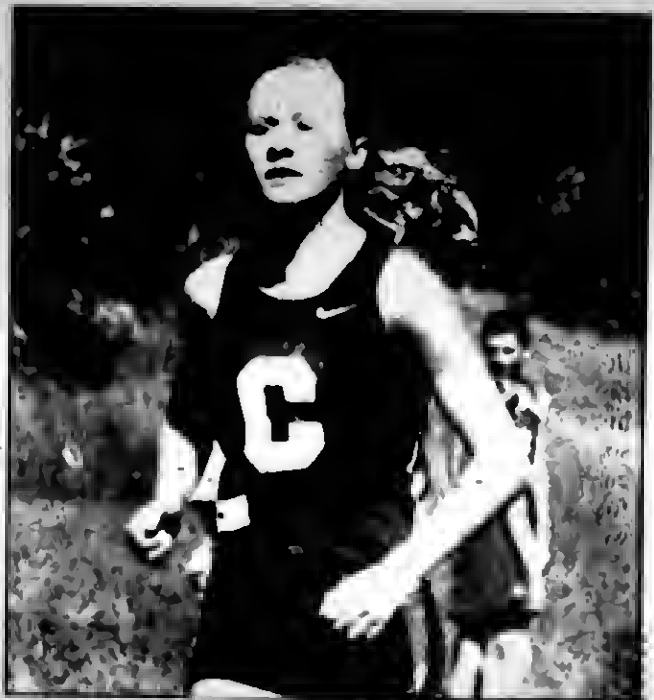

That and junior Amber Way appears to already be in mid-season form.

The Rayders swept the Division III portion of the Ryan Shay Memorial at Jean Burns Farm as the Rayder girls finished first with 31 points, while the boys team tied with Boyne City but took first overall via their sixth place runner as Brenden Gregory finished just over a second faster than Boyne's sixth runner in Trevor Day.

"She's really found a niche in her volleyball game," Randall said. "She is very athletic and brings a very positive and fun sense to the court."

Three juniors also return in Hannah Zipp, Emily Zabowa and Yogi Hang.

"Hannah (Zipp) has grown tremendously over the summer and is a threat to her opponents with her long blocking arms," Randall said. "She is honing her timing on her attacks and is also productive at the serving line. Emily (Zabowa) is a strong right side hitter also contributing to her team with her blocking and serving skills. Yogi (Hang) has a strong defensive presence and she is very dynamic in the back court surprising her opponents with her ever so awesome defensive plays she makes. She has a strong jump serve and

Michigan's Austin Hatch talks to Maria Shriver on 'Today Show'

AP — Many Michigan basketball fans are familiar with the story of freshman Austin Hatch, who survived two plane crashes that killed his parents and two siblings.

On Friday morning, the "Today Show" aired a story by Maria Shriver, who sat down with Hatch to discuss his recovery and his spiritual foundation that has helped him move past the tragedies. "If I would have thought of this situation before it happened to me, I wouldn't have thought I could make it, either,"

Hatch told Shriver. "I think it really comes down to character, being able to persevere in the midst of tragedy and adversity."

Hatch suffered severe brain injuries as a result of the crashes and had to regain his coordination and relearn to walk. Doctors said Hatch might not walk again, but he's worked his way through rehab and has achieved his dream of playing at Michigan.

Hatch, who is in Italy with the Wolverines on a four-game exhibition tour, has played in two games but hasn't scored.

The second plane crash that left Hatch in a medically induced coma happened in 2011 in Charlevoix, just nine days after he signed a contract to play for the Wolverines.

"For Bindi, the best part of having a talented group in the backfield is having opposing defenses needing to focus on more than one guy on any given play."

"That's the nice thing about running the option, if they take away one, you've got the other two," he said.

"With what we've got back there, it's going to be hard to key on one person this year. It's going to be a good triple option for us."

With seven players returning on defense, a majority of which fill positions on offense, Bindi feels good about his group on the other side of the ball, too.

"The biggest thing that we keep focusing on too, is we've got to be physical," said Bindi.

Which he saw late in camp.

"Once we got the pads on, I saw a lot more aggressiveness out of the kids this year," he said. "I think we're going to be pretty solid."

With not having to worry about implementing a system or focusing on breaking in a new team, Bindi and his team can turn their focal point to who they'll be lining up against and ways to make games more efficient.

"I know our schedule right off the bat is our biggest focus right now. How we get off," said Bindi. "But I think the biggest thing is eliminating the mistakes and the errors that cost us ball games last year."

It's another step in changing the program.

Rayders finish 1-1 at Leland Invite

STEVE FOLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

LELAND — The Charlevoix High School boys' soccer team finished 1-1 Saturday at the Leland Tournament as they opened with an 8-0 victory over Manistee before falling to host Leland, 6-1.

Against Manistee, eight different Rayders scored a goal as Walker Drost, Christian Matye, Brendan Britt, Noah Carson, Davis Lahelle, Wes Crandell, Graham Kroon and Jacob Harrod all found the back of the net.

Kroon added three assists to go along with his goal, while Matt Good, Lahelle and Crandall had assists. JJ Wachler was the winning goalkeeper.

In the title game against host Leland, Lahelle scored the lone goal, while Nick Bradley had the assist.

"Against Manistee we got a lot of secondary scoring," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said. "It was exciting to see the young guys come out and contribute. Graham Kroon finished with three assists and one goal in just his second varsity game. He's a new player to the team and a good addition with a big body who plays aggressive."

On Friday, the Rayders opened the season with a 3-1 win against Maple City Glen Lake. Drost, Bradley and Lahelle had a goal apiece, while assists went to Kevin Pearl, Britt and Carson. Wachler was the winning goalkeeper.

"We played really well for our first game," Boss said. "Everybody played well and once we played Manistee, we were able to get a lot of secondary scoring."

"Everything has been falling well into place," Boss added. "We're still a young team with four seniors and a bunch of freshmen and sophomores, but the start was good for us."

"We had a good team bonding weekend, it was good to learn about the guys and we're excited to build off it."

Charlevoix plays host to Boyne City in their Lake Michigan Conference opener at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Marina expansion navigates forward

City council votes 4-3 to send plan to state, federal regulators

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City council members on Tuesday decided in a split vote to propel forward a plan to add a new 264-foot pier in the Charlevoix marina at downtown's East Park.

More than a dozen approached the podium to share their opinions about the expansion proposal, most of them critical, but not all. Council members Lyle Gennett, Shane Cole and Peggy Brennan voted for the expansion, with mayor Norman Carlson Jr. casting the deciding vote. Council members Leon Perron, Shirley Gibson and Jeff Porter voted against the measure.

"No matter what we decide, we're not deciding to build this tomorrow," Carlson said. "It would be deciding to go to the permitting process."

And that's exactly what is expected to happen next. City officials will submit to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers the plan to add 6-7 additional 80-foot slips on a new pier, with space along the northern side to moor the Keweenaw Star passenger ship and space along the seawall for shoppers docks.

But before that, some took the chance to speak their minds.

"I consider Round Lake to be over-developed and cluttered right now," said Steve Little, of Charlevoix Township.

Jon Fogg, a Beaver Island resident and official at St. James Marine Co. in Ironton, said he's not opposed to the marina expansion, but warned how he foresees a potential navigation problem. His company moves a 200-foot barge through Round Lake and out the Pine River Channel to deliver supplies to Beaver Island in Lake Michigan.

"Coming through Round Lake is a very difficult thing, especially in the summer," Fogg said, explaining that more boats and docks could bring navigation problems. "In the event that bridge doesn't open, there is no exit plan."

Some critics of the plan have in recent months said they maintain concerns about having space within Round Lake to "hail out" of Pine River Channel approaches in the event the Bridge Street drawbridge doesn't raise or some

At risk

Expert says county building susceptible

CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County officials are considering a series of security enhancement measures in response to a state-issued report that found several vulnerabilities in the county building on Antrim Street that houses courtrooms, the clerk's office and several other public services.

The changes could include creating a single entrance to the building, establishing a security screening area with metal detectors at that entrance and increasing video surveillance in that part of the building, county board of commissioners chairman Joel Evans said.

"It's not that anything has happened, but the potential is there if somebody wanted to create a problem," Evans said.

The board of commissioners is likely to vote on some of these measures and expenditures in the coming months after a state courts security specialist identified proper improvements to make the county's central building safer for employees and the public. Evans said county officials asked the state to conduct the study.

Dean Viles, the district court administrator for Charlevoix County, said the report is not a public document and it will not be released. The Petoskey News-Review has submitted a request for the report under Michigan's Freedom of Information Act. A copy of the analysis was obtained by the Boyne City Gazette. According to the newspaper's report, state court officials recommend 14 changes that would make the building more secure.

Among those, according to the Gazette's report, are: create a security plan and committee, limit public access to one secure entrance, position staff for entrance control and screening, establish employee-only access areas using key-controlled interior doors and limit public parking to specific lots near the main entrance.

Asked about the $500,000 price tag associated with these improvements that is cited in the Gazette's report, Evans said it's unlikely the county will reach that figure.

"I don't think we're ever going to spend that much money," he said. "I think in a total overall plan such as this, it's probably accurate if we did all the things recommended."

Golf consultant opinions panned

Officials balk at privatization recommendation

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City council members on Tuesday rejected the suggestion that they privatize the long-running municipal golf course.

Course manager Tom Heid spoke at length about the golf consultant company's report about the Charlevoix course, including the many recommendations — including a new tunnel beneath U.S. 31 for safe golf cart passage from one side of the busy highway to the other.

The consultant company, Metro Detroit-based Vargo Golf Company, first suggests the city "turn over the golf operations to a qualified golf management company." The business suggests itself, of course.

Additionally, the consultant said the prices should be raised, two part-time maintenance employees should be eliminated, the existing rate structure for in-town and out-of-town players should be streamlined, a method for tee time reservations should be developed, golf carts and new computers should become part of operations, and a new marketing plan with a course-specific website are needed. Finally, the company suggests no capital improvements be made to the facility at this time, but in the future the clubhouse should be improved to offer food service and that tunnel beneath the federal highway should be built.

More than one council member said some of the suggestions are ridiculous.

"I think they should go back to Detroit," said councilman Lyle Gennett. Councilman Jeff Porter said the company appears to be a "vulture firm" and mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said it looks like the company wants to take over the course and run it into the ground, never doing any upkeep.

Heid explained how he, too, does not want to jump right into a deal with Vargo. He said the city should survey other municipal golf courses to see how privatization worked for them, but also remember the most successful cases are from metropolitan areas — which Charlevoix isn't.

"Don't short cut the process," Heid said, suggesting opinions from other municipalities should be gathered before even meeting with the consultants.

Councilwoman Shirley Gibson suggested the city restructure its parks and recreation department to bring the golf course under that umbrella

Community garden offers growing use of land

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Urban gardens may be a recent buzzword that creates a lot of stir about what a city can do with essentially unused land, but the City of Charlevoix has maintained such a program since the 1950s.

For those who may not have the space, the lighting, or even a yard to be able to reap the benefits of a garden, Charlevoix offers a wonderful alternative. Gardeners can experience the rewards of the program on many levels, from just having the space to plant a few flowers to brighten a home, or as a way to enjoy fresh produce and help offset the ever-rising costs of food.

"Right now one of our biggest problems is people aren't taking advantage of the plots like they could be. Many of our gardeners are seniors and aren't renewing their plots any more," said Linda Weller, of the city manager's office.

With the growing interest in organic produce, this could be a great opportunity for a person to be able to control exactly what they eat, she suggested.

Among the greatest reasons to take advantage of the Charlevoix Community Garden plots is the price and what is included.

"For a 24-hy-24-foot plot, and all the water you can use, $25 covers the plot. The gardens need to pay for themselves. If we look at the end of the year and there is a slight increase of cost, the price may rise in accordance," Weller said. "The plots are self-subsidized — not looking for the taxpayers to support it."

The Charlevoix Community Garden plots are found at the end of the airport landing strip, a zone typically considered underutilized land. Charlevoix gardeners made this space a place of life, giving and a family-friendly opportunity to participate in something.

"Some gardeners have been here for many years, with grandparents, kids and grandkids, all with adjoining plots," Weller said.

"Being the labor of love gardening is, and not for the faint of heart at that, we try to allow the gardeners to have the same spot year after year, especially considering they make improvements to the soil," Weller said. "Most of the gardeners bring in a tiller of some sort, and work compost and fertilizers into the soil."

About the only restrictions as to what can be done to the garden plots is nothing illegal, and nothing permanently left on site.

"We have the area tilled over in the spring, although with Mama Nature this year, it was a little bit of a late start. We don't allow trees to be planted, as the location is at the end of an airport runway, so that just won't quite work," Weller joked.

CRAFTING TRUST SINCE 2010

In northern Michigan, we don't run a hardware store. Our sales are seasonal, and life here isn't conventional. But, the whole I was ready to expand, I wanted a place that knew my market and would meet me as I needed it. I wanted a place that knew the people who would buy my products. The South of Michigan Hardware was different. They'll take 30 minutes to pick up a display or even at the drop of a hat for something I need. They just don't say that about many hardware stores. When I have a problem, they will help me solve it and give me the best solution.

Committee to choose winning entry for downtown display

CHARLEVOIX — The city's Downtown Development Authority board recently learned about a contract deadline extension granted by the Michigan Council for the Arts and Humanities for an outdoor art installation in downtown Charlevoix.

City officials have until Oct. 14 to contract an artist for a mural installation along the Clinton Street brick wall of Central Drug Store, at the corner of Bridge Street. The installation will happen in spring 2015.

Charlevoix's economic development director Bethany Pearson said the four artists invited to submit concept sketches for consideration include Charles Thompson of Cadillac who created the public mural at the Charlevoix Public Library; Katherine Larson who is one of the most accomplished mural artists in Michigan; Glenn Wolff of Traverse City who created the mural at Bijou by the Bay; and Candace Klonster Speck of Charlevoix who specializes in classic Charlevoix images.

The applications are due back to the city on Friday, Sept. 5, and the selection committee will meet to

Boyne City tool thief sentenced to prison

ERICA RAKOWICZ
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Boyne City resident Jacob John Maltby, 31, was sentenced to 18 to 60 months in prison for stealing and receiving stolen property. Maltby, ordered to pay nearly $9,000 in restitution, admitted to stealing tools from two local builders in October 2012.

Police obtained a search warrant for Maltby's home after receiving a tip. During this search, police found two stolen items. A call to police three weeks later for another search revealed other stolen tools that were buried in a pile of leaves.

Maltby told a witness that he had hidden the tools in the leaves in fear that police would return for another search, according to the affidavit of probable cause filed in the case.

Maltby also was charged with an original and additional charge of breaking and entering in a vehicle with the intent to steal property.

Maltby's case was investigated by both the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and the Boyne City Police Department, and he was sentenced at Charlevoix County Courthouse in downtown Charlevoix.

Council approves Alice Street agreement

Right-of-way issue involves 25-foot paved area

SHERRI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City Council members on Tuesday unanimously agreed to permit a family on Alice Street to pave a 25-foot section of public right-of-way.

Rob Straebel, city manager, said the rest of the formerly paved right-of-way will be reseeded for future grass growth. He also said the city can at any time choose to remove the approved asphalt-covered area because it will maintain ownership.

Finally, the licensee family — Ken and Myrna Boss — must not obstruct the sidewalk in front of their home in any way, according to the agreement.

Straebel said the Boss family agreed to those terms.

Councilman Leon Perron

said he visited Alice Street earlier in the day and personally witnessed a vehicle blocking the driveway. He also said he knows of others within the city who received parking tickets for the same activity, though the Boss family doesn't.

"I don't want some people singled out and for others it's allowed," Perron said.

Mayor Norman Carlson Jr. said the expectation is once the driveway work is completed, that activity won't happen again. Any violations witnessed by officials or neighbors should be called in to the Charlevoix City Police at (231) 547-3258.

The Boss family for decades used an approximately 38-foot-wide blacktopped section of public right-of-way in front of their Alice Street home, but city officials tore up the area this spring to repair an underground utility line that broke there in winter's deep freeze and subsequent thaw. Ken Boss said they wanted to pave the section back over, but city officials weren't sure at first if they should allow this — especially considering incoming complaints from neighbors.

Man accused of hitting wife with wine bottle

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — A Boyne City man is facing a felony charge after police say his wife reported that he hit her in the face with a wine bottle.

Scott Donald Pearce, 48, is facing one count of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, a 10-year felony.

According to a Boyne City Police Department affidavit filed in the case, Pearce's wife, Shannon Pearce, reported that on the afternoon of July 28, she was taking a nap in the bedroom of the couple's Earl Street home when Scott Pearce came into the room, he was upset with her and that when she rolled over to respond to him, Pearce allegedly hit her in the face with a wine bottle.

According to the affidavit, Shannon told police that she was in a great deal of pain, but was afraid to leave the house until the next day.

On July 29, Shannon went to the emergency room at Charlevoix Area Hospital where she learned that her cheekbone was fractured and the doctor told her to seek treatment from an optometrist because of the risk of vision loss, according to the affidavit.

The police officer who interviewed Shannon said she had two black eyes at Library now offers notary services

CHARLEVOIX — Notary services are being offered at the Charlevoix Public Library.

A Notary Public is an official of integrity appointed by the secretary of state to serve the public as an impartial witness to the signing of important documents.

A notary's duty is to screen the signers of important documents — such as property deeds, wills and powers of attorney — for their true identity, their willingness to sign without duress or intimidation, and their awareness of the contents of the document or transaction. Impartiality is the foundation of the notary's public trust. They are duty-bound not to act in situations where they have a personal interest.

There are two notaries on staff at the Charlevoix library who are able to authenticate signatures, Audrey Shapiro and Davonne Rogers. Notary service will be available when the notaries are scheduled to work during regular library hours, up to 15 minutes before closing. Customers seeking notary service should call the library in advance to confirm when the notaries are available. (231) 547-2651.

Notary customers must present valid, government issued, picture identification and must sign the document(s) in front of the notary. Information to be notarized must appear on the document and be in English. The notaries will authenticate up to two documents per patron per day at no charge. The patron will be charged $1 per document above that limit.

New school year brings change

It's a new school year and parents and students alike experience the emotional highs and lows of change. A new school year today is a bit different from my childhood when the aroma of ammonia permeated the air as my sister and I waited patiently for our new permits to set. An activity I abhorred but having mom dote on us was pleasurable and outweighed the smell that wafted through the house. School uniforms in a size larger than the year before were gentle reminders for mom that a new school year meant we were growing up too quickly.

With the beginning of a new school year there is a sense of relief for some parents who need some quiet time, sadness for the parent experiencing their child's first year of school, and the empty nester feeling, a combination of loss and pride as their child is venturing off to high school, college or a new job.

Your child may choose new friends and new activities because as they grow their interests change. Attending a new school for educational reasons or due to family choice is a time to explore options. Making choices is a natural learning curve of life. This is also a good time to remind your son or daughter that even though it's nice to feel important, it's more important to be nice. This small bit of advice will help with the new school year and throughout life.

New stressors may set in such as designing a schedule to coincide with your child's school activities and yours. If you are experiencing a part-time custodial parent situation it's important to be marking the calendar when you will see your child again and highlighting special school events.

Teachers experience many emotions as well. Wondering if how they envisioned their first few weeks would match what's really happening. Will they have enough hours in their day to accomplish what they want to do in the allotted time given plus the added responsibilities that come with the profession?

Family pets become a hit anxious as well. Your kitty or dog may be used to getting a lot more attention during the summer and now they are saying, "Hey, what's up with you leaving all the time," followed by, "I guess it's time for a power nap."

Sleep deprivation sets in as the family is up earlier getting ready to leave the house hoping not to forget a lunch or library book. Life becomes a bit stressful as anticipation and nerves are on edge thinking about new classes, meeting new students, joining new school activities and leaving behind the comforts of home. In about two weeks, everyone will find their routine and find it easier to sleep — from sheer exhaustion or by realizing things turned out better than they thought. Worries you may have had will become a distant memory because you have newer things to worry about.

For the older folks, this time of year means colder weather is coming and time to put away sandals and bring out the socks, sweaters for short sleeves and trying to find gloves that match. Gardens evolve as corn and tomatoes disappear and now they overflow with pumpkins and squash. Roses and zinnias are replaced with mums nestled in next to bulbs that have high hopes of announcing spring the following year.

When school resumes and summer is logged away as a memory, the clouds seem larger, the sky a different hue and then quietly the thermostat outside drops and the one in our homes goes up. The squirrels and chipmunks become overachievers collecting their stash before the season changes yet again.

It won't be long before the stores make us aware of each impending holiday while psychologically moving us too quickly through life. This is the time of year to take in the cooler fresh air, remind ourselves to breathe it in, embrace the day, appreciate what we have and accept the changes of a new school year and a new season. Change is good and I know you've got this.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

This photo of the passenger liner South American was taken in 1967 on its last visit to Charlevoix before being taken off the lakes after mainly ferrying passengers to the Montreal Expo. The ship was launched in 1914, one year after the slightly shorter sister ship the North American debuted. Each could carry up to 450 passengers and a crew of 150. Both vessels saw Charlevoix for the first time in 1918 when the North was called in to replace the mighty Manitou, the Greyhound of the Great Lakes, which had been calling here since 1896 and was then summoned for government duty during the last months of World War I. The North proved to be so popular that the South started coming in several weeks later to help out. When the Manitou returned, the two ships arrived in spring, were assigned elsewhere for the summer during the Manitou's service, then came back in the fall often into December carrying mainly freight. After the Manitou was converted to the Isle Royale in 1933, both the North and South appeared in Charlevoix every summer for years, never failing to provide a heartstopping sight whenever they entered the channel, majestically turned around in Round Lake, and headed into the city dock. Both wooden ships were decommissioned after 1967 for safety reasons. The South ended its life rotting away in a New Jersey shipyard in Camden.

Charlevoix library hosts 'Material Obsession IV'

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library is hosting the textile exhibit "Material Obsessions IV," presented by Liberated Threads of Northern Michigan, a monthly group at the library. The exhibit continues through September.

Liberated Threads is a group of artists who are primarily fabric-based but enjoy mixing it up with a variety of media and techniques. Their art ranges from the abstract to the realistic which is all presented for viewing.

The group challenged themselves with this year's show by presenting two themes: "Tactile Architecture" which includes the subgroups of passageways, windows, steps and roofline; and "Beyond the Edge" which explores uneven or irregular edges. There are many various interpretations of these themes scattered throughout the show. The community room foyer walls, as well as the Michigan Room showcase, offer a range of work for enjoyment and purchase. Review the exhibit hook in the foyer for contact information.

Liberated Threads meets at 1 p.m. on the third Wednesday of the month at Charlevoix Public Library. New members are welcome.

BOYNE CITY

Going to the dogs

Humane society to start area-wide benefit event

BOYNE CITY — The Charlevoix Area Humane Society will host an upcoming Dining 4 Paws event on Saturday, Sept. 13, all across northwest Lower Michigan.

Dining 4 Paws is not just one party, but several. In what humane society officials hope will become an annual event, in which restaurants, organizations, and just plain folks are urged to host a party that can range from themed events and special dinners to potlucks.

Guests should be informed ahead of time that the dinner is a fundraising event for the humane society and at some point during the party, the host will solicit a donation from each guest. Participating restaurants may inform their customers that a portion of their bill will be donated to the humane society.

Parties can be at varied times during the day; however, at 8 p.m. all participants are invited to a grand afterglow party at the Charlevoix County Club's historic, newly-remodeled Shanahan Barn. During the afterglow festivities, party-goers will sample desserts from among the best restaurants, confectionaries and bake shops in Northern Michigan while they wait for the final fundraising tallies. Or they can enjoy cocktails and dancing to live music.

To register your party and the estimated guest count, call the humane society at (231) 582-6774, or send email to pets@charlevoix-humane.org online.

CHARLEVOIX

eLearning Lab resources just a click away

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library offers eLearning Lab, a new option on the library's catalog. The eLearning Lab provides easy access to three resourceful training tools: Atomic Training, Mango Languages and Learning Express.

Atomic Training is a comprehensive online database of how-to training sessions, covering popular software and applications, including tutorials for Microsoft, Apple, Adobe, Google and the Cloud, as well as social networking applications. Patrons of the Charlevoix Public Library will have unlimited access to tutorials in the library or at home. These tutorials help patrons of all ages improve job skills and become more proficient in basic computer applications. Mobile device training is also available, allowing patrons to learn how to get the most out of their smartphones and tablets.

"Atomic Training will allow the library to provide instant training exactly when and how our patrons need it," said Valerie Meyerson, library director.

Mango Languages is a language learning tool including more than 60 different languages. Patrons will learn basic conversational skills through interactive tutorials that include reading, listening and speaking. Mango Languages is a support piece for language classes in school or a way for travelers to pick up basic knowledge before visiting a non-English speaking country.

The third tool, Learning Express, is the place to go for exam reinforcement. There are hundreds of study guides found within nine different centers including high school, college and college prep, and career guides as well as the adult learning center. Learning Express is the place to go to help study for almost any exam and reinforce at home review.

For a quick start to learning, visit the library catalog at charlevoix.bibliocommons.com/ and click on one of the links in the eLearning Lab menu. The patron then creates an account, and selects the tutorial they would like to begin. Stop by the information desk at the library for information on how to access this service or call (231) 237-7340.

Annual Charlevoix County CROP walk to be Sept. 27

The six-mile walk will begin at 9 a.m. at three Charlevoix County locations. Walkers at Elm Pointe in East Jordan, Whiting Park in Boyne City and at the old Charlevoix Middle School on Garfield Street in Charlevoix will begin their separate migrations to eventually converge at the Congregational Church in Ironton, where lunch will be provided for all walkers.

Organized locally, the Charlevoix County CROP walk organizers hope to recruit 120 walkers to collectively raise $25,000 to combat hunger in this community, as well as around the world. Twenty-five percent of all monies raised in Charlevoix County will come back to this community to support The Good Samaritan of Ellsworth, Care and Share of East Jordan, Charlevoix's Community Food Pantry, Seventh Day Adventist, Boyne Food Pantry in Boyne City and Boyne

Area foundations accepting grant requests

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation invite area nonprofit organizations, educational institutions, and municipalities to submit grant requests to put local charitable dollars to work in our area.

Grant applications to support arts and culture, education, the environment, community and economic development, health and human services, recreation and youth are available by calling your respective community foundation office. All applicants must call to discuss their proposals in advance. Eligible nonprofit organizations must serve residents of Charlevoix County or Emmet County and work to enrich or improve life for local residents.

The deadline for submission is Wednesday, Oct. 1. Applications will be reviewed by community members and the youth advisory committee members and recommendations will be reviewed by the respective board of trustees.

The community foundations accept resources from donors and then use a portion of the income earned from the investment of these gifts to help foster positive change in Northern Michigan. In this way, the donors' contributions meet community needs, now and in the future.

To apply for a grant or for more information, call/email your local community foundation program officer. In Charlevoix, contact Maureen Radke (231) 536-2440 or email maureen@c3f.org. In Emmet County, contact Sara Ward (231) 348-5820, email ward@phsacf.org, or visit www.c3f.org.

Roadhouse-style restaurant planned at former Giuseppe's

Morel's Bistro, owner invests in Charlevoix

RYAN BENTLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Brett Cuper isn't letting the April fire that destroyed his Morel's Bistro near Boyne City smoke him out of the restaurant business for good.

Cuper recently told a reporter he recently finalized his purchase of the former Giuseppe's Italian Grille site at 757 Petoskey Ave. on Charlevoix's north side, and how he plans to open a new dining establishment there by next spring.

"It's going to be what I would consider a roadhouse, an American roadhouse," Cuper said.

Cuper plans to use the name RoadHouse 757 for the new restaurant. He expects menu selections to include several steak choices as well as comfort foods such as macaroni and cheese and cedar-planked salmon, and the operating schedule to include lunch, dinner and weekend brunches.

Giuseppe's closed a little more than a year ago. In preparing to open his own restaurant at the site, Cuper said some of the first steps involve roof and kitchen floor replacements and other needed building repairs. He also plans substantial interior redecoration.

Morel's, which opened in 2012 on Old State Road near Boyne City, was the first foray into the restaurant field for Cuper, who also has a background as a pharmacist. An April 7 fire that started in a nearby shed spread to the restaurant and left it damaged beyond feasible repair.

Fire officials believe the blaze may have been caused by linseed oil-soaked rags that had been left in the shed after being used for floor refinishing. Linseed oil is unique in that it gives off heat as it evaporates, and if material soaked with the oil is stored in such a way that the heat cannot dissipate, the build-up of heat can start a fire.

The Morel's building has since been demolished. Cuper said he expects to sell the site, but also hopes to resurrect the Morel's Bistro concept at another location in the future. His larger goal is to open multiple restaurants with varying formats around Northern Michigan.

Fox Charlevoix freshens local auto dealerships

RYAN BENTLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Auto dealership Fox Charlevoix is finding two newly built showrooms to be helpful from a sales standpoint.

Through extensive renovations, demolition and reconstruction, Fox created separate new sales areas for the General Motors and Chrysler vehicle lines at its lot at the corner of U.S. 31 and Barnard Road. Jim Jeffreys, general manager for Fox Charlevoix, noted that these bring the dealership into line with the automakers' recent appearance standards and desires for exclusive sales locations. He believes they also have contributed to recent sales growth for the dealership.

"It has focused attention on GM and Chrysler individually by having their own showrooms," he said.

Along with a fresh look, the showrooms bring enhanced technology and a bit more room for sales operations at the GM-Chrysler lot, Jeffreys noted. The outdoor vehicle display area was enlarged and the dealership's existing service area was revamped to include separate GM and Chrysler write-up lanes.

The dealership began using the new showrooms around the end of 2013, and the last of the related updates at the site were wrapped up in June.

The Fox Motors chain has owned the GM and Chrysler outlets in Charlevoix for about eight years. About three years ago, the company added the Ford-Lincoln dealership across U.S. 31 to its local holdings.

Having previously received some upgrades to its exterior appearance, the Ford outlet recently underwent interior remodeling, Jeffreys said, with the capacity of its body shop expanded as part of the project.

In conjunction with the changes at both Fox Charlevoix lots, Jeffreys said the company has expanded its local staff by six people as of late, and he expects several more positions to be added in the near future.

Fox Motors has about two dozen dealership locations in all. Most of these are in Michigan, with the chain recently expanding outside the state to include a dealership in Chicago, Ill.

Charlevoix to entice autumn visitors

Three agencies split cost for commercials

SHERI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Three Charlevoix agencies are joining together to lure autumn visitors to the area.

The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is partnering with the local Convention & Visitors Bureau and Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce to pay for a package of 500 commercials, which began to broadcast the last week of August and will continue into the first week of September.

The ads will be seen by Charter Communications customers in the Traverse City, Kalkaska, Leland and Manistee regions, on about 20 various channels.

Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic development director, said this will serve as a "test run" before officials consider a larger, or more geographically diverse area. She reported this development to the DDA board during its August meeting.

Some on the board asked why the commercial was not set to broadcast in more metropolitan areas, such as Chicago or Detroit. Pearson said it was a financial consideration and hopefully, this "test run" will prove effective.

John Curtis Videography, of Harbor Springs, produced the commercial, which is part of the agency's video series package from earlier in the year. The 30-second commercial gives audiences the message that summer is coming to a close and Charlevoix is the place to welcome the autumn season.

The commercial can be viewed online at the Downtown Charlevoix Facebook page.

In the affidavit, police said when they interviewed Scott Pearce on Aug. 5, he admitted hitting Shannon while she was lying down.

The affidavit also noted that Scott Pearce is on probation with 90th District Court for a driving while intoxicated conviction from May 15 of this year.

Scott Pearce is free from custody after posting a $50,000 surety bond. A condition of his bond is that he have no contact with his wife or enter into the couple's home.

The preliminary examination in the case had originally been set for Sept. 2, but it has since been rescheduled for 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7, in 90th District Court.

Scott Pearce has retained Petoskey attorney Peter J. Lyons to represent him in the case.

consider a recommendation to the DDA board at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 10, at Charlevoix City Hall, 210 State St. The committee will include Pearsall, and representatives from the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, Charlevoix-Historical Society and Central Drug Store.

Todd Wyett, local developer and DDA board member, asked whether the city plans to schedule a public hearing, suggesting this public art display could become a hot-button issue.

"This is Charlevoix," Wyett said. "This is as big as the fireplace."

The mural design chosen by the authority's board members is expected to also be considered by the Charlevoix City Council, not only to make sure the chosen artwork is in line before spending any money with an outside firm.

"Did we not just hire a new recreation director?" she asked. "I want the recreation director to explore options."

Gibson also said the city's recreation advisory committee "that never meets" should take a role in this situation.

But city treasurer Joe Zielinski said he understands how the community may want to support its city golf course, but he doesn't think it would hurt to listen to what the consultants have to say.

"If we don't do something with the golf course, sooner or later we're going to have to," Zielinski said. "Frankly, we're running out of ideas."

Taxpayers annually support the city-owned

Charlevoix Golf Club with general fund subsidies to keep operations going, confirmed both Zielinski and city manager Rob Strachel.

Gennett suggested taxpayers be directly asked whether they want to subsidize the golf course.

"Maybe it ought to go to a millage (vote) to support it," he said. "I think the way to fix it ... is to let it go to a millage."

Strachel said that option has not yet been explored.

City council directed staff members not to meet with the consultant company and recreation director Tom Kirinovic, who also attended the city council meeting, agreed to look into the city golf course and work with Heid to develop some ideas.

EXPANSION

other emergency happens.

Bill McDonough, chief executive officer of Beaver Island Boat Company, also spoke about how the business isn't opposed to the city doing projects within its own property, but in this case "it's a matter of safety." He said the company captains foresee navigational hazards if this expansion is pursued and he supports their opinion.

However, Doug LaBelle, a Charlevoix taxpayer, said he sees this marina expansion project from beyond the Round Lake concerns. He said this project is a possible economic driver for the whole community — a way to bring more jobs downtown, more businesses to Charlevoix and more families to the community.

Carlson echoed that argument later, describing this plan as a local "trickle-down" economic move that begins with the increased number of affluent yacht owners the city wants to lure to Charlevoix's marina.

Other speakers at the hearing offered suggestions for improvements to the plan.

"This project is a little bit big. I'd like to see it at 100 feet," said Bernie Ward, co-owner of Ward Bros. "... and I think if we shrink this down ... it will alleviate a lot of issues."

One Charlevoix yacht broker said he remains confident the city will find success if the expansion is realized, including from among his own clients.

"I personally believe if you build it, they are going to come," said Greg Krueger, reminding the audience that Charlevoix is the most popular harbor in the state after Mackinac Island's.

Former city councilman Gabe Campbell first criticized the city's marina committee as being stacked with city officials and no actual marine experts from a community filled with them.

"You would think you would have people in that line of work to give you some advice," Campbell said.

Then Campbell suggested city officials seek a public vote on this issue of major significance, reminding them of how a similarly controversial issue led to a recall election.

"No one seemed to want to listen to the people on the fireplace," he said. "I think you should listen to the people."

In the end, Carlson cast the fourth vote for the marina expansion proposal to be forwarded to regulatory agencies, in one of just a handful of split votes within the last year that called for him to tip the scales toward a decision.

But, Evans said, the county commissioners will consider improved security measures as they make sense and as money is available. The starting point is to create a security committee tasked with developing a plan to improve safety within the building. The next step, the board chairman said, is to close all but one entrance to the public and establish a controlled security area at the front.

Bigger changes, such as dividing the courthouse portion of the building from offices for other operations, aren't being considered now, Evans said.

"That's nothing that we see in the future," he said. "I think we have a good building, it's sufficient."

While there is video surveillance throughout much of the building, Evans said more cameras are needed at the entrance.

All proposed upgrades are preliminary suggestions, county coordinator Kevin Shepard said. Future recommendations will come from the newly created security committee and then will move to the commissioners for approval.

"We're doing what we can now," Shepard said. "We're going to start with a committee to see what we can do going forward."

Commissioner George Lasater, who previously served as sheriff in Charlevoix County, said improving safety at the county building is a primary concern.

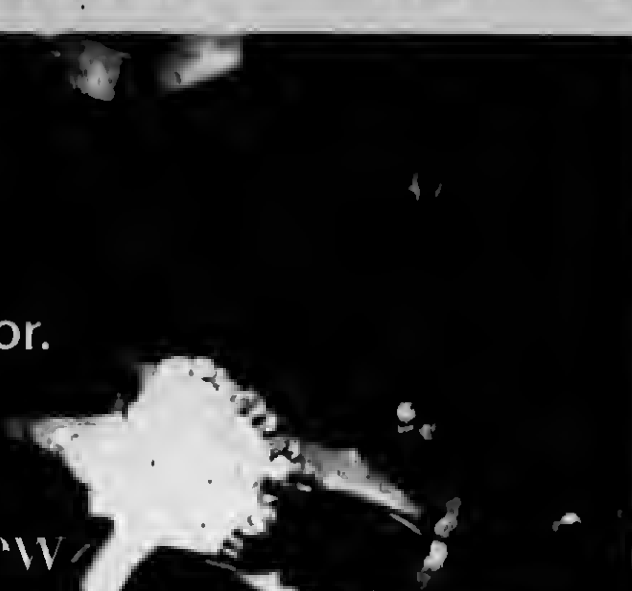

"I'm of the philosophy that we need to prepare for a crisis, not react to one," Lasater said.

Grandparents Day

When a child is born, so are the grandparents

A tribute to those who spoil us

Reconstituted families, hectic lifestyles, problems finding childcare, career women having their first baby later in life... With all of these changes in modern life, grandparents have become more and more active in society, especially in regards to their grandchildren. Therefore, they merit a special day all to themselves, National Grandparents Day on September 7th.

According to Health statistics, at the beginning of the century grandchildren had very little time to get to know their grandparents - only an average of ten years before the older generation was deceased. A massive change in life expectancy has changed this situation, and grandchildren can now benefit from the presence of their grandparents until they reach adulthood. According to the French child psychiatrist, Marcel Rufo, becoming a grandparent is an opportunity to be a better parent than you were the first time around. Grandparents, who are for the most part retired, are not normally pressed for time. They have less social pressure on their shoulders. This allows them to approach their relationship with their grandchildren in a different way. Generally speaking, they are more patient. What's more, they often know how to draw lessons from their vast life experience that they are happy to share. They love making the most of their relationships with their grandchildren. In this way, grandparents are able to transmit their wisdom and affection.

September 7th is the perfect time to spend the day together, sharing some happy moments with grandparents.

Rayders finish 2-1 at conference quad match

STEVE FOLEY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix High School varsity volleyball team finished with a 2-1 record Wednesday at a Lake Michigan Conference quad tournament with Harbor Springs, Grayling and Traverse City St. Francis.

In the first match, the Rayders, now 7-2 overall, 2-1 league, defeated Grayling, 25-21, 25-19, 25-21, while trying a new rotation.

"We definitely had some obstacles, but the girls overcame it and that is growth in itself," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said.

The Rayders then fell to St. Francis, 25-18, 25-10, 25-22.

"We were much better on serve receive than in the past and still did some good things," Randall said. "Especially in the third set tied it up with several lead changes by one point. I still think we can be more competitive with St. Francis. We never seemed to get on a continuous roll to make a run at any point."

The Rayders then closed the quad by defeating Harbor Springs, 25-14, 26-24,

"The girls had fun in this match after having a team meeting after the St. Francis match," Randall said. "They realized there was no fun in the St. Francis match and that's when they play their best. They brought that element to the court with Harbor Springs and it shined in their execution of the game in games one and three."

For the Rayders on the day, Alexis Tribelner finished with seven aces, was 94 percent on serve receive and added 27 digs, while Madeline Boss had 32 kills, 29 digs, four aces and four blocks.

Also, Olivia Storm added 43 assists, 12 digs and four aces, while Yogi Hang added 46 digs and eight aces. Gloria Greene had 24 assists and 16 kills, while Emily Zabawa had 19 kills and Hannah Zipp added nine kills. Hailey Berry and Becca Moon each chipped in with eight kills, while Berry added 12 aces.

"A lot of good things showed itself in these matches other than the loss to St.

Rayders slip past Elk Rapids, 13-12, in season opener

ELK RAPIDS — The Charlevoix High School varsity football team claimed their season opener over the Elks, 13-12, and did so with some key early defensive stands.

Hovie

A tipped interception return led to a first quarter Elk Rapids lead, 6-0.

The Rayders, which finished 1-8 last season after winning their season opener over St. Ignace, would then deny Elk Rapids twice inside the red zone during the opening quarter.

"We had some first-game jitters in the first quarter," Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi said. "After a tipped pick for a touchdown we made two goal line stands and our defense played with a lot of heart tonight."

The Rayders tied the game, 6-6, going into halftime on a Nate Moon 5-yard TD pass to Will Telgenhof.

Charlevoix received the kickoff to open the second half, which led to a long drive that ended with a Sam Hovie 4-yard rushing TD.

With 28 seconds remaining, Elk Rapids drove the ball to the Charlevoix 30-yard line, but after an incomplete pass and a Rayder sack, the Elks could not push the ball into the endzone.

"Elk Rapids is a very athletic team," Bindi said. "We played with a lot of energy on defense, and we were able to come up with big plays when we needed them, all night, on both sides of the ball."

For Charlevoix, Nate Moon completed seven passes for 106 yards.

Austin Putman had three receptions for 56 yards, Telgenhof had three receptions for 17 yards and a touchdown, while Ben Boss had one reception for 23 yards.

"The biggest catch of the night was made by Ben Boss," Bindi added. "On a late third and long play in the third quarter, he came up with a reception that reignited us."

Sam Hovie had 15 carries for 111 yards and a touchdown, while Bryan Noiro had seven carries for 34 yards and Moon had 11 carries for 36 yards.

Putman had eight tackles and Noiro added six on defense.

Charlevoix will travel to Boyne City on Friday, Sept. 5.

Buzz on Main Street

Enthusiasm up for state program, ideas vary on what downtown needs

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's chances of moving into the next level in Michigan's Main Street program seem strong, officials said.

More than 100 showed up Sept. 4 at the Main Street Matters meeting at Charlevoix Public Library, where state and other Main Street officials discussed the program and answered questions. The idea is to keep the buzz about town humming.

"If this energy keeps up, Charlevoix should have no problem being among the most thriving Main Street communities in 10 years," said Patrick Reagan, of the Portland Downtown Development Authority and member of the Main Street program selection committee.

Brittney Hoszkiw, from the state program headquarters, said it's important for Charlevoix to take this opportunity as a community-wide effort, not just specific stakeholders directing change.

"If they continue on this trajectory, they really will find success," Hoszkiw said.

The Michigan Main Street program is meant to support and promote downtowns and traditional commercial neighborhood districts in participating com-

Mushroom house district gains ground

Historic architectural treasures may become protected

CHARLEVOIX — Once upon a time there was a friendly lady who lived in a mushroom by the sea. It was a very nice mushroom in a very nice neighborhood and she lived there for many, many years. She loved her mushroom very much.

But what sounds like a children's fairy tale is the absolute truth.

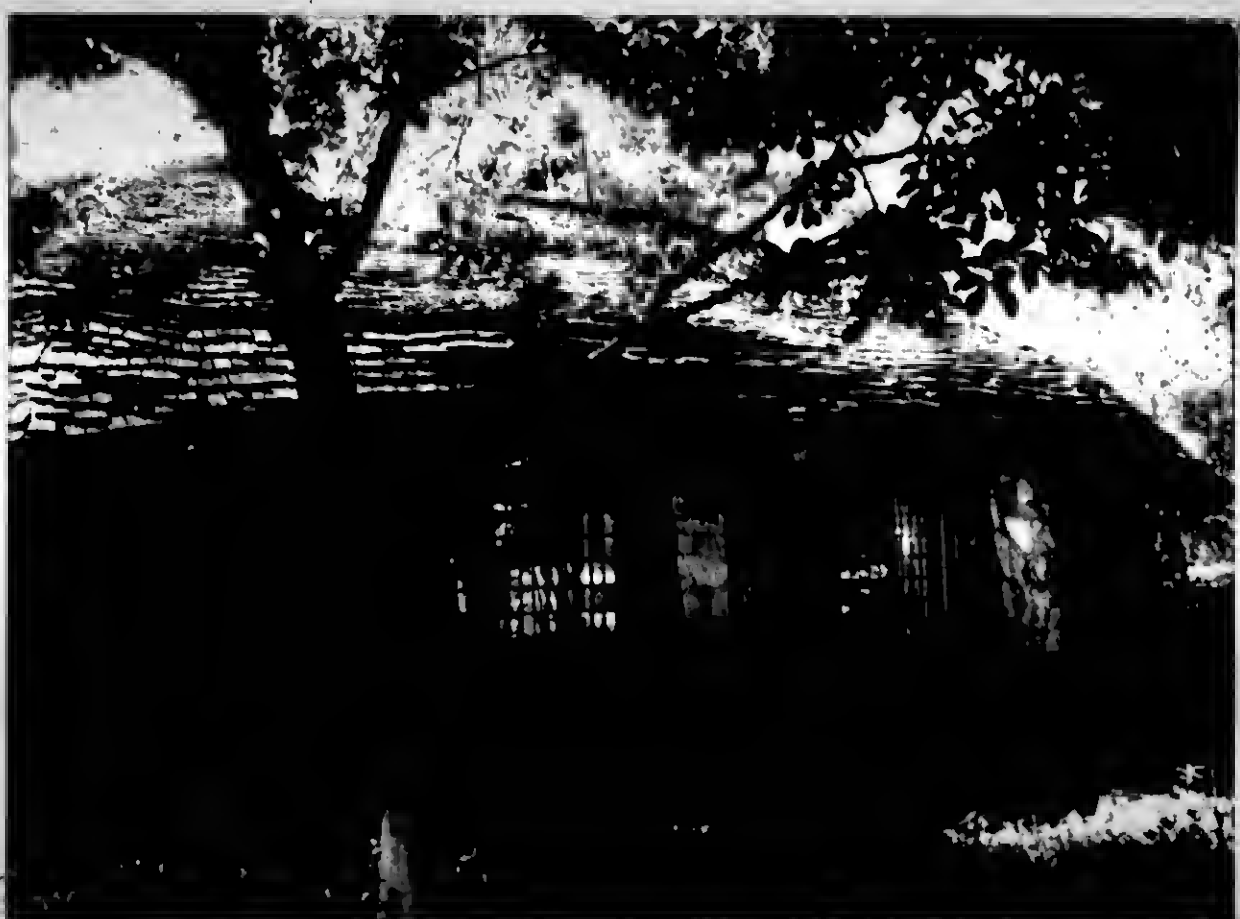

Jeannine Wallace has lived in one of the most prominent mushroom houses of Charlevoix for more than 40 years. They are curious little structures with one-of-a-kind architecture by the famed Earl Young, who created them to look as though they just sprang up out of the ground — precisely like a mushroom.

"He built them to conform to the land around them," Wallace said.

Her mushroom house sits at the corner of Clinton and Grant streets in downtown Charlevoix, where during the summer between two and four tour buses will stop and unload passengers who stand in the road and snap photographs of her humble abode.

"They are treasures to the town. They are such a draw," Wallace said.

The Charlevoix Historic District Commission currently seeks to develop a historical preservation district for the city's Earl Young homes, aka the mushroom houses. The idea is to ensure the exterior design is maintained in perpetuity, though indoor renovations would not be regulated.

"This is really past due. The city should realize the value of these homes in terms of how they make Charlevoix so unique and desirable,"

Wallace said. "There are dozens of little resort towns along the lake-shore, but this is where he built the mushroom houses."

The commission members gathered on Sept. 5, to discuss this renewed effort to preserve the Earl Young properties. The city tried about two years ago and met resistance from the owners of the commercial sites — The Weathervane and The Lodge — that the famed builder constructed.

This time, the commercial properties will be left out of the proposed historical district, and perhaps also the homes Earl Young simply reno-

DDA seeks community input on downtown mural

CHARLEVOIX — Sketches are completed for the proposed public mural installation on the corner of Clinton and Bridge streets in downtown Charlevoix. Four new and significantly individual designs are being released for public comment by the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

The DDA received $3,300 in grant monies from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and from the Michigan Council for the Arts and Humanities. While the DDA wanted to pay $6,000, bids ranged anywhere from $9,000-17,000. The bids are well over budget and the DDA will be seeking not only opinions on which work will adorn the corner space but also, whether donations are available from the public to keep the project alive.

The Charlevoix DDA and a selection committee of representatives from local art, history and tourism organizations will listen to public feedback, but ultimately will be making the decision as to which artist will be commissioned for a spring 2015 installation.

"The workmanship, content of the mural and public feedback will obviously play a big part in our decision but ultimately, like everything else, it comes down to dollars and cents," said Bethany Pearson, community economic development director. "I don't want to have to give back the grant money but without donations from the public, it's likely this project will come to a halt."

Watercolor exhibit on display through Sept. 27

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — A free public exhibit of the traveling Michigan Water Color Society show is on display at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts.

The display not only features some of the most talented artists throughout Michigan, but has a special focus on two renowned local artists, Trish Morgan and Betty Bea Washburn.

The Michigan Water Color Society's traveling show features some of the award-winning entries from their annual juried exhibit, and are picked from entrants all across the state of Michigan. Entries were awarded based on a number of criteria.

"Sometimes the choice came down to the amazing technical ability displayed in the artwork, but more often we made choices because of the remarkable and dynamic nature of each piece. I found the number of unique ideas and expressions refreshing, the level of proficiency quite impressive," said juror Paul Jackson.

Charlevoix is fortunate to be a stop along the traveling show's itinerary.

"The Michigan Water Color Society has only a few locations that it displays the fine work, and we are very pleased to be one of those stops this year," said Anne Henriksen, of the Circle of Arts. "We are also extremely proud to feature the works of Trish Morgan and Betty Bea. Trish has been a member and exhibitor of our board for several years now, and Betty Bea has been with us and taught classes for quite some time."

To coincide with this exhibit will be some instructional classes, to help beginning artists, or to further refine the skills of more practiced artists. Betty Bea will teach "The Human Face in Watercolor," from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 20. The cost is $90 per person.

In addition to the watercolor exhibit, a special one-time celebration is planned at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 14.

"We are celebrating the 450th birthday of William Shakespeare. The Circle of Arts Armchair Theater will be performing monologues, playing music and offering a hite of cake and wine or punch to those who attend," Henriksen said.

This fun-filled evening event also will be free to the public and it's expected to be an enjoyable group of revelers with whom to spend an evening.

Many of the paintings from the watercolor exhibit are already sold, but the exhibit will remain on display through Saturday, Sept. 27.

The Charlevoix Circle of Arts is at 109 Clinton St. in Charlevoix. More information is available at www.charlevoixcircle.org online.

Booth gets 12-25 years for attempted murder

September 2013 stabbing in Charlevoix brings prison sentence

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A Charlevoix woman who stabbed another woman she believed was having an affair with her ex-boyfriend will spend the next 12 to 25 years in prison for her actions.

Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas handed down the sentence to Kaylee Rose Booth, 32, of Charlevoix on Friday.

On Aug. 7 following a four-day trial, a jury found Booth guilty on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, a felony punishable by up to life in prison.

The charge stemmed from an incident that took place on Sept. 29, 2013, outside a home at 704 State St. in Charlevoix in which Booth stabbed Justine Murray several times.

At trial Booth did not deny having stabbed Murray, but instead relied on an insanity defense, or alternately that she did not intend to kill Murray and should instead be found guilty of the lesser charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder, a 10-year felony.

At trial the defense claimed that at time of the stabbing Booth suffered from a mental illness, and because of that illness, she was either unable to appreciate the seriousness of her actions and/or was not able to refrain from those actions. Specifically, the defense claimed that Booth was suffering from a condition known as brief psychotic disorder, which was brought on by a host of stresses that she was under on the day of the stabbings. Among the stresses that defense attorney Jodi Doak pointed to included the loss of "a significant relationship" with ex-boyfriend Joe Reedy, the fear that she would not be able to provide for her children and would soon be without a home, the fear that Murray was moving into her home that she had previously shared with Reedy and the fear that Reedy was taking some of her belongings.

The jury did not accept either theory.

Before he sentenced Booth, Judge Pajtas denied a request from the defense to take away 25 points on sentencing guideline totals that were scored for Booth's actions being "premeditated." Doak argued that the actions were "in the heat of the moment" and the points should not be scored.

However, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof pointed to testimony that showed that prior to the attack Booth had been had been feeding her baby and that she walked to the window, saw Murray standing outside near a shed.

Commissioners say vote on parks, veterans millages key to future plans

CRAM CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — As Charlevoix County commissioners on Wednesday unanimously passed a $14.6 million budget for the upcoming year, they said a pair of millages on the Nov. 4 ballot will give them clearer direction as they make decisions for future spending.

County voters will decide this fall whether to support a parks millage proposed at .15 of a mill and a separate veterans millage set at .1 of a mill that would generate a combined $500,000 annually to fund those services and operations.

If passed, county commissioner Chris Christensen said an overall operations millage will be reduced by an equal amount as officials try to pare down their general fund budget to the most basic county services.

"I think this is a great way to give government back to the people," Christensen said.

As it was passed Wednesday, the county's 2014-15 fiscal year budget contains little differences from the current year. The same base operating millage of 4.7 mills was adopted. Along with millages to fund transit, the Grandview Medical Care Facility, senior citizens, recycling and road improvement budgets, the total imposed amount of 7.5 mills is unchanged.

In proposing additional parks and veterans millages, county commissioners said they want to stop using the general fund to pay for development and ongoing costs associated with those services. Using a proposed non-motorized trail connecting Boyne City and Charlevoix as an example, Christensen said once built the path becomes another drain on the general fund budget when it requires repair.

Boyne Falls man sentenced to prison for sex assault on 3-year-old girl

CHARLEVOIX — A Boyne Falls man on Friday was sentenced to prison time for sexually assaulting a young girl.

Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Joseph Daniel Pierzynowski, 50, to serve 23 to 60 months in prison for the crime of attempted criminal sexual conduct, third degree. Pierzynowski had pleaded no contest to the charge as well as an additional charge of accosting a child for immoral purposes on Aug. 14 as part of a plea agreement with the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office.

In a news release, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said the factual basis for the plea was provided by the victim's testimony at preliminary examination that while she was visiting the defendant's home he sexually assaulted her in a bathroom. The victim was 3 years old at the time.

Pierzynowski was previously convicted of indecent exposure and in 1993 was acquitted of a criminal sexual conduct, first degree charge in Wayne County. Pierzynowski was originally charged with criminal sexual conduct, first degree which was dismissed as a part of the plea bargain in the case.

"The agreement reached in this case resulted in a prison term for the defendant, his registration as a sex offender and closure for the victim and her family without her having to testify at trial," Telgenhof said. "We had also intended to call three women who would have testified that they suffered at the defendant's hands when they were children. The agreement gives them an element of closure as well."

"I want to commend the work of deputy Rob Scholey and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department in this case. Working with child victims can be difficult, but deputy Scholey's interview and follow up were keys to this case being successfully prosecuted," Telgenhof said. "We also received assistance from the Wayne County Prosecuting Attorney's Office and their investigator, Shelly Foy, in locating witnesses in this matter."

City of Charlevoix receives Water Fluoridation Quality Award

CHARLEVOIX — The Michigan Department of Community Health announced that Charlevoix was given a 2013 Water Fluoridation Quality Award from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Fluoridation is the adjustment of fluoride in drinking water to a level that is effective for preventing tooth decay. The award recognizes those communities that achieved excellence in community water fluoridation by maintaining a consistent level of optimally fluoridated water throughout 2013. A total of 2,184 public water systems in 33 states received these awards, including 95 in Michigan.

"Community water

METRO

fluoridation continues to be proven to prevent tooth decay throughout people's lives," said Dr. Katherine Weno, DDS, JD, director, CDC Division of Oral Health. "Since CDC began the fluoridation awards program in 2002, an increasing number of states have worked closely with their community water systems to ensure proper management of their fluoridation programs."

Community water fluoridation has been recognized by CDC as one of 10 great public health achievements of the 20th century. Currently in the United States, 74.6 percent or 210 million people served by community water systems have access to optimally fluoridated tap water. CDC recommends water fluoridation as a safe, effective and inexpensive method of preventing decay. It is estimated that for every dollar invested in fluoridation, at least $38 in costs for dental treatment is saved.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Why do we have public schools?

The content of public education is certainly in the news. Several states have rejected the Common Core standards without much discussion of what the Common Core is. So, we will probably have a long discussion about what we should be teaching the next generation. As a life-long educator, I have a few ideas about what is important.

We must begin with some examination of the purpose of public education. In this instance, I tend to agree with the people who look to the ideas of our founding fathers for direction. What did they think was the purpose of universally available public education? They seemed to have thought that democracy could not exist and function without an educated citizenry. Voting was meant to be a thoughtful act, not just the checking of one box or another. Education, then, was for the purpose of producing knowledgeable citizens. I do not detect that they thought its purpose was to produce employees or consumers. Employment was not the goal of public education. Citizenship was the goal. It might even be helpful if our legislators had been educated to be citizens, rather than advocates.

With the goal of citizenship in mind, what should be the content of public education? What do we need to know to be good citizens? What is it that everyone needs to know? I have a few ideas; they are my own common core.

Literacy is absolutely essential. Not just crude reading and writing, but the ability both to use language and understand language produced by someone else is necessary. Maybe an appropriate test would be to assemble a child's swing set from written instructions. That would require close reading and understanding without pictures. About writing, maybe being able to write a useful report of an accident observed or in which one is involved might be indicative of a useful education. Whether or not a person can communicate what really happened as opposed to what they may wish had happened might be considered useful.

The study of history provides a useful arena for the separation of fact from opinion. History should be the examination of what happened, not what someone may have thought happened or hoped had happened. History is also a fine place to scrutinize the importance of public communication and the public difference between fact and opinion. Everyone is allowed their own opinion in our democracy, but they are not allowed their own facts.

How much science is needed? Enough to know about atoms and evolution. Enough to know that correlation (two or more things happening at the same time) is not the same as cause. Much of misunderstood and misused science is based on not understanding the difference between correlation and cause. Some very important and powerful people do not understand that difference.

It is absolutely essential that everyone know that there is a thousand-fold difference between one million and one billion. These are not just words different in only one letter. We need enough arithmetic to make that clear.

We all need to know more about geography. What is where is a vital part of understanding in the world and in interpreting daily events.

A little arithmetic, a little geography, physical and biological science, some history and considerable language skills. How hard could that be to accomplish? Maybe, we could even agree on how important public education is to the functioning of democracy.

LETTERS to the editor

It's Inwood, or Charlevoix, but not Atwood or Norwood

Editor:
Sorry, our community is Inwood.

Atwood is several miles away and is in a different county.

I do understand how confusing it may be to non-natives, with Norwood, Atwood and Inwood in such close proximity. Especially with Inwood being in Norwood Township. But I don't see how Atwood got in there at all. They are getting too "pushy." They have already extended their northern boundary on U.S. 31, but should not be allowed to cross the county line without a vote of the people.

The Bier Art Gallery is centrally located in Inwood, in the old Inwood schoolhouse (usually referred to as Hilton School for its nearby residents). It is near the Inwood post office site, next door to Tillers International Inwood Farm with Inwood Creek crossing it. The Inwood Methodist Church was located at the corner of U.S. 31 and Beatty Road (just around the block from Bier's).

The same news appeared in the Saturday paper previously, under the heading of Charlevoix. We're OK with that. After all, our address is now Charlevoix, even, though Inwood had its own post office for 25 years.

"Bad enough that Inwood got no recognition but to have Atwood headlined was just too much," one resident was heard to say.

On a serious note, if you were to publish a follow-up article with some of the history of the area included, I'm sure it would be well-received by your readers.

Thank you,
Elizabeth Hoffman,
Inwood (or Charlevoix)

Stuff the Bus is a success

Editor:
Each year during the back-to-school season, the United Way of Charlevoix-Emmet counties collects donated school supplies to distribute to children in need in the Char-Em Intermediate School District. Dozens of volunteers from local businesses and organizations helped acquire school supplies during the seventh annual Stuff the Bus collection.

On Aug. 16, school buses filled with donations were parked at the Wal-Mart plaza in Petoskey and at the Kmart plaza in Charlevoix. The community donated items that will help students succeed in school.

With assistance from volunteers we collected more than 9,500 items this year, one of the best years yet. All supplies collected will go to children in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, allowing them to start the new school year with confidence. The number of students that qualify for free or reduced lunch show that almost half of the families in the district are still struggling financially and the community's support of Stuff the Bus can provide a huge relief.

Supplies have been distributed to schools in the Char-Em Intermediate School District and students in need of school supplies should ask their teachers about Stuff the Bus supplies.

Char-Em United Way would like to thank all the volunteers and sponsors that made Stuff the Bus possible, including Petoskey Wal-Mart, Charlevoix Kmart, WTCM and WCCW radio.

Bear Creek/Resort Fire Department, Bergmann Center-Aktion Club, Retired and Senior Volunteer Program, Charlevoix public schools, Johnson Buses and many other local businesses and individuals.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

In 1868, the Charlevoix Harbor and River Improvement Company requested assistance from the U. S. government to try to gain access to Pine Lake (in future named Lake Charlevoix), then blocked by a peninsula on Round Lake's east side. U. S. Major of Engineers J. B. Wheeler and his crew arrived to investigate. They surveyed the entire community, then called Pine River, took hundreds of depth soundings in Lake Michigan and Round Lake, and Wheeler supervised the drawing of a map, a section of which appears here showing the western edge of that peninsula.

At bottom right is the natural cove that became the Belvedere Club's "bayou" where its boathouses have long been located. (Upper) Pine River, the narrow rivulet that appears above the sand spit atop the cove in the drawing, was the natural outlet from Pine Lake to Round Lake, currently visible to the right of today's Chicago Club boathouse and long known as "Old River." The government refused to help, for various reasons. So, the company forged ahead on its own and completed the cutting of both the upper and lower channels from late July to early October in 1869. So important was this act to the immediate and explosive development of northwest Lower Michigan that in 1876 the government assumed responsibility for maintaining the waterways and named Charlevoix a "Government Harbor."

Angie Supernaw celebrates 102 years of life

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — There is an old saying about how a positive attitude can change your life, and lifelong Charlevoix resident Angie Supernaw can attest to that as she celebrated her 102nd birthday this week.

Supernaw's passion for life is an example for all ages. She was born on Sept. 8, 1912, in Norwood Township and raised in Charlevoix, then graduated from Charlevoix High School and went on to complete her education at the Howell School of Business in Muskegon. Supernaw was crowned as the Winter Sports Queen of Charlevoix in 1930 and in 1958 she was the Charlevoix Women's Golf Champion. After completing her education, Supernaw returned to work for the Bridge and Hawley Insurance Agency and retired in 1972 after 30 years of service.

Supernaw and her late husband, William I. Supernaw, were married in 1938 and went on to raise their two sons in the Charlevoix area. She is now a proud grandmother of four and also has two great-grandchildren.

Her sense of humor, determination and quick wit are readily apparent and she stays active by playing bridge with "the girls" and is a savvy computer user to keep in contact with her family and friends. She said she loves Pandora, where she programmed her favorite tunes and she especially likes country music — her favorite artist is Jim Reeves. And each morning Supernaw attends exercise classes at the American House, where she lives in a beautifully decorated apartment.

Her zest for life is apparent, said Corina Russell, the weekend manager of the American House in Charlevoix.

"Angie is very competitive and spunky ... she can really swing a tennis racket and is great at beachball soccer," Russell said.

County bus system to attend her weekly appointment at Birdie's Beauty Salon, and said she enjoys the trip through town. She remarked how much Charlevoix changed during the years.

"This used to be more of a resort town, we had many more vacationers. People used to come up for the entire summer and the people who lived here had to work extra hard all summer so they could earn enough money to live and get through the winter," she said.

But she's still seen some new things lately.

Supernaw said last winter was the worst she's ever known. She said her son even came to shovel in front of her window at American House so she could see outdoors.

"It was like being in a snow cave," she joked, adding how thankful she felt to see the sunshine and blue skies out her window.

"I try to enjoy every day and it has paid off because I've had a great life — a very happy life. If I had to do it over again I would do the exact same thing," she said with a smile.

BOYNE CITY

Encore presentation of The Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel

Charlevoix County History Preservation Society offers Sept. 27 program

BOYNE CITY — The Charlevoix County History Preservation Society will present an encore presentation of "The Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel — The History & The Vision."

The program is scheduled to be at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27, at the Boyne Area Senior Center, 411 E. Division St., Boyne City. The event is free and the public is invited.

On June 28, the society presented its fourth History Speaker Series event of 2014. The event was such a hit that it overflowed the community room at the Boyne District Library. Many of those who showed up that afternoon were turned away for lack of space. While the society members were pleasantly surprised at the enthusiasm, they found themselves disappointed they could not entertain more.

Guest speakers Bob Morgridge, Patrick McCleary and Boh Grove will provide historical background on The Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel. Afterward, guided tours will follow the program from 2:30-5 p.m. The society also will be available at the senior center until 5 p.m. to scan photos, memorabilia, and record memories and oral histories from anyone wishing to share what they remember about the hotel.

Dr. Carey to wind down practice, act as consultant

CHARLEVOIX — Reflecting on his medical career as a family practice physician and his recent decision to wind down the practice of delivering babies, Dr. Mitchell J. Carey sports a slow grin and twinkling eyes.

"It's been a 'happy' job for me. Delivering babies and caring for their medical needs from birth to college and beyond has been very rewarding," he said.

While his office is at the East Jordan Family Health Center, he delivered many babies at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

When asked why he made the decision to stop delivering newborns, he laughed and said that he intends to retire in a few years and he felt it was the right time for him to refer his pregnant patients to the other capable obstetricians at the hospital. Carey calculates that during the 34 years he has been practicing medicine, he has delivered somewhere between 1,300 and 1,400 babies. But even with his decision to stop delivering newborns and focus on other family care, Carey won't be a stranger to the hospital's delivery room. His intention is to continue assisting with Caesarian section deliveries and offering his experience and expertise as a consultant.

"When asked about memorable births, he sat back and smiled.

"They've all been memorable," he exclaimed.

However, there was one in particular that stood out and made him laugh. He recalled the time that the parents wanted to have their 4-year-old daughter in the delivery room for the birth of her new sister or brother. Intent on looking out the door while her mother was in labor, she was startled to hear the baby cry.

"She told us she didn't know how it could have gotten in there because she was watching the door the whole time. She checked the bathroom and the windows and couldn't imagine how the baby had sneaked past her!"

Carey said that he will miss "the thrill of new life" but is very grateful for the wonderful memories and the ability to deliver babies for a number of four-generation families.

Elks poker run and pig roast returns

CHARLEVOIX — The annual Show Your Colors Poker Run and Pig Roast will again commence at the Charlevoix Elks Lodge. It is one of the service organization's major fundraisers.

This event has raised more than $30,000 for veteran charities in our local area. Registration begins at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Sept. 13, at the Charlevoix Elks Lodge on Mason Street in downtown Charlevoix. The cost is $30, which includes the poker run — with a winner for every nine riders — pig roast, live auction and entertainment.

Riders are primarily motorcycles, but any motorized vehicles are welcome to participate. A pre-event show open to the public begins in the pavilion at 11:30 a.m. and includes a blessing of the bikes and the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Charlevoix's own Jessica Dominic.

Kickstands are expected to be up at noon and the pack of hikers will head north to the Tunnel of Trees on M-119 for a first stop at Legs Inn. Five stops later, bikes will return to the Charlevoix Elks Lodge at 5 p.m. for a pig roast and live auction which is open to the public with a $5 donation.

This year's auction includes signed items from Kid Rock, donated by his parents because their own parents were active Elks members. Entertainment, including music and dancing, will follow the auction.

Shakespeare birthday event a masked affair music, cake with wine or punch, and see "Romeo and Juliet," who meet at a masked ball. Participants are encouraged to wear a "hit of costume" or party clothes.

NORWOOD

Norwood movie night to feature Gregory Peck film

NORWOOD — The Norwood Area Historical Society will host the second annual Rex Beach Movie Night at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 17, at the Norwood Schoolhouse.

Whether on land or sea, the adventures never stop in the thrill-packed epic adventure, "The World in His Arms." Set in 1850, Gregory Peck stars as the swaggering sea captain Jonathan Clark who poaches seal pelts off the coast of Russian-owned Alaska. However, the real danger begins upon returning to San Francisco where he falls for a countess (Ann Blyth) fleeing from her engagement to a greedy Russian prince (Carl Esmond). When Clark learns of her kidnapping, he sets sail — amid gale force winds and treacherous seas — on a harrowing race to rescue his lady love and beat his longtime rival (Anthony Quinn).

Popcorn and lemonade will be provided. The cost is $5 at the door, or participants can become a member for free admission.

Goodwill buys, renovates old IGA store

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Goodwill Industries of Northern Michigan recently bought the old IGA supermarket on the northern side of Charlevoix, an effort to address specific economic needs in this community.

"It will be a store, but it will also be a job training facility," said Leah Bagdon-McCallum, Goodwill spokeswoman.

The new Goodwill thrift store is expected to open early in 2015 at 402 Petoskey Ave., about a half-dozen blocks northwest of Charlevoix's Bridge Street drawbridge.

Goodwill is a nonprofit agency that fights hunger and homelessness across a large, 19-county swath that covers Michigan's proverbial "top half of the mitten." The organization recently completed a community needs assessment for its expansive service territory, and for the economically hospitality-driven Charlevoix area, the study showed a need for more health and human services to address hunger and unemployment, Bagdon-McCallum said.

"We are trying to train people to take those types of jobs," she said, referring to tourism-based hospitality positions.

Goodwill's program will be modeled after another existing one in Traverse City in which a food truck creates a mobile classroom for between 10-12 participants to learn both "front of the house" duties and skills for various kitchen jobs. The program works in partnership with several restaurants at which program graduates often find long-lasting employment, Bagdon-McCallum said.

"We are hoping to do the same thing in Charlevoix," she said.

City planner Mike Spencer said interior construction at the former Don's IGA grocery store is under way and officials currently are reviewing the site plan for the commercial lot.

"It looks great. I think any time you can take a vacant commercial space and find a new use for it is great," he said. "I haven't seen anything that jumps out as a problem."

The company's plan includes details about the removal of the existing parking lot in spring 2015 to build a parking area with a better storm water management design, Spencer said.

Bagdon-McCallum said Goodwill not only wants to partner with Charlevoix area hospitality businesses to produce well-trained workers, but also wishes to work with other nonprofit agencies to identify basic needs beyond food and housing.

For example, sometimes a family may need winter coats for multiple children, which can become costly for those in low-income circumstances, she said. That's particularly the case in the depths of winter, when tourism spending withers in comparison to the bonanza of summer tourist dollars spent in Charlevoix. Goodwill maintains a voucher program that is expected to be implemented at the coming Charlevoix store, Bagdon-McCallum said.

CHARLEVOIX — It's another big, big year for Michigan apple growers.

"It is another good crop. I think there are more apples planted, so during years the weather is favorable, we should have more apples," said Richard Friske, owner and operator at Friske Orchards in rural Charlevoix.

And he's got more apples.

"Our Honeycrisp is probably our most outstanding variety this year," Friske said. "McIntosh are also very good and Gala are exceptionally heavy across the state, and they are here, too."

That's reflected across Michigan, too.

The Michigan Apple Committee estimates approximately 28.74 million bushels of apples will be harvested this year, in line with last year's record-setting 30 million bushels, or 1.26 billion pounds. Michigan is second only to Washington in apple production in the United States.

"Many factors have contributed to this large crop," said Diane Smith, executive director of the Michigan Apple Committee. "Great weather this past spring and summer, including cool nights, plenty of rain as well as a good amount of sunshine certainly helped."

Friske said it wasn't all sunshine, though.

"We lost 4,000-5,000 apple trees to the cold last winter," he said. "We will replant those as soon as possible. We've got trees coming to replant next spring. That will impact our production for a couple of years, but our customers won't notice any difference."

In fact, expectations are that Michigan will in future years grow more and more apples than ever before — including northwest Lower Michigan.

"More efficient apple orchards are growing up," Friske said.

"That's an observation many in the state's apple industry predicted would materialize, officials said.

"With high-density plantings (approximately 1,000 trees per acre) and advancements in technology, Michigan is going to continue to produce a larger quantity of apples. We are also seeing great quality and size," Smith said.

There are about 9.2 million apple trees in commercial production covering about 36,500 acres on 850 family-run farms in Michigan. About 40 percent of Michigan apples are sold fresh, while the other 60 percent are processed into other products, according to the Michigan Apple Committee.

More information about the state's growing apple industry is available at www.michiganapples.com online, along with recipes and a timeline to show when each apple variety comes into season in Michigan.

Michigan Works offers CNC training scholarship

CHARLEVOIX — North-west Michigan Works is offering a scholarship for one unemployed individual to enroll in a computer numerical control (CNC) certificate program that begins this fall in Charlevoix. The program is offered through Baker College of Cadillac and starts Monday, Sept. 29, for evening classes at Charlevoix High School.

There is a strong demand in Northern Michigan for trained CNC machinists. Students in the CNC training program gain the technical and specialized knowledge required to operate CNC machine tools. Class sizes are small and taught by working professionals to provide plenty of one-on-one interaction and hands-on training. The training includes actual work experience where students operate lathes, mills, precision measuring tools and their related attachments and accessories to cut, drill, shape and finish products and component parts.

Eligible candidates for the scholarship are individuals who are unemployed, laid off from a previous job, and capable of completing the training program. Interested parties should contact Renee at Michigan Works at (231) 439-5231.

handed the baby off to another person, grabbed a knife off the top of the refrigerator and ran outside and stabbed Murray — once in the leg and twice in the chest as evidence that Booth had time to consider her actions before the stabbing.

Judge Pajtas agreed and denied the motion to rescind the offense variables for Booth. Telgenhof said if the judge had granted the request, it wouldn't have changed the minimum sentencing guideline range for Booth which was 108-180 months.

At Friday's sentencing hearing, Doak asked the judge to consider departing downward from the minimum sentencing guideline range. (Judges may impose minimum sentences above or below the guideline range if they find "substantial and compelling reasons" to do so.) In making the request, Doak cited the fact that Booth has no prior criminal convictions, that she cooperated with police, that she has strong community and family support, that she has a solid employment history, that her actions in the stabbing were out of character for her, and that there is a significant difference between the penalty for the lesser offense and the attempted murder charge for which she was convicted.

Telgenhof countered the request saying that cooperating with police is typically only factored in if a defendant helps catch other criminals, and that one of the reasons Booth claimed she was under so much stress was that she would have no place to live if she left the State Street home.

Additionally, Telgenhof asked the judge to consider what the penalty would be for Booth had Murray died from her injuries — life in prison without parole.

"There was nothing stopping her from killing Justice other than Austin Kleiber and luck," Telgenhof said.

Kleiber is a teen who, according to testimony, witnessed the attack and knocked Booth off Murray preventing her from continuing the attack.

Telgenhof also pointed to testimony from a doctor that Murray's stab wounds could have been fatal had they landed in a slightly different way.

The judge ultimately denied the request to depart from the guidelines.

Telgenhof read a letter written to the judge, in which Murray wrote, "It (the stabbing) was the most pain I've ever felt in my life. I thought I was going to die."

Murray went on to write that she still has nightmares about the incident and has trouble speaking. She said she still has pain from nerve damage. She also noted that she was off work for about six weeks because of the stabbing, which cost her financially.

When her turn to speak came, Booth read from a prepared statement — pausing on a couple of occasions to turn and look at Murray. In the statement, Booth apologized to Murray and her family for her actions and the pain and suffering they caused. "I take full responsibility for my actions," Booth said. "I wish I could take it back, but unfortunately, I can't."

In sentencing Booth, Judge Pajtas said he opted for a minimum sentence in the middle of the guideline range and to impose a maximum of 25 years instead of the possible life maximum as a balance between the seriousness of the offense and factors including Booth's lack of prior criminal convictions and the fact that he believes she does not present a very high risk to society.

Booth was given credit for 330 days served in jail while awaiting trial and sentencing.

Telgenhof had asked the judge to order Booth to pay more than $22,000 in restitution — mostly for medical costs. But the exact amount will be determined later because there was disagreement between the defense and prosecution as to what that amount should be.

Lightning strike blamed for attic fire

CHARLEVOIX — Fire officials believe a lightning strike is to blame for smoke that filled a home's attic south of Charlevoix on Monday.

According to a City of Charlevoix Fire Department news release issued Wednesday, firefighters were called to a home on Cedarview Road in Norwood Township at 6:34 p.m. Monday when a neighbor called 9-1-1 reporting smoke coming out of the home's roof vents.

When firefighters arrived on the scene, they found smoldering rafters and insulation in the home's attic.

Fire officials determined that a lightning strike to a television antenna caused the rafters and insulation to smolder.

Firefighters were on the scene for about an hour. No injuries were reported.

FOOTBALL

Rising Rayder, Rambler rivalry

Friction heats up as Charlevoix falls to Boyne City, 42-0

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — Both sides knew it would be a testy one and throughout the night, it showed.

The rivalry between the Boyne City and Charlevoix football programs grew even more so on Friday night, as the Ramblers pushed past the Rayders in a non-conference win, 42-0, at Earl Brotherston Field.

The chippiness, talk along the sidelines and hard hits all night long came as expected.

"We knew physically it was going to be a challenge and it was a physical game," Boyne City coach Dave Hills said. "That's just kind of what we expect out of that one."

The final outcome, however, comes as a statement by the Ramblers early this season and a surprise to Hills and others, particularly after each team opened the season with road wins.

"That surprised us a little," added Hills. "We've got some speed and so there are things that they do that surprise me every time they touch the ball. I didn't think the game would go that Charlevoix quarterback Nate Moon (9) goes through his throwing motion during the first half of Charlevoix's 42-0 loss to rival Boyne City on Friday.

DREW KOCHANNY/NEWS-REVIEW

way, I thought it would be much tighter going down."

A long drive by the Rayders, now 1-1 overall, would open the contest, but a turnover on downs would give the ball to the Ramblers.

On the first play from scrimmage for Boyne, 2-0 overall, Maceo Vroman exploded for a 67 yard touchdown score.

After a three and out for the Rayders, the Ramblers executed a long drive to bring themselves down to the goal line.

Rambler quarterback Max

Cuper would sneak the ball in from one yard out, 14-0 Boyne.

On the ensuing kickoff, Boyne would execute an onside kick, recover and later Rambler tailback Malik Smith would push the ball across for a 25 yard touchdown.

In what looked to be a close game early, the Ramblers had suddenly opened up to a 21-0 lead.

"We were tested early and I thought the kids responded real well. That's kind of what you're hoping to see," said Hills. "What are your kids going to do when someone is standing up to you, and I like the way that they responded."

After Cuper intercepted a pass from his linebacker position, the single caller would finish the turnover off with a 15 yard touchdown pass to Tanner Kruzel on the Ramblers' following first offensive play.

At the Half, Boyne held a 28-0 lead.

Vroman would add touchdown runs of 75 and 5 in the second half, as a running clock and a worn out scoreboard would put an end to the Rayders' night.

Vroman finished the night with four carries, for 157 yards and three scores. Smith added eight carries for 108

CROSS COUNTRY

Rayder boys place third in Mud Run, girls fourth

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It was wet, muddy and in the end, there wouldn't be a dry runner in sight.

Which is exactly how it was planned to be.

The annual Charlevoix Mud Run Cross Country Invitational took place on Saturday, with a number of area teams taking to the swampy course at Charlevoix High School.

For the first time in a long time, the Petoskey cross country teams took part, a decision that paid off for the Northmen, as the boys' team came out with a first place overall finish.

Petoskey finished with a total of 1 hour, 32 minutes and 55 seconds for first place in the overall boys' division, while Harbor Springs took second in 1:37:00, Charlevoix, third, in 1:38:28; Gaylord, fourth, 1:38:35; and Traverse City Central, fifth, in 1:42:33.

Inland Lakes placed sixth, followed by Rogers City, Kalkaska, Cheboygan and Pellston in 10th place.

"The men's team really showed great teamwork today and it helped us with an outstanding effort top to bottom," Petoskey boys' team coach Jim Harrington said. "This is the men's first win at the mud run in long time and I'm really happy for them."

The overall girls' standings went to Traverse City Central in first place with 1:49:31, followed by Gaylord at 1:51:49, Harbor Springs, 1:55:03, Charlevoix, 1:57:21 and Petoskey in fifth at 2:03:28.

Rounding out the top 10, Inland Lakes placed sixth, followed by Rogers City,

"We have a great group of girls who really support each other as individuals and as a team this year," Petoskey girls' team coach Jennifer Bashore-Smith said. "I feel that if our healthy runners keep improving and some of our injured runners are able to come back over the next couple of weeks, we will keep improving and really come into our own as the season progresses."

In the boys' grade 11 and 12 race, Petoskey's Tom Vanslebrouck took first in 17 minutes, 13 seconds, while Harbor's Marcus Gar-

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Over the past few seasons, no two teams have quite battled it out on the soccer field more than the Harbor Springs and Charlevoix boys' teams.

On Thursday in Charlevoix, the Rayders and Rams were back at it for the first time this season, but early, only one team would bring the energy needed for the occasion.

Charlevoix, 6-1 overall, 3-0 in league, rolled to a 5-0 halftime lead, then held on for a 6-2 win over Harbor in their Lake Michigan Conference matchup.

"They came out with a lot of intensity, our boys did," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said. "They know a lot of the guys on the other team. We knew what we had up against us and we wanted to make sure we came out hard."

Defense held tough for both sides of the ball early on a rain-soaked Charlevoix field, but the Rayders would find the back of the net with 25:40 left to play in the first half on a near midfield goal by Kevin Pearl that bounced just right over the head of Harbor keeper Andy Morse.

Walker Drost would get the next two for the Rayders, the first on a bender from just left of the goal, the next on a perfectly placed corner kick off the leg of Davis LaBelle, which Drost headed into the net. With just under 10 minutes to play in the first half, the Rayders had extended their lead to 3-0.

"It was very exciting," added Boss. "The guys came out with a lot of intensity. They just played well. We knew it was going to be a big game."

Christian Matye would get into the action for the Rayders, knocking in a kick that got past Morse, then Drost made it a hat trick before the half, with his third goal assist of Thomas Lynsky.

"They didn't come out with the attitude I wanted to see," Harbor Springs coach Aaron Riley said. "I'm going to yards and James Roherson had six carries for 33 yards.

Boyne City kicker Dalton Gardner would convert on all six point-after attempts.

"We have to figure out, if things don't go our way, we can't go in the doldrums," Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi said. "Football is full of adversity and it's how you respond from that adversity."

The Rayders will have a chance to respond Saturday, as Coleman visits the Rayders for their home opener at 3:30 p.m. at Kipke Stadium.

"We've just got to get it together," added Bindi. "We were on plays, we just don't make the tackle. You can't win when you make mistakes."

Charlevoix quarterback Nate Moon ended the night 10-of-20 passing for 135 yards and one interception. Same Hovie led the Rayders with 37 yards on 12 rushes, while Austin Putman and Will Telgenhof led Charlevoix with 74 and 34 yards, respectively.

After a 2-0 start that includes a 96-0 scoring margin over the first two weeks, it's easy to look at the 96 points and believe the Ramblers offense will keep them in games throughout the year, but it's the defense's zero points allowed that will win them ball games.

"There's some kids out there that are playing at a real high level right now," said Hills. "From a scheme standpoint, we're able to do a lot of things."

The Ramblers collected six sacks against Charlevoix and pulled in three turnovers, led by a linebacker unit of Luke Sage, Cole Butler, Tanner Kruzel and Max Cuper, striking fear in opponents' backfields.

"Luke Sage is a beast inside, he really is," said Hills. "Cole Butler is a beast and Tanner Kruzel, the last two weeks, he's a kid that just makes plays and Max Cuper had a heck of a game on both sides."

Sage led the defense with seven tackles, two sacks and a fumble recovery returned 90 yards, coming up just short of a touchdown.

"Ran out of gas real quick," said Sage with a laugh. "It was a ways."

After a pair of wins over old rivals in the first two weeks, Sage knows that his Ramblers can't let up, as everyone will be aiming to knock off the team at the top, beginning with a road trip to Harbor Springs next Friday night.

"I think everyone else in the conference now has a hit list for us, so we have to be ready for every game," said Sage. "Playing in this new conference, it's win, win, win. We can't let anything down."

Which Boyne is proving to have few problems with at the moment.

The boys' ninth- and 10th-grade race was won by Charlevoix's Luke Buday, in 18:32, followed by Zach Goddard of Gaylord and Jack Hervela, also of Gaylord.

Zach Hunt of Harbor Springs placed fourth, while Dawson Garrison of Bellaire came in fifth.

Harbor Springs boys' team coach Mike Kloss liked what he saw from his group Saturday, while coming away particularly pleased with Hunt.

"Of all the kids, he's probably the most into cross country. He just wants to be really good," Kloss said of Hunt. "As a whole, we just keep on getting better and better."

In the girls' ninth- and 10th-grade race, Shaylee McAuliffe of Traverse City Central placed first in 21:36, while Inland Lakes' Lexi Passino led area runners with a sixth place finish in 22:30 and Harbor Springs' Jill Gretzinger placed 10th, in 23:05.

Also for Petoskey on the day, Jacob Kromm and Garrett Robinson each placed top 10 in the boys' 11 and 12, while Adam Pall and Philipp Schulz were top 10 in the ninth- and 10th-grade boys' race.

The Harbor Springs girls' team was also led on the day by Salix Sampson and Claire Fleming in the 11 and 12 race, each posting top 10 finishes, while Charlotte Cutlip and Kyra LaRue placed within the top 20 in the 11 and 12 race.

For Charlevoix, Nick Plude and Noah Jeakle placed 10th and 12th respectively in the 11 and 12 race, while Lucas Vonlau and Brendan Gregory earned top 20.

The Inland Lakes boys were led by Jacob Drogowski in 13th place in the 11 and 12 race, while Pellston's Garrett Robinson placed ninth.

all the credit to Charlevoix, they came to play and wanted to beat Harbor Springs. It was a learning curve for us, which is all right, it's still early in the season."

The Rains, now 6-2 overall, 1-2 in conference, would find an attitude change at the half, as senior John Bailey found two second half goals, both after Lynsky netted his own, off the assist of Davis, his third of the night.

While it was the Rayders' offensive attack on display throughout the night to the casual fan, Boss came away most impressed with the defense, which held a tough Harbor Springs attack at bay. "We saw that they were scoring a lot of goals so we emphasized on our defense and just trying to shut them down and we were able to do that, especially in the first half, we went in 5-0 at half-time against a team that's been scoring six, seven, eight goals a game," said Boss.

JJ Wachler picked up the win for the Rayders in net, while Morse took the loss for the Rains.

While the intensity of the rivalry failed to show for one half of the game, Boss would expect that the next time the two meet this season, it will be with some added meaningfulness.

"Definitely, and you can only expect it's going to become even more of a rivalry," he said. "It's fun, it's what it's all about and making those memories."

Charlevoix goalkeeper JJ Wachler comes out to make a diving save during the Rayders' 6-2 win over Harbor Springs on Thursday in Charlevoix.

DREW KOCHANNY NEWS REVIEW

These are a few of my favorite things

JEREMY SPEER
SPORTS DIRECTOR

The smell of fall. The mud on my shoes after walking on the same chewed-up piece of sideline as a varsity football team. The sound of pads crunching, bands playing, crowds celebrating. The community- and school-building experience that a Friday night can be.

These are a few of my favorite things.

I would say I missed them, but I haven't been that far away. For those of you who don't know me, I spent seven fun seasons as the sports editor of the Gaylord Herald Times. I was promoted to become the Herald Times editor but I never veered far away. I have really enjoyed mentoring GHT sports editors Matt Wenzel and Brandon Folsom, and have spent time broadcasting games in radio, serving as a public address announcer for a local team and just simply attending games.

But during Friday night's Gaylord against Grayling game, I just walked the sidelines thinking about this column. I talked to fans, coaches and old friends. I really attempted to soak in all that I love about high school sports.

I thought about how excited I am to become the new Northern Michigan Sports Director for the Gaylord Herald Times, Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier. I'm excited to leverage our stable of sports talent to have us be the best print and digital sports team in the region. It's an honor to be leading a collection of such tremendous assets at such respected publications.

I'm excited about building partnerships with local athletic departments, coaches, fans, parents and athletes. These are your sports teams and these are your sports sections. We can't be everywhere and would love to hear your ideas for stories, photos or general improvements. Don't hesitate to let us know about a story you'd like to see or send us a photo you think would look good in the paper. Email me at jspeer@schurz.com and one of our sports staff members will attend to it.

But most of all, I'm excited to be back to a place I never really left, the high school sports scene.

In the following weeks, I'll be using this space to provide analysis, tell stories about and look beyond the box score of Northern Michigan's athletic programs. I'm hoping this column (as well as our print and digital sports sections) will be both entertaining and informative.

Before Friday's game I took a photo of the Pine Slah trophy, given to the winner of the Gaylord-Grayling game annually. I learned during the game that the trophy had almost been thrown out of GHS' trophy case during a routine cleaning last year. Gaylord and Grayling hadn't played since 1996 and the old slah was just collecting dust.

But on Friday, with the hackyard battle between the Blue Devils and Vikings restored, the Pine Slah was the hero. Coach Will Cleaver hoisted it above his head following Gaylord's resounding 35-0 as the players chanted. Those same players ran over to the crowd for a rendition of Gaylord's fight song.

Scenes like this happen almost weekly in the various outposts of sports-loving Northern Michigan. They happen to the tune of the Petoskey Marching Band following another Northmen high victory (which by the way could and would happen this Friday if the Northmen can win a big one against Cadillac). They happen on the picturesque blue-circled field at Boyne City almost every home game. They happen on the tight sidelines of Johannesburg-Lewiston where the home team can literally feel the breath of its excited home base.

There's something magical about sports in small towns. I'm thrilled to jump back in head-first.

Jeremy Speer is Northern Michigan Sports Director for the Petoskey News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times and Charlevoix Courier. Contact him at jspeer@schurz.com.

My name will still be on the November ballot; however, I will not accept the nomination and I will be endorsing and supporting Luther Kurtz as the write-in candidate for First Ward. Luther is presently on the DDA and is a business owner in Charlevoix. I thank my supporters for my years served on the council and would appreciate it if they would now support Luther." —Lyle Gennett

Two official write-in council candidates filed for Nov. election

At least one more expected before Oct. 24 deadline

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — It may be more than six weeks away from the November general election, but write-in candidates are lining up to challenge incumbent Charlevoix City Council members.

As of Wednesday this week, there are two official write-in candidates who filed the necessary paperwork with the city and county clerks. At least one more is expected by week's end.

Mary J. Eveleigh, of the 200-block of East Dixon Avenue, filed to run as a write-in candidate for Charlevoix's Ward 1. For Ward 2, Bill Supernaw, of the 200 block of West Garfield, also filed documents to be a write-in candidate.

Incumbent councilman Lyle Genett, from Ward 1, already publicly rescinded his nomination despite his name appearing on the ballot because his family recently decided to relocate outside city limits for part of the year, which makes him ineligible to continue to serve. So that leaves Eveleigh, who has sought public office within Charlevoix in the past, running as a write-in candidate for the open seat in Ward 1. However, she is expected to be joined in the race by Luther Kurtz, of the 400-block of Michigan Avenue.

Kurtz currently serves on the city's Downtown Development Authority Board and is the co-owner of the Charlevoix Cinema III business. He confirmed Wednesday that his paperwork is expected to be filed with both city and county clerks before this week ends, now that his accountant signed off on the election documents.

Supernaw, a longtime city resident and businessman, filed to run as a write-in candidate against incumbent councilwoman Peggy Brennan, of Ward 2. Brennan first took her seat on the council in February this year, replacing former councilman Greg Stevens, whom moved outside city limits.

So far, incumbent councilman Shane Cole remains unchallenged by any write-in candidate in the Ward 3 race. However, former councilman Gabe Campbell — who retired from the city council in November 2013 by not seeking re-election — now seeks the mayor's office in a race against incumbent Norman Carlson Jr.

City clerk Joyce Golding said potential write-in candidates could continue to materialize in the weeks to come.

"There is still time to submit a write-in declaration," she said.

The deadline to file such required paperwork is at 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24, at city hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

However, Golding said potential write-in candidates also must file documents with the Charlevoix County Clerk's Office, two blocks away at 203 Antrim St., downtown Charlevoix.

St. Marys to share outcome with public; state reminds parkland not local

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Michigan's top state park official said the outcome of a series of behind-closed-door meetings in Charlevoix of a committee created by St. Marys Cement to explore a land swap with the local state park may very well be all for naught.

Ron Olson, parks and recreation division chief for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said officials at the state level are mindful of the happenings here in Charlevoix, the home of Fisherman's Island State Park along the Lake Michigan shoreline. And just because St. Marys Cement spends plenty of money on expert facilitators and hosting dinners at the Wcathervane to convince its self-created "community committee" that a land exchange might benefit Charlevoix, Olson said that doesn't mean state regulators will swallow those arguments, too.

School leaders wait to spend on study

Building assessment to be revisited at work session

SHERI MCWHIRTER O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Local public school leaders opted to wait this week before spending taxpayer dollars for a buildings assessment with somewhat unknown parameters.

Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education on Monday decided to table a decision about whether to award contracts to Clark Construction Company, of Southfield, and GMB Architectural Services, of Holland, to conduct a building assessment in which the companies' proposal documents show an expectation of a future public vote on what could be upwards of a $15 million school buildings bond issue. The board was expected to decide the matter at the Sept. 15 meeting.

"I guess I've got a little bit of a problem with the scope of the project," said Bo Boss, school board member.

Terry Blanchard and Gary Steller, of GMB and Clark, respectively, discussed their building assessment proposal during an Aug. 27 school board work session at the district's administrative office on East St. Mary's Drive. The men did not reappear at the more recent and regularly scheduled school board meeting this week.

Superintendent Bob Gendron explained the building assessment is intended to help the district determine which of its structures is best suited to house kindergarten through sixth-grade classes.

But what school board members said they thought was going to be an approximately $2 million renovation effort seems to now have ballooned

EAST JORDAN

Carving out a niche

Tree stump artist says talent is a "gift"

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

EAST JORDAN — Area artist Bruce Banwell at 36, is passionate about many things he would say: his wife, Lind, say, with whom he is expecting a first child, his youth ministry at New Hope Community Church in Acme, nature and the outdoors — but also his artwork.

And Banwell's art is unique: sculpting natural and whimsical creations out of old tree stumps with a chain saw.

"I grew up with an artistic mom who worked in a floral shop and a father who had a landscaping business and taught me to appreciate the great outdoors. I grew up drawing and painting and spending a lot of time outdoors observing nature," Banwell said about his childhood. "When I was 10 or 11, my grandpa gave me a carving set for Christmas. I still have it and use the carving tools."

He started out carving little wooden spoons and carvatures, and in 2001, during a trip to Alaska, he happened upon some men carving with chain saws. He said, "I can do that!" Then he did, and has been in his free time ever since.

"Carving is a side job,"

Banwell explained. "I am first of all a youth minister for the junior high kids in our church."

But while making his artwork, Banwell uses a trimming chain saw with a dime-tip carving bar which is tapered for detail and made from titanium for the heat that is produced in the process.

"The key to carving is working around the tree from the outside in and seeing it from every angle," he said. "I don't have to sketch it out. I can visualize my sculpture in 3-D."

Banwell considers his talent a God-given gift, he said, adding his clients are amazed and delighted with their one-of-a-kind sculptures. Banwell has carved dragons, alligators, butterflies, a totem pole, and many, many bears. Oh, and an American Indian chief.

But perhaps his favorite, he said, is the recently finished farmer wearing a John Deere hat which he carved for Kim and Calvin Diller, on their South Arm Township farm along M-66 between East Jordan and Ironton.

"We had a couple of trees we had taken down and had previously noticed the sculptures of the bears and the Indian chief in Eastport. We thought a carved farmer would be a unique landmark on our property. It took a year to get him (Banwell) here. We love it," said Kim Diller.

Banwell, who started carving bears just for fun, began to turn out wooden sculptures as gifts for family and friends. But now he maintains a sizeable following thanks to word-of-mouth advertising, and said he will carve anything within reason for his clients.

"I have done maybe 50 in the last 10 years," he said. "Recently, I carved a 17-foot-high totem pole for a client near Ranch Rudolph on the Boardman River. It depicts, from the ground up: a bear, a wolf, a badger, a swan, a dog, and an eagle holding a fish."

A sculpture may cost between $200 and $5,000, depending on the difficulty and details, according to Banwell. His artwork is not mass produced; each piece is unique and carved personally for every client.

School district considers scoreboard dedication

Don Carey commemoration sought by Gridiron Club

SHERI MCWHIRTER-

COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Gridiron Club requested that the Charlevoix Public School Board of Education dedicate the newly installed scoreboard at Kipke Field in honor of longtime Charlevoix coach Don Carey.

School leaders on Monday listened to the request by Rayder Gridiron Club president Patrick Faust.

"Many years of work led up to Don's induction as a member of the first class voted into the Michigan High School Football Coaches Hall of Fame in 1983," Faust said.

Carey was Charlevoix's head football coach from 1955-1985.

Among his many accomplishments are: recognized by the Venetian Festival Committee as a Charlevoix Sports Legend in 2004; career football win/loss record of 133 wins/61 losses/15 ties while coaching in Charlevoix; his 1977 team was undefeated (9-0) and voted No. 1 in the state in Class C by United Press International; voted Regional Class C Coach of the Year in 1977; the 1958 team was undefeated (8-0) and unscored upon, outscoring their opponents 321-0; 1959 team also was undefeated and outscored their opponents 260-19; and, Carey served as head basketball coach in

"Don Carey had a long coaching and teaching career. He cared about his athletes and students. His record speaks for itself. No other coach in the history of Charlevoix has accomplished what he has," Faust said.

Council to host special session for grant application

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council will host a special public hearing at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 23, at city hall downtown. The city already completed the first part of a grant application for an Urgent Need

Community Development Block Grant from the Michigan Economic Development Corporation, specifically for $114,299 in funds to reimburse the city for emergency spending on broken water lines during the 2013-2014 winter. The city must conduct a public hearing and adopt a resolution to complete the grant application process by the Sept. 30 deadline, said Linda Weller, city manager's assistant.

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix boys soccer team planned to participate in a "pink out" fundraiser during the game at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 17, at Kipke Field in Charlevoix.

The team will be wearing pink uniforms in honor of the benefit event to raise funds for both a local family whose mother, Annette Nesburt, now suffers from terminal breast cancer, and also the Circle of Strength Cancer Support Group at Annette and Roger Nesburt have four children, including junior Michael, and freshmen triplets Natalie, Rachel and Danny. Danny plays on the varsity soccer team.

"Please wear pink. The boys will wear pink and we're selling things like bracelets and taking donations," said benefit organizer Mabel Carson, a self-described "Charlevoix soccer mom."

Nuisance property ordinance approved

Council signs off on administrative process over court

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix city leaders on Monday unanimously approved an ordinance amendment to establish a city method to remedy blighted or condemned properties within the city, without having to go to the courthouse.

"This establishes a process to deal with dilapidated, unsafe and structurally unsound buildings," said Mike Spencer, Charlevoix city planner.

Before Monday's public hearing and second reading of the ordinance amendment, no public comments were submitted to city officials about the proposed regulation change, Spencer said.

The idea is to develop a city administrative process to identify such problem properties, work with owners to remedy the issues and if necessary, begin to issue citations for failure to clean up dilapidated buildings.

Charlevoix Township resident John Haggard, who owns properties within the city — including one property on Newman Street that is potentially structurally damaged by a tree — spoke against the proposed ordinance amendment. He said this regulation change within the city will be financially burdensome to city landowners. And that wasn't his only concern.

"You are creating in my opinion, another level of bureaucracy in our community that is not needed," Haggard said.

However, Spencer argued that city officials believe this new administrative process will be less expensive for both city coffers and taxpayers because it circumvents court and legal fees. Spencer will

Coast Guard seeks public comment on St. James Light lens removal

To facilitate public participation, the Coast Guard is inviting the public to comment on the replacement of the Fresnel lens with a LED lantern in the St. James Light in James Harbor, on Beaver Island.

The Coast Guard is proposing to remove the Fourth Order Classical Fresnel lens from St. James Light on Beaver Island and replace it with a modern LED (light emitting diode) lantern.

The Fourth Order Classical lens was originally installed in lighthouses in the late 1800s and early 1900s. The lighthouses were manned by lighthouse keepers and the lenses were meticulously maintained. The lens would be cleaned daily and covered with a light cloth during daylight hours to prevent damage from the sun's ultraviolet rays.

Now, lighthouses are automated and no longer manned and the Coast Guard is removing these lenses to preserve them as part of our nation's history. The lens will be loaned to a local museum for public display.

Comments about the lens removal can be addressed within 30 days of this notice to Wayne Kean, U.S. Coast Guard Civil Engineering Unit, Cleveland, Ohio, by calling (216) 902-6258, or sending email in Wayne.E.Kean@uscg.mil online.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Summer and livin' wasn't easy

Another interesting summer has come and gone. This one was pretty much company free as I lost close to two months of it with acute laryngitis. For someone who thinks they are mildly entertaining, this turned into a long two months. Probably the best summer for my husband ever.

My having laryngitis wasn't stressful enough, so we made the decision to sell our home and move south. This in part due to health issues and my husband's fond memory of shoveling snow off our roof. There are plenty of available homes in our fair town which created a buyer's market. Our home is in a perfect locale, just a bit larger than most individuals want to care for. Some future buyers even queried if we came with the house, a gardener and chef is what they were thinking. I won't share what we thought.

Future home buyers are active in the spring and in the summer. Two seasons that bring out the "let's get something new and different in our lives," which translates into a new dog or a sports car or a home or all three depending on how bad the winter was. Now the chill is already in the air and frost warnings are settling in earlier than usual. With home buyers beginning to hibernate we took a break from the market.

We decided to take on a few projects before the snow arrives. First one up was painting the dining room. As I was holding my paint brush carefully moving it in the up and down stroke I vaguely remembered an episode from the Brady Bunch. It had something to do with teaching the kids how to paint walls. I reminded myself to continue in the same direction and start from the left and move right. Then the phrase "wax on, wax off" echoed in my cerebrum. It's become obvious movies and TV shows have definitely influenced me. I was so proud of my work until our daughter balked that I didn't use a roller. In my previous life I was an art teacher and having

A LOOK AT LIFE

Painted wall-sized murals I felt I needed to explain why I still use a brush instead. "I like the feel of the brush in my hand" I said, "for me, using a roller feels like driving a car in cruise control on freshly fallen snow." Daughter retorts: "It's a control thing."

With moving in mind we had done large amounts of sorting, rearranging and getting rid of things. How did we acquire so much stuff? It's easy and sometimes impulsive and, yes, after 30 years we all acquire more than we actually need. After caring for parents we accumulated parents' stuff which also included some grandparents' stuff. Overwhelmed, I took a break from sorting to quietly re-read "Don't Sweat the Small Stuff" followed by the best seller "How to Simplify Your Life." Our grown children have since picked up most of their various things or we've boxed it up and sent it on to them. Things are moving in a good direction.

Fall is arriving and the house is looking pretty darn good. Venturing to warmer climates is still part of our plan. We've come to the conclusion that wanting to move is a great way to clean a house. So if this winter is as long as they predict, just put the thought of moving into your head and it will help you decide on must keep items and those you can do without. This indoor activity will provide you with lots of fun as you reminisce. It's a way to relax after you're done shoveling the walk, plowing the driveway, clearing the roof and I'll end this right here. I think you've got the picture.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

In the late 1800s, both the Belvedere and Chicago Club resorts established boat clubs for the purpose of holding regattas on Lake Charlevoix. These yachting groups lasted only as long as interest and enthusiasm lasted, then faded, only to be reborn with new names a few years later, sometimes with the inclusion of local residents.

For a while, the sometimes cooperating, sometimes competing, regattas grew to enormous proportions. They attracted participants from around the country and spread out into Lake Michigan with races held all the way to Harbor Springs.

The Chicago Club's 6-meter racing fleet, a portion seen here, was considered to be one of the finest in the United States, and was said to be the largest on fresh water by 1931. Two of its vessels had been made for Scandinavian royalty. The Oslo was made for the crown prince of Sweden in 1923 and the Noreg was built for the crown prince of Norway around the same time. Both won championships for their respective countries and later they represented the United States in international competitions before they came back home to Charlevoix.

SummerFolk Concert Series concludes Sept. 29

CHARLEVOIX — The SummerFolk Concert Series will close on Monday, Sept. 29, with a performance by Sandy Blumenfeld and Sour Mash at 6:30 p.m. at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Sour Mash is a local bluegrass band with an old-time string band and swing flavor. Its six members span several generations and bring multiple musical influences to the mix.

The library will also be celebrating the first concert to enjoy "stage lighting" thanks to a grant from the People Fund/Great Lakes Energy.

The SummerFolk series celebrates local folk artists with an evening of music.

The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45 minute concert, which is followed by an open mic session; an opportunity for the public to share talents.

Open mic sign-up begins at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers.

The library is located in downtown Charlevoix at 220 W. Clinton St. For more information, talk to Dwain at the library, (231) 547-2651.

New class of AmeriCorps members take oaths in Char-Em ISD program

CHARLEVOIX — A new class of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District AmeriCorps members recently took their oath on the 20th anniversary of the nationwide community service program.

The class of nine members swore to "get things done for America" as part of a nationwide ceremony streamed live online. The AmeriCorps program operated by Char-Em ISD is the longest such consecutively running program in Michigan.

This year's class includes: Peg Herlocher, Charnell Bacon, Chelsea Nayback, Donna Waters, Shelly Wochoski, Jonathan Kelly, Derek Clements, Deby Chew and Nat Hebdon.

Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District received an AmeriCorps grant in 1998, resulting in the creation of this school-based literacy coaching program. The grant has been renewed numerous times, and has continued to operate uninterrupted since that time.

During this federal grant period, approximately 10 members will be placed within local elementary schools throughout the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. Members are assigned to specific school sites and are under the day-to-day direction of site supervisors.

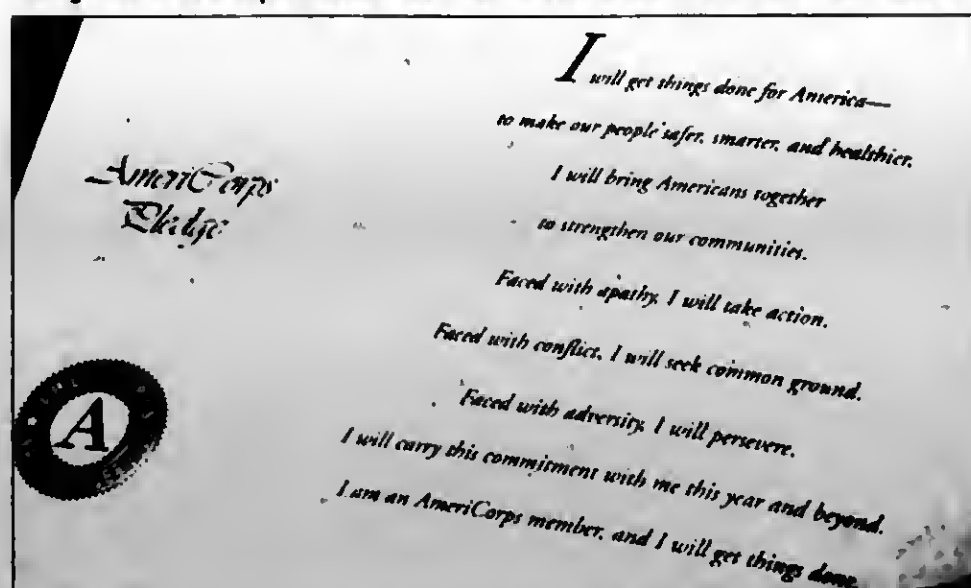

President Barack Obama's participation in the nationwide ceremony underscores the long history of bipartisan presidential support for AmeriCorps, from President George H.W. Bush signing the first national service legislation in 1990, to President Clinton creating AmeriCorps in 1993, to President George W. Bush increasing AmeriCorps by 50 percent after the September 11th attacks.

AmeriCorps members serve at more than 25,000 locations nationwide, strengthening education,

While they serve others, AmeriCorps members expand opportunity for themselves - gaining skills, experience, and education support to help jumpstart their careers. Since 1994, AmeriCorps members have earned more than $2.7 billion in education awards to help pay for college or repay their student loans.

Edwin Ronald Wertman named September Veteran of the Month

BOYNE CITY — The Veteran of the Month for September 2014 is Edwin Ronald Wertman.

Born on Dec. 23, 1929, at home during a snowstorm, in Delton, Mich., Wertman moved with his family, in 1944, to a 240-acre farm on Warner Road, Marion Township in Charlevoix County where he worked as a general farm hand while they farmed and milked a dairy herd. After completing the 11th-grade in the Charlevoix High School, Wertman left school to help work the farm.

On Feb. 2, 1951, Wertman was inducted into the Army and after completing two months basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., he was reassigned to the 6018th Army Service Unit, Station Company, Fort Huachuca, Ariz., serving as a light vehicle driver. On Jan. 7, 1952, Wertman was promoted to private first class and on Feb. 1, 1953, Wertman was released from active duty and transferred to the Enlisted Reserve Corps, Ordnance Control Group, Military District of Michigan, receiving an honorable discharge on Feb. 2, 1958, having completed his military obligation.

Returning home, following his release from active duty, Wertman farmed along with working for Morwell Steel in Ellsworth and the Ellsworth Canning Factory. In 1967, Wertman went to work for the East Jordan Iron Works, in the maintenance department, and on Nov. 6, 1976, he married Nanette Ann Vander Ark, making their home north of East Jordan.

In March of 1993, Wertman retired to enjoy riding his Gold Wing motorcycle, helping veterans through his membership in the Ernest Peterson American Legion Post No. 228 in Boyne City, spending time at their getaway place in Dublin, Mich., and maintaining their properties.

On April 7, 2014, Edwin Ronald Wertman answered the final call and is being honored by his wife, Nan, his children and their families.

To honor a veteran, call the program chairman at (231) 588-6067 or on Tuesdays call (231) 582-7811 between 3:30-8:30 p.m. The ceremony may be witnessed at 6:15 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month in front of The American Legion Post located on the corner of South Lake and Main streets in Boyne City.

Char-Em United Way's school services partnership meeting provides local support

The Charlevoix-Emmet United Way hosted a school services partnership meeting on Sep. 3 at the Char-Em United Way office in Petoskey. The local United Way invited representatives from the Health Department of Northwest Michigan, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Junior Achievement, Camp Daggett, Northern Community Mediation, the Salvation Army and the YMCA to coordinate services and provide as much support as possible to local youth and schools. All of the attendees currently conduct or offer programs in some or all of the schools in the Char-Em ISD service area.

The United Way asserts that by the third grade, a child's grades and absenteeism rate can predict whether he or she will complete high school. When students get into challenging academic and life situations, services offered by community organizations can be the catalyst back to success. One focus area for Char-Em United Way is education, in order to enhance pathways to academic achievement and ultimately build stronger communities.

"We have so many wonderful organizations in our area that have great programs to help students but we are not always aware of the latest developments in each other's services," explained

Lorraine Manary, Char-Em United Way's executive director. "By gathering all the players together, we are trying to more effectively serve our schools. Teachers and Administrators are very busy with day to day demands. So, if we can coordinate our efforts and offer a menu of services, it should help us reach more children and support the schools without adding to their workload."

Each agency in attendance shared the types of programs they are currently offering to area schools, which schools are participating in each program and where the programs are held. A broad range of opportunities in schools were discussed and the programs ranged from in school educational activities and curriculums to health programs to after school mentoring and academic assistance.

The local programs offered are to become organized into one collaborative resource document and then offered to schools.

Anyone interested in more information about the efforts of the school services partnership can contact Lorraine Manary at (231) 487-1006 or inquire by email at info@charemunitedway.org. Visit www.charemunitedway.org for information on all community activities, programs and events of the Char-Em United Way.

OBITUARY

Frances Boal Corrington, 82

Frances Boal Corrington, 82, of Lexington, Va., died Sept. 5, 2014, at her home.

Born Sept. 29, 1931, to the late Ayres and Frances Boal, she spent many happy hours at her family's summer home in Michigan, where she developed a resilient, fearless spirit as she expertly swam and sailed the waters of Lake Charlevoix.

Blessed with a keen intellect, Franny graduated from Wheaton College in Massachusetts with a degree in biology and in 1953, she married her high school sweetheart, Richard Fitch "Dick" Corrington.

In past years, Franny served on a national committee for the Audubon Society re-writing their decent training manual, logged countless hours as a volunteer emergency room patient services coordinator at Stonewall Jackson Hospital, was a founding member of Lime Kiln Theater, sang in the Community Chorus, assisted in productions at the Henry Street Playhouse and was a founding board member and ardent supporter of Project Horizon, a safe haven and shelter for victims of domestic abuse.

For many years, Franny was an avid tennis player and most recently had developed a passion for tournament bridge, where she was an accomplished and formidable competitor. Her interests were varied and her support for her community was generous and far reaching.

In addition to her husband, Franny is survived by her three sons, Richard Fitch "Rick" Corrington Jr., and his wife, Debbie, of Lexington, William Boal "Bill" Corrington of McLean, Va., James Frances "Jimmy" Corrington of Lexington; and one daughter, Frances "Francie" Corrington, of Frankfort, Ky.; two sisters, Lesley Setzler and Ann Ayres Boal, both of Phoenix, Ariz.

A memorial service took place Monday, Sept. 8, at the Lauderdale Presbyterian Church.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be sent in Frances Corrington's memory to Project Horizon at 120 Varner Lane, Lexington, VA 24450.

Pool fundraiser to boogie with barn dance

Sept. 19 event set for Shanahan's Barn

CATHY DEWEY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Swimming supporters will grab their cowboy hats and don western boots to support the Charlevoix Area Community Pool at a benefit called the "Rootin' Tootin' Fundraisin' Hoedown."

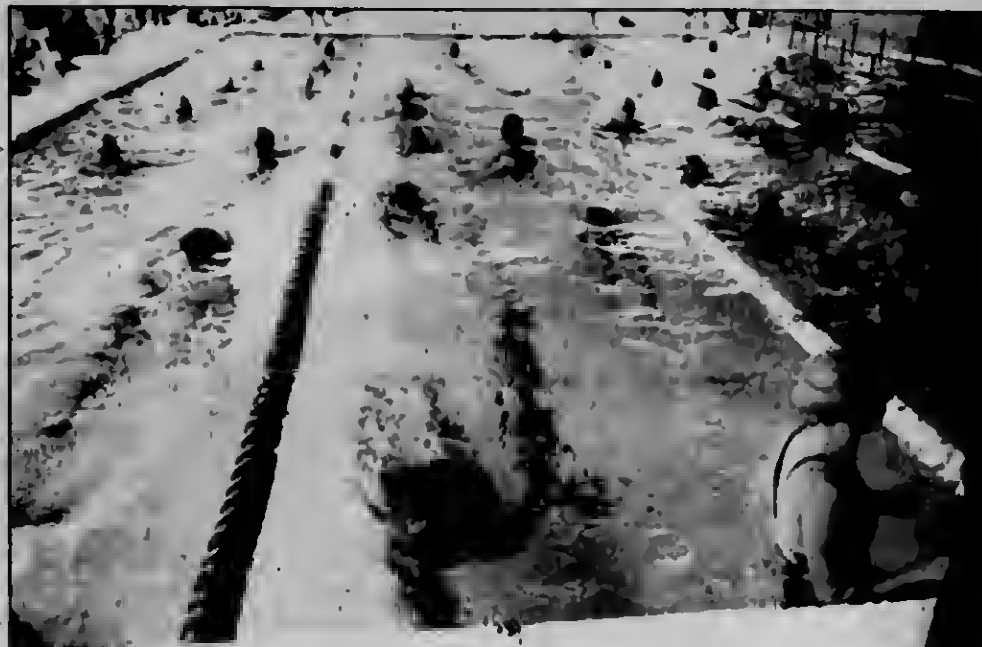

The annual dinner, dance and auction begins at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 19, at Shanahan's Barn at Charlevoix Country Club.

This adults-only, western-themed evening is the 19th annual fundraising event for the pool. It will feature appetizers and barbecue food stations by The Bistro at Charlevoix Country Club and a cash bar. Music from the Horton Creek Bluegrass Band will fill the barn as pool supporters dance the night away.

Participants should be sure to arrive by 6:30 p.m. for the live auction portion of the evening. Some of the great items up for bid in both the live and silent auctions include a Ten Point Crossbow, New York City Broadway excursion, Napa Valley wine tour, local artwork, Traverse City winery tours, jewelry, landscape services, golf, Boyne lift tickets, Boyne spa package, GoPro camera, Lake Charlevoix home rental and much more.

Dollars raised will directly benefit the nonprofit Charlevoix Area Community Pool and will be used for various programs and maintenance. Pool officials said they hope to raise money to repair a leak in the hot tub and replace worn out equipment used in both swim lessons and fitness classes. Additionally, officials want to add wall benches for spectators to have a place to sit. Several schools in the area currently are participating in safety education seminars, and pool officials said they would love to raise enough money to be able to offer this life-saving skills course to all schools.

"We want to extend the reach to other schools and districts, many of which are currently unable to add this program to their curriculum due to budget constraints," said Jean Musilek, pool spokeswoman. "This event is also a great opportunity to grow our swim lesson scholarship funds."

The dress for the event is casual, and participants are encouraged to wear boots, chaps and cowboy hats. Anyone lacking in western apparel can come as they are, since just about everyone has a pair of jeans.

To purchase tickets or for more information on how to support the Charlevoix Area Community Pool, call (231) 547-0982 or visit www.charlevoixpool.org online.

Leadership Charlevoix County announces new class, coordinator

CHARLEVOIX — Leadership Charlevoix County announced its newest class for 2014-2015 in combination with naming its new program coordinator.

The program enters its fourth year as a training experience for community members seeking to play a more active role in leadership within their communities. The program creates community awareness, networking opportunities and focuses on leadership skill development through an educational and hands-on curriculum.

Program graduate Ahhie Hart, of Bay Winds Federal Credit Union in Charlevoix, highly recommends it to others.

"LCC just opened me up to so many things. Not only did it help me reach my original goal, it also opened other, bigger doors for my future both personally and professionally," Hart said.

This year's class is a diverse 17-member group of emerging leaders from a wide variety of backgrounds, locations and industries. The group began its training with an overnight retreat to Beaver Island on

Dream military wedding hosted by Castle Farms

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farms of Charlevoix played host to numerous weddings this summer, but one in particular had special significance. Andi and Dwayne Augur of Pellston, married at the Castle on Friday, Aug. 22, were the winners of Castle Farms' Dream Military Wedding Giveaway contest, co-sponsored by the Castle and local vendors in February 2014. The contest was open to all Northern Michigan couples, with one or both active military or veterans of the United States Armed Forces.

Andi's mother nominated the couple, after their wedding plans were put on hold because of Dwayne's two tours of active duty in Iraq and Afghanistan.

"Neither of us ever thought that we would have the opportunity to get married at such a beautiful venue," Andi said. "We cannot thank Castle Farms enough for giving us that opportunity! We're also grateful to Paul Retherford Photography, Last Tangle Hair Salon, DJ Ryan Rousseau, Pastor Jonathan David Mays, Mackinaw Shuttle Company, Charlevoix Inn and Suites, Thyme Hill Designs,

Band program crescendos

More donated instruments needed to support music pupils

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix band program is in full swing this year and it is growing in popularity among inspiring young musicians in the community.

Band director Gary Stutzman has been busy with his 104 music students who range in age from beginning band members to both middle and high school students who have chosen to demonstrate their musical talents. The increased interest in joining the band and buying a new instrument can be quite costly, so an alternative to buying an instrument or renting one has been implemented this year.

Private donations of used instruments have helped to provide music students the opportunity to try out the instrument which truly interests them. What could have only once been a dream for some students has now become a reality, and helped to generate a new enthusiasm in a Charlevoix tradition of band excellence.

Stutzman took the lead position and worked diligently to ensure his students are able to pursue their musical talents with an instrument that suits their interest. "Several area residents Rayder band director Gary Stutzman asks the public to dig deeper into their closets and attics to find more instruments for the burgeoning school band program. The program especially needs flutes, clarinets, cornets, trumpets and trombones, he said.

looked through their closets and found instruments that had been left behind by their family members and many of those instruments are in use at this time. I am still in need of flutes, clarinets, cornets/trumpets and trombones for my beginning classes," he said. "Any instrument that you find that you may want to make available to our instrumental music program would be very much appreciated."

Providing students with the option to participate in the music program and an instrument to play is the goal under Stutzman's new leadership. He said he seeks to create a strong band program similar to the one in 1979, when there were 430 students in the program from grades 6-12.

Plans are in the works to offer an exploratory hand class for all sixth grade students who would like to discover what band is all about and provide a loaned school-owned instrument to try out before making an investment. Stutzman said he is making great strides to attain enough "loaner" instruments that are in good condition to help further that dream for future generations.

"The administrative support for our band program has been great. We need to continue to move forward with help from our interested adults throughout the community," Stutzman said.

Anyone who would like to donate an instrument or provide a financial donation to help further the Charlevoix Band Program may email gstutzman@rayder.net or call (231) 675-4800 for more information.

Care for your loyal companion

HELP YOUR DOG BE A GOOD NEIGHBOR

There is nothing worse than having to live beside a ferocious dog or an endlessly barking one that's been left alone all day. The ultimate responsibility of dog owners is to have complete control of their pets at all times. Here are three ways to ensure that you have that mastery.

Attach your dog. In many municipalities it is a bylaw that dogs must be attached. Letting your dog run loose is doable only if the yard is fully enclosed; otherwise, you need to attach it when it's outside or walk it on a leash. Naturally, being a good dog owner means that you'd love to see Fido running free and getting all the exercise he needs; if your town doesn't have a leash-free dog park, get together with other dog owners and ask town hall to create one.

Socialize your dog properly. No neighbor wants to live beside a snarling beast that might bite at any time. When Fido is a puppy, expose him to new people, places, and situations. Take an obedience training class together. Remember, you are the boss of your dog. Think about clicker training, which is a non-physically violent way to train a dog to behave appropriately (and do neat tricks).

Provide your dog the environment it needs. Don't leave your dog alone at home all day. The nuisance barking of a lonely dog can be a legitimate cause for complaint by your neighbors. If you work long hours away from home, you will need to find a friend or dog sitter who will be good company for your pet while you're gone.

road assuming we accept this and then figuring out how to make it happen. That is not the case," Olson said.

An expected outcome

St. Marys Cement officials began last year to publicly discuss an exchange of some of its acreage for some state parkland after park users questioned why test drilling occurred in October 2013 along some hiking trails within the state park. Then, a series of public meetings about the land swap concept began in March, spurring widespread community concerns. That resulted in petition drives, an issues-driven Facebook page, public hearings and, in Charlevoix Township, a government resolution standing opposed to any official application for just such a trade.

The state parkland stretches across Charlevoix and Norwood township boundaries.

"We're very aware of the deep concerns, and in my view, that's good. People have passions and they care about the state park and that's great," Olson said.

But from within the company's private committee, it seems dissension also exists. At least, that's what one member said.

"I'm the only one who has said I don't want to swap under any circumstances," said Anne Zukowski.

Zukowski said she is one of nearly two dozen people who regularly gather over a meal in a private room at Stafford's Weathervane in Charlevoix to discuss what the cement company would be willing to pay for throughout the community in order to create an equitable trade. She said the latest discussions are for between $2 million-$5 million in state park upgrades, or not even improvements to Fisherman's Island State Park, but for other projects around town, whatever they may be.

"It's like a bribe and it's just wrong," Zukowski said. "And people need to remember this is a state park, not just a local park."

Olson echoed that very sentiment, nearly word-for-word.

"I must emphasize this is a state park, not a local park," he said.

Zukowski said the company committee's entire process is rather presumptive, and perhaps so are those participating in the group.

to between $10 million and $15 million, according to the companies' proposals.

"I hate to commit to some big project if that's not what we are after," Boss said, adding he is 100-percent supportive of having a study done. He said he just wonders about the scope of such a project.

The building assessment proposal doesn't list a specific amount the district must pay for the work, but instead an hourly rate. However, Gendron said during the meeting that he recommends the board hire the two companies to do the study.

"I believe that if we are going to continue to be fiscally responsible, we need to have a building assessment completed. They will do a building assessment for no money up front," Gendron said. "There is always the risk if we do not move forward with

"They want to have the facade of community support," she said. "St. Marys thinks these people are representing the community and I'm the only one there who doesn't think they are representing the community."

Despite that, St. Marys Cement's hired meeting facilitator, Bill McGinnis from Milwaukee, will again fly in to direct what is expected to be the last of the company's committee meetings at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 1, once again at the Weather-vane restaurant in downtown Charlevoix.

Another member of the company committee, Bill Gnodtke of Norwood Township, said it's worth remembering that "it's not over."

"It's really been an interesting dialogue," he said. "It's just getting people to talk about what they might be interested in." Some ideas include hike paths, upgraded campsites, a shower house, a different entrance road, and more, Gnodtke said.

"We're a long way from any recommendation, though."

Both Gnodtke and Zukowski confirmed the group is meant to reach some sort of consensus, or at least develop a report of the various opinions and land swap options generated from within the company's committee. The report, or white paper, is meant to be distributed to the public and press.

Company officials said

Courtney Schmidt is the current point person for the company's committee and he could not be reached for confirmation of such a final report, despite repeated efforts. Likewise, McGinnis also could not be reached, despite repeated efforts.

However, in July, McGinnis explained why this company committee must be conducted without an audience or media allowed to observe, beyond it being a group organized by a private company not beholden to state or federal Open Meetings Act or Freedom of Information Act regulations.

"There is so much material to get through, we want to be able to control the emotion in the room and who is talking at any given time," McGinnis said. "It can make it more difficult for the people participating to concentrate."

Examples of distractions he gave includes witnesses going to the bathroom or noise from mobile phones.

"There is a tremendous amount of information and ideas ... we have to get through in a reasonable amount of time," McGinnis said, further arguing that the meetings are private, but not secret.

Next steps

As St. Marys Cement's Dirk Cox explained in his presentations to city and township officials in March, the goal of the company's committee would be to identify the real issues surrounding this land swap concept, challenge all assumptions about the situation, and conceive practical solutions. An issue paper is expected to be distributed.

But for now, there is nothing on the books, Olson confirmed.

With many proposed state land exchanges, officials within the DNR do all of their investigations into property deed restrictions, geography, topography, stewardship and various other elements to be considered, then decide whether to accept the deal or not. Then finally officials take public comments or host public hearings on the matter before rendering a decision.

Not in this case, Olson said.

"This is different than somebody with a power line easement or something," he said. "In a case like this, we would have a public meeting to allow public input."

Olson further confirmed state-sponsored public hearings would not be scheduled after the fact, but as part of any decision-making process regarding any Fisherman's Island State Park land exchange proposal, should one ever be filed by St. Marys Cement or otherwise.

What the public should be aware of, Olson said, is the pending state park management plan update scheduled to begin for Fisherman's Island State Park within the next 10 months, or so. It's something done for each and every state park in Michigan on a rotational basis, and now it's Fisherman's Island's turn.

The idea is to explore what officials might do to make the state park better for those whom use the parkland.

"It's rustic. Is that good? Or should we add rustic cabins, yurts, or a shower facility?" Olson said.

And the public gets to have input on that process, too. There will be an online survey, a website designated for the specific park management plan, a stakeholder input meeting and a public input open house, according to DNR guidelines.

That process comes first, Olson said.

"We wouldn't do anything — no matter whether (St. Marys Cement) submitted a land exchange proposal — until that management plan is updated," Olson said.

And until then?

The public is always welcomed in comment on issues that impact Michigan State Parks, Olson said. In fact, his office already receives written comments, emails and telephone calls from citizens concerned about Fisherman's Island State Park's future.

Olson said he doesn't expect that to change anytime soon.

a bond issue as a result of the assessment or we fail to pass a bond, we have some cost for the assessment. I think it is a calculated risk that we must take considering there is a bond coming off the books in 2015."

The idea is to potentially seek voter approval of a new school buildings bond repayment tax that will pick up where the last one left off, keeping the school tax rate flat for property owners within the district, officials said.

To make the May 2015 election hallut, such a bond issue must be sorted out and paperwork filed in October. Should the district not make that deadline, the August 2015 election would be the next opportunity.

School board member Valerie Snyder questioned what exactly the district would be "on the hook for" if they opted not to go forward with seeking voter approval of a bond issue once the companies completed their assessment. She said she remains confused between what was stated at the August work session and what she read within the companies' submitted documents.

School board member Dick Joseph, also the board vice-president, agreed with Snyder. He said the consultants ensured the board how the district would have no costs if they didn't go forward with a bond issue, but their contracts don't make those same assurances.

"Sounds like we need to put some parameters on this thing," Gendron said.

The school board agreed by consensus to revisit this issue at the next board work session, which has not yet been scheduled.

Board president Kevin Pearsall requested that both Blanchard and Steller be in attendance at that work session to answer questions from the board.

Bounce back: Charlevoix battles through adversity to score home win against Coleman

BRIAN BLISS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix football team bounced back in a big way Saturday with a 30-21 victory against previously unbeaten Coleman in a roller coaster game that featured plenty of highs and lows.

After struggling mightily in last week's 42-0 loss to Boyne City, Charlevoix responded in a positive manner.

"We talked about adversity a lot of different times and that's the difference between being a good team and a poor team is how you respond to that adversity," said Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi.

Saturday's game wasn't without adversity of its own as Coleman (2-0) scored a touchdown three minutes into the game, leaving some to wonder if a repeat of last week would follow.

True to coach Bindi's words, the Rayders (2-1) came roaring back the following possession, led by the dangerous 1-2 rushing attack of senior Sam Hovie and junior Justin Adkins. Hovie took a pitch to the right side of the field and found daylight, turning on the afterburners to reach the 3-yard-line. Adkins followed the long play with the Rayders' first touchdown.

With the Comets once again driving the field, sophomore Malcolm Williams busted through the line for a sack on 4th and 20, giving Charlevoix's offense a chance to take the lead.

"We brought up a sophomore, Malcolm Williams, to play off that corner," Bindi said. "Being a sophomore, we brought him up just for this week to see what he could do and he really ignited a lot of the kids."

"We talked about adversity a lot of different times and that's the difference between being a good team and a poor team is how you respond to that adversity."

— Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi

With momentum on the side of the Rayders, they once again turned to Hovie to lead them down the field. Hovie responded, breaking multiple tackles on his way to the Comet's three yard line. However, the Rayders failed to punch the ball in the end zone on four straight attempts, giving the ball back to Coleman, who proceeded to run for a 99 yard touchdown through the heart of the defense.

Adversity reared its head once again but Bindi was confident that a week's worth of strong practices would prevent a repeat result of the Boyne City game.

"We hit this week and we gave up some big plays that we need to take care of, but we saw a lot of good things and we were aggressive so I was pretty happy about that," Bindi said. "We're starting to believe in ourselves and starting to come through and doing the right things."

A 15-6 deficit that saw the Comets putting together another solid drive was all the adversity the Rayders wanted to deal with. A gaping hole in the Charlevoix's defense defense left junior defensive back Ben Boss as the only defender between the Comet running back and pay dirt. Boss fought off a block while simultaneously hitting the ball carrier and causing a fumble.

Then, the Charlevoix offense got to work as the combination of a long Hovie run and an Adkins touchdown brought the Rayders to within one point.

Rayders JV football dominates Relentless offense leads to 85-6 win over Coleman

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix's junior varsity football team matched against the Coleman Comets on Saturday afternoon, and came out with a 85-6 win.

The Rayders defeated the Comets with a relentless attack on offense, along with a shutdown defense to fuel them to victory.

"The team came out ready to play," said Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger. "We returned the opening kickoff for a touchdown and the team never let up. This was a game where our team totally dominated Coleman in every phase of the game."

The game started out with a bang when sophomore Jomar Williams returned the opening kickoff 98 yards to the house to give the Rayders an early 8-0 lead after the point conversion. That return was one of the two Williams had on the day. He returned a kickoff later in the game for 74 yards and a touchdown.

Sophomore Jared McLean led the Rayders offense on the ground with 105 yards rushing on 10 attempts.

NOAH CERTA/COURIER

Along with that came four touchdowns for McLean. Sophomore Brad Klinger completed two passes for 49 yards and two touchdowns. Klinger also ran the ball six times for 66 yards and a touchdown.

Coach Klinger gave kudos to his defense and special teams units on their play.

"The defense scored two touchdowns and had a safety. The special teams scored two touchdowns on interceptions," he said.

Williams led the defense with six tackles and a sack. McLean, Alden and Seese all had interceptions, as well. The defense forced a total of four turnovers.

"This effort is credit to work ethic and preparation of this group of young men. They just love to play football and are a very aggressive group," Klinger said.

The team's next game is at home against the Grayling Vikings, set for kick-off at 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 18, at Kipke Field in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix's Christian Matye booted in two penalty kick goals for the Rayders in a 3-2 Lake Michigan Conference win against Elk Rapids on Monday. Matye also added a penalty kick goal on Friday in a 2-1 win over Harbor Light Christian.

ELK RAPIDS — Capitalizing in the clutch.

Open opportunities don't come knocking too often in big games, but when they do, you've got to be able to capitalize.

The Charlevoix boys' soccer team did just that, as they converted on a pair of penalty kick opportunities in their Lake Michigan Conference meeting with Elk Rapids, while beating the Elks 3-2.

"We were able to capitalize on the opportunities that we had, we left some out on the field, but the big thing was we capitalized when we needed to," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said.

The Rayders, now 10-3 overall, scored their first goal of the night 10 minutes into the game, as Davis Labelle found Walker Drost for a header, making it a 1-0 lead early for the Rayders.

The first penalty kick opportunity for the Rayders came off the leg of Christian Matye, who booted his chance to the back of the Elks' net, making it a 2-0 game at the end of the first half, but Boss knew that Elk Rapids wouldn't be finished just yet.

"Elk came out strong and we knew that they would down on their home field," he said.

Tough battle expected Sept. 19 in Grayling GRAYLING — The Charlevoix football team challenged itself in non-conference play, taking on four straight 2013 playoff squads.

The Rayders look to move to 3-1 in those games with another tough battle Friday, Sept. 19, at Grayling.

These rivals from the Lake Michigan Conference are in different divisions in the new Northern Michigan Football Conference, but Friday's game figures to be a win both teams need in order to put themselves into playoff contention.

Charlevoix (2-1) has lost five straight to Grayling (1-2), but is coming off a big 39-21 victory against previously unbeaten Coleman Saturday.

Justin Adkins and Sam Hovie each had two touchdowns for Charlevoix, while Nate Moon connected with Austin Putman on a pair of scoring strikes.

Hovie led a balanced attack with 192 rushing yards while Moon was 7-of-14 passing for 129 yards.

Grayling opened Northern Michigan Football Conference I action last week with a 15-7 loss to Maple City Glen Lake. Under coach Tim Sanchez, the Vikings have been an ultra successful outfit, making the playoffs five straight seasons. In three of those seasons, Grayling won a playoff game.

Charlevoix opens Northern Michigan Football Conference II action Friday, Sept. 26 at home against Suttons Bay.

gave Charlevoix all the momentum they would need. Turning to an efficient air attack, senior quarterback Nate Moon tossed a couple of accurate throws, capped by a 27 yard touchdown pass to junior tight end Austin Putman. Charlevoix took a 21-15 lead into the locker room.

The Rayders came out firing in the second half, dominating the Comets with big hits on both sides of the ball.

"We ran hard and I thought my biggest thing was being physical. In practice we hit a lot better this week and it showed on the field," Bindi said.

After hustling a couple long runs in the first half, Hovie hauled his way through multiple Comet defenders on his way to a 4-yard touchdown, giving the Rayders a 27-15 lead.

An energized defense started swarming to the football, and Moon showed off an accurate arm with a long pass to Boss, setting up a second touchdown pitch and catch to the reliable Putman.

Another touchdown run by Hovie gave the Rayders a 39-15 lead in the fourth quarter that sealed the game.

Though only three Rayder players scored touchdowns on the afternoon, Bindi thought the whole team was well deserving of recognition.

"I'm a big believer in it being all about the team and being a team win," he said. "I'm not worried about who the best is or individual accomplishments, I just try to preach team, team, team to the players."

The Comets were a confident bunch, coming into the game with two blowout victories to start the season, but Bindi had a lot of confidence in his players as well as a little extra incentive coaching against Coleman.

"They are a 2-0 ballclub and I thought that we would be able to play with some good hallclubs this year," Bindi said. "And also, I used to coach there a long time ago and that's where I first started coaching so I was pretty fired up to play against them."

Though the Rayders were

The Elks, 4-8-1 overall, picked up a goal early in the second half to make it a 2-1 game, then the Rayders tightened up their defense, which proved to be huge for the Rayders.

Drost found a breakaway midway through the second half, finding himself one-on-one with the Elks' keeper, where he took a slide tackle while trying to score.

Matye again came in for the Rayders to add his second goal on a penalty opportunity.

In the final minutes of the game, the Elks picked up another goal, but it was too little too late for the Elks.

"We knew it was going to be a tough game and they stepped up to the challenge," Boss said of his players. "It was a huge conference game for us."

Boss acknowledged Kevin Peal and Ryan Job as having outstanding games on the defensive end, while JJ Wachler picked up the win in goal for the Rayders.

"JJ had a couple of really big saves for us," added Boss. "He really helped minimize their momentum shift."

On Friday, the Rayders earned a 2-1 win over Harbor Light Christian academy, as Christian Matye added another penalty kick goal in the win and Drost booted in a goal, as well.

Alex Redman scored for the Swordsmen making it a 1-1 game at the half at the time.

"They kept us running, but our defense kept us in the game," said Harbor Light coach Pat Collins.

Wachler also earned the win in net for the Rayders, while Lucas Matthews took the loss for Harbor Light, who fell to 5-1 overall.

The Rayders will next play at Kipke Field in Charlevoix on Wednesday, Sept. 17, as they host Sault Ste. Marie.

POP WARNER

Results from Sept. 6

CHARLEVOIX — Both Charlevoix Pop Warner teams were in action on Saturday, Sept. 6, at Kipke Field.

The Pee Wee Rayders opened up the season with an impressive 20-7 win over Central Lake. Running back Isaak Moorar led touchdown runs of 30 and 40 yards to pace the scoring attack while quarterback Max Ostrum rounded out the scoring with a 60-yard touchdown. Rayder defense was led by Ostrum, who forced one fumble and recovered another. Dimitri Bell and Will Glass played close to the ball and Max Dixon had a fumble recovery for the team.

The Midget Rayders lost a hard-fought, 20-7 game to Harbor Springs I. Running back Jacob Snyder scored the lone touchdown for the Rayders on a one-yard push up the middle. Running back Luke Snyder had several runs of five yards or more for the offense. Defensive featured Tony Illenden as he recorded an interception while Jacob Snyder, Tyler Ostrum and Phillip Sterrett made repeated tackles.

Both Rayder teams planned to be back in action on Saturday, Sept. 13, in Harbor Springs. The Pee Wees will be pitted against Harbor Springs and the Midgets will take on Harbor Springs II.

VOLLEYBALL

Rayders end long layoff with tri-meet wins

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — It had been nearly a two-week layoff since the Charlevoix volleyball team took to the courts of Northern Michigan, but Thursday, they would return.

After a delay to start their match, of course.

When the technical difficulties in the East Jordan High School gym would be resolved, the Rayders would get back to what they've done the past two seasons under head coach Audra Randall, win.

Charlevoix came out with a pair of three set wins in their Lake Michigan Conference tri-meet at East Jordan over the Red Devils and Kalkaska.

The Rayders, now 9-2 overall, 4-1 in the Lake Michigan Conference, came out with a 25-18 win over Kalkaska in the first set, then added wins of 25-15 and 25-14, to come out with the game over the Blazers.

In their second match against East Jordan, the Rayders took the first set, 25-12, the second, 25-23 and the third, 25-15. "It got a little messy against East Jordan in that second game, but they've had a long break and I think they did a good job," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "They played as a team. They spread the ball around."

The variety of attack plays around the court for impressed Randall.

"That was our real goal for tonight," she said. "Not to have it isolate it to one strong hitter, but actually spread the ball around offensively. I think the girls did a nice job with that."

Maddie Boss led the Rayders with 32 kills, 14 digs and two aces on the night, while Gloria Greene had 26 assists, 14 kills and three aces. Emily Zahawa added 13 kills and five digs.

"We did a nice job with serve receive, very proud of the girls," said Randall. "They did phenomenal with that. That's something that we worked on in this down time that we had and serving was greatly improved from the last two outings that we had, so some good improvements."

Olivia Storm led the Rayders in serving, going 100 percent from the serve line, while adding 27 assists. Hannah Zipp brought in three kills and two aces. Yogi Hang had 14 digs. Alexis Trihfelner had 10 digs and five aces and Sophie Lynskey had five kills.

While the Rayders may be glad to have come off a long break, time off will be something they'll lack in the near future, beginning this weekend.

"Tomorrow we're heading out for an overnight, playing at Northwood University for a big tournament," said Randall. "So we're starting back up."

The Rayders will also feature matches at Traverse City St. Francis on Thursday, Sept. 18 and conclude the week in hosting their own Charlevoix Invite on Saturday, Sept. 20.

Rayders earn third place at invite

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

MIDLAND — Whether they're at home or on the road this season, the Charlevoix volleyball team has had little trouble finding success.

That continued on Saturday, as they traveled to the Northwood University Invitational in Midland, where they earned a first place finish in their silver bracket and a third place finish overall among a number of teams in attendance.

Now 12-3-2 overall on the season, the Rayders earned their wins and their respect against teams they've never played before, with a lineup short on a number of key players, which showed in a split with Hesperia in their first match.

"Opening against Hesperia we were unsure and getting use to a whole new rotation, but during our off time we worked on it and got the girls comfortable with the new rotation," said Rayder coach Audra Randall. "Some girls took on different roles than they were use to."

Charlevoix took a 25-23 win in the first match, then fell 25-23 in the second of their silver bracket.

Also in the silver bracket, the Rayders earned a win over Harrison with matches of 26-11 and 25-16, then split with Marquette in their third matchup, falling 25-22, then winning 25-14.

Winning their first match against the Redmen, Marquette gained the momentum back late to grab the win, but Randall came away impressed with her girls' response in game two.

"A loss of momentum, was a loss of that game," said Randall. "I was proud of the girls for coming back so strong in the second set with a strong win 25-14."

In their final silver bracket match, the Rayders took losses of 25-18 and 25-15 against Uhly.

Moving on to the semi-finals, Charlevoix earned a win over Reese, 25-15 and 25-14 to respond once again from the Uhly loss, then in their finals matchup with Hesperia, who the Rayders opened silver play with, they came away with a win of 25-11 and 25-13.

The pair of wins late earned the Rayders the third place finish.

Since the founding of our nation, the role of newspapers in our democracy has been constant. We have been, and will continue to be, the eyes and ears of America. How Do I Know If I Need My Hearing Tested?

People often ask me how they should know if they need to have their hearing tested. Many times I have replied by asking "How do you know you didn't hear something if you never heard it?" It is not always obvious to a person with hearing loss that they are not understanding or not hearing what people say to them. Do you ever feel like people mumble a lot? Is your television too loud or do you struggle hearing on the telephone? Do you feel like you cannot hear people talking when there is a lot of background noise? Do you isolate from social situations because you can't understand what is being said? Do friends or family actually tell you that you can't hear them? If you answered yes to any of these questions you should consider having a complete hearing evaluation performed by a licensed audiologist.

Charlevoix outdoor dining rules delivered to council

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Garry Thao isn't yet sure whether he will invest in and set up an outdoor dining area on the sidewalk in front of his downtown Charlevoix restaurant, Asian Fusion, something which may be a legal option next year.

"I think it's a good idea," Thao said, specifically about using outdoor dining to create a more welcoming downtown Charlevoix atmosphere.

"We're thinking about it, and we won't mind. But I don't know if we'll do it yet," Thao said.

Charlevoix city leaders will soon decide whether to establish new rules within the city's code book to permit downtown businesses to set up outdoor eating areas, something allowed in other Michigan cities, such as Traverse City and Ann Arbor. The city's Downtown Development Authority board on Monday unanimously signed off on the proposed rules and forwarded them on to City Council to consider in October.

The idea is to create attractive spaces throughout the downtown and increase business owners' opportunities to increase revenue for those who prefer to eat al fresco. The city gets a boost in sidewalk café permit fees, as well.

"I think it will work, but for us it depends on the space," Thao said. "We'll have to see how much footage we could use and other things."

The agreed upon rules include: chairs must face north and south only; tables and chairs must not be plastic and instead be dark-colored wood or metal; tables and chairs must remain a certain distance from the Bridge Street curb, likely to be set at one or two feet; solid color umbrellas will be permitted and would preferably be forest green; tables and chairs must remain within a well-defined and clearly marked area incorporating live vegetation; no 90-degree angled solid barriers will be allowed; a minimum $1 million insurance policy will be required by participating businesses;

City audit shows healthy finances

Comfortable fund balance, but depreciation takes a bite

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL

CHARLEVOIX — It seems Charlevoix city government collectively spends a bit more than it receives in some places, but overall came out about $311,000 better off than last year, according to the city's recent 2013-2014 financial audit.

Audit supervisor Jason Kelly, of the Rehmann Rohson company, recently discussed the audit with city leaders and pointed out where financial improvements can be made to city policies. Following his presentation on Sept. 15, Charlevoix City Council members unanimously voted to accept and place on file the finalized audit report.

New study reveals 40 percent of Michigan households can't afford basic needs

JORDAN SPENCE
NEWS WRITER

A study recently released by the Michigan Association of United Ways shows about half of Michigan households struggle to make ends meet.

The study is called ALICE, an acronym which stands for Asset Limited, Income Constrained, Employed. This is described as, "the population of individuals and families who are working, but are unable to afford the basic necessities of housing, food, child care, health care, and transportation."

The report shows there are 930,503 ALICE households in Michigan, which accounts for 24 percent of the population. Sixty percent, or 2,281,536 households, live at or about the ALICE threshold and 16 percent, or 605,210 households, live at or below poverty levels. Added together, 40 percent of Michigan households live below the ALICE threshold.

"What really pops up is the magnitude of need," said Nancy Lindman, director of public policy and partnerships for the Michigan Association of United Ways. "Forty percent of Michigan's population do not have enough resources to balance their budget and make ends meet for the very basics. We've had a very good feel for poverty levels in areas. But we had no idea about how these families were struggling."

Both Emmet and Charlevoix counties have 38 percent of their households living at or below the ALICE threshold.

The study equates these levels to two factors — high cost of living and lack of high-paying jobs.

According to the study for a family of four in Michigan to afford basic needs such as housing, child care, food and transportation, the annual total combined salary for the two adults in the home should be $50,345.

For an Emmet County family of four, the two adults would need to make a

See Northern Michigan gems on Breezeway fall cruise

Designated route touches Atwood, Ellsworth, East Jordan, Boyne Falls

ERICA RAKOWICZ
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — The annual Breezeway fall cruise organized by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce runs for three consecutive Saturdays beginning Sept. 27 and continuing on Oct. 4 and Oct. 11.

"This is the sixth annual so you know we're doing something right," said Mary Faculak, president of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

The Breezeway, extending from Atwood to Ellsworth to East Jordan to Boyne Falls, provides a rural ride through Northern Michigan.

The cruise, which is self-guided, consists of a trip sheet that's provided by the staff at Royal Farms in Atwood from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., along with a goodie bag that contains coupons, lists of specials, tokens and goodies from participating businesses and maps to get you across the Breezeway.

"Participants proceed at their own pace, stopping where they want to," Faculak said.

There are pumpkin patches, corn mazes, places to eat and shop, artist galleries, the Jordan River Arts Council, Raven Hill Discovery Center and communities along the Breezeway inviting participants to stop by and visit. In addition, there are nature preserves along the Breezeway, if people wish to hike or observe the trails of Northern Michigan.

Participants are invited to kayak, canoe, hike the pathways and much more during the Breezeway fall cruise.

"The other cool thing is two labyrinths are on the Breezeway. That's pretty cool. I don't think anybody can say that," Faculak said. Also along the Breezeway are golf courses, for those interested in stopping to play a few holes.

"There truly is something for everyone — that's the beauty of this day," Faculak said.

Families are also able to receive a free ticket for a Boyne Mountain chair lift on that day.

The event used to run one weekend only, but last year's cruise was so well received that Faculak found it beneficial to extend the opportunity.

Part-time Lake Charlevoix resident publishes football book

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Launching the publishing of his new book, "Bo's Warriors," Frank Lieberman recently made a weekend stop in Charlevoix for a family reunion on his way downstate to Grand Rapids, Ann Arbor and Detroit.

Lieberman is in the process of embarking on a book-signing tour which launched last week in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, home of former University of Michigan and Cleveland Browns football star Thom Darden. Darden is one of several profiled players featured in the inspirational account of the rise to football coaching fame of the legendary Bo Schembechler. It is the story of an extraordinary coach and his players, and how they put pride back into the long-standing U of M football tradition in one season.

For 20 years, in the late 1960s and 1970s, Schembechler led the University of Michigan Wolverines to greatness. The story began in 1969, Schembechler's first year coaching at Michigan. In the last scheduled game of the season, Schembechler defeated Michigan's longtime archrival, Ohio State University coached by Woody Hayes.

"The '69 OSU game was the culmination of 11 months of skillful strategy engineered by a master, to be executed by a team of players who were not his ... That victory was a masterpiece that we appreciate even more today," said Fritz Seyferth of the experience of being on the roster of that team.

He learned that Schembechler was a no-nonsense, "my way or the highway" kind of coach but also came to know that his demeanor, while not evoking fond feelings, was part of his tough love methodology. As the Wolverines became more and more victorious, team loyalty to this man and to each other grew.

"Mental toughness," the theme of Lieberman's account of Schembechler's first year as the university's coach, runs through the remembrances of each of the players and one assistant coach who bare their sentiments in a play-by-play manner, including Frank Guschik, Thom Darden, Jim Bradstatter, Fritz Seyferth, Coach Gary Moeller, Mike Keller, Tom Curtis, Jim Betts, Reggie McKenzie and Dan Dierdorf. They were carefully interviewed by the author to focus on that quality which drew them together, made them endure, and led them to be, not only victorious on the field, but in their life after football.

Bo's Michigan teams won or shared the Big Ten title 13 times and made 10 Rose Bowl appearances. These young men did what they did for their coach, but they accomplished it by learning to respect and depend on each other as they had been taught by their coach.

Although the book focuses on Bo Schembechler, each chapter of "Bo's Warriors" is the in-depth personal story of each one of his "warriors," what drew him to the game, what he learned about himself and teamwork, and how he regarded his coach. Reading about their lives is like following the ball as it is kicked and passed down the field during a game to a successful conclusion.

Lieberman said he knows a lot about mental toughness, as he attributes that quality to the accomplishments he realized in his own life. Growing up in Detroit as a young boy, Lieberman read stories about football and listened to games on the radio. He attended the University of Detroit on a football scholarship after showing talent in his high school career.

Lieberman received a master's degree from University of Michigan and a doctoral degree from Wayne State University. His love for football and a friendship with one of his chapter subjects, Michigan defensive end and linebacker Mike Keller, inspired him to want to write a book about football, focusing on Michigan players. The resulting "Bo's Warriors" is an achievement that embodies the mantra Lieberman said he lives by: fulfilling dreams through determination, practice and discipline, never giving up and staying positive.

Lieberman is a psychologist, author, television producer and talk show host. He has published another book entitled "It Has Nothing to Do with Age."

Lieberman has five children and seven grandchildren. He and his wife reside in the Sierra Nevadas in Northern California, and maintain connections with family members here around Lake Charlevoix, he said.

Democrat takes on Charlevoix County's longest serving sitting commissioner

CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — Two incumbents on Charlevoix County's board of commissioners were unseated by challengers last month in the primary election and now Wilson Township's Tim LaCroix hopes to score a third such victory in November's general election.

For LaCroix, a victory would mean knocking off the board's longest serving sitting member in Ron Reinhardt, also a Wilson Township resident. Reinhardt has served on the board for the last 12 years.

Add in that LaCroix is running as a Democrat against the Republican Reinhardt in a district that has long supported GOP candidates and LaCroix readily admits he's the underdog. But to those that question his legitimacy as a candidate, LaCroix tells them his party affiliation won't define how he governs.

"I run into that a lot when I go door-to-door," LaCroix said. "I am sick of the party labels. I'm running as a Democrat but I'm very much a moderate."

LaCroix

Voters in Charlevoix County's 3rd District, which includes Wilson, Boyne Valley, Hudson and Chandler townships, will choose between LaCroix and Reinhardt when they go to the polls Tuesday, Nov. 4.

As a longtime farmer, Reinhardt believes it is his agricultural background that has kept him in the voters' favor for more than a decade

Man with 9 drunken driving convictions sent to prison

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A judge has sentenced a Charlevoix man with nine drunken driving convictions on his record to spend at least the next 29 months in prison.

On Friday, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Keith Allen Jones, 45, to serve 29 months to five years in prison after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, third or subsequent offense.

According to a news release from Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen

Jones

Telgenhof, Jones' drunken driving convictions go back to 1987.

Assistant prosecutor Katrina Martin noted that Jones has charges pending elsewhere in Michigan and in Louisiana. This was Jones' first drunken driving conviction in Charlevoix County.

According to the release, at the sentencing hearing, Martin, who prosecutes all of the driving offenses in Charlevoix County, emphasized the need for the court to protect the public from Jones' behavior and requested that Jones receive the maximum sentence possible under the Michigan Sentencing Guidelines. Judge Pajtas agreed and sentenced Jones at the top end of the 14 to 29 months minimum sentence guideline range.

City officials should stick to city business only

Dear Editor:
Up until 1994, the city of Charlevoix had a rule that possibly all employees especially city of Charlevoix officials had to reside in Charlevoix city limits on living.

According to the city manager's office, this date (1994), the Residency Rule was changed to include only the city manager unless waived.

The Charlevoix City Council waived residency for Robert Strachel and the new city treasurer, Joe Zielinski, resides outside city limits.

It seems to me that all opinions and words spoken by especially any city of Charlevoix official should be limited to city of Charlevoix official business without any personal comment.

If a city of Charlevoix official does not like the above suggestion, they can move to the city of Charlevoix and vote with the rest of us.

Sincerely,
C. Marilyn Gibbons,

LOOKING BACK...

In 1899, the Federal Revenue Cutter Service came to Charlevoix and erected a warehouse and wharf on the northeast side of the upper channel leading into Pine Lake (renamed Lake Charlevoix in 1926). In 1915, after the service merged with the U.S. Life Saving Service to form the U.S. Coast Guard, the area became known as Coast Guard Moorings.

Since then, maintenance of the Great Lakes navigational aids has been one of its primary functions. Often, the entire wharf would be lined with buoys of all shapes and sizes brought in for repair, renovation and upkeep. They were usually brought in during the winter when the maritime lanes were icebound.

The buoy in the foreground was brought down to Charlevoix from Stony Point, in Minnesota, near Duluth on Lake Superior. Stony Point is considered to be the finest freshwater surfing spot in the country, where the winds gather to whip the lake into a fury that generates huge waves. Unfortunately, the best of the waves are generated during the late fall and winter months when only the hardest, or the foolhardest, surfers go out to challenge them.

Small town story

In the summer of 1956, Floy Edson had a bookstore in her home at 107 Park Ave. here in Charlevoix. The bookstore was in the front room. She rented out two sleeping rooms at the back for $8 per week each. I rented one of those rooms for the summer. Miss Edson, which was what I and many others called her (the product of her many years in a classroom), had been on the faculty at Western Michigan University and remembered multitudes of her former students.

I worked for the summer at the grocery store owned and operated by Gordon and Bob Neff. Bob learned that I was studying plants in college and felt I was a fine choice to run the produce section, even though my retail grocery experience was nil. Why was I in Charlevoix? You could blame Sharon. We had met almost three years earlier, during a summer when I worked at Fred and Irene DeCastro's Ship-Shape Motel, before a hitch in the U.S. Navy. I stopped in Charlevoix on my way home to Minnesota from Florida. Sharon and I had corresponded fervently since that time. I was in love and wanted to spend the summer with Sharon. The job and the rented room were simple necessities — Sharon's parents seemed happy with my presence and provided a lot of evening meals.

Breakfast was at the Sugar Bowl Restaurant, work was at Neff Brother's, and evenings were spent with Sharon, whenever possible.

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

The result was that I often returned to Miss Edson's rented room quite late.

No one could have suggested that Floy Edson did not keep track of her renters. She was intensely aware of my comings and goings. Charlevoix is a small town.

One of Miss Edson's good friends was Sharon's grandmother, and one day over the weekly Canasta game, Miss Edson confided to Sharon's grandmother, Ruth, that she was concerned for my moral character. She had noted that I often returned to 107 Park Ave. at near 2 in the morning, and she knew that the bars closed about that time. Ruth's response was that Miss Edson should not worry, because I was spending all those evenings and late nights with Sharon.

Miss Edson was much relieved, knowing that I was in good hands.

How those people and presumably many more knew so much about me was a little disconcerting at first. Then I realized that such widely known information served to relieve community anxiety better than any government program.

Like I said, Charlevoix is a small town, and we should probably appreciate that.

BOYNE CITY

Another round of tours at Wolverine-Dilworth

Encore historical preservation program scheduled

BOYNE CITY — On June 28, the Charlevoix County History Preservation Society presented its fourth history series event of 2014: "The Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel — The History & the Vision."

The event took place in the community room of the Boyne District Library. More than 200 people turned out and many were turned away as the room was already filled beyond capacity.

As a result of the high volume of interest, an encore presentation will take place beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27, at the Boyne Area Senior Center, 411 E. Division St. in Boyne City. This program is free and open to the public.

Historian Boh Morgridge will present a PowerPoint presentation on the history of the Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel offering a unique glimpse at some of the highlights of the hotel's first 100 years. Owner Bob Grove will share his vision for the preservation of the hotel and, as in June, he agreed to allow guided tours of the hotel following the program from 2:30-5 p.m.

Charlevoix County History Preservation Society members, led by family history researcher Patrick McCleary, will also remain at the Senior Center until 5 p.m. to scan photos and other memorabilia, as well as record memories and oral histories from anyone wishing to share what they remember about the hotel.

Charlevoix County History Preservation Society encourages anyone with an interest in this historic landmark to make contact with the Wolverine-Dilworth research team and share their knowledge about the building, photographs, former owners or employees, stories, etc. Sharing them will assist in the creation of a fully documented history of the building and all contributions will be fully credited to the contributing party.

Contact and inquiries may be made by sending email to thewolverinedilworth@charter.net or in writing to: The Wolverine-Dilworth Project, c/o Patrick McCleary, 2500 Liegl Drive, Alanson, MI 49706.

Anyone with questions about the program on Saturday, Sept. 27, should call Georganna at (231) 582-5326.

Library hosts FLOW session on water, shoreline preservation

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library will host a session by For the Love of Water (FLOW), a nonprofit organization working to ensure the Great Lakes are protected now and for future generations by establishing the Great Lakes as a commons.

The group uses past precedent of public spaces and common resources as an example or basis for recognizing the Great Lakes and its shorelines as a public trust. Liz Kirkwood, executive director of FLOW, will highlight the Great Lakes public trust policy work on the live pipeline under the Straits of Mackinac, model township ordinances to address the impacts of fracking, nutrient pollution and dead zones.

"A Vision for the Great Lakes in the 21st century" is the name of the presentation, which will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the library in Charlevoix.

More information about FLOW is at www.flowforwater.org online.

Three area residents among 104 selected for second CMU medical class

CHARLEVOIX — Three Charlevoix County residents are among the 104 students welcomed recently in the second class of the Central Michigan University College of Medicine.

From Charlevoix County is Roberta Elaina Molter, of Charlevoix, and both David Kramp and Sara Robinson, of East Jordan.

At 104 students, this second CMU medical class is larger than the inaugural class of 64 scholars, and it was selected from 3,007 applicants. Ninety percent of the incoming students have ties to the state of Michigan.

Classes started Aug. 11 for the incoming students. Medical students in the College of Medicine undergo a specially designed, rigorous curriculum of team-based learning and problem-solving that includes early clinical experiences. Third- and fourth-year students will be based in primary care practices, with many of them learning and serving in Saginaw at Covenant Health-Care or St. Mary's of Michigan.

A $25 million, 46,000-square-foot College of Medicine educational facility is under construction on the Covenant Health-Care campus in Saginaw.

Construction will be complete by May 2015, in time for the inaugural students' third year of study.

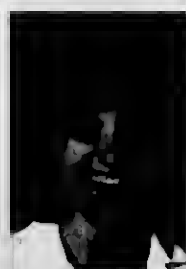

The CMU College of Medicine is the nation's 137th medical school, created to address an anticipated shortage of 4,000 to 6,000 physicians in Michigan by 2020.

Pleasant, plans at 11 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 15, to host a "Quiz Central" competition between Charlevoix and Boyne City, said Courtney

Area blood drives upcoming

EAST JORDAN — The American Red Cross will host a blood drive from noon-5:45 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7, at the East Jordan Civic Center, 101 Civic Center Lane in downtown East Jordan.

A second blood drive will be from noon-5:45 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9, at St. Luke's Catholic Church, 3038 S. M-88 in Bellaire. Call the American Red Cross at (800) 733-2767 to schedule an appointment at either of these blood drives, or others across Northern Michigan communities.

The Great Lakes Blood Services Region serves 65 counties and needs to collect about 650 units of blood a day to meet patient need in hospitals.

In addition to supplying about 40 percent of the nation's blood, the American Red Cross teaches lifesaving skills, provides international humanitarian aid, and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a charitable organization — not a government agency — and depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

Castle Farms to host Harvest Festival

Charlevoix business event includes tours, fun and food

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farm will host its second annual Harvest Festival from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. on Sunday, Sept. 28, 5052 M-66 North, Charlevoix.

The event launched in response to the growing popularity of the region beyond the summer season for both visitors and residents, officials said.

"The chamber welcomes events like the Castle Farms Harvest Fest," said Alison Hubbard, president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. "Community events like these, held in our shoulder season, encourage guests to stay beyond the event to shop, dine and further explore the Charlevoix area. A win-win for all."

The harvest-themed event has family-friendly appeal for all ages. Horse-drawn wagon rides, face painting, arts and crafts, and games and prizes are for the younger children. Popular magician Magik Mike will entertain with tricks and fire spinning performances, and Darrell Christie Photography will provide a photo booth.

Doughnuts and cider will be provided for festivalgoers, and those with bigger appetites can purchase pizza and sandwiches from the BC Pizza vendors. A miniature farmers market will sell homemade items from area producers, including maple syrup and caramel popcorn.

Castle Farms events planner Charlynn McBee expects approximately 200 visitors during the festival, double the attendance from last year.

"This time of year is very family oriented and is a preview to the bigger holidays to come," she said. "It's a great way to enjoy a fun-filled day together."

This year, participants also have full access to the Castle buildings, grounds and gardens, as well as the special events specific to the festival. Admission tickets are $10.

"This is really a great deal for families and individuals," McBee said. "A castle tour on its own is $10, so this doubles the opportunities and the fun."

Festival-goers who prefer a guided historical tour can do so for an additional $2 per person. Tours begin at 2 p.m. and festival tickets can be purchased at the site or in advance at www.castlefarms.com online.

The Financial Future Series includes three consecutive Tuesday sessions this October. The College Planning Seminar will kick off the series at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7.

The workshop is designed to give an overview of the college planning process, including tips on how to get started. All participants will go home with a booklet and a life organization system.

The final session, arranged by Ben Muladore from Edward Jones and Robert Tyler from Prudential, will be at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21. The meeting will focus on Social Security planning. Doctors advise get a flu shot now

RACHEL BROUGHAM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

Ready or not, here it comes.

While there have been no confirmed reports of influenza yet in Michigan, health officials say it's on its way. And the sooner you get a flu shot, the better.

"We started flu testing a week and a half ago because of enterovirus 68," said Karen DenBesten, an infectious disease doctor and chair of the infection disease prevention department at McLaren Northern Michigan. "Some of the activity we've seen is because of that heightened activity."

While the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, along with the Michigan Department of Community Health have confirmed no cases in Michigan, flu activity is expected to pick up in the coming weeks before hitting its peak in December. January and February.

Employees at McLaren will be vaccinated against the virus in the coming weeks, and DenBesten noted that the earlier people get a flu shot, the better off they'll be.

"It takes about two weeks for full immunity," she said. "Just because Michigan says there are no confirmed reports doesn't mean it's not here this early. There is sporadic activity out there."

The CDC recommends a yearly flu vaccine for everyone 6 months of age and older as the first and most important step in protecting against this serious disease. While there are many different flu viruses, the seasonal flu vaccine is designed to protect against the top three or four flu viruses that research indicates will cause the most illness during the flu season. People should begin getting vaccinated soon after flu vaccine becomes available, ideally by October, to ensure that as many people as possible are protected before flu season begins.

In addition to getting vaccinated, you can take everyday preventive steps such as staying away from sick people and washing your hands to reduce the spread of germs. If you are sick with flu, stay home from work or school to prevent spreading flu to others.

"The flu is a serious illness, especially for infants and older people," DenBesten said. "Last year we were seeing mortality in younger people and teenagers so everyone should get the vaccine this year."

"People say, 'I had the flu' or 'I never get the flu' but when you get the flu, you're quite ill," she added.

While there is an injection vaccine, there's also a nasal spray that is available for those as young as 2 years of age. DenBesten said that's a great way to get the vaccine to children and provides excellent immunity. Children between 6 months and 8 years of age may need two doses of flu vaccine to be fully protected from flu. Your child's health care provider can tell you whether two doses are recommended for your child. Children younger than 6 months are at higher risk of serious flu complications, but are too young to get a flu vaccine. Because children younger than 6 months cannot get a vaccine, but are at high risk for serious flu-related complications, safeguarding them from flu is especially important.

"The best way to prevent the flu is to get a vaccination which is completely safe. You might get a sore arm," DenBesten said. "Another way is to practice really good hand hygiene, avoid touching your face, and eyes after you handle something like a grocery cart or a common area."

Also, doctors advise people to not go to work when they're sick, and kids should stay home when they have symptoms. Also, make sure to wipe down common surfaces, such as table tops, shared phones and keyboards and things that come in contact with many hands throughout the day.

Flu vaccines are offered by many doctor's offices, clinics, health departments, pharmacies and college health centers, as well as by many employers, and even by some schools. Even if you don't have a regular doctor or nurse, you can get a flu vaccine somewhere else, such as a health department, pharmacy, urgent care clinic, and often your school, college health center, or work.

The website, www.flu.gov shows places where the flu vaccine is available where you live.

Officials request state refund

Charlevoix council hosts public hearing, submits grant application

SHERRI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Last winter was literally one for the record books and Charlevoix city officials are trying to recoup some resulting emergency spending via state grant programs.

"We don't have to remind anyone we had an extremely tough and cold winter," said Rob Straebel, city manager.

Among the most visible issue with the perpetual sub-freezing conditions remained the city's request for residents to continuously run a stream of water in order to prevent water lines from freezing. But despite those efforts, freeze they did at more than 90 spots throughout Charlevoix.

City treasurer Joe Zielinski said $228,000 in emergency spending collectively came from city coffers for the highly visible State Street project and other in-town water main freezes, breaks and subsequent repairs during the most frigid time of the Northern Michigan winter. That included labor, water line replacement and road fixes at the end, he said.

But now, about $114,000 is available to the city government — half the cost of the emergency repairs — through a Michigan Community Development Block Grant program specifically earmarked for the recent deep freeze.

"From what I understand, we will be eligible for up to this amount," Zielinski said.

Straebel said the state grant will help reimburse the city for already completed repairs to water lines that froze last winter, not any new projects or expenses for the coming winter.

"This is contingent upon them approving part two of our application," he said.

Charlevoix City Council members all gathered at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 23, to host a state-mandated public hearing about the grant, followed by their unanimous approval of a resolution needed for the second part of the application.

The only members of the public who attended the hearing were city employees, journalists and two city residents seeking a spot on the council via a write-in campaign in the November general election, Mary Eveleigh and Luther Kurtz, both of Ward 1.

Gov. Rick Snyder declared a state of emergency April 17 for Marquette County and then on May 7 amended the declaration to include Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Delta, Emmet, Gogebie, Luce and Mackinac counties.

The declaration of emergency makes each of those jurisdictions eligible for financial assistance distributed under the state emergency management plan.

Across Northern Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, about $7.5 million is expected to be dispersed to local communities that endured increased spending necessary to survive the 2013-2014 winter. While state leaders have indicated how much money they will make available to various communities, the funds won't be transferred until specific documentation of cold weather-related damage is submitted and projects are approved.

Zielinski said this block grant program also will allow the city to further seek out more grant programs designed to be reimbursements for other emergency spending associated with last winter.

Downtown officials commission mural artist, Main Street program pushed forward

SHERRI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Downtown Charlevoix leaders unanimously agreed Monday to commission mural artist Katherine Larson to create a more than $10,000 display on the northern brick wall along Clinton Street at Central Drug Store.

Larson's proposed five-panel mural is estimated to cost the city $10,750, precisely $4,750 over the budget the downtown board established for the project in prior public conversations. Officials opted to split the cost of the public art project over the current and coming fiscal year, since their preferred art installation was so far beyond budget.

"We did feel this mural would give the downtown the best bang for our buck, and the two extra panels were worth the cost," said Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic and downtown development authority director.

"We wanted something people felt they could be a part of and we felt she best incorporated that."

Larson also submitted a less expensive, three-panel mural installation, but the special committee to select an artistic design for the public artwork chose the bigger project, instead. Other artists to submit a design for consideration includes Candace Klooster-Speck and Glenn Wolff.

The special committee for this public art project included Pearson, Dave Miles from the Charlevoix Historical Society, Amanda Wilkin from the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, John Ochs from Central Drug Store, and Bob Klein from the Charlevoix Circle of Arts.

Board member Kirby Dipert said on Monday that he has concerns about whether the mural, which is designed to stretch all the way to the ground along the downtown pharmacy's exterior brick wall, will stand up to harsh winter weather conditions, including snow removal activities and the spreading of salt.

"I'm also concerned about the increased costs," Dipert said.

Pearson suggested the DDA board could split the cost of the mural, which is supported with a $3,300 grant from the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, between this year's budget and next year's budget. The board members discussed whether that would be a prudent decision, though.

"Well, I think we should split it over two fiscal years," said board member Hugh Mason.

Pearson said the city has so far raised about $1,200 toward the project, in addition to the grant dollars from the state agency.

"We could pay for the entire thing this year if we wanted to, but we'd have to make some cuts in expenses," Pearson said.

Dipert and the other board members didn't decide to fund the entire project up front, though.

"It would be nice to know the money is there to cover what we are committing to," he said.

Ultimately, the DDA board unanimously voted to commission Larson for the artwork and only pay a deposit toward the project this year, with the remainder of the cost to come from next year's budget.

City officials had until Oct. 14 to contract an artist for a mural installation, which will happen in spring 2015.

Also, the board members unanimously agreed to approve a resolution required to apply for the next level in the statewide Michigan Main Street program.

"I'm feeling pretty confident about where we are on Main Street," Pearson said.

It seems only one other community in the state applied to step up to the select level within the state program — Port Huron.

"It's no guarantee, but it does seem to make our chances all the better," Pearson said.

The Michigan Main Street program is meant to support and promote downtowns and traditional commercial neighborhood districts in participating communities across the state. It uses a community-driven, comprehensive strategy that encourages economic development through historic preservation. Local volunteers receive technical assistance to help build partnerships among stakeholders. Goals include environmentally sustainable redevelopment, integration of cultural assets, entrepreneurial development and downtown living.

in what is the largest in terms of land space and most rural of Charlevoix County's six districts. Reinhardt said he's also worked to keep roads throughout the county in good condition with the help of voter-approved millages. In the coming year, he's pushing to make Deer Lake Road at the southern end of the county one of the next road repair projects for the county road commission to complete.

"Deer Lake Road in my opinion right now is the worst road in the county of the primary roads," Reinhardt said.

Next year, the county is also expected to start work on a 15-mile non-motorized trail that eventually will connect Boyne City to Charlevoix. While Reinhardt has voted several times in support of the trail's development, he said he's concerned about ongoing costs to maintain it. The county expects to pay for the trail's construction with grant funding, but county commissioners have noted any future costs associated with maintenance are likely coming out of their general fund.

In a move supported by Reinhardt, the board voted to put a separate parks millage on the November ballot, giving voters a chance to weigh in on how their tax money should be spent. The idea, Reinhardt notes, is to lower the county's operational millage by an equal amount if the parks millage passes, creating a separate fund for parks and recreation projects without raising taxes on residents.

"I am very much in favor of that," Reinhardt said. "It allows people in Charlevoix County to determine more or less how much money they want to allocate to parks and recreation."

LaCroix said he agrees that ongoing costs associated with the trail are an issue, but when it comes to residents of the 3rd District he's not hearing much support for the parks millage with the non-motorized trail not running through any of the communities.

"The people in the outlying townships, they're not going to see any benefit from that," LaCroix said.

LaCroix, who is executive director of the Harbor Springs-Shores Loan Fund, said if he's elected he wants to improve the role of the commissioner as a liaison between the county and local governments in the district.

"The role is defined but I think we can do more. I don't think we should just put ourselves in this box," LaCroix said. "Going to all the township meetings is not required, but I think it's the prudent thing to do."

treating it as a normal vandalism incident.

"Unless we get anything more on it, there have been no acts of violence in the area and no other verbal or written attempts to display this sign," Doan said.

Busk believes the signs were painted "under the cover of darkness" late Saturday or early Sunday. The last person left the building around 6 p.m. Saturday night, according to Busk, who returned around midday Sunday.

The office, which will serve as campaign headquarters for Charlevoix County Democrats until the Nov. 4 election, opened Saturday, Sept. 13, with a kickoff event. Busk said activities at the office have been typical compared to prior years and she is uncertain if the vandalism was a targeted attack based on the recent opening.

Busk said there have been problems during recent elections with roadside campaign signs going missing, but she couldn't remember any ever being defaced in this manner.

"I don't think anything like this has happened before," she said.

and, no advertising will be permitted on the sidewalk tables or umbrellas beyond typical menus.

Vi Keller, owner of Scovies Gourmet, said she does not expect to change her already established summertime outdoor dining area which already is allowed because she owns part of the paved sidewalk immediately next to the building. Others don't have that option, though.

Also according to the proposed new outdoor dining rules, downtown restaurants can on a case-by-case basis expand outdoor seating beyond their storefront boundaries with written permission of neighboring businesses. However, the area cannot stretch beyond the limits of the storefronts of the immediately adjacent businesses on either side. That means an eatery can provide outdoor seating in an area up to three full storefronts, but only if both next-door neighbors grant permission and officials approve.

"We're hoping to have this program up and running by

The owners and operators of downtown Charlevoix restaurants, such as Asian Fusion, can decide to participate next year in an outdoor dining program intended to lease sidewalk space to businesses for al fresco service to patrons.

April 1, 2015," said Bethany Pearson, Charlevoix's economic and downtown development director.

City planner Mike Spencer and city manager Roh Straebel are meant to enforce the rules, with appeals permitted to the Charlevoix outdoor dining committee, which will remain intact and will re-convene if any such appeals materialize.

Downtown businesses that receive approval must pay a one-time $250 license fee for the permitted outdoor dining season from April 1 to Oct. 31, according to the proposed regulations. The re-up license fee would run $200 every subsequent year after that.

Kirby Dipert, a member of the city's downtown development authority board, questioned why the city proposes flat fees for businesses to lease sidewalk space, rather than charging by the square foot, or per tabletop, etc.

"The fees were really intended just to cover staff time," Spencer said. He further explained how the new rules and fees will in future apply to all businesses with outdoor seating, even those which already have tables and chairs outside and flush with the buildings — like Scovies — should the rules be adopted by city council members.

Finally, not only must businesses receive a city permit for outdoor dining on the sidewalk, permission also is required from the Michigan Department of Transportation because Bridge Street also is U.S. 31. If alcohol will be served outdoors, an additional license also will be required from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

Charlevoix City Council potentially could discuss this issue at its next regularly scheduled meeting, which is set to begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 6, at city hall, 210 State St. downtown.

AUDIT

sidered financially healthy for a city Charlevoix's size is for a general fund balance that equates to between 10-25 percent of one year's expenditures. The numbers are far better than that in Charlevoix, he said. "The end fund balance of the general fund is $1,144,863, which is 34 percent of one year's expenditures," Kelly said. "It's not below the 10 percent, so that's good, obviously."

But there are places to make improvements.

According to a city memorandum made available to the council and public, auditors noted a lack of an internal control structure and accompanying procedures with the Mount McSautha Ski Hill operations, evidenced by an insufficient audit trail for revenue collections. Auditors suggest to remedy this problem the city develop a way to better document daily sales volume and season pass sales, perhaps even using pre-numbered tickets.

Another place with big overall losses — at least by the books — is the city marina.

The audit reports how "marina activities negatively impacted the city's net position by approximately $424,000." But it's not that the marina doesn't make money, Kelly said.

"The decrease in the marina is largely related to depreciation of expenses of approximately $658,000," he said.

Take out that depreciation figure, Kelly said, and the marina earned an increase in net position by more than $230,000.

Alas, depreciation is part of proper accounting policies, earning the approaching half-million decrease, instead.

What's additionally worth noting is how the city's water utility also lost value through depreciation this year. However, the city's electric and sewage disposal funds made a collective $547,000 increase in net position over last year's balances, according to the financial audit.

total of $26.79 an hour. A family of that size would need total hourly earnings of $25.15 in Charlevoix County.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, there was job growth in 2012. Yet, 63 percent of the jobs pay less than $20 per hour, most between $10-15 per hour.

Michigan is among the first states in the country to perform this study, which began with New Jersey in 2011. The information is based on data from 2012. The Michigan study was authored out of Rutgers University.

"It's a great way to learn about our communities and have hard data," Lindman said. "We saw this as a tool as a way to engage to policy makers and business people and better way of understanding, so they could come together collectively to discuss what their goals are for local communities. Bring people together to come up with solutions."

Who needs a $15 minimum wage?

JORDAN SPENCE
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

Earlier this month, protesters in Detroit and other parts of the country walked off their fast food jobs in order to push the concept of a $15 minimum wage. Northern Michigan has yet to have these kinds of acts, but it doesn't mean workers aren't affected with financial burdens.

In the recently released ALICE (Asset Limited, Income Constrained, Employed) study by the Michigan United Way, in order to meet basic needs, a household of four in Michigan needs to collectively make $25.17 an hour. A single adult needs to make $8.41 an hour. These wages only cover such as food, housing, transportation and health care. The bare-minimum doesn't leave anything left over for savings.

In Emmet County, a single adult needs to make $16.825 and a family of four must make $53,584. In Charlevoix those numbers are, $17,830 for a single adult and $50,292 for a family of four. In comparison, the 2012 U.S. poverty designation was $23,050 for a family of four and $11,170 for a single adult as an economic survival standard in Michigan.

Lorraine Manary, the executive director of the Char-Em United Way, said these ALICE families are one financial crisis away from living in poverty.

"I look at the water and the beautiful homes in our area and I think that's why it's hard for people in this community to realize ALICE households struggle," she said. "They don't qualify for support but they are barely getting by and have little to no extra income."

For people in Northern Michigan, the $15 minimum wage increase would have a significant impact on their budget, said Jeff Doubles-tein, budget and housing counselor with the Northwest Michigan Community Action Agency.

He said the most important factor should be what a living wage means from community to community. He added a living wage is completely different in Brooklyn, New York, than it is here.

"It's a good question to ask in relation to ALICE," he said. "From my own experience, the seasonal workers, workers at the big box stores — they aren't going to that $25 an hour. I see people who are ALICE. They are earning good money and still running into money problems. Sometimes they're working two part-time jobs, but, they're at the bottom end of the ALICE spectrum."

He said the protesting workers are being realistic about what they need.

"I would still struggle quite a bit (making minimum wage). Add things like fuel and having a commute, that just crushes the budget," he said. "A lot of family units have both people working and factor day care, and if someone loses their job it's very difficult for them. It throws their budget into crisis."

He questions what will be done if the minimum wage isn't raised.

"If the minimum wage won't be raised to something more viable, something has to be done to make housing costs and other basic needs more accessible."

Manary said this new report will be used to spearhead community discussions in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. She said she also hopes legislators take a close look at the data, when they create policies and bills.

Rayders still looking for consistency after Grayling loss

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

GRAYLING — It's been a tale of two seasons for the Charlevoix football team. Friday's matchup and eventual loss for the Rayders in a 45-8 non-conference defeat against Grayling made proof of that.

Now 2-2 overall on the season and yet to play a Northern Michigan Football League II game, the Rayders have traded a win for a loss in the first four weeks of the season.

"We knew it was going to be a real tough game, but when you don't do the things that you're suppose to do and don't want to play solid football, you're not going to win," said Charlevoix football coach Ron Bindi. "All the good things that we did the week before, we didn't see them this week."

To start, it wouldn't be all bad for the Rayders, as they actually held an 8-6 lead, matched the Vikings' opening drive score with one of their own, as quarterback Nate Moon found Austin Putman for a 58 yard pass and catch for a score.

The Rayders would give up another two scores to the Vikings before the half, making it a 19-8, respectable game at the half.

Grayling would then open the second half with another score, coming on their first play of the second half pushing the lead and the Rayders will.

"We blew a lot of coverages," said Bindi. "They threw the ball all over but we blew coverages that we didn't blow the week before. We knew what they were going to run. We just didn't play good football."

The Vikings' no-huddle offense, led by quarterback Cam Summers, threw for 300 yards and five scores, completing 13-of-24 passes.

FILE
Rayder quarterback Nate Moon helped lead the Rayders to a 2-2 start, but will be counted upon even more so as Charlevoix begins conference play on Friday against Suttons Bay.

Moon led Charlevoix with 8-of-13 completions, for 81 yards, a score and three interceptions, with Putman as the leading receiver, with three grabs for 69 yards.

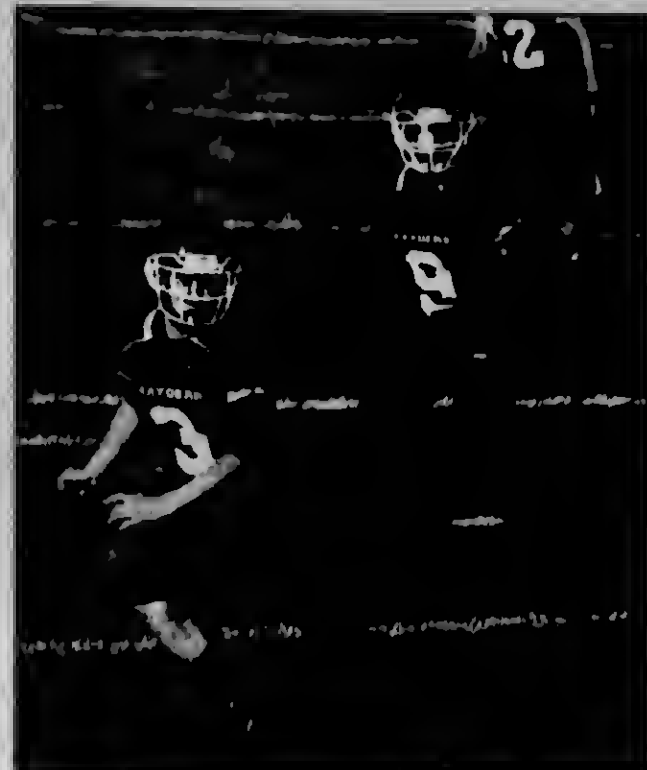

Sam Hovie had eight carries for 42 yards on the ground, with Will Telgenhof adding three carries for 48 yards and Ben Boss, six rushes for 43 yards.

The Rayders next will welcome Suttons Bay, 3-1, 2-0, in their first Northern Michigan Football League matchup on Friday, Sept. 26, at Kipke Field in Charlevoix.

"Now we start our conference schedule up, so hopefully we can get some people back and get healthy and try to make a go of it," added Bindi. "The conference is going to be rough, but it just depends which team for us shows up."

FILE
Ben Boss and the Rayders will look for more consistent play as they begin Northern Michigan Football League II play this week, welcoming Suttons Bay to Kipke Field in Charlevoix on Friday.

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Rayders and the Grayling Vikings junior varsity football teams played each other on a beautiful Thursday night at Kipke Field. The Rayders started out fast, en route to a 49-6 victory over the Vikings.

With yet another game filled with offensive production, and a ferocious defense, the Vikings were no match for the Rayders.

"The guys are really starting to blossom into a great football team," said Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger. "Each week we are seeing improvement in execution. An area of great improvement is how aggressive and physical all the players are becoming."

The Rayders opened the scoring Thursday night with a 59-yard touchdown run by sophomore Jomar Williams. Williams finished the game with 188 yards rushing on seven attempts and four touchdowns.

Sophomore Brad Klinger gained 96 yards on four attempts. The rushing attack gained a total of 412 yards for the game. Klinger also threw a touchdown pass to sophomore Camden Alden who took it 72 yards to the house. Sophomores Jared McLean and Tyler McCallum each had rushing touchdowns.

"Offensively, we had over 500 yards on offense," Klinger said. "All of the offensive linemen that were in the game did a great job. The linemen are freshmen Jake Cox, Colin Davis, Jacob Petroskey, Kyle Balch, Justin Bond, Carson Whitley, Garrett Seese, Cam Musick and Ray Cunningham, along with sophomores Joe McCraney and Jake Mitchell opened up large holes for our running backs who all had big days with Jomar Williams having a huge day."

CHARLEVOIX — Defining success.

On Wednesday, Sept. 17, at Kipke Field in Charlevoix, the Rayders boys' soccer team hosted a "pink out" fundraiser, where they wore pink uniforms against Sault Ste. Marie in support of one local family and also the Circle of Strength Cancer Support Group at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

En route to the Rayders and the town's support, Charlevoix would win their non-conference matchup over the Blue Devils, in an 8-0 mercy in the second half.

"It was just overall an all around good community event," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said. "There were a lot of people there tonight, more than the normal soccer game, for sure. Hopefully it was a good fundraiser."

Walker Drost scored three first half goals for the Rayders, with assists coming from Christian Matye, Graham Kroon and Cameron Clark, while Davis Labelle and Wess Crandell added two other goals for the Rayders in the first half, as they led 5-0 at the end of the first half.

BOYNE CITY —

Charlevoix assistant coach Wade Werth was worried that his team looked listless before its road match against Lake Michigan Conference foe Boyne City on Monday.

Although Werth's fears were real, the Rayders got the spark they needed when junior Walker Drost set up senior Davis LaBelle for an early goal, and a strong performance from a stout backline did the rest, as Charlevoix pulled away for a 4-0 win.

"We looked like we were sleepwalking coming off the bus, but thankfully we got a couple of good pushes forward from Davis and Walker early on that led to a goal," said Werth, who was filling in for head coach Jon Boss. "It just came down to hustle, and they provided the spark we needed to get everyone else going."

Sophomore Christian Matye struck again for Charlevoix on an unassisted goal shortly after the first to give the Rayders a 2-0 lead 15 minutes into the game.

Britt each scored a goal in the second half for Charlevoix to put the game out of reach.

Keeper JJ Wachler preserved the shutout for Charlevoix, aided by strong play from a defensive corps that was bolstered by the return of freshman Danny Nesberg.

"It was good to have Danny back after missing him for a couple of games over the weekend," Werth said. "With him and Kevin back there we have a deep back line."

Now past the halfway point in the season, Werth said the Rayders have found answers to most of the big questions about the team and are now focused on fine-tuning for the "Early on, you're just trying to get guys out there and see how everything fits together, but now we're really focusing on getting the right attitude and mindset," Werth said. Charlevoix traveled to Kalkaska on Wednesday, Sept. 24, and then took on Gaylord at home on Thursday, Sept. 25, for its next two games.

helle knocked in his own, with the assist coming from Ryan Joy.

The final goal would come after Labelle would be tackled inside the Sault Ste. Marie box, forcing a penalty kick by the player of the Rayders' choice.

Drost and Labelle, both team captains for the Rayders, would decide on freshman Danny Nesburt to take the shot, whose mother, Annette Nesburt, suffers from breast cancer and was one of the very reasons the Rayders were playing in a pink game.

With Danny up taking the shot, the Rayders would end the game with the 8-0 mercy rule win, as he sank it to the back of the Blue Devils net, scoring his first career varsity goal.

"That was exciting, it showed a lot out of the leadership of our captains to decide that," said Boss of Drost and Labelle choosing Nesburt to take the shot.

Not only did the Rayders win and raise money along the way, the fans in attendance would be able to enjoy Kipke Field's brand new video scoreboard, being used for the first time in a soccer game.

"It was fun to be able to use the new scoreboard," added Boss. "There was a little bit of replay, then the whole game was videoed up there. It was exciting to see."

While the Sault wasn't expected to give the Rayders too big of a test out on the field, Boss and his team were able to work on a few specific areas of their game for the future.

"It was a good opportunity to work on a lot of ball control and be able to move the ball around the field," said Boss. "The first couple goals we had we got lazy and just started playing long ball, but then we decided that we wanted to be able to work on being able to possess the ball and work it around."

"The team made some big hits that caused turnovers in critical situations for Grayling. The defensive play of the game was made by McCallum when he hit the runner on the Charlevoix 2 yard line, caused a fumble, and then he recovered it," coach Klinger said. "McLean, Balch, Mitchell, Klinger and Alden all had big plays on defense."

Next for the junior varsity Rayders, they were on the road for the first time this season with kick-off set for 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25, against the Suttons Bay Norsemen.

Back in a groove: Rayders win own Charlevoix Invite

DREW KOCHANNY/NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Coming off one of just four losses of the season, the Charlevoix volleyball team was eager for their hosted Charlevoix Invitational on Saturday, looking to get back to their winning ways.

Come Saturday, that eagerness would shift to the Rayders opponents, looking to just get off the floor against the host team, as Charlevoix earned an undefeated 6-0 mark in becoming Invite champions.

"The girls played awesome and most of all as a team," Charlevoix volleyball coach Audra Randall said. "After coming off a loss to TCSF, the girls came in the next day still upbeat and ready to practice hard knowing they had a big day on Saturday."

Now 19-4-2 overall on the season, Randall credits her girls with sticking through changes as of late and still playing as a team.

"I give them a lot of credit for being patient with me as I kept changing the lineup and roles of different players to find the best opportunity for them to win their home tournament," she said.

In pool play, Charlevoix would play against Harbor Light Christian first, where they would come out with wins of 25-10 and 25-13.

Next up was St. Ignace, which the Rayders would defeat 25-10 and 25-14. In their final pool play match, the Rayders took wins of 25-14 and 25-10 over Engadine.

"We had watched the St. Ignace versus Engadine match and it was tight the whole way through, both sets, and they were battling back and forth Charlevoix would do just that, as they moved on to bracket play.

In their first matchup of the quarter finals, the Rayders would take on Inland Lakes, where they earned two quick, 25-10 and 25-8 wins.

The challenge for Charlevoix would come in the semifinals and finals, against a pair of familiar teams.

"The last two teams to play for the day would be the two teams we had lost to in the semis the last two years of our own tournament," said Randall.

First up for Charlevoix was Pellston, which would give the Rayders a match once

POP WARNER

Pop Warner football results for Sept. 13

The Charlevoix Pop Warner football teams were back in action Saturday, Sept. 13, in Harbor Springs.

Pee Wee Rayders

In the first game of the day, The Pee Wee Rayders came up big with a victory over host Harbor Springs by a score of 12-6. The Rayders scored on the first play of the game with Issak Moaar taking a handoff 56 yards to pay dirt. Moaar would score again from 40 yards out to cap off the scoring for the Rayders.

Coaches were pleased with offensive linemen Will Glass, Spencer Weber, Max Dixon, Cole MacArthur, Troy Nickel, Patrick Sterrett and Danal Munson for opening holes against the much bigger defense of Harbor Springs. Defense was the name of the game in this contest as the young Rayders kept the Harbor Springs offense out of the end zone the whole contest.

Max Ostrum recovered a fumble, while also getting in on many tackles with Weber, Glass and Dmitri Bell.

The Pee Wee Rayders planned to be back at home on Sept. 20 versus East Jordan Red at Kipke Field.

Charlevoix Midgets

The Charlevoix Midgets got their first victory of the season in impressive fashion against Harbor Springs 1, 14-6.

The offensive charge was led by quarterback Jake Snyder, whose 40-yard touchdown pass to receiver Tony Illenden opened up the scoring for the Rayders. Snyder scored in the second half on a 36-yard run, as well, with Tyler Ostrum converting the extra point with a kick.

Phillip Sterrett, Luke Snyder and Ostrum ran hard behind the blocks of Seth Roeth, Aaron Spiegel, Jack Bemis and Zach Nickel.

The defense improved, greatly from game 1 to game 2 behind the play of all defensive linemen. Jake and Luke Snyder, Sterrett and Ostrum led the charge in tackling for the Rayders.

The Midget Rayders planned to be at Kipke Field in Charlevoix for their next contest against East Jordan.

"The boys ran a great team race," Boyne City coach Andy Place said. "We had less than a minute between our number two and number six runners. We want to close this gap and pull in our number seven and eight runners. It's nice to have run a great race and still know we can improve."

Boyne finished with 34 points, followed by Charlevoix with 46 and Kingsley, 71; Grand Traverse Academy, 100; and Traverse City St. Francis, 119.

In the Division IV boys' race, Frankfort placed first with 99 points, followed by Evart, 102; Ellsworth, 113; Onaway, 125; and Mancelona, 130.

Winter Romeyn of Ellsworth took first with the overall best time on the day, regardless of division, running a time of 16:56.8. Pellston's Garrett Robinson would earn eighth place in 18:24.6, while Ellsworth's Daniel Oviedo took 20th in 19:32.9.

In the girls' Division III race, Grand Traverse Academy placed first with 34 points, Kingsley, second with 41; Charlevoix, 76; Boyne City, 103; St. Francis, 121; and Elk Rapids, 136.

Katie Mosseau of Charlevoix would place 11th, while Veronica Sosa of Boyne and Katelyn Banner of Boyne, would earn 12th and 14th, respectively.

"We were missing several girls today," added Place. "The girls who ran really picked it up today, we love the effort."

again.

The Hornets and Rayders would sit tied at 13-13, before Charlevoix pulled away with a 25-16 win. In the second game, the Rayders pulled out a block party on top Hornet hitter Mackenzie Wright, earning a 25-13 win.

The win over Pellston would send Charlevoix to a matchup against Cheboygan in the finals, a game that would come with some humps to start.

"The finals against Cheboygan was really what you want a final match to be," said Randall. "We played from behind the whole way. It was 11-16 and we surged through taking the lead in one rotation, 18-17, then 22-19, tied at 23-23, scoring to take a 24-23 lead."

The Chiefs would however take the first match, 27-25.

In the second, Charlevoix found their game taking a 25-17 matchup, sending the finals to a 15 point final set.

Tied at match point 14-14, the Rayders closed out the tournament with the win on a serve by Alexis Trihlfner, then an error by the Chiefs, taking the win, 16-14.

The Rayders would have two players make the All-Tournament team in Maddie Boss and Olivia Storm, while another impressed Randall on the day.

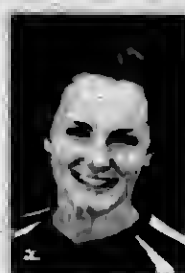

"Boss is an exemplary player and really played well under pressure," said Randall. "I would say for Olivia it was best day ever in her volleyball experience so far. Emily Zahawa stepped up really big playing full rotation. Emily continues to impress me with surprise saves and smart play."

Boss finished with 70 kills, 11 aces, 48 digs and seven blocks. Storm had 107 assists, 28 digs, six blocks, four aces and two kills and Zabawa, 22 kills, 48 digs, nine aces and six blocks.

Also for the Rayders, Gloria Greene had 65 digs, 32 kills, eight aces and 11 blocks; Hannah Zipp had 20 digs, eight blocks, seven aces and six kills; and Becca Moon had seven kills, seven digs, six blocks and four assists.

Pop Warner football results for Sept. 20

The Charlevoix Pop Warner Midget and PeeWee football teams both played last Saturday, Sept. 20, at Kipke Field.

Pee Wee Rayders

The Rayder PeeWees raised their record to 3-0 with a hard fought 21-7 victory over a tough East Jordan Red team.

The offense was highlighted by quarterback Max Ostrum, whose 75-yard touchdown run kicked off the scoring and allowed others to get involved. Ostrum had around 120 yards rushing and also kicked an extra point. Running back Isaak Moaar ran a 30-yard touchdown around end, and fullback Dmitri Bell scored from 5 yards out.

Coaches credit the offensive line for paving the roads for the backfield. Defensively, the stingy Rayder defense was led by Spencer Weber, whose three quarterback sacks kept East Jordan reeling all day. Max Dixon was in on many tackles, as well.

Coaches mentioned first-year players Adam Streeter and Braeden Greensky recording their first tackles of the season.

The Rayder PeeWees continue their season at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 27, in Bellaire against Glen Lake.

Midget Rayders

The Charlevoix Rayder Midget football team

improved to 2-1 with a resounding victory over East Jordan, 28-0.

The Rayders were led offensively by running back Luke Snyder, who scored two touchdowns and stifled the Red Devil defense all day. Coaches were pleased by the performance of the offensive line. Tyler Ostrum kicked two extra points as well, which are worth two points in Pop Warner.

Defensively, Luke Snyder also proved to be a force, taking an interception in for a touchdown for the Rayders. Cole Wright added a boatload of tackles to the mix, and Aaron Spiegel was also in on a lot of tackles.

The Rayder Midgets take to Bellaire for a game at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27, versus Glen Lake.

Annual Apple Festival set to return to downtown Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX — It's a fantastic apple crop this year and Charlevoix is about to celebrate the season. The 36th annual Charlevoix Apple Festival is set to run Friday to Sunday, Oct. 10-12, in downtown's East Park, a weekend event hosted by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. Activities begin at 10 a.m. each day, concluding at 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and at 4 p.m. Sunday. "It has a great impact on our shop, especially being a food business," said Lynne Cantrell, Charlevoix store manager for American Spoon Foods. "Out of the fall season, it's always our highest days." More than 30 varieties of apples are expected to be available from the farmers participating in the harvest season festival, along with pumpkins, mums, squash, jams, baked goods, maple syrup, fresh-pressed apple cider and more. And it's not just about food, as there's plenty of family fun planned, too.

Teen recognized for halting knife attack

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — By many accounts Charlevoix High School freshman Austin Kleiber is a fairly quiet young man. But his actions spoke loudly when it mattered most last year when he jumped to the aid of a woman being attacked with a kitchen knife. On Thursday — almost exactly a year since the incident — Austin, now 15, received an award from the Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney's office and the City of Charlevoix Police Department for his heroic actions.

The stabbing incident took place outside a home on State Street in Charlevoix on Sept. 29, 2013.

Austin was at the home when a confrontation took place between Kaylee Booth and Justine Murray. As Austin describes the events: He followed Booth out of the house as she ran toward Murray with a knife and began to stab her. Seeing the attack, Austin ran over, pulled Booth off of Murray and restrained her while his mother, Kelly Kleiber, began attending to Murray's wounds.

In August, a jury convicted Booth of attempted murder and she has since been sentenced to serve 12-25 years in prison for the crime.

According to authorities and testimony during the trial, Booth managed to stab Murray in the leg, chest and through her arm into her side and made an attempt for her throat before Kleiber was able to intervene.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney said Austin's actions at the very least prevented further injury to Murray, but very likely saved her life.

At Booth's sentencing hearing Telgenhof said, "There was nothing stopping her from killing Justine other than Austin Kleiber and luck."

Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas, who presided over Booth's trial was originally slated to be in attendance at Thursday's award ceremony in his courtroom, but he was called away at the last minute and could not attend.

STEVE ZUCKER/NEWS-REVIEW
Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof (left) and City of Charlevoix Police Department Deputy Chief Scott Hankins last week present Austin Kleiber with an award recognizing his actions in stopping a 2013 stabbing incident.

"I would hope somebody else would do the same for somebody. It's not every day you go and see somebody getting stabbed and you get to save somebody's life."
— Austin Kleiber

Telgenhof read a statement from the judge in his place: "Too often people see a person in distress and walk on by or otherwise ignore the situation, not wanting to become involved. It takes courage to step in and rescue someone in harm's way. Austin Kleiber has that courage. His swift action, at significant risk to himself, saved another person from even greater harm and possibly death. I commend his courage and the example he has set."

During the ceremony, Telgenhof added: "Austin didn't know the victim real well. He was friends with the person who did the stabbing. He saved, really, a stranger."

Telgenhof added: "He saw someone who was being attacked and chose to do something. He didn't focus on himself, and worry about getting hurt. His focus was on the person who was being hurt. He didn't look to the adults who were there ... He took action himself."

Asked how he felt about receiving the award, Austin replied, "I think it's pretty cool."

He added: "I would hope somebody else would do the same for somebody. It's not every day you go and see somebody getting stabbed and you get to save somebody's life."

They decided to do something about it.

"If we all work together we can make a huge difference keeping our kids healthy," said Charlevoix Elementary School parent Erin Nickel.

Parent volunteers plan to gather at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Division Street school in Charlevoix to collectively work together to sanitize the building with disinfectant wipes. It's all in an effort to keep the schoolchildren from picking up flu bugs and other illnesses from each other.

Outsider art comes to Charlevoix Circle of Arts to host Oct. 4 exhibit opening

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — An opening reception for the Outsider Art Exhibition will be 6-8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 4, at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts building downtown at 109 Clinton St. This unique exhibition will remain on display until Nov. 15.

Folk music and refreshments will be provided for the occasion. This event is an opportunity to view the work of local outsider artists, as well as work that has been contributed for the exhibition by local collectors. The term "outsider art" is defined as "the work of artists who demonstrate little influence from the mainstream art world and who are instead motivated by their unique personal visions." It has been championed by trained artists and collectors, too.

Chicago art enthusiasts and artists first brought awareness of this unique genre of "self-taught art" to the forefront of the contemporary art scene in the 1950s. The Center for Intuitive and Outsider Art in Chicago was created then and continues to be a major showcase for this spontaneous, sometimes primitive art form.

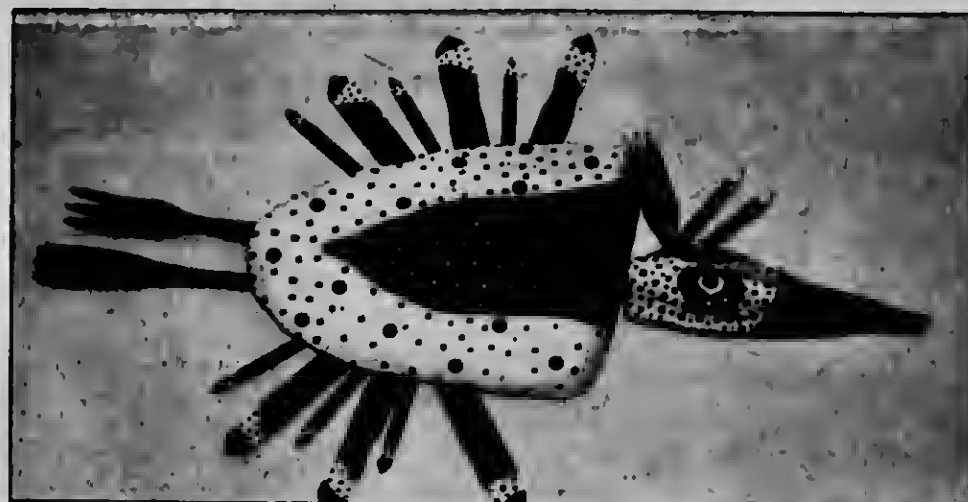

Other cities have followed suit. Perhaps the most recently publicized example of outsider art is the Heidelberg Project, a Detroit-based community organization designed to improve lives and neighborhoods through art. Deteriorating urban neighborhoods have been transformed by art and many homes are inhabited by artists who champion the process.

Charlevoix art teachers exposed their students to the project. Former elementary art teacher Mary Beth McGraw, high school art teacher John Guirey and Lori Bolt at St. Mary School were all given a doll-sized house to embellish with their students in the spirit of the outsider art form. The finished products of their efforts will be on display at the local exhibition. There also will be an interactive model house that visitors may paint or decorate to be on display for the duration of the show.

"Think of a child painting or creating art without any inhibitions. It's pure expression, untaught and spontaneous," said Marell Staffel, who spearheaded this exhibition and recently hosted a painting workshop for children in which they painted old tennis shoes and records.

"Outsider artists have that kind of uninhibited attitude about their work," she said.

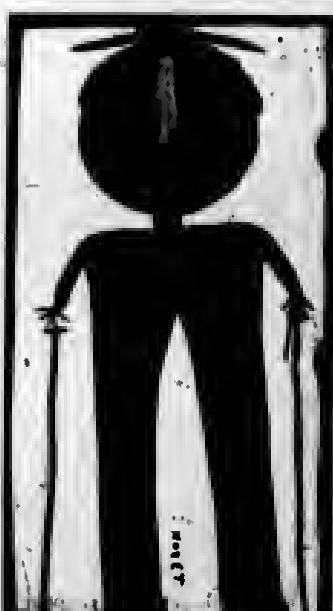

Staffel is an artist, photographer and owner of Picture

This in Charlevoix.

This exhibit will be a four-part show, according to Staffel.

"There will be works from my collection and that of Suzi and Burton Farbman. Most of these paintings and artifacts have been gathered during trips through the southern part of our country. Also featured will be a collection of works by Charlevoix's Clayton Smith," she said. "Thirdly, a section of the gallery will be dedicated to bringing awareness to Detroit's Heidelberg Project. Finally, the artwork of Sky King of Bliss and Reb Roberts of Grand Rapids will be exhibited and be available for purchase."

New Charlevoix golf committee formed to figure out finances

CHARLEVOIX — A new city golf committee is formed to tackle the financial woes at the Charlevoix city golf course, with its first session set for this week.

City Council members last month rejected a consultant suggestion to privatize the municipal golf course as a means to save taxpayer subsidies to the city-owned facility. Now, a new citizen-based committee will explore other options to

Special committee will develop county building safety plan

CRAG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Responding to a month-old state report that detailed a series of safety concerns at their building on Antrim Street, Charlevoix County commissioners voted unanimously Wednesday to create an eight-member committee tasked with developing a plan to make the structure less vulnerable to an attack.

The U-shaped building houses courtrooms, the clerk's office and several other core public services. A survey of the facility was conducted by a state court security expert at no cost to the county, officials said.

While the county has declined to release details of the report to the public citing safety concerns, a Boyne City Gazette report stated the 14-point security plan recommended by the state would total an estimated $500,000 if implemented in full.

"It's not something that we're going to go out and spend a whole hunch of money on," commissioner Ron Reinhardt said Wednesday. "It'll be done in steps."

Even then, board chairman Joel Evans has said it's unlikely the county will follow each of the recommendations to the extent that they will cost the reported amount.

According to a county report, safety committee members are: district court probation officer Dean Viles, probate court administrator David Rauch, county friend of the court Jim Raber, sheriff Don Schneider, clerk Cheri Browe, maintenance supervisor Frank Shaler, county coordinator Kevin Shepard and GIS coordinator Brian Kelly.

The commissioners agreed two more members could be added to the committee at a later time, though they don't want any more than 10 people serving on it.

"That's a committee we had been talking about for quite some time and, of course, we had the survey done and this committee will head up the project, whatever that may be," Evans said.

Commissioner and former sheriff George Lasater noted that the most threatening incident in recent memory was a robbery in the treasurer's office inside the building. Lasater said he'd like to see someone from that office representing that area of the facility on the committee and others agreed.

"I'm concerned that there's no one from one of the most vulnerable portions of the building," commissioner Larry Sullivan said.

Evans has said eventual changes could include creating a single entrance to the building, establishing a security screening area with metal detectors at that entrance and increasing video surveillance in that part of the building.

Reconstruction or separation of the courtrooms from the rest of the building has been suggested, but Evans said that is costly and an unlikely solution.

Calo, who was unopposed in the August primary, is running against Mancelona Republican Triston Cole. Cole defeated a pair of foes in the GOP primary.

EAST JORDAN

East Jordan Man arrested, accused of running meth lab in vehicle

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — Authorities arrested an East Jordan man amid allegations that he was running a mobile methamphetamine manufacturing lab out of his car.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies arrested Archie William Graham, 34, on Wednesday on four charges including delivery/manufacture of methamphetamine, a 20-year felony; operating a drug laboratory for methamphetamine, a 20-year felony; possession of methamphetamine, a 10-year felony; and fleeing and eluding police, a two-year felony. Graham is also being charged as a habitual offender, second offense, which increases the possible penalty for the respective charges by one and a half times.

According to a Charlevoix County Sheriff's office affidavit filed in the case, the arrest grew out of a traffic stop that a deputy initiated on M-32 at Rogers Road near East Jordan at about 12:12 a.m. on Tuesday when the deputy noticed a vehicle with a broken taillight.

When the deputy turned around to make the traffic stop the driver sped away, at times reaching speeds of up to 100 miles per hour, according to police. The vehicle finally stopped in front of the East Jordan fire/ambulance building just inside the city, according to police.

In the affidavit, police said the driver, identified as Graham, was acting strangely and didn't have any identification, registration or proof of insurance with him. The deputy noted that in addition to the broken taillight, the vehicle had a broken back window, broken rear passenger window and was missing both side mirrors.

In the affidavit, the deputy said he performed sobriety tests on Graham and that Graham later gave him permission to search the front pocket of his sweatshirt in which the deputy said he found a coffee filter with a white powdery substance inside. The deputy said he looked into the back of the car and saw several items that are known to be used in the production of methamphetamine.

According to the affidavit, since Graham did not expressly give him permission to search the vehicle, the deputy impounded it for the remainder of the night at the sheriff's office and later on Tuesday obtained a search warrant for the vehicle. When searching the vehicle, deputies, along with members of the Michigan State Police methamphetamine response team found many pieces of equipment and components that are often used in making methamphetamine and a substance that authorities said tested positive for methamphetamine.

Later on Tuesday, deputies said they returned to Graham's home on Elm Street in East Jordan and during an interview in a deputy's car, Graham allegedly admitted to making about a gram of methamphetamine the night before at a river access site on Mount Bliss Road and smoking about half of it, according to the affidavit. Authorities said Graham also admitted that he has cooked methamphetamine between 100 and 200 times in the past, that he learned how to make it from a man he met in jail and that he makes it in car instead of at his house because of his children being in the house.

Graham also allegedly told police that he usually makes the drug somewhere on a two-track road and then turns the remains so no one will get hurt by it.

The methamphetamine production process and the chemical byproducts that remain after its production are known to be very dangerous.

Police said they found more evidence related to Graham's alleged methamphetamine use and production at his home.

Graham has a prior felony conviction from 2005 in Charlevoix County Circuit Court on a charge of unlawful driving away of an automobile.

Graham, who remained in custody late Thursday in lieu of a $25,000 bond, was scheduled to be arraigned on the charges today, Friday.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Oh, what a beautiful morning

In the past, sunrises would be something I viewed regularly as I worked full time and needed to be up at the crack of dawn. Before I left for work, I had horses, chickens and goats to feed so it was dark most mornings but I'll never forget the beauty of an early morning sunrise. Years have passed and in this life chapter I often sleep in and sadly, I rarely catch this wondrous site.

Fortunately, with a few commitments during the past few weeks I have had the pleasure to witness some of the most spectacular sunrises that have graced the Northern Michigan skies. This morning happened to be one of them.

I was asked by my daughter to chaperone the twin grandsons' school field trip to an orchard. As much as I grunted about setting the alarm clock, I was ever so grateful to view the sight of clouds embracing the hues of the rainbow. It was an adventure to travel the back roads where trees were just beginning to turn the deepest shades of orange and some the brilliant yellows of the sun. I soaked up the view and brought it up a notch by increasing the volume on the car stereo: after all, I was alone and no one could hear me sing. I enjoyed my vista while rocking out to the sounds of ABBA.

I caught a glimpse of geese flying overhead in perfect V-formation and averted my eyes in time to stay on the black top and catch the next curve in the road. I wondered if first- and second-graders would appreciate the morning sky as much as I do and would they be able to sing the chorus to "Mama Mia."

I was able to get all the kids into their car seats, a daunting feat in itself, and then proudly I heaved to have found my way from the school to the orchard. This, in part, was thanks to my position as caboose to the cars and vans ahead. As the day progressed, the weather continued to oblige. After an educational tractor ride around fruit trees, picking and tasting this delicious crop and sampling doughnuts and cider, we all were saddened to venture into any vehicle or building. When winters are long, there is a greater appreciation for days you'd like to see go on forever.

As this beautiful one came to an end, cars vacated the lot and headed in different directions, some to school and some to home. Anyone who knows me will understand that I made a wrong turn on the return trip back to school; no surprise to anyone who's ever taken any kind of road trip with me. When the children began to ask if we were lost I was quick to reply "No, this is part of your color tour and learning about the change of seasons." I have a repertoire of answers that come quickly to mind whenever I am lost and need to settle the nerves of my riders.

It was okay to arrive at school a little late; after all, I had their teacher in my car as well. She's not familiar with this area as she recently moved here from Texas. I don't think she'll be jumping back into my car anytime soon. My twin grandsons, who were part of this entourage, recognized something familiar. It only took two 6-year-olds to get us back on track.

I am thinking of setting the alarm clock a few days a week so that I won't miss the gift of a sunrise that comes with color-filled clouds more brilliant than I can paint. A crisp fall morning in Northern Michigan is a sight that shouldn't be missed and needs to be savored. I have missed watching the sky wake up; plus, I love to sing and I think I hear a song coming on. Back-up singers are always welcomed, especially those with a good sense of direction.

Charlevoix's support comforting, memorial efforts planned

Editor:

I'll be the first to admit that I've been pretty quick to point out some of the deficiencies of living in Charlevoix. But sometimes, life will knock you off your feet and help you gain a little perspective. Losing my brother, Tim, has made clear why Charlevoix is such a wonderful place to grow up and live. The people. The support has been overwhelming and we have taken great comfort in feeling like much of the community has mourned this loss with us.

In September, we held the first of an annual memorial tournament for Tim. The money we raised (just over $1,000) will be going back into the Charlevoix community, in Tim's name. The cause may be something Tim was passionate about, such as youth sports, or something our family is passionate about.

There is currently a significant need for bicycle parking in the downtown area and we have decided, to make that your first contribution. My family truly feels we should be welcoming bikers to town and providing safe, secure parking on or near Bridge Street. The trail in Boyne City is only going to increase the bicycle traffic and this is an opportunity for Charlevoix to be proactive.

Tim was a do-er. When he saw a need for Pop Warner Football in Charlevoix, he went to the elementary school and talked with the kids. He was instrumental in getting that program started. This is yet another lesson I'm determined to learn from my older brother. When you see a need, go out and work to influence positive change.

Lastly, there are too many people to thank individually. To all who donated, cooked food, spent time with us, prayed or even thought of us during this time: Thank You.

Gun rights protected by Constitution, Supreme Court

Editor:

I am sick of my constitutional rights being used as partisan issues. My right to own a gun is my right. It has been determined by our Supreme Court to be such.

Yet, Jerry Cannon attacked the NRA, saying it was "nothing more than a lobbying organization for the gun manufacturers." These were Jerry Cannon's remarks at the Progressive Women of Charlevoix's Oct. 15, 2013, meeting in Boyne City. Despite saying he is strong on Second Amendment rights, he blatantly bashes an organization that has been diligently working to uphold our constitutional rights, as Americans, to bear arms.

I want someone in office that I can trust. I want someone to work to uphold our Constitution.

Dr. Dan Benishek has been endorsed by the NRA. Dr. Dan is someone who gun owners can trust to protect our rights.

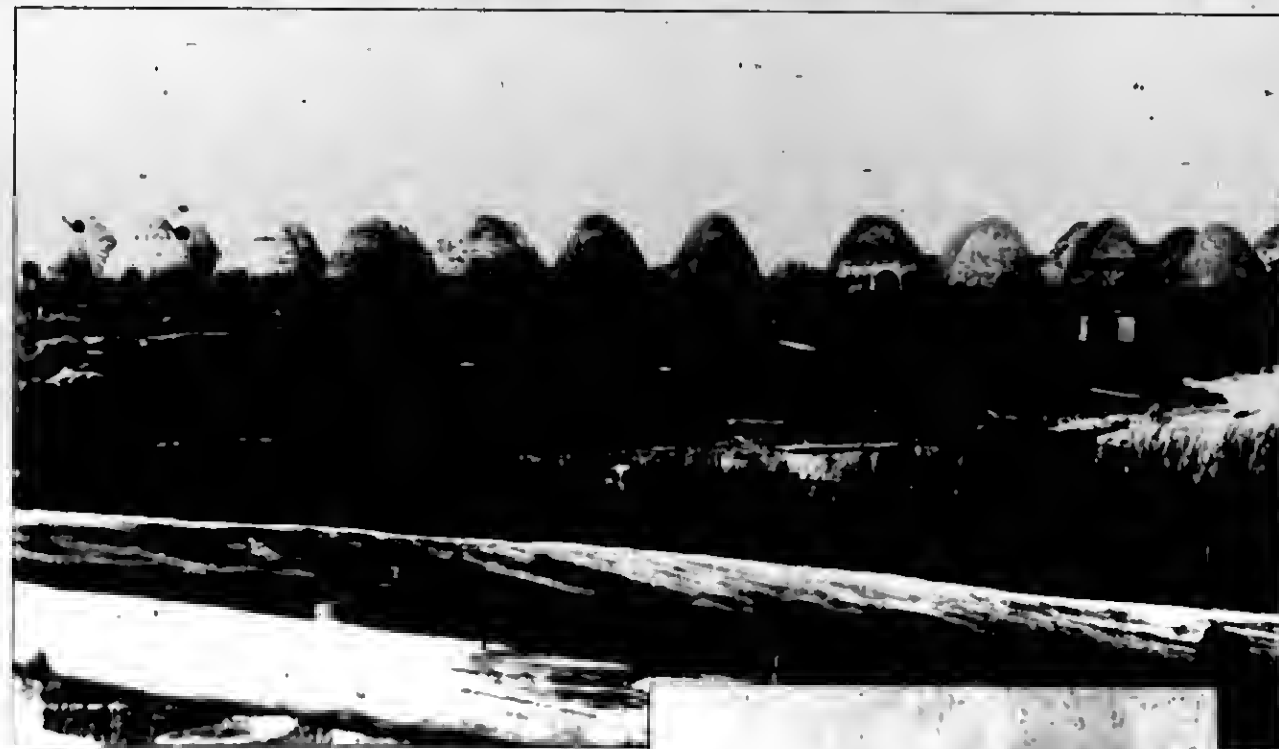

To all gun owners and hunters, please work with me to help re-elect Dr. Dan in November.

CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

COURTESY PHOTOS/CHARLEVOIX HISTORICAL SOCIETY

In the 1870s, D. M. Cherrie, of Chicago and a summer resident here, chose the lakeside land just north of the Ironton Ferry crossing five miles south of Charlevoix for an iron smelter. One of the factors in his decision to build there was the enormous abundance of hardwoods that blanketed the region and the ease with which they could be transported to the site. Area wood was perfect for producing high quality charcoal, a critical factor in the smelting process. The iron ore, mined mainly in the Upper Peninsula, was delivered by the lake freighters that passed through Charlevoix constantly.

Cherrie brought in skilled stoneworkers, even from as far away as Denmark, to construct more than two dozen kilns in which the wood was burned. The kilns punctuated the shoreline just above today's The Landing Restaurant and the Ironton Cove docks. Cherrie went out of business in the 1890s, and all the smelter structures were gradually taken out. Up until the late 20th century, a sightseeing flight over this spot still showed the circular indentations from several of the kiln foundations. They almost looked like a series of Olympic rings. Now, construction and commercial use on the land has pretty much eradicated any evidence of their existence.

American Legion awards local veterans counselor

John Hess receives Leo M. Leggett Award

CATHY DEWEY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — The American Legion and its Department of Michigan presented John Hess, the Charlevoix County veteran's counselor, with the 2014 Leo M. Leggett Award.

This award is selected by the Veterans Affairs & Rehabilitation Director of the American Legion Department of Michigan and is given to only one outstanding county counselor each year.

Hess attended the awards banquet on Sept. 19. He was called up to the stage and didn't know he was receiving an award until 30 seconds before they announced it, he said, adding he thought that he was going to get reprimanded when he went on stage, not presented with this prestigious award.

"I would like to thank all the veterans, they are super people," Hess said.

As a veterans county counselor, Hess's job entails helping veterans with any needs they may have. This can be helping with disability claims, problems with federal veterans programs or apply-

Charlevoix school gets foundation grant for AED

CHARLEVOIX — When the school nurse at St. Mary School in Charlevoix, a kindergarten-grade seven elementary school, heard there was an opportunity for her school to receive a grant for life-saving equipment, she jumped into action.

Chris Signs-Warstler, a registered nurse, knew that the State of Michigan has lost at least 62 students to sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) and related causes. After applying for a grant from The Kimberly Anne Gillary Foundation, Chris was delighted to find out that the grant had been approved and an automated external defibrillator (AED) would be supplied to St. Mary School, together with necessary training for staff.

The Kimberly Anne Gillary Foundation is a charitable foundation that was established in memory of Kimberly, who passed away on April 3, 2000, after suffering a cardiac arrest while playing in a water polo game for the Troy Athens High School team downstate in Troy. Even though she received immediate care by a practicing cardiologist at the scene, she never regained consciousness. It is believed that her chances of surviving would have greatly improved had there been an AED at the school.

According to the American Heart Association, an AED is a portable device used to administer an electric shock through the chest wall to the heart. The built-in computers assess heart rhythm and make a judgment whether defibrillation is needed. If it is, the AED administers the shock and can restore a normal heart rhythm. AEDs can be easily used by non-medical personnel as they provide audible and/or visual prompts that guide the user through the life-saving process.

The AED was presented to Kathleen Dvoracek, principal of St. Mary's School, the Rev. Matthew Wigton of St. Mary's parish, Chris Signs-Warstler, the school nurse, and GERALYN DOSKOCH, doctor from Charlevoix Area Hospital. The presentation was followed by a CPR course taught by Chris Signs-Warstler and registered nurse Sue Coen, also a school nurse, sponsored by Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Although it may seem as if young school children wouldn't have much of a need for an AED, the representative from The Kimberly Anne Gillary Foundation explained that just a short time ago an 11-year old boy from West Branch collapsed in his school's hallway and their AED was used to revive him prior to airlifting him to Grand Rapids for further treatment. The young man had no previous incident of heart problems and the use of the AED very likely saved his life.

Boyne City event on Saturday, Oct. 4

GENI DIETZ
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

BOYNE CITY — Boyne City gives residents and visitors another reason to have fun in the streets at its annual Fall Harvest Festival, from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 4. The downtown celebration, which is well into its second decade, showcases fall produce and crafts, along with a day of family-friendly activities.

The entire farmers market will set up on Water Street during its usual hours of 8 a.m.-noon, and some booths will stay open through the festival.

"Our farm market in Boyne City is really a big success, and the festival offers our vendors the chance to stay all day," said Jim Baumann, executive director of Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce.

Baumann said about half of the 30-plus vendors will keep their booths open until 4 p.m. Products include apples, pumpkins and squash, plus apple butter, jams, honey and handmade arts and crafts.

The Charlevoix Area Humane Society starts things off with a 5K walk/run beginning at 8 a.m. for participants to enjoy with their dogs. Registration is at 7 a.m.

Additional activities include children's games and pumpkin painting, organized by the Boyne District Library, from 11 a.m.-2 p.m. and $1 hay rides from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. The "Empty Bowls" community meal is set for noon-1 p.m., also at the library.

Folk art demonstrations including broom makers, weavers and blacksmiths, plus harvest decorations and scarecrow-making contest entrants will be found along the festival site. Musical entertainers will perform on two stages at opposite ends of Water Street. Spectrum and 45 North play from noon-2 p.m., and Full Circle and Straight Forward Bluegrass Band perform from 2-4 p.m.

Baumann said the Fall Harvest Festival typically attracts around 2,000 people, but concedes the festival is "weather dependent." But, weather conditions aside, downtown merchants will welcome festivalgoers into their stores and restaurants.

"Many businesses do something special for the festival," Baumann said.

Café Sante restaurant, for example, celebrates its own Oktoberfest with German food, beers and wines, plus music. The Wine Emporium will host a free wine and cheese tasting from 4-7 p.m.

The Harvest Festival is a joint effort of Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce and Boyne City Main Street program. Local churches and nonprofits wishing to participate by organizing children's games or harvest crafts are encouraged to contact the chamber at (231) 582-6222.

Visit www.boyneharvest-festival.com for arts and crafts vendor application, scarecrow-making contest application, and 5K registration, plus more details about the day's events.

Local library plans annual teen read week

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library will celebrate Teen Read Week Oct. 12-18, aimed at encouraging teens around the area to read for the fun of it.

This year's theme is Turn Dreams into Reality@your Library. Teen Read Week is a time to celebrate reading for fun while encouraging teens to take advantage of reading in all its forms such as books, magazines, e-books, audio books and more. It is also a great opportunity to encourage teens to become regular library users.

In recent years, many families have had to adapt to make do with less as a result of the economy. Teen Read Week is a great opportunity for teens and their families to learn about all the free services and resources the library offers. The library also offers a safe and supervised space for adolescents to engage in creative, educational activities with caring adults and mentors.

Moreover, according to Laura Potter, teen librarian, strong reading skills are more critical than ever because they translate into better performance at school and better preparedness for careers. This is why it is important to take advantage of Teen Read Week and show teens that reading is a fun and relaxing activity they can do for free.

Charlevoix Public Library invites teens to drop by the library and enter their Book in a Jar Contest, where teens are asked to guess titles of books that are in jars. Each entrant will get a free book.

Parents of teens are also encouraged to celebrate Teen Read Week at home.

Potter suggests parents set aside time each day for the family to read, give books or magazine subscriptions to your teen as a gift or reward, share your favorite book with your teen, listen to an audio book on your next trip, perhaps create a cozy reading corner somewhere in your home, use meal times to talk about what books you're reading, and be sure to incorporate reading into teen chores, such as cooking, reading instructions for how to projects and reading sales fliers to develop a shopping list.

Teen Read Week is a national adolescent literacy initiative created by the Young Adult Library Services Association, a division of the American Library Association. It is hosted annually during the third week of October. For more information, visit www.ala.org/teenread or visit the library at www.charlevoixlibrary.org online.

Fitness center hosts free program

Harbor Health & Fitness launches October improvement sessions

COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Candy Smith, manager of the Harbor Health and Fitness Center at 110 Clinton St. in Charlevoix, is a glowing example of the benefits to be gained by taking stock of your physical, mental and spiritual well-being on a regular basis.

She has been in the business of physical fitness since the days of aerobic dance and Jazzercise, the pre-yoga and Pilates era. Her alumnae are not really graduates of her programs, they are people who have become friends and many years later still come to the gym for workouts and classes — and inspiration. Smith continues to hone her craft; she researches, reads, attends conferences, and then passes on her discoveries and revelations to her students in a non-threatening, instructive way as the cheerleader of the yoga and fitness classes and as a personal trainer.

During the month of October, the fitness center is offering what Smith calls "October Opportunities," weekly mini-sessions that are free to the community with the caveat that donations are encouraged to different service organizations each week. The classes consist of 15-minute programs followed by 30 minutes of optional activities. Program sessions will be on Mondays at 8:30 a.m., Tuesdays at 5:30 p.m., Wednesdays at noon and Saturdays at 10:15 a.m.

The themed schedule for the month is as follows:
— Oct. 1-4, building a better brain (mindfulness); donations go to a magazine at the library

— Oct. 6-11, mending muscle (discussion of when and how); donations go to drawing for personal training or massage

— Oct. 13-18, mindful eating (Are you being sabotaged?); donations are canned goods for the food pantry

— Oct. 20-25, energy (Where do we get it? How do we use it?); donations go toward drawing for energy work

— Oct. 27-29, celebrate (your accomplishments as of this month and gratitude for so many and so much); donate money to Joppa House and drawing for winners of personal training, massage and energy work

"I am so excited about this," Smith said. "It's not just about getting people into the gym. It's about wanting to make life better. There are just so many directions to go in the process."

Smith is eager to talk about the rationale behind choosing the session topics.

Building a better brain was an inspiration that came to her after reading a book by Rudy Tanzi and Deepak Chopra, "The Super Brain." In it she learned that the brain "is a verb, not a noun." Passion for activities, maintaining a positive attitude, doing something new and celebrating the richness of the present are all important factors in reinforcing and stimulating neuron growth.

Muscle mending will address the least invasive methods of dealing with muscle and joint discomfort, as well as the importance of avoiding the treatment of symptoms instead of not causes. In mindful eating, the emphasis is on non-judgmental confrontation of eating habits and the need to have a healthy attitude toward food.

"We don't have to be stuck with our genetics," Smith said. "We can learn to make mindful choices."

As for energy, the more you use, the more you'll have, according to the experts.

"Exercise is a proven stimulus for well-being. We get to choose the energy we want to be around," Smith said. "People, books or activities all give off their own aura and that can be positive or negative."

Finally, there will be a celebration of gratitude, awareness and changes made, along with evaluations, tips and suggestions.

"It's really about making life better for ourselves and others," she said. "Everyone is welcome."

ATWOOD

Apple Festival returns to Friske's Oct. 4

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

ATWOOD — It's that time of year again when local families and friends gather at the 13th annual Friske's Market and Orchard Apple Festival on Saturday, Oct. 4.

More than 3,000 are expected to attend the annual harvest season celebration and a "bushel of family fun" is the theme for the event which begins at 8 a.m. and runs until 4 p.m. The market and orchard is along U.S. 31 South in Atwood, about 10 miles south of Charlevoix.

The Apple Festival kicks off with a hearty breakfast in which homemade streusel pancakes will be served and Miss Apple will host all of the festivities. Live music featuring the Cherry Blossum Ramblers begins at 11:30 a.m. Doc and Donna Probes will feature a wide variety of music genres that include country, folk, blue grass and Celtic with their vast number of instruments and songs for all to enjoy.

A free, self-guided nature walk that leads to a captivating view of Lake Michigan at the top of a trail with all of the trees in their splendor of colors sets the tone for the harvest celebration. There will be a giant apple inflatable ride for children, who also will enjoy the farm and animals. There also will be face painting. The most exciting part of the event for kids of all ages is the "pick-our-own" apples in the nearby orchard, including multiple varieties.

Everything will be apple all day long at the Apple Festival with fresh award-winning apple cider, apple cider doughnuts, caramel apples and Grandma Friske's famous German apple cake and pies. They even will offer apple cider slushies. A tractor-drawn wagon ride tour that captures the history and features of the orchard will be part of the celebration to be narrated by either Farmer Bill or John Elzinga.

Heidi Friske Drost, of Friske's Market, stayed busy planning this harvest tradition and explained that it was a good year for the Honeycrisp apple crop. Unfortunately the Northern Spy apple — a favorite choice for baking pies — did not fare so well, as they lost thousands of trees during the most recent harsh winter. There is less than half the crop as in prior seasons and consumers should know those baking apples are only expected to last up until Christmas.

There are many other varieties of apples that did fare well and they are all available at market and in the orchard.

"We eagerly anticipate the excitement of sharing the Friske AppleFest experience with all of our guests ... we are praying for awesome weather," she said. "If it is 60 (degrees) and sunny our smiles will be off the charts."

Keweenaw Star cruise ship to celebrate 5 years downtown

SHERI MCWHIRTER-

COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — A downtown Charlevoix business is throwing an anniversary party for itself.

The Keweenaw Star, a 130-passenger cruise ship moored in Round Lake marina, this year celebrates its fifth year in Charlevoix off Lake Michigan, since relocating from its 10-year home in Houghton, off the Keweenaw Waterway and Lake Superior. So, Keweenaw Excursions owners and captains Kraig and Jason Funky decided to throw a party.

"It went by incredibly fast," Kraig Funky said. "It feels really good now. We're glad we made the move down to Charlevoix."

The tourism-related business will host a four-hour autumn celebration cruise — an anniversary party, if you will — that is set to leave port at 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 4, from the ship's spot along the city's marina seawall by East Park. Tickets cost $5 and space is limited, so reservations are highly encouraged by calling (231) 237-9365.

"We're going to have a little party," Kraig Funky said, laughing.

And he said the plan is for the Keweenaw Star to call Charlevoix its home port into the future, even with a possible city marina expansion and reconfiguration.

"I'm committed to Charlevoix," Kraig Funky said, adding his hope is for any marina changes to include dockage with sturdy enough docking for his ship. Amanda Wilkin, of the Charlevoix Visitors and Smoke on the Water opens downtown Meat and heat make smokey restaurant debut

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Those who may not have visited one of the newest restaurants in town, perhaps have smelled it, a whiff of something delicious floating in the air in downtown Charlevoix.

The first block of Park Avenue off of Bridge Street is where patrons can discover a little restaurant named Smoke on the Water. The new business opened around the end of May.

A smoker, adjacent to the sidewalk with its outdoor patio tables, often is cranked up and cooking pork butts and ribs and beef brisket first thing in the morning. The fragrance of freshly smoked meat is only half the experience; the rest is what samplers enjoy from a versatile menu.

Owners Julie and Ed "Eddie" Mann settled right into their Park Avenue location and said they enjoyed a successful first summer season in Charlevoix. Julie, originally from Minnesota where the couple met, always dreamed of owning a restaurant. From the time she was 14 years old, she worked in the business.

"My grandmother owned her own restaurant, 'Babe's Café,'" she said, pointing to a framed photo of her grandmother and her wait staff posing for a picture on bar stools. Julie hangs it proudly on the wall right by the front door, part inspiration and part tradition.

It was when Julie started serving really quality food as a waitress in fine establishments, food she couldn't afford to pay to eat, that she decided she could cook it herself. She worked in finance for a time, prior to turning gourmet grill-chef, but never gave up on her dream. Her husband, Ed, is a self-employed plumber and Charlevoix native.

"I fix things," he said. "She does all the magic with the cooking." Mann seems noticeably proud of his wife's expertise. "She makes everything

EAST JORDAN

Keeping it local

Murray's new owners have Michigan-first philosophy

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

EAST JORDAN — New owners at Murray's Bar & Grill are determined to keep what the East Jordan establishment is known for, while focusing on a Michigan-first philosophy.

Married couple Jason Cady and Alanna Alward, who recently acquired the business at 115 Main St., plan to bring back some long-time favorites.

"Taco Tuesdays will be returned, featuring all you can eat beef, chicken or fish, and happy hour has now been expanded. It will now run Monday through Friday from 3-6 p.m.," Cady said. "We are focusing on happy hour right now and really bringing in a variety of beers. Most of the beers are produced in Michigan with a large focus on seasonal craft beers. Two of our four kegs are changed out weekly. Fridays will be an all-you-can-eat John Cross Whitefish special."

Cady added, "We really are trying to keep everything from Michigan. We recently switched our potato chips to some made in Traverse City, our apples are local and come from Friske Orchards."

Cady and Alward were drawn to the area for the location and the people within. "I grew up in the area. I'm originally from Ellsworth, Murray's featured a wonderful location, great views, and an awesome community," Alward said.

Cady added, "We started this process a few months ago and the location just really stuck in our minds, we just kept coming back to it."

The owners don't plan large, sweeping changes for Murray's, and changes that have been made won't be highly visible to those who've come enjoy the establishment.

"We have made a lot of behind the scene changes, building maintenance, food menu changes, a few little subtle changes," Cady said. "We have retained about 90 percent of the staff that were here, only because a couple of them went off to college, they have a really great staff here, that is what really makes or breaks you."

The owners plan more community involvement for the business, Cady noted, including charitable contributions.

MICHAEL KADE MORROW/COURIER

Murray's Bar & Grill in East Jordan is under new ownership.

"Our banquet facilities will also help the community, as we are the only space for it in town," he said. "That keeps people from having to drive in other areas to have access to the facility."

Combined, Cady and Alward have more than three decades of restaurant-industry experience.

"I've been in the restaurant business for 24 years, have a bachelor's in hospitality management, associate (in) marketing, associate (in) advertising, and culinary arts. I graduated from Eastern Michigan University in '99, spent most of my life in Grand Rapids working for restaurants down there," Cady said.

Alward has about seven in eight years of restaurant work experience, and also worked for a major retailer for 16 years.

"Murray'sbar.com is our website, we welcome everyone to check us out on Facebook as well for our daily specials," Alward said.

Current hours at Murray's are 11 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m.-10 p.m. Friday and Saturday and noon-9 p.m. Sunday.

The owners plan for Murray's to stay open a bit later during summer.

That includes partnering with other local businesses or events, such as Castle Farms or Earl Young homes tours, she said.

"They are an invested community partner, always looking for ways to give back, working with groups, and nonprofits, like the (Charlevoix) Historical Society tour," Hubbard said.

"The Keweenaw Star was originally a crew boat designed to ship crew and supplies to oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. The ship was commissioned in 1981 and was originally named the Atlantic Star. The boat was then converted to a cruise ship, and the Funky brothers, along with father Fred, purchased the ship in May 2000 in South Carolina and renamed it the Keweenaw Star.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s, Fred Funky's work took him throughout the Great Lakes region, including running the passenger ship Voyager II out to Isle Royale and the Island Princess for the Apostle Island Tours. Over his nearly 50-year career he also captained oil rig boats in the Gulf of Mexico.

Kraig and Jason Funky both began working alongside their father aboard the passenger ships Star of Keweenaw and Isle Royale Queen as young boys and teenagers. Both brothers also earned their original captain's licenses in Duluth, Minn. Kraig Funky honed his skills aboard the Voyager II, captained a charter fishing boat in Copper Harbor, worked in the Gulf of Mexico and has a 100-ton master captain's license. Jason Funky went to the Great Lakes Maritime Academy in Traverse City to obtain an unlimited tonnage mates license with a first class pilot's endorsement.

from scratch," he said. "Hand cut fries, home-made challah and banana bread, ketchup and sauces ... she has a passion for what she does. You can see it in her face when she talks about this place."

Julie said she always was interested in grilling and smoking meats, an off-shoot of her fascination with good food. The couple laughed when they remember hauling their smoker up through the mountains from Athens, Ga., where they found a reasonably priced one on eBay.

"We were driving through the Smoky Mountains on a road they found out later was called 'The Dragon's Tail' because of all its twists and turns. 'You could say that we smoked The Dragon's Tail.'"

Before putting the smoker into operation in its present location on the side of their restaurant, the Manns served up their smoked meat dishes in Boyne City as part of the Friday night festivities during the summer of 2013.

"Southerners would say we serve 'Northern barbecue,'" Eddie said. "We feel that sometimes meat that's in the cooker all day can get too smoky, especially ribs. We smoke it to a certain temperature, then, finish it off in the oven. That way we can keep up with the demand, keep it at the ready and not over-smoke."

The restaurant's meats are the highest quality: certified Angus beef, Ebel's pork butts, Amish chicken and locally purchased, whenever possible, they said.

"We get our maple syrup from Parsons, vegetables from Dhasleers and Bolts, fish from Cross and milk from Shetler's," Julie said.

Smoke on the Water is at 103 Park Ave. in downtown

Charlevoix. Breakfast and lunch are served from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Breakfast specials include "Drunken French Toast" (challah bread soaked in champagne, cream and spices) and smoked haddock and meats. Lunch features all the smoked specialty meats from pulled pork to brisket, along with salads, soup and mac and cheese. There also is a children's menu available.

Library hosts talk on pipeline beneath Straits

Nonprofit director speaks about Great Lakes as public trust

SHERI MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — More than two dozen gathered Tuesday at Charlevoix Public Library to learn about the Great Lakes as public trust and the potential environmental dangers of an oil products pipeline that runs beneath the Straits of Mackinac.

Nonprofit executive director Liz Kirkwood, of Traverse City-based For Love of Water, or FLOW, discussed the group's position on these issues and answered questions from the audience. The crux of Kirkwood's argument is that an Enbridge-owned pipeline that traverses the bottomlands in the Straits poses great environmental threats and furthermore, violates specific conditions of its decades-long state easement agreement.

"It is the state's duty to protect these waters as public waters," Kirkwood said.

Enbridge's Line 5 runs 645 miles from Superior, Wis., to Sarnia, Ontario, and crosses from the Upper to Lower Peninsula through the Straits, where Lakes Michigan and Huron connect. The Canadian company in 1953 was first denied an easement across the lake bed by the Michigan Department of Conservation because it was deemed part of the public trust, but then successfully — within two months — sought legislation to allow state officials to issue easements within those bottomlands, Kirkwood said.

In recent months and years, she said it's become known that the pipeline beneath the Straits violates multiple conditions of its state easement. That includes admissions from the company about not providing support structures along the underwater line at the required distance intervals, and more internal pressure within the lines than is authorized. The trouble, Kirkwood argued, is getting the state to take action.

"We need them to focus like a laser on this pipeline," she said. "We didn't know the right questions to ask before and now we do."

Kirkwood discussed Gov. Rick Snyder's recently established task force to assess the pipeline systems throughout the state, including Enbridge's Line 5, and how she feels that reaction is a good step, but inadequate to address the potentially devastating environmental and public works impacts should that underwater line leak or rupture at what is widely considered the heart of the Great Lakes inland seas, approximately 20 percent of the world's fresh water.

"We don't want this to be a huge wake-up call," Kirkwood said. "Michigan already had a huge disaster back in 2010 in Kalamazoo."

That Enbridge pipeline spill impacted the Kalamazoo River, took years and cost about $1 billion to clean up. It is deemed the largest inland oil spill in American history.

"Why does Enbridge hold all the cards? They are violating the easement. They are breaking the law. Why do they hold all the cards?" asked Mickey Barnhart, of Charlevoix.

No officials from Enbridge attended the public presentation.

Kirkwood said anyone with questions or concerns, or who wants to be added to the nonprofit's mailing list, can contact the organization at (231) 944-1568 or visit www.flowforwater.org online.

that the city offers each and every year," said city manager Rob Straebel. "Unfortunately, industry trends show a decreasing number of golf rounds being played each year and there is certainly a saturation of golf courses in northern Lower Michigan."

Tom Heid, the city's golf director, said the golf course is not "folding over" into the city's parks and recreation department, but is working with new parks and recreation director Tom Kirinovic on the new city golf committee.

"The committee members all have a vast interest in the city golf course. All individuals possess strong educational and career backgrounds with affiliations directly related to golf and recreation," Heid said.

The committee members include both Heid and Kirinovic, along with Dean Davenport, Rob Agnello, Jennifer Sell, Steve Seeley and Dennis Wescott. They are set to publicly meet for the first time at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 2, at city hall, 210 State St., in downtown Charlevoix.

"I'm an input person and hopefully we can find some ways to make that golf course work to everyone's benefit," Seeley said. "It's one of the most beautiful and oldest golf courses in Michigan."

Straebel said that despite the challenges, he feels the new golf committee can produce some quality possibilities to consider.

"Combining our competent and hard-working staff with committee members well versed in golf course operations, I'm confident we will come up with some innovative ideas that will ultimately save taxpayer dollars," he said.

Any recommendations to be generated by the committee will be reported to the Charlevoix City Council and taken into consideration for next year's city budget, Straebel said.

Little Traverse Youth Choir hosts auditions for new members

PETOSKEY — The Little Traverse Youth Choir begins its fifth season with auditions for new choir members.

Both girls and boys are eligible for each of the two groups, the Touring Choir and the Treble Choir.

To audition, singers simply need to come ready to sing; they do not need to have a prepared audition piece.

The Touring Choir, for singers ages 14 through 19 years, rehearses 7-8:30 p.m. Thursdays at the First Christian Church of Petoskey, located at the corner of Liberty and Monroe streets. Tuition is $200 per year and partial scholarships are available. For more information, contact the choir's music director, Aleta Watton, at awatton@littletraverseyouthchoir.org or call (231) 622-3508.

The Touring Choir tours every other year and the directors are currently planning the 2015 tour schedule. Singers who wish to audition for the Touring Choir should be able to read music and sing in parts. Anyone wishing to hire the choir or one of its ensembles for special events may contact Watton.

Watton is also offering a series of music classes for Touring Choir members one hour prior to the regular rehearsal at First Christian Church. The classes are free to Touring Choir members. A small tuition fee is charged to non-Touring Choir members.

Younger singers are invited to join the Little Traverse Treble Choir, for singers 8-13 years of age. Treble Choir members should have a desire to learn to read music and part singing and should aspire to move into the Touring Choir. This choir will present concerts locally. Tuition is $100 per year. Partial scholarships are available. The Treble Choir rehearses 6-7 p.m. on Tuesdays at Cross of Christ Lutheran Church, 1400 E. Mitchell St., Petoskey. For more information, contact choir director, Jamie Platte, at pontiusflowers@gmail.com or (231) 881-8857; or come directly to the next rehearsal.

The Little Traverse Youth Choir is a program of Voices Without Borders Inc., a local nonprofit organization, which also produces the Children of the World in Harmony Festivals. Voices Without Borders Inc. was founded to promote, support and sponsor choral music and dance performances, and other performing arts activities for young people in schools and communities throughout Northern Michigan.

The Little Traverse Youth Choir is supported from grants awarded by the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, Charlevoix County Community Foundation, Michigan Council on the Arts and Humanities, Baiardi Family Foundation, Marana Tost Webber Charitable Trust, Petoskey Rotary Club Charities, Kiwanis Club of Petoskey, Northern Michigan Chorale, as well as from its many other patrons, donors and sponsors.

want to get involved in their school," said district superintendent Boh Gendron. "I like this because we are being proactive, rather than reactive."

Charlevoix Public Schools will provide the cleaning supplies for the volunteers, he said, but this effort remains financially beneficial for the district which provides one full-time and one part-time custodial workers. Gendron said regular cleaning work is already enough for the employees in a tight budget year, so spikes in student and employee illness rates can have impacts to the bottom line.

Principal Doug Drenth said he is grateful for the parental support.

"It's great for our school," he said. "I appreciate this from our parents. It's a very proactive way to help with the health of our students."

tion president Sarah Sheaffer said the suggestion sprang from Nickel's mind during a meeting of the school-related group. She said officials ran with the idea.

"Any way our parents can come in and help the school is very appreciated," Sheaffer said.

Gendron said a district in which he formerly worked also tried out this parent volunteer cleaning crew program during the H1N1 influenza outbreak several years ago, when many schools in Michigan and across the nation experienced absentee rates up to 40 percent, or more. That district instead never experienced more than 5 percent of its students withheld at home for sickness.

"It's all about student achievement. When kids are healthy they learn better, and actually are present in school more," Gendron said.

Influenza is a seasonal thing, and it strikes about this point on the calendar each and every year. Doctors say flu activity is expected to pick up in the coming weeks before hitting its peak in December, January and February.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends a yearly flu vaccine for everyone 6 months of age and older as the first and most important step in protecting against this serious disease. While there are many different flu viruses, the seasonal flu vaccine is designed to protect against the top three, or four flu viruses that research indicates will cause the most illness during the flu season. People should begin getting vaccinated soon after flu vaccine becomes available, ideally by October, to ensure that as many people as possible are protected before flu season begins.

In addition to getting vaccinated, doctors say you can take everyday preventive steps such as staying away from sick people and washing your hands to reduce the spread of germs. If you are sick with flu, stay home from work or school to prevent spreading flu to others.

APPLE FEST

"We actually will be doing a demo in the store on that Saturday. We'll be making caramel apple French toast," Cantrell said.

And hers isn't the only local business that puts on a show or offers specials for the Charlevoix Apple Festival celebrations.

"We always look forward to Apple Fest — the scurry and hustle and bustle in town is fun because the excitement is all about apples, which is what we do," said Sara McGuire, owner of Royal Farms in Atwood, among the area's many apple orchards.

This year, Royal Farms will launch its "apple cluh," McGuire said, in which after buying one half-bushel at full price, customers receive a special bag to bring to the Atwood market for discounts on apples for the remainder of the season.

"It's so much fun to see how the town comes alive during the festival weekend. The event seems to grow every year in popularity with Charlevoix residents and visitors," said Shelly Ferguson, chamber vice president.

It's a tradition that unfolds every autumn in the heart of downtown Charlevoix, she said.

"It doesn't matter if the sun is shining, the rain is falling, or a blizzard is blowing through town. People dress for the weather and come out to enjoy the festival and all it has to offer," Ferguson said. "I've even noticed that the worse the conditions, the bigger the smiles from festivalgoers. After all, it's October in Northern Michigan. You've got to be up for anything."

Local community foundations provide workshop for nonprofits

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation hosted a three-hour workshop Sept. 23 focused on how the face of volunteerism is changing and what organizations can do to continue attracting, developing and celebrating the best of a new type of volunteer.

Fifty-five participants from various nonprofit organizations gathered for the capacity-building session at the Charlevoix Public Library that featured Jennifer Weichel, volunteer specialist for Michigan State University Extension. Weichel presented insights on how to connect with different generations of volunteers, strategies for giving volunteer roles a makeover, and exploring new roles for volunteers in order to move nonprofit organizations forward.

Weichel has been with MSU Extension for 20 years and has served as an extension educator, supervisor and coach. She is also a member of the Volunteer Administration Community of Practice.

"Providing opportunities like this workshop to our local nonprofit partners grows organizational capacity to better serve their clients and our communities," said Sara Ward, program officer for the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation.

"That's right," agreed Maureen Radke, program officer for the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "We are here to support the efforts of area nonprofits as a resource for growing skills in addition to securing grant dollars."

"This workshop helped us see new roles and new ways for us to attract, utilize and keep volunteers who are key to our ability to serve foster children in our region," said Lindsay Steffes, site supervisor, Child and Family Services of Northwest Michigan. "We so appreciate the partnership we have with the two area community foundations. They are a great resource."

The community foundations accept resources from donors and then use a portion of the income earned from the investment of these gifts to help foster positive change locally. In this way, donors' contributions meet community needs.

Charlevoix falls to Suttons Bay, still looking for consistency

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Still looking for consistency.

Charlevoix football coach Ron Bindi sees the talent on his team and knows it's a team capable of stringing wins together this season, however so far, the consistent play it takes hasn't yet been there.

"We really haven't had a game where we put it all together," said Bindi. "We go in bits and pieces."

On Friday in Charlevoix, those bits and pieces turned from a respectable 13-6 at the end of the first quarter, to a 48-19 final, in which the Rayders came out on the losing end in their first Northern Michigan Football League II game against Suttons Bay.

"We just made mistakes. You can't have stupid penalties," added Bindi. "We didn't play our assignments, then offensively we missed assignments."

Charlevoix running back Sam Hovie would score on a 65 yard carry, his first of the night, early in the first quarter, but the Rayders would eventually fall behind 13-6 to end the quarter.

Ben Boss would score on an 85 yard kickoff return for Charlevoix, now 2-3 overall, 0-1 league, in the second quarter, but missed assignments piled up for the Rayders, with the end of the first half being a 34-12 game for the Norsemen.

The same mistakes of the second quarter would carry over to the second and third

Young football team rolls over Suttons Bay, faces Kalkaska next SUTTONS BAY — The Charlevoix Rayder J.V. football team has been a force to be reckoned with so far this season.

On Friday, Sept. 26, they matched up against the Norsemen of Suttons Bay in their first league game of the year. The Rayders had no problem on the road for the first time this season, beating the Norsemen 39-0 with a shutdown defense and high-scoring offense.

Freshman quarterback Brad Klinger started the scoring that night when he hooked up with freshman Garrett Seese for a 7-yard touchdown pass. After the two-point conversion, the Rayders were up 8-0 in the first quarter. Klinger ended the game with 68 yards passing on four completions and a touchdown.

"He is a quiet leader," said coach Brian Certa. "He lets his play do the talking for us."

Sophomore Jared McLean's 16-yard run made the score

14-0 at the end of the first quarter. McLean had four carries for 33 yards and two touchdowns on the night.

"The team got off to a slow start and looked a bit flat, but by the second quarter the kids picked up the pace and intensity," Certa said.

Sophomore Jomar Williams got in on the scoring in the second quarter with touchdown runs of 12 and 49 yards to put the Rayders up 32-0. Williams finished the game with 64 yards on six attempts for two touchdowns. Williams also had a 95-yard kick-off return in the third quarter to his display.

Certa also mentioned how Williams was a presence on both sides of the ball against the Norsemen.

"Jomar comes to play every game. He is a spark for our offense as well as our defense," the coach said.

The Rayders defensive play remains a great, ongoing story: the unit as a whole only allowed a total of 12 points to their opposition. Sophomore Jaké Mitchell led the way with a team high six tackles. Sophomore Camden Alden had a fumble recovery, and Klinger had an interception by game's end.

"It was a complete team effort on both sides of the ball. This team has the urge to win week in, and week out," Certa said.

The Rayders next contest is at home against Kalkaska Blazers, set for a 6 p.m. kickoff on Thursday, Oct. 2.

Rayders put in battle with Vikings for 20th win

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — It wouldn't be easy or pretty, but a win is a win.

And the Rayders have done it better than most in the Lake Michigan Conference this season.

On Thursday, Sept. 25, Charlevoix was back collecting league wins, this time in a 3-0 win over Grayling in the Grayling High School gym.

The first game for the Rayders, now 20-4-2 overall on the season, would come as a bit of a struggle early.

"Grayling came out strong and loud playing a tough first set," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "The Rayders and the Vikings traded point for point until 12-12, when Grayling started to pull away and capture a 17-12 lead."

Gloria Greene would step to the serve line, however, for the Rayders, bringing the maroon and white to a 18-17 lead with some strong shots on the Vikings.

"The girls then did some good plays at the net finishing the set 25-19," said Randall.

The second set would come a bit easier for Charlevoix, which took a 25-14 win, then they would have to push through a 25-23 match with the Vikings. Knowing they're going to get the best out of their opponent this season, it's all coming down to pushing through in the end.

"The girls took care of the ball on their side of the court," added Randall.

Madeline Boss had 15 kills, six digs and one block to lead the Rayders, while Olivia Storm had 24 assists, seven digs and three kills. Greene added four blocks, five kills and five digs.

Also for Charlevoix, Alexis Tribelner had 10 digs and two aces. Emily Zabawa had 14 digs, six kills and one block. Yogi Hang had five digs. Hannah Zipp had four digs and one block and Becca Moon added one block and one kill.

Charlevoix holds off rival Harbor Springs, 3-2

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

HARBOR SPRINGS — Rivalry games are never easy, especially when they're on the road.

Charlevoix found that out on Monday against conference foe Harbor Springs, as the Rayders needed a late goal off a header by Walker Drost to hold off a Rams team that gave them all that they could handle for a 3-2 win.

Drost got his head on a corner kick from Davis LaBelle and redirected it past the goalkeeper with 14:11 to play to break a 2-2 half-time tie and give Charlevoix the victory.

"(Right before the corner kick), Davis did a hand signal that told me he was crossing it to me and I should be going for the header," Drost said. "I was able to get on it and put it in the back of the net."

Early in the game, it looked as if Charlevoix might win the game going away, like they did the first time the two teams met in Charlevoix and the Rayders came out on top 6-2.

Christian Matye converted a penalty kick less than four minutes into the game after Drost was obstructed in the box on a breakaway to put the Rayders up 1-0.

"Christian did a great job on the penalty," said Harbor Springs assistant coach Anton Matye, who filled in for head coach Jon Boss. "He's been taking them all year for us and he hasn't missed one yet."

A little over 10 minutes later, Drost played a through-ball to Noah Carson, who beat the defender on a run and scored to put Charlevoix up 2-0.

Instead of folding, however, Harbor Springs came right back at their visiting rivals.

Freshman Joe Claramunt finished off a nice set of passes in the 22nd minute to cut Charlevoix's lead to one, and fellow freshman Aaron Ellis scored a goal late in the half to tie the game at 2 heading into halftime.

"Going down 2-0 like that is gut-check time for your team, and I didn't know how we would respond, but obviously we still had something left in the tank," Harbor Springs coach Aaron Riley said. "We've been improving throughout the year, and for our team to dominate the midfield the way they did tonight is a credit to our players and their conditioning."

Both coach Matye and Drost gave credit to Harbor Springs' midfield players and said they were caught off guard by their performance.

"Their midfield really stunned us in the first half, and they probably possessed the ball 85 percent of the time," Drost said. "It was really shocking, and it was tough for us to go into the half tied because we've only trailed once at the half this year."

"What we saw in the first half let us know we had to come back out hard if we wanted to come out on top."

quarters. After a one yard touchdown run by Hovie, the Rayders would let up a kick-off return for a touchdown, then lose focus just enough for the Norsemen to recover an onside kick.

"We knew that they like to run reverses on the kick-offs and punts, and after Hovie's second touchdown they ran the reverse on the kickoff and they scored," said Bindi. "Then right away after they scored that, they onside kicked against us and recovered that. That kind of put the nail in the coffin."

Hovie would finish the game with eight carries for 114 yards and two scores, while adding one catch for 69 yards. Quarterback Nate Moon completed 7-of-16 passes for 99 yards, finding Boss twice for 13 yards, then Will Telgenhof twice for 17 yards.

The Rayders will travel to Kalkaska next, a team starting to find a rhythm in conference play, as they're now 2-3 overall, 2-1 in the NMFL II.

"Hopefully we can continue to put something all together," Bindi said. "We'll just keep plugging away and when it comes all together assignment wise, we're going to be a tough team to play against."

Matye said that Harbor Springs played a strong game, and his team wasn't up to the task in the first half.

"They say that 2-0 is the worst lead in sports, and that proved true today," Matye said. "Harbor Springs is a team that can score goals at any time, and they controlled play for a lot of the game."

"We had to make some adjustments to our mid-field approach at halftime, and thankfully our players stepped up, and we were able to get a difference-making goal."

Both teams had chances in a fast and furious start to the second half, but it was Charlevoix and Droste that finally found the back of the net.

Harbor Springs put the pressure on late and generated a number of chances, but couldn't finish set-up passes in the final third to create an equalizing goal.

JJ Wachler made 11 saves to help preserve the win for Charlevoix, and Parker Fairbairn stopped 15 shots at the other end to keep Harbor Springs in the match as both goalies saw their fair share of action in the contest.

Charlevoix must move on quickly from this victory, as the Rayders face Grayling on Thursday in another crucial Lake Michigan Conference match, and also have Elk Rapids coming up shortly as well.

"We've got to work on possessing the ball in the midfield and making sure our players are concentrating on playing both ways," Matye said. "You need your players to play offensively and defensively, and we didn't play any midfield defense in the first half today."

"That has to change if we want to continue to be successful."

Harbor Springs, meanwhile, will look to build on this result moving forward.

The Rams, who have nine freshmen and sophomores on their 18-man roster, have been improving all season, Riley said.

"Coming from Gaylord, Gaylord/Petoskey was always a huge game, and I think you have the same thing in this conference with Charlevoix and Harbor Springs," Riley said. "Harbor Springs has been on the losing end most of the time, but our players' attitudes are starting to change."

"They're starting to believe that they can compete and win, and I think you saw that tonight."

Rayders seeing improvements after Carson City Invite

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CARSON CITY — When injuries and health issues hit a cross country team, seasons can sink fast.

For the Charlevoix boys' cross country team, those injury problems and sickness bug are starting to wear off, as they find their pace back to the top.

On Saturday, the Rayders traveled to the Carson City Crystal Invite, where both Rayder teams earned eighth place finishes among 14 teams in attendance.

"We improved and for the most part we're getting healthy again," Charlevoix boys coach Ken Plude said. "I thought we did some good things against some good teams."

Charlevoix, as well as East Jordan, took place in the Gold race of the Invite, with a number of teams broken into what was mostly a division of school size.

Saugatuck took first place in the boys' race with a total of 43 points, while Grandville Calvin Christian took second in 101, followed by Pewama-Westphalia, 104; Bear Lake, 131; Bath, 138; Saranac, 150; St. Louis, 171; Charlevoix, 178; Carson City-Crystal, 238; and McBain, 281.

East Jordan finished in 11th with 303 points.

The top boys individual went to Jacob Pettinga of Saugatuck, who finished in 15 minutes, 52.4 seconds.

East Jordan's Gahe Hawley led area runners with a time of 17:02.8, good for ninth place, while Luke Buday led Charlevoix with a time of 17:33, for 19th place.

Nicholas Plude, one of the Rayders heating health issues at the time, took 27th in 17:54.4. Noah Jeakle of Charlevoix took 32nd in 18:00.3 and Lucas VanLau placed 46th in 18:30.7.

Also for the Rayder boys' team, Micah Peebles placed 54th, Brendan Gregory, 57th; and Jonathan Pischner, 63rd.

For East Jordan, Wenzel-Kisch took 60th; Teddy Nachazel, 71st; Josh Zieharth, 81st; and Tristan Everett, 82nd.

In the girls' race, Pewama-Westphalia took first with 77 points, Grandville Calvin-Christian second with 86, followed by Bear Lake, 88; Saugatuck, 94; St. Louis, 130; Bath, 162; Carson City-Crystal, 172; Charlevoix, 199; Kent City, 231; and White Cloud, 10th, with 277.

East Jordan featured an incomplete team.

The Rayders wouldn't have to wait long for one of their own to cross the finish line, as Charlevoix's Amber Way placed first with a time of 17:53.4, while the next finisher also came as a local product, with Kayla Keane of East Jordan earning a time of 18:46, good for second.

Anna Zahner of Charlevoix placed 39th in 22:15.7, while teammate Katie Mousseau earned 46th in 22:38.2.

Ali Schwein of Charlevoix took 54th, Ellie Way, 63rd, and Olivia Jeakle, 74th.

East Jordan's Raven Joseph placed 81st, while teammate Rebecca Barkley took 85th.

Pop Warner teams square off against Glen Lake

BELLAIRE — Both Pop Warner teams met in Bellaire on Saturday, Sept. 27, in showdowns against Glen Lake. Upcoming games will be at home at Kipke Field in Charlevoix.

MIDGET RAYDERS

The Midget Rayders lost a tight defensive game against Glen Lake. The final score was 12-0.

Glen Lake scored early but Rayder defense rallied and played well the rest of the game. Rayder offense faced a formidable opposition. Although Rayders were able to sustain some drives, they were stopped shy of scoring.

The next Midget Rayder game will be at 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 4, at Kipke Field. They will play Pellston.

PEEWEE RAYDERS

The PeeWee Rayders ran their record to 4-0. A decisive 20-0 victory over Glen Lake on Saturday was part of the well-fueled momentum that propels the PeeWee team.

The offense was led by quarterback Max Ostrum who had touchdown runs of 21 and seven yards. Dimitri Bell ran for an eight-yard score while getting tough yards all day. Spencer Weher ran well at the fullback position.

Coaches also credit the offensive line, led by center Will Glass, for controlling the line of scrimmage. First year linemen Trevor and Adam Streeter, Braeden Greensky, Dyalan Clapp and Seth Weher played a crucial role on a hot day where other linemen needed breaks.

The PeeWee defense was led by Ostrum, who forced a fumble and intercepted a pass, while Max Dixon also had an interception. Bell, Glass and Weher also contributed their share of tackles.

The next PeeWee Rayder game will be at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 4, also at Kipke Field. The Pee Wee team will be playing against East Jordan Black.

What's in a (non) rivalry?

JEREMY SPEER
SPORTS DIRECTOR

Last week, some familiar football rivals butted heads in Northern Michigan.

Both the Petoskey-Cheboygan and Boyne City-Traverse City St. Francis rivalries go back a long way. Petoskey and Cheboygan have battled every year since 1952 and Boyne and St. Francis have duelled each year since 1988.

There are plenty of other similar rivalries in Northern Michigan. Gaylord has deep histories with both Petoskey and Cheboygan. Games between the trio of Boyne City, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs have stood the test of time. Even this season, when the Lake Michigan Conference disbanded, these teams remained playing, despite the fact Boyne is in the Northern Football League I and Charlevoix and Harbor Springs are in the Northern Football League II.

But not every game is a rivalry game. Oftentimes necessity calls for scheduling an uncommon opponent. Teams prefer filling their schedule in having a bye week, which is why you saw Petoskey travel more than 220 miles to play at Hastings a couple weeks ago.

Another factor taking away from rivalries is population trends and success trends — both of which commonly lead teams to shift conferences. Some towns get bigger, others get smaller. Some schools experience a run of success that necessitates better competition. Others fall behind and look for a league they can compete better in. It happened in the Northern Michigan Football League and Ski Valley Conference this year and will likely happen in the Big North Conference in the future.

In 1951, a schedule of Manistee, Traverse City Central, Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills, Cadillac, Rogers City, Sault (Ont.) Collegiate and Saginaw St. Andrew made sense for Petoskey (by the way, the Northmen went undefeated that year), but it doesn't in 2014.

Two of my other favorite "strange" battles this year involving Northern Michigan teams is Detroit Consortium Prep vs. Kalkaska (Oct. 10) and Wallaceburg (Ont.) against Harbor Springs this Friday.

The latter battle is latest chapter in the unique history between Northern Michigan schools and that of their Canadian brethren.

When I was a child growing up in Alpena, one of my favorite things to look forward to was the release of Alpena High's varsity football schedule. Being a very large school in an area with very few comparables, Alpena's schedule has always been unique and interesting. Check out www.michigan-football.com to see — it is entertaining.

Being a sports and maps junkie, I always knew of even some of the strange sounding schools that Alpena played — River Rouge? Adrian? Kingsford? Yeah, I know of those schools.

But one jumped out at me — Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Bewailing, Alpena played that school a number of times in the late 1980s and early 1990s, but it always intrigued me. You mean, they really do play football in Canada?

Playing a Canadian school is not uncommon. Petoskey and Harbor Springs both have over the years. Sault Ste. Marie has a deep history over the years playing teams across the St. Mary's River, including two this season.

Usually, Northern Michigan football teams have quite an easy time with their hockey-loving brethren, but not always. Sault (Ont.) St. Mary is actually 3-2 in its last five games against Sault High.

To learn more, I phoned a friend, more specifically my wife's cousin, Roy McKiddie of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. (International phone charges had me using Facebook instead of the phone). Roy's son Neil-Michael is a freshman on the Junior Superior Steel Hawks, who lost 47-14 to the Sault High junior varsity two weeks ago.

For Neil-Michael and his teammates, it was their first venture across the International Bridge to play an American team.

"He really enjoyed playing in the game and seeing the differences between the two countries in football," Roy said. "His whole team was excited to travel to Michigan for the game and the overall exciting atmosphere it brought."

Roy, a football fan, acknowledged the difference in skill between his son's team and its American counterpart, as well as for the varsity game that followed. But he said the gap may be closing soon with Superior Heights boasting more than double the amount of players that Sault High did.

"The American teams were better skilled and it was evident that most of the kids had been playing the game for awhile," he said. "Athlete-wise, we are similar, but skill-wise, there is quite a gap. (But) the interest is really growing in Canada and hopefully we can heat the Soo High team."

As Northern Michigan teams continue to struggle to find games against schools similar in size and school level, don't be surprised if some year, one of our North American neighbors ends up on your school's schedule.

Rayder Midgets

The Charlevoix Midgets played a tough East Jordan team on Saturday, Sept. 20, winning by a final score of 28-0. The Rayders started strong with Jake Snyder carrying the ball 68 yards for the first points of the game. Tyler Ostrum added the extra points kick. On the Rayders next offensive possession, Luke Snyder ran the ball in to score from the 6 yard line.

Just before halftime, Luke Snyder intercepted an East Jordan pass at their 30 yard line and ran it back for his second touchdown of the game and Tyler Ostrum added a successful kick. Luke Snyder finished the day with his third touchdown in the second half of the game.

Defensively, Seth Roeth and Luke Snyder led the way.

Charlevoix Junior Golf board elects officers

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association Board of Directors held its fall meeting recently and 2015 officers were elected.

Steve Braun was re-elected as president and Dennis LaCroix returned as vice president. Sam Supernaw continues as treasurer and Dick Stangis remains as secretary. Bill Supernaw, Jill Washburn and Tom Bickersteih retain their board positions and two new board members, Doug Drenth and Jennifer Sell, were appointed to three-year terms.

Program executive director and program originator Dean Davenport reviewed the past summer season and noted the 100 juniors who registered and participated in the popular program's 20th season. Davenport highlighted the scholarship program where eight juniors were sent to the prestigious Ferris State University's golf camp and 15 juniors were awarded season passes to the Charlevoix Municipal Course.

Davenport thanked Belvedere golf pro Marty Joy, whose fundraiser Hickory 100 Holes, made possible the two scholarship programs presented by the Charlevoix County Junior Golf Association. He also praised the local golf courses: Antrim Delta, The Belvedere, Charlevoix's Golf and Country Club and the Municipal Course for allowing use of their facilities during their five-week program.

Why should I see an audiologist?

Audiologists hold a master's, research doctoral (Ph.D.), or clinical doctoral (Au.D.) degree from an accredited university with special training in the prevention, identification, assessment, and rehabilitation of persons with hearing impairment. Audiologists are required to complete a fulltime professional experience year and pass a demanding national comprehensive examination for completion of their program. They are required to obtain 10 continuing education hours per year to maintain their license. By virtue of their graduate education, professional certification and licensure, audiologists are the most qualified professionals to perform hearing tests, dispense hearing aids and assistive listening devices and provide rehabilitation services and refer patients for medical treatment.

City leaders question manager work contract

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City manager Rob Straebel became the central topic of conversation at this week's Charlevoix City Council meeting.

Straebel

The only non-unanimous vote of Monday night's session came regarding whether to extend Straebel's employment contract out another three years, now at the end of the first year of his current three-year agreement. Council members did extend the contract by a 4-2 vote, with dissenting votes from councilmen Jeff Porter, of Ward 1, and Leon Perron, of Ward 2, neither of whom faces election next month.

Mayor Norm Carlson Jr. said every year in the past after Straebel's

Hayes Township Park closed for October

Ash tree removal at old Camp Sea-Gull ongoing

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL

CHARLEVOIX — Hayes Township Park, often still known as the old Camp Sea-Gull, is closed to the public for all of October.

"We have a tree crew taking down all the dead and dangerous ash trees," said Marlene Golovich, township clerk.

Estimates are more than 100 dead ash trees can be found throughout the park, along with some other species of hardwood and evergreen. Primarily, though, it's dead ash trees killed by invasive emerald ash borer beetles. Not a single living ash tree can be found, officials said.

"They are starting to lean over buildings and we're worried dead branches may fall on somebody," Golovich said.

Warren Nugent, chairman of the township's parks and recreation committee, said when the parkland first became township property through state grant funding, some area residents expressed concerns about any commercial operations that may happen within the historic summer camp facility.

"There's been a concern that people will think we're logging in here, but we're not," Nugent said.

Technically, township officials authorized trees to be cut down, but borer-infested wood carries a fraction of its value not more than a decade ago when Northern Michigan's hardwood forests remained free of the Asian pest beetle. This type of wood can only be moved under strict state environmental restrictions to classification yards to be immediately chipped and burned for energy.

"The reason we're doing that is for public safety, of course," said Anne Kantola.

The park will be reopened to the public by Nov. 1, officials said.

Meanwhile, township officials press forward with work on a master plan for the park's future uses. A draft version of the plan currently is under review by the board following a series of public hearings for comments, suggestions and critiques.

Golovich said it's expected the township board may tweak the park's master plan further at the coming 7 p.m. Monday, Oct. 13, public meeting at Hayes Township Hall, 9195 Old Highway 31 North, in northwestern Charlevoix County. Or, she said, the board could choose to simply adopt the plan, as written now.

"Then we start making decisions. What are we keeping? What are we getting rid of? Then we have to figure out how to pay for what we're CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Schools leaders recently questioned what seemed to be built-in assumptions about a possible consultant's study and requested those consultants show up and answer some questions.

"It looked like the process could possibly balloon to $15 million," said Bo Boss, board trustee, adding he thought the idea of a $2 million renovation at an existing building sounded like enough.

"It looks like you work with a lot of districts much bigger than ours," said Glen Catt, board trustee.

EAST JORDAN — Jordan River Arts Council currently hosts a fiber arts exhibit titled Rare Threads: Meraki. Meraki is a Greek word which means: loving what you do, putting all your effort and creativity into it; the essence of yourself in your work. Rare Threads: Meraki is a fitting name for the eighth annual fiber arts exhibit currently on display at the Jordan River Art Center in downtown East Jordan. The show runs through Nov. 9, and the juried show features the work of 40 fiber artists from Northern Michigan.

There are more than 80 fiber works on display including quilts, knitted works, garments as wraps, scarves, hats and a dress. On the lower level of the gallery, patrons will find a selection of unique items for sale during the exhibition.

The committee members for the 2014 exhibition said they are especially proud to display the work of two recent award-winning fiber artists: the 2013 ArtPrize grand prize winner, Ann Loveless of Frankfort with her quilted wall hanging entitled "Poppies," and Sharon Gardner with her quilt, "Joy," the first place winner in the 2013 "Quilts by the Bay" competition hosted by the Little Traverse Bay Quilt Guild.

Loveless will teach two workshops for Rare Threads this fall, both in Torch Lake Township Hall, along U.S. 31 in Eastport. The sessions include: — Lake collage workshop, 10 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, Oct.

Telgenhof appointed to cold case and conference committees

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney Allen Telgenhof recently received appointments to two committees for the Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan. Telgenhof will serve on the organization's Cold Case Homicides Committee and Annual Conference Committee.

According to a news release from the association, the committees are made up of select representatives from around the state, and are formed and appointed by the association's president. Committees meet in order to reach the goals of the association: to establish justice, protect victims of crime, and improve the criminal justice system and overall state of Michigan. The association's 2014-2015 president and Cass County Prosecutor, Victor Fitz, made the appointment of Telgenhof. "Al has gained the respect of his peers through his determination and dedication to prosecution. His leadership on these action groups will further public safety in Michigan," Fitz said. Telgenhof will serve a one year term on each committee through August 2015. "I am grateful to President Fitz for the appointments and look forward to serving with my fellow prosecutors from across the state," Telgenhof said. "It is nice to be entrusted with these positions and my involvement will only strengthen my ability to represent the interests of Charlevoix County." The Prosecuting Attorneys Association of Michigan became established in 1928. It is governed by a board of directors consisting of five officers, 14 elected directors, active past presidents and the attorney general. The primary purposes of the association are to promote equal justice in enforcing the state's criminal laws, and continuing the education of prosecutors and other law enforcement officials.

Crowell sent to prison for criminal sexual conduct

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A judge sentenced a Boyne City man to spend the next seven to 15 years in prison after he pleaded no contest to a criminal sexual conduct charge.

On Friday, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas sentenced Bradford Wayne Crowell, 40, to two concurrent terms of seven to 15 years in prison on two charges of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

Charlevoix County prosecuting attorney Allen Telgenhof said Crowell originally faced charges of first-degree criminal sexual conduct on both files, but charges became reduced as part of a plea agreement. The maximum penalty dropped from up to life in prison on the first-degree charge to up to 15 years on the second-degree charge.

A no contest plea is like a guilty plea in that the defendant is held responsible for the crime and accordingly sentenced.

According to Telgenhof, in the police interviews used to establish the factual basis for the crimes, Crowell's victims, ages 13 and 15 at the time, described nearly daily exploitation for an eight-month period in 2013. Both victims addressed the court and following their statements,

Crowell

Judge Richard M. Pajtas described the actions as "horrific."

The sentencing guidelines called for a minimum sentence of between 50 and 100 months.

"We are very happy to have this predator off the streets," Telgenhof said. "These young women were so brave to come forward and face their abuser. Hopefully this will help give them some closure and alleviate some of the fear that they have been feeling for so many years."

NTSB: Weather, pilot error caused fatal January plane crash

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — The National Transportation Safety Board has concluded that poor weather conditions and pilot error are the two probable causes of a single engine airplane crash that claimed the lives of the pilot and his passenger in January.

In its probable cause report issued on Sept. 24, the agency wrote that it "determines the probable cause(s) of this accident as follows: The pilot's failure to maintain control of the airplane as he attempted to return to the airport after encountering dark night conditions

The fixed-wing, single-engine Mooney M20R went down in a wooded area a little more than a mile due east of the Boyne City Municipal Airport runway shortly after taking off in heavy snow. The plane was registered to Lloyd's company, according to the Federal Aviation Administration. The men had been headed for Oakland/Troy Airport in Troy after spending the weekend skiing in the area.

Charlevoix man pleads guilty in dog death

North Point resident admits to shooting neighbor's pet

STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A Charlevoix man who faced animal cruelty charges and allegations that he shot a neighbor's dog that led to the animal's death pleaded guilty to the charge against him.

Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof said on Thursday, Sept. 25, James Jerome Gibbons, 83, pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals resulting in death. The charge is a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and/or a $2,000 fine.

Gibbons faced accusations of shooting his neighbor's dog with a pellet gun resulting in the dog being paralyzed, and later officials euthanized the pet.

Telgenhof said the alleged incident in question took place on May 26 on Gibbons' property on Pa-Bé-Shan Lane in

Gibbons

Charlevoix Township. He said, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office report, "there is no indication that the dog was doing anything wrong other than being in the wrong yard."

Gibbons turned himself in to police on June 6, the same day the charges first became authorized.

District Court Judge James Erhart ordered a pre-sentence investigation to take place in the case. A sentencing date is not yet scheduled.

Gibbons is free from custody after posting a $400 cash bond.

The Prairie

Surrounded, as we are, by the glorious fall colors of our forests, I am reminded and somewhat saddened by the recollection of another, equally vivid display of autumn color. The Tall Grass Prairie in Iowa displays, at this time of year, 20 different grass colors from pale tan to purple and yellow, along with dozens of flowers of every imaginable hue. Don't look for the Iowa color tour on any of your travel agendas. The Tall Grass Prairie, which once covered nearly 90 percent of Iowa, is pretty much gone. The largest single patch of native, undisturbed Iowa prairie is about 160 acres. That is not quite enough to get the full image of prairie autumn that greeted 19th century pioneers.

While teaching for 30 years at Luther College in Iowa, my students and I had access to that patch of prairie. It was magnificent at any season. But autumn was especially long and colorful. That 160-acre area was home to more than 200 different kinds of plants and uncountable numbers of different sorts of insects. No thorough insect census has ever been taken, but the variety of insects is attested to by the presence of 80 different kinds of spiders, all of which ate insects.

Different flowers bloomed throughout the seasons. Everything from two different kinds of gaudy Tiger Lilies to the purple Asters that continued to bloom until late November.

By early fall, the dominant grass plants could be more than six feet. Early settlers talked of losing cattle in the tall prairie.

As a child, I was told stories of the early years on those prairies of children wandering off into the prairie and never found. I doubted such stories until I took several of our children, ages around 5 and 6 years, for a visit to the prairie one fall. They were almost terrified and held a hand much more tightly than they did when crossing a street. When I crouched down to their eye level, I realized why. From the point of view of a small child, the grass and plants were so thick it was impossible to see for more than a few feet in any direction. There were no tall trees or other objects for orientation.

On field trips, I told my students that they were seeing a landscape that looked almost exactly as it had for at least 5,000 years. Every plant, insect and spider living there had managed to survive the hottest summer, the most severe drought, the longest and coldest winter and thousands of prairie fires over those thousands of years. Such durability deserves considerable credit for that reason alone.

Our patch of prairie was surrounded by cultivated corn and soybean fields, each of which harbored dozens of persistent, non-native, invasive weeds. Their seeds are showered on the prairie by the thousands every year. Yet, there were none of those weeds living in the uncultivated prairie. We could dig up a shovel full of prairie earth, take it back to the lab and water it. The local weeds sprouted readily. Why were there none growing in the prairie? Because they could not compete with the network of plants and insects that had been surviving there for millennia. The very few that might be established would be killed by the next prairie fire. Our patch of prairie was burned every third year. A prairie fire, even a small one, is a fearsome thing. Pioneer literature is filled with the terror of prairie fires, as well it should be.

Is there a lesson here about non-native, invasive species? I believe there is. An old, undisturbed ecological community is nearly immune from the invasion of most species. Those that get established accommodate to what is already there. We, the most invasive species of all, prepare the way for other invasive species by altering the community already in long-term existence. There must be a lesson in there somewhere.

Save Charlevoix's public recreation facilities

Editor:
I no longer live in the city proper of Charlevoix but am a native, born and raised in Charlevoix. I am again hearing controversy (following the unwanted chimney) about our public land. I learned to ski at Mount McSaubia and to play golf at the Muni. I did not come from a wealthy family. My dad was a struggling commercial fisherman in my early years. But, because Charlevoix had a commo-nity owned ski hill and golf course, my family was able to take advantage of these wonderful sports. When I got into high school, we were able to ski at Walloon Hills, where they offered family season tickets at a reasonable price to the locals. But then Boyne Mountain, wanting control, bought them out and closed them down, along with Avalanche in Boyne City, where we were hused by Charlevoix Schools on Saturdays to take ski lessons for free. Please do not allow private ownership to close or increase our rates.

Also, I am reading what the Beaver Island Ferry captain, along with the U.S. Coast Guard, are saying about expanding the docks. That is such a beautiful harbor. Why do you want to close it in even more, making it more difficult to navigate through and around? There is plenty of room out into Lake Charlevoix.

The big boats you are trying to accommodate have little boats that can come into Round Lake to shop or dine. Plus, I heard that the big boats blocked Venetian, this year. In the past, they were asked to move out. Do not take any more of our beautiful little harbor away from us. Thank you for your time.

'Muni' course a treasure, hold the course

Editor:
I read, with great interest, the newspaper's report of your Sept. 2 council meeting and the report by Vargo Golf Company. I hope they did not pay much for this report, because it did not make any sense.

I do not think anyone on the council realizes what a jewel they have and they have no idea how to market it.

The golf course is over 118 years old and is one of the oldest golf courses in the United States. It was designed by Mr. Willie Watson. Mr. Watson also designed the Belvedere Golf Course, The Presidio in San Francisco and the Olympic Club also in San Francisco. Seven of the holes on the Charlevoix course are just the way they were laid out 118 years ago.

I feel a good advertising campaign would do wonders to increase our play during June, July and August. Even though we only have nine holes, playing a course as old and well maintained as this course, is what the true golfer is looking for to play when they are on vacation. Plus, I would have the golf course, with a website of its own, tied back to the city's site.

The suggestion that you put in a tunnel (must have two) and add riding carts and serving food makes no sense.

Anyone, in the golf know, will tell you, play is down all over the U.S.A. and many courses are closing in areas where there is a surplus of golf courses. That is not the case in the Charlevoix market area.

I am sure you are asking, "What makes Haggard an expert?" I am not an expert. But, I have been president of a country club for over nine years, which had over 525 members at one time and is now at 350. My observation is that your crew is doing a great job and you are getting a course that will stand up against any in Northern Michigan. When I am in Charlevoix in the summers

I play at least five times a week with Jimmy Harvey, Don Hardy, Bill Ward, Des Milligan and used to play with Elden and Jim Potter before Elden gave up the game. I suggest you ask any or all of them what their feeling about the "muni" is. Charlevoix would not have the top quality men's golf team it has if you did not have the "muni." Also, it would be very hard to start a girls' program, as they are going to do, without the "muni."

Thank you for your attention.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Charlevoix Sentinel Publisher/Editor Willard A. Smith was never one to shy away from telling his fellow residents how to act, especially young men. His newspaper often took the locals to task for their behavior. Smith's mission was to steer them onto the correct path, with no words minced.

Here is an example, from late spring of 1893: "Charlevoix people, who live here, and who built the sidewalks and own them, have a code of summer manners that should be strictly observed. When a crowd of your transient summer friends, four abreast, meet you on the sidewalk it is your duty, under the provisions of the aforementioned code, to immediately step into the street, or to the opposite side — at any rate get off the walk, and don't use any profane language. There is plenty of room for you in the street or the adjoining lawn. It is much better to step off than to be pushed off. You, as a taxpayer of the city, have the undisputed right to the sidewalks nine months of the year, and you should be willing to surrender them the other three months. Of course, most of the population of Charlevoix have been poorly brought up, and it is quite natural that they should occasionally violate the rules of hospitable courtesy. But whatever you do or do not do, get off the sidewalk when required, during July, August, and September."

It is not evident in the photo why so many men are walking in the dirt of Bridge Street, especially since the raised wood sidewalk at left appears to be quite bare of pedestrians.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Castle Farms holds Fright Night to support Montessori School

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farms will host the ninth annual community-wide Fright Night celebration this year from 6:30-11 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 24, at 5052 M-66 North in Charlevoix.

The fun-filled, adults-only, costume party will benefit the Charlevoix Children's House Montessori School. Dinner, drinks, dancing and live auctions will highlight the big party.

Although still in the process of collecting auction items and recruiting sponsors, committee members already gathered some incredible offerings.

"Disney World hopper tickets, skydiving passes, trip and spa package and signed sports memorabilia. There really is something for everyone," said Perry Hodgson, chairperson of the Children's House Fright Night Committee.

Dr. Ryan McConnell will lead the evening's festivities as the event's emcee and deejay. This is his second year to provide the music and he is back by popular demand.

Molly Arnold, director of the Charlevoix Children's House Montessori School, as seen with several of her young students after school.

Costumes are encouraged but not required and there will be the return of the annual and highly-competitive costume contest. Last year's winners were Roderic and Pat Tinney, of East Jordan, who dressed as a dog and fire hydrant. "I look forward to this event every year," said Molly Arnold, Children's House director. "It seems to be one of the highlights of the Halloween season in Charlevoix. The Knight's Castle at Castle Farms is the perfect setting. Everyone comes together for a night of enjoyment and it is such a wonderful way for the community to support the children at our school."

Tickets for the event include dinner and drinks and cost $45 per person in advance and $50 at the door. Tickets are available at Family Fare in Charlevoix, Lake Street Market in Boyne City and Bearnh Outfitters in Petoskey.

All proceeds from the event will support operating expenses of the Charlevoix Children's House, a nonprofit organization that guides, nurtures and enriches individuals from 3-6 years.

BOYNE CITY — The Little Traverse Conservancy will host an autumn program at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 11, at the Darnton Family Preserve.

Conservancy education coordinator Sarah Mayhew will lead a free 2.5-mile hiking tour on this recently acquired nature preserve located on the outskirts of Boyne City on Behling Road. This property is 220 acres that feature a wide variety of natural habitats. It is comprised of old hay fields, northern hardwood forests, pine plantations, conifer swamp wetlands surrounding Porter Creek, a trout stream and important tributary to Lake Charlevoix that all are welcomed to enjoy.

Hikers of all ages are welcomed to come and enjoy the fall colors and explore the nature preserve that provides a vast amount of recreational opportunities year around. It is a prime spot for snowshoeing and cross-country skiing in the winter and there are plans to create a mountain biking trail on the horizon.

met, Cheboygan, Mackinac and Chippewa counties of Northern Michigan. Trail clearing, bridge and boardwalk building and creating parking space for each preserve is a key service that is provided to the community by this nonprofit organization. They work to balance natural resources and provide recreational opportunities such as bird watching, fishing, hunting and kayaking, as well as hiking and many more activities for the community to enjoy at no charge.

The Darnton Family Preserve now provides Wilson Township with a natural recreation area for the community to enjoy, as there is very little public land in that area. The autumn tour is a great way to discover and enjoy this priceless recreational nature area.

There is no charge for this event, but preregistration is required.

"This property provides outstanding views in all directions. Join us ... for a wonderful opportunity to get outdoors and see a lovely piece of property and take in these spectacular fall colors we're experiencing," Mayhew said.

Clothesline Project highlights domestic violence awareness through participant creativity

CHARLEVOIX — The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan is hosting a Clothesline Project display during October at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St. The display coincides with National Domestic Abuse Awareness Month and currently is available for public viewing and reflection through Oct. 29.

The visual display consists of more than 40 T-shirts designed by local survivors of domestic abuse and sexual assault. The shirts are a creative way for survivors to explore the power of their unique voices, tell their stories and for the community to bear witness to this extraordinary, enlightening and empowering process.

The Clothesline Project began in 1990 in Cape Cod, Mass., to focus attention on the pervasive issue of violence against women and since became a worldwide campaign with an estimated 500 projects nationally and internationally involving about 50,000-60,000 T-shirts.

"The shirts represented in this local Clothesline Project display represent each person's personal experience with violence," said Chris Krajewski, domestic abuse and sexual assault program director at the WRCNM. "The messages are so impactful because they are raw and so brutally honest they take your breath away. The shirts show the pain, fear and anger that survivors experience, as well as hope and healing."

For more information about the Clothesline Project, contact the Women's Resource Center at (231) 347-0067.

OBITUARIES

Lowell E. 'Bud' Lee, 82

Lowell E. "Bud" Lee, 82, of Charlevoix, died Thursday, Oct. 2, 2014, at his home. He was born April 25, 1932, in Lansing, to Robert C. and Clysta L. (Carmoney) Lee. After graduating from high school, he attended Lansing Business School and North Central Michigan College.

Bud served as an Army corporal in the Military Police stationed in France and Germany following World War II. After being honorably discharged, he owned a mechanics shop in Lansing. He lived in San Diego, Calif., for a short time. He moved to Charlevoix to assist in the construction of the Dunmaglas and Chestnut Valley golf courses. He put his carpentry skills to work building homes in Bay Harbor and the Charlevoix area. He helped many people with his talents and skills.

Bud was an avid SCUBA diver. While building his parent's home on Six Mile Lake, he would often swim across the lake and back. He enjoyed motorcycle riding and racing and earned a private pilot's license. He built an amphibious airplane that he loved to fly.

Throughout his life, he made himself available to anyone who needed his help. His greatest pleasure was helping others. Lowell will be in our hearts, thoughts and prayers forever as he was so loved.

On July 19, 1985, he married Susanne Staley. He is survived by his wife, Sosie; children, Lowell Lee, Jr., Catherine (John) Bean, Loel Steven Lee, Danielle (Matthew) Swank; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren; sisters, Sandra (Bill) McDade, and Vada Lee; brother, Thyron (Lorraine) Lee; his beloved dogs, Tigger and Lucky.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Robert and Clysta; brothers, Orman K., Carmon E., and Leon S. Lee.

Visitation took place at 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 5, at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, where the funeral followed at 2 p.m. The Rev. Gregory Culver officiated assisted by Dr. F. James Stewart.

Memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Northwest Michigan, 220 West Garfield, Charlevoix, MI 49720, or to the Charlevoix United Methodist Church, 104 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Ellen Ione O'Donnell Baum

Ellen Ione O'Donnell Baum died Friday, Oct. 3, 2014, in Charlevoix, Mich. Ellen Ione O'Donnell Baum formerly of Lansing, Mich., began her eternal journey on Oct. 3, 2014, to meet her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ face to face. She was born Nov. 24, 1918, in Alma, Mich., to Paul Joseph O'Donnell and Carrie Lena (Wart) O'Donnell.

She is survived by her children, Wayne (Lynette) Baum of Lansing, Bonnie Newhouse (Art) of Traverse City, Richard Baum (Kathy) of Okemos, and Barbara Vogel (Bill) of East Jordan; stepdaughters, Marion Crawford (Joyce) of Eustis, Fla., and Connie Thome (Bill) of Sault Ste. Marie; and special niece, Marilyn Wilmot (Charlie), of Torch Lake. Ione is survived by 17 grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren and many nieces and nephews. Ione was preceded in death by her parents; Paul and Carrie O'Donnell; husband, Ted, in 1980; sisters, Helen and Ruby; brothers, Harold and Dale and Dale's twin, Gale, in infancy; as well as all her aunts and uncles.

Ione was active on the student council and active in sports in high school, graduating from Alma High School in 1937.

She was married to Theodore "Ted" in 1942, whom she met while working for Alma Trailer Factory. The family settled in Mount Morris where Wayne and Bonnie were born before moving to Alpena in 1949. Son Richard was born in Alpena, then the family moved to Alma where Barbara was born in 1952. The family moved to their cottage in Hughton Lake in 1955, before finally settling in the Lansing area five years later where all four children graduated from Lansing Everett High School.

Throughout Ione's life her excellent work ethic always was demonstrated to all those around her, whatever the job God gave her to do. Most memorable to her family was her returning to work when the oldest were in junior high school. Mother was hired to work at the candy counter in the F.W. Woolworth's store in downtown Lansing. A few years later when the company built a new store in South Lansing, she was promoted to personnel manager. Son, Wayne encouraged her to go return to school a few years later and she began taking night classes in accounting and typing and later encouraged her to apply for an open position for the City of Lansing in the Parks Department in 1965. A few years later she transferred to the accounting department where she retired in 1983.

After retirement, she immersed herself in church activities at Christ Lutheran Church in Lansing. Those activities continued in her new church after moving north to Charlevoix in 1987 to be closer to her daughters and their families and to enjoy the beauty of Northern Michigan. She quickly became an active member of her new congregation, Bethany Lutheran Church, and a number of community organizations. She served on the board of directors for the Rainbow Shoppe, and was a member of Senior Citizens Club and Newcomers Club. She spent many hours collecting soap from area motels to donate them as well as canned goods to Lutheran World Relief.

In her later years, she joined other family members in researching her family tree. Ione's rich family history dates back to Charlemagne (Charles the Great) (800-814) Holy Roman Emperor; Alfred the Great of England (871-899), and other kings in England and Scotland. Most notable in America was one of the passengers on the Mayflower, John Howland, who signed the Mayflower Compact aboard ship on Nov. 11, 1620, while the Mayflower was anchored in what is now Provincetown Harbor at the northern tip of Cape Cod.

Ione's children and family give thanks and praise to God for the blessing of a devout Christian mother. Mother's life has been an example to us of integrity and hard work always demonstrating the unfailing love of Christ in whatever circumstances and surroundings God placed her. She could be found wherever the need was — caring for loved ones, serving her church, baking, or transporting friends to doctor's appointments until at 90 she was no longer able to drive. We celebrate and give God the glory for almost 96 years of her witness.

The family requests any monetary contributions should be made to Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix.

The funeral took place at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7, at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Arthur Newhouse officiated. Interment was 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 8, at North Cemetery in Lansing.

The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling the arrangements.

The Grand Bridal Expo at Castle Farms annually features a fashion show that features wedding gowns and other formal wear.

Grand Bridal Expo on tap at Castle

Signature Northern Michigan wedding event in its 10th year

GERI DIETZ
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Castle Farms hosts its 10th annual Grand Bridal Expo from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 26, at the historic site at 5052 M-66 North in Charlevoix.

The popular event will feature workshops, door prizes and more than 50 vendors representing virtually all of the wants and needs of today's bride and groom. Photographers, caterers, florists, lodging, formal wear, and — new this year — jewelry and gifts are among the vendors. Workshops, scheduled from 1-3 p.m., include wedding budgets and videography.

The expo is the largest in the area and represents the best offerings in wedding services.

"We really try to promote local vendors," said Johanna Alexander, wedding planner and venue coordinator for Castle Farms.

Alexander said the expo is a popular and convenient source for area brides, as well as those from Metro Detroit, Grand Rapids, and increasingly, out of state — most notably from the Chicago area. This demographic speaks to the continuing popularity of the area for destination weddings, especially in the Charlevoix area.

"Planning is very easy because the brides can come to the expo and book what they need in one trip, rather than having to travel back and forth," Alexander said.

Grey Gables Restaurant and Catering participated at the expo each year since the beginning.

"We've catered about 80 or more weddings at Castle Farms, ranging from 35 to 450 guests," said Darren Romano, Grey Gables owner and chef. "I think the staff and owners have worked hard to create a magical setting for the bride and groom. Charlevoix is lucky to have this great property."

Petoskey Bridal is another regular business at the expo and will present approximately 100 examples of formal wear during the Grand Finale Fashion Show at 3 p.m.

"This is our biggest show and we love working with Castle Farms," said Geri Belfy, manager of the full-service, family-owned salon. "It's a great venue and the staff does a great job of bringing people in to see the show."

Belfy said Petoskey Bridal benefits from the exposure.

"We get quite a few big customers from the expo, and many others pay us a visit for something that they might need," she said.

A drawing for the Grand Giveaway, a wedding package valued at more than $15,000, will conclude the fashion show. Entrant must be present to win and complete details are available at www.castlefarms.com online.

Admission is $6 per person at the door. Food, beer, and wine will be available for purchase in the celebration lounge. For more information, call (231) 237-0884.

Charlevoix area doc retires after 39 years

Charlevoix Area Hospital announces the retirement of Freidinger duo CHARLEVOIX — Dr. Reed K. Freidinger retired from his practice at Charlevoix Area Hospital on Tuesday, Sept. 30.

Freidinger retired along with his wife, Janet, who has been his long-time nurse and office manager. He became interested in medicine at a very young age as a result of two neighbors who were doctors. He said he always liked science and can't really remember a time when he wasn't fascinated by it.

"It's always been very gratifying to help people in need," said retiring Dr. Freidinger. "I've spent a lot of time at this hospital and the staff has been wonderful. The nurses have been my eyes and ears. They make the doctors look good."

Dr. Freidinger graduated from Alhion College in 1967 and the Wake Forest University School of Medicine in 1971. His internship was at Swedish Hospital Medical Center in Seattle, Wash., and his residency was at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. Dr. Freidinger said that although he enjoyed other areas of medicine, internal medicine was always his main interest and what he wanted to pursue. Together, he and his wife, Janet, moved to Charlevoix in 1975 where he began his long-term relationship with Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The Freidingers have had the pleasure of a third member of their family in attendance at the office for the last five years. Lady Bentley is their registered therapy dog — a beautiful Cavalier King Charles spaniel with a gentle demeanor and sweet disposition. She will no doubt be missed by Dr. Freidinger's patients, who often look forward to seeing her whenever they come in for an office visit.

The Freidingers plan on enjoying the early days of their retirement by heading west and doing some much-anticipated traveling. The fall will be spent taking in the beauty of the south rim of Grand Canyon with visits to Sedona and San Francisco, where their daughter resides. They plan on staying in Charlevoix for the summers and winters ahead, thoroughly enjoying both seasons in Northern Michigan. The spring and fall will find them exploring the west and southwest, and ultimately the Pacific Coast Highway.

The beautiful retirement cake shows two dates: July 1, 1975 and September 30, 2014. The dates indicate more than 39 years of faithful service to his beloved patients. The Charlevoix Area Hospital family wishes them well and thanks them both for their many, many years of service to our local communities.

A tribute to their practice, Jackie Boog was their receptionist for 22 years, just recently moving on to another position as a result of the Freidingers' retirement.

When asked what he would miss most, Dr. Freidinger's smile became more serious. "It's the patients and the nurses. Many of these folks have become long-time friends. We have been with them through good times and hard times and really do love them."

FOX MOTORS

Fox Motors hosts Drive for Kids at elementary school

CHARLEVOIX — Representatives from Fox Motors will team up with parents in an upcoming fundraiser to help raise money for Charlevoix Elementary School at the annual Grandfriend's Day from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 10, at the school.

Parents and guests can earn a $10 contribution for the school from Chrysler brand by taking a brief test drive in the company's award-winning minivan, the 2014 Chrysler Town & Country. Any licensed driver, age 18 years and older, may drive for the donation. Fox Motors will provide minivans and dealership volunteers to answer questions and help out with the fundraising test drives.

"Grandfriend's Day/Chrysler Drive for Kids is a fun day," said principal Doug Drenth. "And we are pleased to have this opportunity from Chrysler brand to help push our fundraising goals over the top. This day includes students having a special 'grandfriend' come to their classroom and to lunch with them and The Drive for Kids, which takes place in the front circle of the school and only takes a few minutes to complete; and this is also Applefest and Homecoming weekend in Charlevoix. So, it truly is a special time to be in town."

More than $5 million has collectively been raised by Chrysler since the company introduced Drive for Kids in 1993.

BOYNE FALLS

Chandler Hills hosts second Kiersten's Ride

BOYNE FALLS — The second annual fundraiser Kiersten's Ride happened in August at Chandler Hills Campground, where 54 people supported the event either on horseback or all-terrain vehicle.

Between participants and business sponsors, the event raised nearly $11,000 for suicide prevention programs across Northern Michigan. Top fundraisers included a 14-year-old Charlevoix girl who participated on horseback and an ATV rider from East Jordan.

Any rider raising $50 or more in sponsorships received a T-shirt and those raising $250 or more received a sweatshirt. The back of each shirt bears a simple but heartfelt statement "Making a difference," because event organizers believe together communities really can save lives.

The ride is organized in memory of the late Kiersten Clavier, of East Jordan, who died at age 17 by suicide. Organizers said special

Great Lakes Energy awards People Fund grant to Charlevoix Library for lighting

CHARLEVOIX — The Great Lakes Energy People Fund recently awarded the Charlevoix Public Library with a $1,300 grant which was used to purchase and install spotlights in the library's community meeting rooms.

The money supplied by Boyne City-based Great Lakes Energy users who support The People Fund by voluntarily rounding up their bills to the next highest dollar, goes to various nonprofit organizations and charitable activities that benefit people in communities served by the cooperative.

The new spotlights enhance the ambience during concerts, as well as help light the individuals in the library speaker series. The adjustable fixtures light up performers and create more of a concert atmosphere. And, speakers in the lecture series can now be seen while presenting a slide show, not just heard.

Council weighs in on new public mural project

Downtown officials to make final call on artistic design

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City council members this week expressed their thoughts about a newly commissioned public mural to be installed in downtown Charlevoix, a project expected to be finalized at this month's Downtown Development Authority board meeting.

Most of the comments were about the details and hues within the actual artwork, but not all of them.

"No. 1, you don't have the money for the mural, let alone maintenance of the mural," said dentist Jeff Porter, councilman from Ward 1.

Bethany Pearson, the city's economic development director with the DDA, explained how the city received $3,300 in grant dollars from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation and Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs to create such an art installation. However, downtown officials commissioned from among three pre-selected artists who submitted proposals the well-known mural creator Katherine Larson to do a five-panel, aluminum mural expected to be installed along the Clinton Street brick wall at Central

The images above show the two options for a downtown mural. Option No. 1 (top) and option No. 2 (above).

Drug Store.

The expected bill? About $10,750, precisely $4,750 over the budget the downtown board established for the project in early conversations. But fundraising efforts already collected $1,200 toward the difference, Pearson reported.

"We thought it was well worth the money to accept, Ms. Larson's proposal," Pearson said.

Porter questioned how the downtown organization intends to pay for the artwork when knowingly facing expected budget shortfalls in coming years. "Where's the rest of the money coming from?" he asked.

"The mural is being commissioned this year," Pearson replied. She further said an initial commission payment will be made this year, with the final payment already planned to come from next year's downtown budget.

Porter also said after speaking with a top official at Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey he questions whether any mural can hold up to Northern Michigan winter weather over time.

The mural panels will be sealed in a clear coat similar to vehicles, and expected maintenance costs for the outdoor installation is $3,500 every 10 years, Pearson said. Council Ward 1 write-in candidate Mary Eveleigh questioned whether the Michigan Department of Transportation must approve of the art display since it will be visible to southbound motorists on U.S. 31, Pearson explained how DDA board member Todd Wyatt, who sits on the MDOT Transportation Commission, already checked on that matter and because this is public artwork and not a sign, it is not prohibited by state law.

"But there is a sign on it. It says 'Welcome to Charlevoix the Beautiful,'" Porter interjected.

"I think you better check with the highway department," Eveleigh said.

Pearson said she would forward the final design to MDOT officials for review, as requested.

Finally, the five painted aluminum panels are intended to reflect Charlevoix's history during the course of time from the 1920s to the 1960s. In an effort to be as historically accurate as possible, the Charlevoix lighthouse in the panel representing the 1930s will be painted red or white, whichever is historically true for that decade, according to research expected to be done by Daye Miles, a member of both the Charlevoix Historical Society and artwork selection committee, Pearson reported.

In addition to Pearson and Miles, the artwork selection committee included Amanda Wilkin from the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, John Ochs from Central Drug Store, and Bob Klein from Charlevoix Circle of Arts.

The DDA board members are expected to make a final decision about the artistic design at their coming meeting at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27, on the second floor of city hall, 210 State St. in downtown Charlevoix.

Scoreboard dedicated to legendary coach

Board OK's Don Carey commemoration at Kipke Field

SHERI MCWHIRTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Schools leaders unanimously agreed with the Rayder Gridiron Club that the new scoreboard at Kipke Field should be commemorated in honor of Charlevoix's legendary football coach Don Carey.

Members of the board of education voted on Oct. 2 to make the dedication and allow the club to order a sign to be made to reflect the public commemoration. Plenty of testimonials helped make the board's decision easier.

"Don didn't just coach football during football season," said Roger Gowell, who served as Carey's assistant coach for multiple years.

Before him, Charlevoix harbormaster Hal Evans spoke about working with Carey and how the man's name comes up over and over during talks about legendary Charlevoix football games, teams and seasons. Evans even let his voice crack when he said about Carey, "He deserves this."

Carey served as Charlevoix's head football coach from 1955-1985.

His many accomplishments include: being recognized by the Venetian Festival Committee as a Charlevoix Sports Legend in 2004; career football win/loss record of 133 wins/61 losses/15 ties while coaching in Charlevoix; his 1977 team stayed undefeated (9-0) and was voted No. 1 in the state in Class C by United Press International; voted Regional Class C Coach of the Year in 1977; the 1958 team remained undefeated (8-0) and unscored upon, outscoring ing their opponents 321-0; 1959 team also remained undefeated and outscored their opponents 260-19; and, Carey served as head basketball coach in Charlevoix from 1955-1970.

"That's 28 years and it's not just the Friday nights," said music teacher Gary Stutzman, who said he worked with Carey as a fellow teacher, and even played for him "a few years ago." Stutzman underscored that it wasn't just about winning records for Carey, either, as he greatly contributed to educational efforts during his hours in the classroom.

Board member Valerie Snyder said the notion of naming or dedicating a scoreboard previously seemed questionable to her, but after she heard the testimonials about Carey's character and impact to the district, she changed her mind.

"I'm not really big on naming things on public property," said Bo Boss, adding this case somehow seems different. "He was my coach, too."

Board vice-president Dick Joseph said he wants to make sure the district doesn't do this type of commemoration on public property "all the time."

"I just think we need to be careful going forward not naming every goal post," Joseph said.

Board president Kevin Pearsall thanked the members of the nonprofit Rayder Gridiron Club at the meeting for the donation of the high-tech scoreboard to the public school at Charlevoix's Kipke Field.

Patrick Faust, president of the club, said the donation is a true gift to the public.

"We don't feel we own the board. It is the community's board," he said.

Faust even added how the club wants to explore additional uses for the equipment, perhaps including pumping music out the speakers while walkers exercise on the school's track for several hours a day, for example.

its first orphan care and adoption ministry. Subsequently, he served as the first national director of church partnerships at Bethany Christian Services, the largest adoption and orphan care agency in the United States. He is currently fulfilling his ministry by speaking on behalf of children with special needs who need to be adopted.

On a personal level, Carr walks the walk. He and his wife Beth, a deaf educator, are the parents of five children, two of whom are adopted deaf children from China. Along with being a conference speaker in support of this cause, Carr authored the book "Orphan Justice: How to Care for Orphans Beyond Adopting," which challenges churches to rethink their handling of social justice issues related to orphan care.

Locally, the church became an advocate for orphan awareness. Their participation vehicle is an orphan ministry called FACES (an acronym for Foster-Adopt-Care-Educate-Support). Community Reformed Church began an orphan ministry in 2010 as a result of the National Orphan Sunday started by Christian Alliance for Orphans. FACES developed as a result of a growing awareness of the needs of vulnerable children and families who live within the community and throughout the world.

According to Karlee Philp, one of the local church's adoptive parents, "Lynda Stolt (a church member) came up with the acronym and logo based on who we were and what we felt God was calling us to do as a ministry."

The Charlevoix Community Reformed Church organized its first Orphan Sunday in 2011. By sponsoring the annual event and by bringing in nationally known speakers who advocate for the plight of orphans and those who care for them, they are continuing their mission to inspire participation with many available aspects of orphan care.

FACES offers a WRAP (acronym for Wrestle in Prayer, Respite Care, Acts of Service, Promise of God) program that matches a "family coordinator" with a family undergoing adoption or providing temporary care to a foster child. The goal is to provide practical guidance and support to foster and adoptive families.

FACES advocates there being a place for everyone, regardless of age or situation, in ministering to vulnerable children. They believe that there is an orphan crisis right here and it isn't a problem for someone else; it's everyone's responsibility in care about these kids and show them love.

For more information about FACES or Orphan Sunday weekend on Nov. 1-2, call (231) 547-9482 or (231) 675-5710, or visit www.faces-ministry.com.

than three miles, winds gusting to 25 knots and precipitation including mist and blowing snow.

According to the NTSB report, several witnesses reported hearing the airplane heading west back toward the Boyne City Municipal Airport.

"Another witness stated that, due to the snow, he could only see the airplane's lights but that it appeared that the airplane banked 'hard,' pitched up and down, and accelerated as it descended," the report reads.

The airplane crashed into a wooded area about 1,500 feet off the roadway making it difficult for rescue crews to reach the crash site terrain about one mile east of the airport.

Officials also said "an examination of the airplane and engine did not reveal any preimpact anomalies that would have prevented normal operation."

"The pilot was likely trying to return to the airport after encountering dark night conditions and heavy snow showers and subsequently lost control of the airplane," the report reads.

State officials to discuss human trafficking at luncheon

CHARLEVOIX — An official from the state attorney general's office will speak to members of the Northern Michigan Republican Women's Club about efforts to combat human trafficking in Michigan.

The discussion will take place during a group luncheon from 11:30 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11, at the Weathervane Restaurant in Charlevoix.

Cost is $20 per person, which includes lunch. Those interested in attending should contact Denise Pallarito at (989) 390-1167 or John Haggard at (231) 342-2905.

Scott Greenlee, who works in Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette's office, will lead the discussion.

Schuette is taking on what he terms the fastest growing form of criminal activity in the world, whether for forced labor or sexual exploitation. The attorney general helped establish a special task force to catch and prosecute human traffickers.

Greenlee will also discuss the state's "OK2SAY" initiative, which strives to connect Michigan students and parents with community mental health service programs and law enforcement in an effort to respond more quickly to safety threats in schools.

The goal of "OK2SAY" is to prevent a violent event before it occurs by encouraging students to report potential threats to the proper authorities. The effort established a tip line that allows for submissions by telephone, text, website, email and other forms of communication.

land, and Clark Construction Company, of Southfield, respectively, initially discussed their building assessment proposal during an Aug. 27 school board work session at the district's administrative office.

"I'm not sure where $2 million will get you, to be honest," Blanchard said at the Oct. 2 special meeting of the school board at Round Lake Educational Center, or the former middle school.

Board vice-president Dick Joseph questioned why there is no fixed cost for the buildings assessment. Why does it have to be automatically tied to a bond proposal and millage request of voters?

"I didn't think we were going to jump into a millage camp," Joseph said.

Board secretary/treasurer Valerie Snyder said her concern is that the discussion evolved from a strategic plan to a building assessment and now even more future plans and demands of taxpayers.

The buildings assessment concept is meant to determine the best possible efficiencies and enrollment distribution for the district across its bricks and mortar facilities. The companies work together on some projects, GMB doing studies and designs, with Clark managing the construction phase.

"We just don't want to be surprised," Boss said. "I'd like to know what your costs are up front before we go forward."

Blanchard said the preference of his company is for districts to go forward with architectural designs and construction, of course, which typically is what happens for them.

"We don't make money doing studies. We make money doing architectural design," Blanchard said.

In the end, Blanchard and Steller agreed to put together an actual figure for the cost of the building assessment study, should the school board not vote to move forward with architectural drawings and eventual construction — all of which would require voter approval.

The board is next expected to publicly meet at 6 p.m. Monday, Oct. 20, again at Round Lake Educational Center, or the former middle school. School leaders could again discuss this issue at that time.

going to do," Golovich said.

So far, a state grant application remains pending for a potential new boat launch within the park situated about midway along the northern shoreline of Lake Charlevoix. Also, the Boyne City-Charlevoix non-motorized recreational trail is expected to enter the right-of-way in the park, which will serve as a trailhead with bathroom facilities and adequate parking.

As for the rest, the township park design remains unfinished, but with plenty of possibilities, officials said.

"It's important to make the best use of this property, while also preserving the property," Kantola said.

THEA OTTESEN, winner of the 2014 Apple Fest Shirt Design Competition, shows her winning logo.

Exchange student wins 2014 Apple Fest shirt design contest

CHARLEVOIX — The winner of the 36th annual Charlevoix Apple Fest Shirt Design Competition is Thea Ottesen, a senior exchange student from Denmark.

The competition is sponsored by the Charlevoix High School Art Department and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce, with the winning logo and shirt on sale at the Apple Fest merchandise booth, along with collectible Apple Fest Mason jar mugs and other souvenirs during the Oct. 10-12 downtown festival.

Students in John Guirey's design class put creative skills to the test to produce a variety of unique and colorful Apple Fest logo designs. The students compete each year for the honor of having their artwork chosen to grace the front of the annual festival shirt. A number of students entered the competition, but Ot-tesen's design stood out from the rest.

"It is such a pleasure to work with the high school and to get the students involved with such a great community event," said Shelly Ferguson, vice-president of the Charlevoix chamber. "There were so many wonderful designs submitted by the students this year. It was difficult to choose just one winner."

Ottesen will soon have an opportunity to visit the festival that inspired her award-winning design.

"This is my first time in Charlevoix, so I have never been to the Apple Fest before," she said. "I have heard a lot of good things about it and I'm really looking forward to experiencing the festival myself."

For more information on the winning logo or about the upcoming Apple Fest, contact the Charlevoix chamber at (231) 547-2101 or visit www.charlevoix.org online.

CONTRACT

evaluation, council members showed support by renewing his contract to extend out three years and accompany a 2-percent pay increase, in line with other city department heads.

"I think it's kind of premature to give someone a three-year contract now," said councilwoman Shirley Gihson of Ward 3, further questioning why city leaders not wait until just one year remains on Straebel's employment contract.

"I have no problem with the 2-percent raise," Gihson said.

Mayor Carlson said the idea behind always extending the work contract is to keep Straebel from searching for other, potentially better, employment opportunities.

"I just think it gives him some confidence from council at this time," Carlson said.

Straebel said he remains fully committed to Charlevoix.

"If the council doesn't pass this tonight, I still have two years on my contract," he said.

Additionally, Gihson inquired whether a multiyear employment contract precludes the manager job from being considered an at-will position with the city. The consensus said it wouldn't.

"If the new council decides to get rid of Roh, it has to be by a two-thirds vote, to start," Carlson said.

A new Charlevoix City Council will be seated before year's end, with the coming Nov. 4 general election. At least one new face inevitably will appear, as incumbent councilman Lyle Gennett declined the nomination for his Ward 1 seat and intends to move outside Charlevoix for the winter. Write-in candidates Mary Eveleigh and Luther Kurtz now race for that open chair on the council's dais.

On a related note, write-in candidate Bill Supernaw will challenge the recently appointed partial-term councilwoman Peggy Brennan in the city's Ward 2. Incumbent councilman Shane Cole remains unchallenged in the Ward 3 race and former councilman Gabe Campbell — who retired from council in November 2013 by not seeking re-election — now seeks the mayor's office in a race against the incumbent Carlson.

What all that means is at least one new council member is to be expected, and as many as two council seats and the mayor's post could be filled by new people. That could sway the course of decision making in Charlevoix.

Also at Monday's session,

Straebel proposed to council members that they hire one of two highly recommended consultants — one at $4,000 and the other at $4,300 — to help with strategic planning for the city's coming budget preparations for next fiscal year. Council members outright scoffed at that idea, though.

"What you're sort of proposing here is going nuclear," Porter said to Straebel.

Perron said when he asked in past months for an improved budgeting process, he didn't mean hiring outside folks to do what city employees and representatives ought to handle. Something more like two budget work sessions planned out with council members is what Perron said he envisioned, rather than a single nine-hour marathon work meeting with all department heads, along with committee, board and council members present to discuss the budget virtually line by line.

"I like the concept of this, but I don't want to pay for something we can handle," Gihson agreed.

City treasurer Joe Zielinski said it could be bad for morale across city departments if council members arbitrarily decide budget figures for all programs and operations without input from workers.

"If we knew what your concerns were, it could help us focus with the department heads," Zielinski said.

In the end, Straebel suggested and the council agreed by consensus to plan an informal budget work session, within 1-2 weeks of the election outcome to set the city's general priorities. The hope would be to have a draft city budget for council members to review in December, he said, with additional budget work sessions able to be scheduled afterward.

Lyle Gennett Endorses Luther Kurtz As Write-In Candidate For City Council

"After serving on the Charlevoix City Council for eight years, I am stepping down. My name will still be on the November ballot; however, I will not accept the nomination and I will be endorsing and supporting Luther Kurtz as the write-in candidate for First Ward. Luther is presently on the DDA and is a business owner in Charlevoix. I thank my supporters for my years served on the council and would appreciate it if they would now support Luther." —Lyle Gennett

A WOMAN'S CANCER

Nothing represents femininity in the public mind more than a woman's breasts. Breasts beautify and define a woman's figure and nourish her newborn babies. Breasts, situated so close to the heart, embody comfort, love, and the place where sorrows are healed.

Breast cancer affects women in their most tender, secret places. And it is from these depths that they must find the resources to drive out the intruder that has invaded their most intimate space.

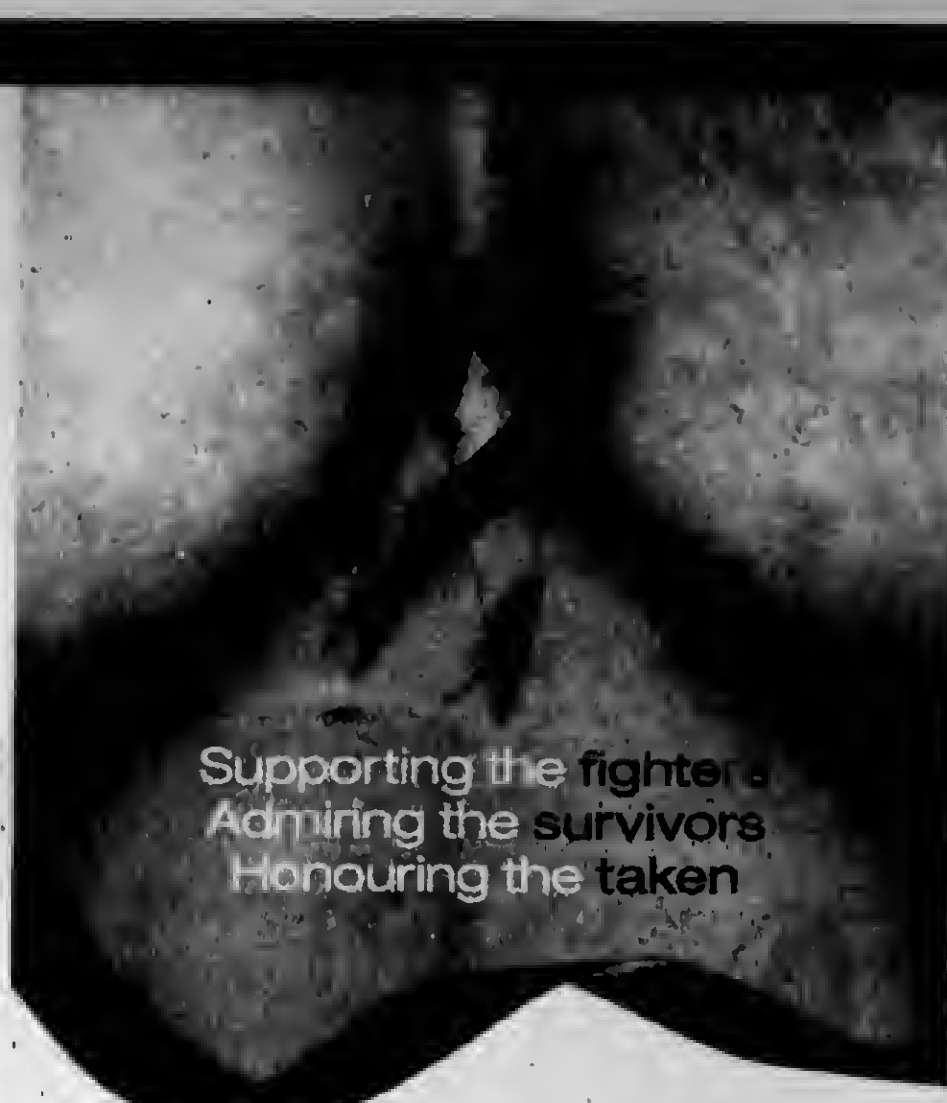

A breast cancer diagnosis, given after a long and agonizing wait, has a devastating effect. However, treatment success rates for this type of cancer encourage women to take immediate action in order to quickly regain their health.

Wisely, most women can confide in their family and friends, ask for help, and participate in support groups; this step is all about finding allies in their battle. These women can thus better focus on their healing, knowing that their positive attitude is an advantage. However, that doesn't mean that they should become disconnected from their emotions and ignore all the ups and downs they are bound to feel.

To cross these tumultuous waters and stay the course, each woman must find her own path and invariant oases of peace where she can recharge her batteries. Massages, relaxation, a makeover, solitary walks, and outings with friends are therapeutic. The recovering woman must dare to give in to her impulsiveness! The intruder will quickly understand that she is very much alive and still master of her destiny.

When a woman receives a cancer diagnosis, her world collapses around her. This is the time for her to draw on both her mental and physical resources.

IT'S TIME TO ADMIT IT, GENTLEMEN!

The breast cancer message is almost always wrapped up with a pink ribbon, isn't it, fellas? That's not so surprising, given that the number of women affected is huge, compared to that of affected men, but the reality is that men do get breast cancer. And in all the breast cancer awareness publicity, it can be hard for a man to find his place.

Many men would swap breast cancer for prostate cancer, if they only had the chance! A lot of people have the mistaken belief that only women have breasts, simply because the female chest is more pronounced and more eroticized. By believing in this fiction, men who find a lump in their breast tissue may feel that their manhood is threatened and enter into a game of denial for which they pay a heavy price.

Already less inclined than women to consult a doctor, men tend to guard their secret in order to avoid ridicule. Inwardly, they feel angry and frustrated, which prevents them from channeling their energy in the right direction. They deprive themselves of all the benefits normally sought by women, such as demystifying the disease, getting professional support, sharing with family and peers, dealing with fear, and getting empathy and respect from friends.

Gentlemen, this ridiculous situation has gone on long enough. Hold your heads up and drive away your feelings of discomfort. Bet on essentials rather than trivialities, solidarity rather than isolation. Choose your battle!

Now that you know that breast cancer does not have a sex, how about adding a bit of blue sky to the monochrome landscape of the pink wave? You're still hesitating? Then forget the pink wave and think of the billions of drops in the ocean—each one has its own color, and you are one of them.

Gentlemen, assert yourselves. If you have breast cancer then you have a right to understanding and empathy.

Rayders earns win, drop Kalkaska, 33-0

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

KALKASKA — After weeks of inconsistency, the Charlevoix defense righted the ship in Friday's 33-0 win over Kalkaska, and in a big way.

The Rayders, who've given up 42 or more points in all three losses this season, held the host Blazers to 54 yards of total offense in a complete performance.

Defensive lineman Adam Michaud returned an interception for a touchdown to lead Charlevoix's defense, and Austin Putman recovered a fumble as well.

Sam Hovie rushed for 178 yards on 15 carries for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion to lead the Rayders offensively, and Ben Boss and quarterback Nate Moon each rushed for a touchdown as well for Charlevoix, which scored 20 second-half points to pull away.

"We finally played aggressively on defense tonight," Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi said. "We've had a tough couple of weeks, and I thought our players finally came together, played well as a unit, and rose to the occasion.

"It was wet and miserable, but our kids played tough. They knew this was a game that we had to have to stay in the playoff race, and they came out and played like it."

Charlevoix (3-3, 1-1 NMFL-II) still has a shot at a playoff berth if the Rayders can win out. The first step on that journey is Charlevoix's homecoming game against rival East Jordan next week.

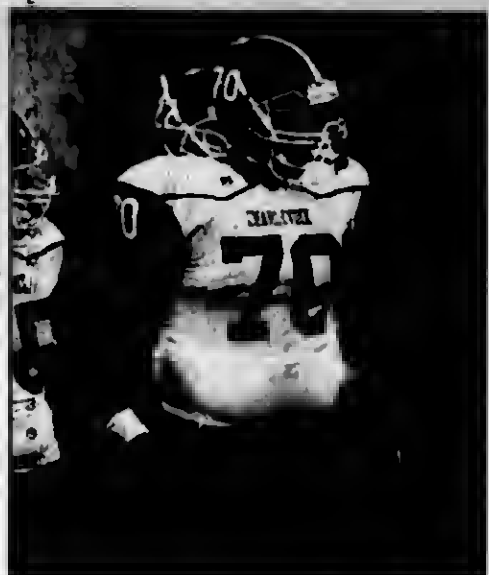

"We lost our game against them last season, and it was the last game of the year, so we've been thinking about that since then," Bindi said. "That's a rivalry that dates back 60 years, and when you're only 16 minutes away from an opponent, you never know what's going to happen when you get together."

"We have to keep our noses to the grindstone and keep taking care of business. We can't afford another loss in any game if we want to reach our goals."

Rayders win 46-12 over Kalkaska

CHARLEVOIX — The Rayder JV football team has been consistent throughout the season. They have been consistent in one thing: winning.

On Thursday night at Kipke Field the 5-0 overall, 1-0 league Rayders took on the Kalkaska Blazers in a league game. With a strong offensive performance and an aggressive defense, the Rayders defeated the Blazers 46-12.

"This was a great win for our team. Kalkaska came in with a 4-1 record and was going to be one of the best teams we faced all year," said Charlevoix coach Todd Klinger. "Right from the start of the game, the team played intense, aggressive football."

The scoring started in favor of the Rayders, when sophomore Jomar Williams scored on a 1-yard run to put the Rayders up early, 6-0. Kalkaska responded with a score of their own, a touchdown pass to nod the scoring at 6-6. Sophomore Jared McLean got in on the act with a 6-yard touchdown run in the first quarter to make the score 12-6 in favor of the Rayders.

The Rayders would not trail for the rest of the game.

Williams had 144 yards rushing on 11 attempts with three touchdowns, while McLean had 82 yards rushing on seven attempts and three touchdowns.

Sophomore Brad Klinger completed all five of his passes for a total of 72 yards. Klinger rushed the ball six times for 35 yards and a touchdown.

"The offensive line played a great game opening huge holes for the backs," Klinger said. "We were able to rush for 348 yards solely because of how our line performed."

"Right from the start of the game, the team played intense, aggressive football."

— Coach Todd Klinger

The play of the defense was once again the topic of discussion. Charlevoix having given up only 12 points the whole entire year, the Blazers managed to double that figure in just one game.

Sophomore Jake Mitchell led the defense with eight tackles. Klinger also had eight, while sophomore Caleb Hart and freshman Garrett Seese each made five tackles.

"The coaching staff is real proud of our team. They have supported each other all year. It has been great to see them gel into a great football team," Klinger said.

Next for the Rayders is a matchup against the East Jordan Red Devils in a league game set to kick-off at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9, in East Jordan.

Charlevoix clinches share of LMC title with win over Grayling

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix head coach Jon Boss is returning from a leave of absence at the perfect time.

Over the last few weeks, the Rayders have been rounding into form, and with Boss back at the helm, Charlevoix is primed for the stretch run.

The Rayders showed their strength on Thursday in Boss' first game back on the bench, beating visiting Grayling 6-0 to lock up a share of the Lake Michigan Conference title with a game remaining.

Playing in wet weather that made connecting on passes difficult, the Rayders dominated possession anyway, and senior forward Davis LaBelle netted a hat trick to help Charlevoix pull away.

"We played the ball very well, and we definitely had an advantage tonight with the field conditions, because we knew where the wet spots were and were able to take advantage," Boss said. "It makes it a completely different game when it's wet like this, but our guys came together well and moved it around."

LaBelle's first goal was an easy shot from inside the box, but the senior forward beat several defenders in the box with impressive footwork on the second goal and took advantage of a failed Grayling clearance to get the ball back after a turnover to create the third.

"(Forward) Walker (Drost) was out today with an injury, so I knew I had to step up and score some goals," LaBelle said. "That was on my mind when I came onto the field, and that pushed me to play harder and give more of a second effort than usual."

Noah Carson scored twice on long strikes from outside the box as well for Charlevoix, and Graham Kroon finished off a goal from point-blank range, as well for the Rayders.

Christian Matye finished with three assists for Charlevoix, and Kevin Pearl and Ryan Joy each assisted on a goal as well for the Rayders.

"We just try to play through the ups and downs, and that's the hardest part on wet days, because you don't know where the ball is going to go," LaBelle said. "On days like today, you just kind of go with the flow, keep working hard to get the ball, and keep hustling when things don't work out."

Jacob Harrod earned the shutout victory in net for Charlevoix, which had added motivation tonight with Boss' return after a multi-week absence to deal with family matters.

"Coach showed up at practice yesterday (to let us know he was coming back) and morale was very high," Charlevoix senior J.J. Wachler said. "It was important for us to step up and play well for him today, and we're excited we were able to do that."

LaBelle said that having Boss back is another boost for the Rayders as they approach the district.

"He's been our coach for the last few years, and he's a great coach," LaBelle said. "(Assistant coach Anton) Matye did a great job while he was gone, but it's great to have him back here supporting us."

Charlevoix closes out the regular season next Thursday with Elk Rapids, and can win the LMC title outright with a victory over the Elks, who lost to the Rayders in a 3-2 thriller earlier in the season.

"It's a big game because we're on top of the league, and I think Elk Rapids has only got the one loss to us, so they're right there," Boss said. "It'd be a big accomplishment for us to win the conference outright this year, so we're looking forward to that game."

"It's going to be a big challenge."

Rayders come off break with Onaway Invite win

OREN KOCHANIKY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

ONAWAY — An extended midseason break can be handled one of two ways.

A team can either return slow and sluggish, looking to get back into rhythm, or they can use the break to grow as a team, ready for the return head on.

The Charlevoix volleyball team chose to do the latter.

On Saturday, the Rayders traveled to the Onaway Invitational, where they returned from a week off to bring in an undefeated tournament win.

"We worked on many different aspects of our game, trying to identify and solve weakness in our defensive game and strengthen our offensive game," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "The girls are real open to new and different ways to understand the game. And I think they capitalized on it."

The Rayders, now 26-6-4 overall on the season, would start the morning with the host Cardinals, the No. 5 ranked team in the MHVCA Class D poll.

Against Onaway, the Rayders came out with wins of 25-19 and 25-22.

The Rayders would then match up against Mancelona, winning 25-23 and 25-20, then took two off Newberry, 25-17 and 25-20, finishing off their pool play of the tournament.

With the No. 1 seed as they moved onto quarterfinals, Charlevoix met Hillman, where they would earn a pair of dominating wins, 25-7 and 25-11.

With Mancelona defeating Central Lake in their quarterfinal matchup, the Rayders took wins of 25-13 and 25-13 against the Ironmen.

In the finals, Charlevoix would match up with Cheboygan, a team they had met two weeks prior in their host tournament.

Already with a win over the Chiefs in their previous tournament, the Rayders were a confident group.

"What was great about it, is that the girls walked in confident and played confident throughout the whole match," Randall said.

The Rayders would use their momentum to ride to a championship win in two sets of 25-19 and 25-14.

Serving was a big part of Charlevoix's success throughout the tournament.

"The girls had a really good day with serve receive, keeping the ball within the setter's grasp with a 95 percent on serve receive for the day," Randall said. "I'm very proud of the girls for their stability and poise on serve receive. It's a highly mental part of the game."

Alexis Tribfelner finished 56-for-58 in serve receive, Madeline Boss finished 43-for-45 and Gloria Greene, 23-for-24.

Boss and Emily Zabawa led the Rayders overall on the day, as each picked up All-Tournament team honors.

Boss finished with 56 digs, 59 kills and 11 aces, while Zabawa had 21 kills.

"I smiled proudly while each accepted their medals, knowing the hard work each put in to take their game each and every day," added Randall.

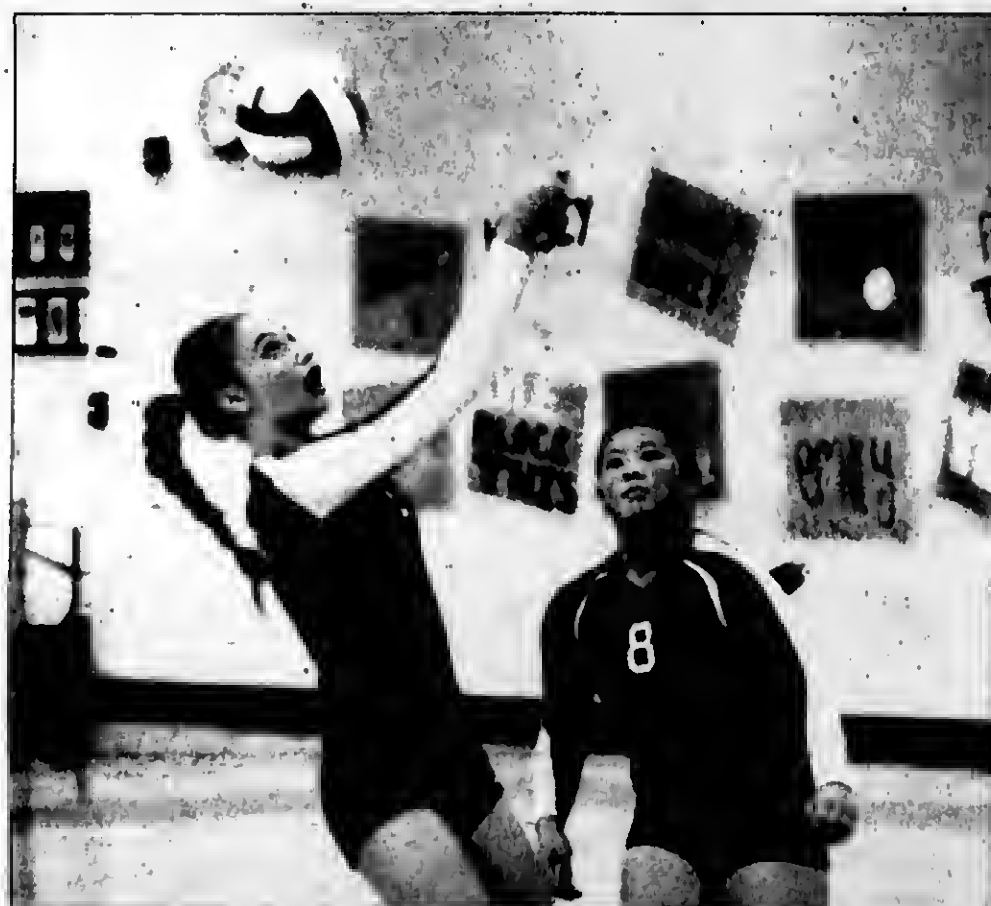

Yogi Hang finished with 50 digs; Tribfelner had 48 digs; Greene had 39 digs, 18 kills and 11 aces; Becca Moon had six digs and eight kills; Hannah Zipp had 13 aces and three digs; Hailey Berry had five digs, two kills and two aces; then Olivia Storm finished with 85 assists and a 95 percent serve receive.

The Rayders next match is against Boyne City at the Boyne High School gym on Thursday, Oct. 9, in a Lake Michigan Conference meeting.

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Midget Rayders and the Pee Wee Rayders football teams vanquished their opposition on Kipke Field last Saturday.

Midget Rayders

The Midgets hustled their way through the cold and rainy conditions to a 16-0 win over Pellston. They held onto the ball and ran behind strong offensive line-play to victory. The offensive line was led by Tyler Ostrum, Logan McArthur, Zach Nickel, Aaron Spegete, Jacob Kerner Deyong, Cameron Vrondran and Tony Illenden. Jake Snyder had two touchdown runs of 1 yard and 30 yards; he also kicked two extra points.

Defensively, the Rayders were tough all day; they were led by Cole Wright, Tyler Ostrum and Luke Snyder, who each had multiple tackles for the victory. The game culminated in a forced fumble by Logan McArthur.

Pee Wee Rayders

The Rayder PeeWees squeaked by East Jordan Black with a 7-6 win despite the worsening playing field. Both teams had offensive difficulties. But a 55-yard reverse touchdown by Issak Moorar and the point after converted by quarterback Max Ostrum on the bootleg made the difference.

Coaches credited good blocking by younger players: Cole Diss, Adam and Trevor Streeter, Ben Matter and James Dixon.

Defense won the game. Dmitri Bell and Max Ostrum delivered highlight reel hits, while Cole McArthur disrupted the backfield all day with help from Spencer Weher.

The Rayder Midgets play their last regular season game at 10 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11, in East Jordan, against Boyne City.

The PeeWee Rayders will play their final regular season game at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11, in Pellston, against the Petoskey Bulldogs.

Assessing the local playoff picture

With two-thirds of the high school football regular season in the books, it's time to start looking ahead.

For teams like Boyne City, Inland Lakes, Johannesburg-Lewiston, it's about taking ahead to the playoffs and preparing for potential runs.

For teams like Petoskey and Gaylord, it's about putting the finishing touches on the resume that allows for the punching of a playoff ticket.

For teams like Charlevoix, it's about clinging to the hope of the postseason with the knowledge that no more losses can be had.

And for teams like East Jordan and Pellston, it's time to look ahead to the future.

As we head into the stretch run, where do each of the area's playoff contenders fit into the postseason picture?

BOYNE CITY

Getting to the playoffs hasn't been a problem for the Ramblers, who clinched their 12th appearance in 14 years with last week's 50-0 victory against Maple City Glen Lake.

The highest issue has been playoff success as Boyne City has traditionally struggled against tough Division 6 teams out of the Upper Peninsula.

A shift could happen toward the Ramblers. According to snoozetoyou.com, a must-see for any Michigan high school football fan, all of Boyne City's potential district opponents — Calumet, Negaunee, Tawas Area and Charlevoix — have at least two losses.

The Ramblers have some tough games down the stretch against Elk Rapids and Grayling but remain a favorite to go all and emerge as the district's seed, meaning a potential pair of playoffs.

PETOSKEY

Has the double wing looked good this year, or what?

Petoskey (5-1) has rushed to defend its way to a string of highly impressive Big North Conference victories, a run that has put the Northern one win away from clinching a playoff spot. That would be exciting news for Petoskey who missed the past two postseasons after playing in four in a row.

Those looking for a potential rematch between Petoskey and

Jeremy Speer

Cadillac may be disappointed as snoozetoyou.com puts Cadillac in Division 4 and Petoskey in Division 3.

TEAMS

such as Marquette, Gaylord and Mount Pleasant would be potential matchups for the Northern, who would appear to have a good shot against each.

GAYLORD

The playoffs aren't a lock for the Blue Devils (4-2), who have lost two in a row after winning their first four. A pair of huge games — this week at home against Petoskey and next week at Traverse City West — loom large toward Gaylord's bid for its first postseason appearance since 2007.

A split would put Gaylord in strong position, although Week 9's battle with an equally improved Alpena squad shouldn't be taken lightly.

If the cards fall in favor of Gaylord, the Blue Devils would likely be on the road in the playoff opener. However, if Gaylord is to win its next three, a home playoff game would remain a possibility.

JOHANNESBURG-LEWISTON

Death, taxes and Johannesburg-Lewiston hosting a Division 8 playoff game.

The Cardinals (5-1) have been a lock over the years, and at times have made some noise, like in 2012, when they advanced to the Regional final. J-L has hosted a playoff game in three of the past four years and could do so this year.

J-L will most likely be 7-1 heading into a Week 9 battle with Inland Lakes.

Pegging the Cardinals' playoff opponents is a tricky proposition because of the number of Division 8 teams in the Upper Peninsula. Snoozetoyou.com says seven U.P. Division 8 teams will make it with Inland Lakes bumping north to compete in St. Ignace's District.

If that is the case, expect a tough District with teams like Frankfort and Hillman looming.

It's a little bit of pick your poison, as there are some really good teams in Northern Michigan this year (the Cardinals included) in Division 8 and J-L won't avoid them all at the District level.

INLAND LAKES

If the Bulldogs (5-1) defeat Central Lake this week, they will clinch their second straight playoff appearance. But with this year go better than last year, where Inland Lakes lost 51-0 to Negaunee?

Perhaps, especially if snoozetoyou.com is correct. Where the Bulldogs played in Division 7 last year, they are projected to fall in Division 8 this year.

If that is the case, the difference between a home playoff game and not could come with the result of the Bulldogs' Week 9 battle with J-L.

CHARLEVOIX

Northern Michigan's most up-and-down team still has a shot at 3-3. Wins against East Jordan (Week 7) and Harbor Springs (Week 9) are expected, making the Rayders' Week 8 battle with Frankfort a huge contest.

It's also possible that Charlevoix could slip into the Division 6 playoffs at 5-4, but the best route would be with a big victory against Frankfort.

If Charlevoix makes it, look for a playoff matchup with Boyne City, to whom the Rayders lost 42-0 in Week 2.

HANGING ON BY THE SKIN OF THEIR TEETH

Technically, both Harbor Springs and Gaylord St. Mary are in the mix for a 5-4 at-large berth (both schools are 2-4).

Don't count on it, however, with tough games down the stretch for both schools. Harbor still must play Frankfort and Charlevoix, while St. Mary still has Inland Lakes and Mancelona on the ledger.

There is a lot to be determined in the coming weeks, but it looks like there will be a lot of playoff games to choose from in this region.

Charlevoix finishes strong at the Mancelona Invite

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

MANCELONA — In spite of numerous injuries and illnesses, it appears that the Charlevoix boys and girls cross-country teams are rounding into form.

Strong performances by the Rayders' pack runners led to strong finishes at Tuesday's Mancelona Invite, and that bodes well for Charlevoix's chances as the postseason approaches.

The Charlevoix varsity boys cross-country team finished with 36 points to bring home the invitational title, placing four of its top five in the top 10 overall.

Luke Buday took third, in 17:44, to lead the Rayders, Nicholas Plude finished fourth (17:54) and Noah Jeakle took fifth (18:09).

Key to Charlevoix's title-winning performance was fourth runner Lucas VonLau, who ran an 18:30 to finish ninth, one of his best performances of the season.

Micah Peebles rounded out the Charlevoix top five with a 15th place finish, in 18:54.

"Getting Lucas closer to the top three guys is big for us because that really lowers our score," Charlevoix coach Ken Plude said. "Micah battled a cramp today, or he would have been right up there as well."

"It wasn't a huge meet today, but seeing our pack running well was a huge thing for us."

Brendan Gregory ran a 19:34 and Jonathan Pischner a 19:36 as well for Charlevoix, and Ryan Erskine (19:47) and Ben Peterson (19:54) each ran personal bests to take first and second in the JV race for the Rayders.

"We've been injured and sick for two weeks, so it's nice to finally get healthy and see our times start to drop," Plude said. "We're in a tight race with Boyne City for the final qualifying spot in the regional and what we're able to do in the next couple of weeks will make a huge difference."

KURT GRANGOOD/PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

Charlevoix teammates Luke Buday (front) and Nick Plude (back), make their way down the trail to the finish during a nonconference meet on Thursday in Mancelona at Mancelona High School.

Charlevoix's girls team was missing three of its top seven runners because of illness, including top runner Amber Way, but managed to post a decent finish nonetheless, taking third with 112 points behind champion Grand Traverse Academy.

Senior Ali Schwein led the Rayders with a breakthrough race in the absence of Charlevoix's top two runners, setting a season best by nearly 30 seconds, coach Mary Plude said.

"We were missing two girls with illness, and then one had to drop out early in the race, so we only had five girls finish," Mary Plude said. "Despite that, those five did a great job of running as a pack and sticking together."

Mary Plude said that her team is coming together nicely as the end of the season approaches.

"The whole idea was developing a pack, and they're really starting to get it as a team," Mary Plude said. "They're getting over the hangup of where they rank on the team, which can be tough, and starting to worry less about that and more about how they're racing."

Inland Lakes also competed at the Mancelona Invite on Tuesday.

Jacob Drogowski led the Bulldogs with a 10th place finish (18:30), Brandon Dieus took 23rd (19:27), Luke Passino took 24th (19:30), Dale Anderson took 35th (20:22), Cody Bloom took 51st (21:44), Ryan Howery took 68th (23:52), Jeremy Chevalier took 74th (25:18) and Charlie Dohry took 77th (28:28).

Mackenzie Baxter led the Inland Lakes girls team with a 23rd place finish (23:04), Sophie Passino took 31st (23:33), Mackenzie Harrington took 32nd (23:41), Lindsay Smeltzer took 33rd (23:42), Lindsay Meister took 38th (24:31), Mallory Bunker took 55th (26:05) and Morgan Prokop took 64th (27:24).

Cleveland Baker was the top finisher for the Inland Lakes middle school team (13:37), and Abbi Kline was the top female finisher (15:26).

BE A WISE SHOPPER
It's always wise to remember that if an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is. If you are offered merchandise at an unbelievably low price, check it out thoroughly. A call to the Better Business Bureau (serving Eastern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula) will tell you whether other consumers have had problems with the firm that has offered the merchandise. (248)223-9400. But call the Bureau BEFORE you make a purchase. You'll be glad you did.

Those are disturbing figures.

BULLYING

has NO place in school

What makes a bully?

Bullying among young people is a serious concern; parents, schools, and the law are taking it more seriously than ever before. But even though we all condemn this kind of violence, it can be useful to try and understand where exactly it comes from.

THE SOCIAL CONTEXT

First, the tolerance of aggression in our culture has a major influence on our children. Violence is often glorified, whether it is portrayed on television or in movies, music, or video games. It is not really viable to distance our children from the media and popular culture, but it is a wise parent who takes the time to explain that violence is never a good solution.

THE FAMILY CONTEXT

Children grow up learning from their parents, who are their role models. If parents practice discrimination or regularly express belittling sentiments about others, children will also adopt that kind of attitude and behavior. The use of violence in child discipline also tends to instill such attitudes.

THE SCHOOL CONTEXT

Schools must establish a balance between clear and consistent discipline and warm and positive relationships, just like at home. Studies show that to reduce bullying at school, a clear policy on bullying should be established, and the consequences of this abhorrent behavior enforced.

In Canada, the National Strategy on Community Safety and Crime Prevention aims to help combat crime and victimization through bullying. Through various early intervention programs, the organization teaches young people to stand up to antisocial behavior in order to create healthy environments for themselves. We should all advocate for this kind of policy so that bullying is never given the chance to take root.

Campbell vs. Carlson

Incumbent mayor faces experienced challenger for Charlevoix's top job

SHERI MCWHINTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Incumbent Charlevoix mayor Norman Carlson Jr. is challenged in the Nov. 4 general election by a familiar candidate, Gabe Campbell.

City voters will decide at the polls whether to keep Carlson for another term, or instead replace him with Campbell. Carlson, 47, owns his own local construction company, and Campbell, 81, retired 16 years ago from the former Medusa cement plant.

Carlson served as mayor of Charlevoix for the last 10 years and lived within the city for the last 40 years, he said.

"At the time I decided to seek re-election I thought I still had a lot to offer the city of Charlevoix, and there are things I wanted to see through," Carlson said.

Just this year, Carlson led the Charlevoix City Council in several Marina vote legality questioned

City protocol violated, officials discuss and vote anyway

CHARLEVOIX — At least two Charlevoix city officials question the legality of a recent vote to navigate forward with a city marina expansion in Round Lake which is expected to cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"I'm just concerned about the legality of the marina vote because I've read through the city's code of ethics," said Shirley Gibson, councilwoman from Ward 1.

Gibson contends the appearance of a conflict of interest exists because of how recommendations on the marina proposal made way toward a final city council vote. The broken rules are all spelled out in the city charter, agreed both Gibson and Dave Novotny, former mayor and current planning commission member.

proposal to the Charlevoix Planning Commission.

That last part is where the first hiccup purportedly happened.

First, Charlevoix leaders in a hotly debated early September 4-3 split decision voted to send preliminary plans to state and federal regulators for a new 264-foot pier in the city's marina in Round Lake. One councilwoman who voted in favor of the expansion also served as chairwoman of the city's marina expansion committee. She also testified about the

Peggy Brennan, of Ward 2, is the most novice member of city council after her initial appointment in February to fill a vacancy created when former councilman Greg Stevens moved outside city limits. This summer, she served as chairwoman of the city's marina expansion committee which explored various options to grow city-owned dockage at the facility by downtown's East Park.

Brennan declined to comment on this matter.

Records show Brennan testified on Aug. 11 before the Charlevoix Planning Commission about the marina proposal, providing details about cost estimates and planned dockage dimensions. Some suggest she should not have spoken at all because planning commissioners make formal recommendations on public issues to the city council, on which Brennan sits as a Ward 2 representative.

"I wouldn't have let her speak because the planning commission

Contamination cleanup plans continue

Dry cleaning chemicals remain in underground plume

SHERI MCWHINTER-O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will by month's end host two informational meetings about plans to continue contamination cleanup from an old dry cleaning facility.

The public sessions will be from 1-3 p.m. and 5-7 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 29, in Community Room B at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., in downtown Charlevoix. Representatives of the EPA and the Michigan Departments of Environmental Quality and Community Health will be available to answer questions about the Superfund Site.

The next planned phase of cleanup might involve the removal of an underground storage tank at Grant and Antrim streets, said Steve Teunla, Charlevoix water superintendent.

"They want to further clean it up," he said.

The Michigan Department of Public Health in 1981 notified

Charlevoix officials the local water system showed contamination by volatile organic compounds. A new municipal water supply received approval four years later in an agreement with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Meanwhile, federal environmental regulators attempted various cleanup methods, including water aeration.

Authorities also through the years identified several sources of the contaminated groundwater plumes, including trichloroethylene from the old middle school, and tetrachloroethylene from the former Art's Dry Cleaners at Grant and Antrim streets, the former Hooker's Dry Cleaners at Bridge and Hurlhut streets, a former dry cleaner at the corner of Garfield Street and McLeod Place, and finally, the former tool and die shop on Lincoln Avenue, according to EPA documents.

Environmental regulators obtained additional samples during winter months early this year. Results showed solvents in soil vapor and

Local COLOR*Wind ensemble promises monumental musical experience

Local talent combines with retired conductor for Christmas concert

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — A top conductor and musician is involved in a new wind ensemble in Charlevoix.

"It's not often that we are able to have a musician of this stature participate in musical productions in our community," said Gary Stutzman, band director at Charlevoix Middle/High School. "He joined our first City Band Wind Ensemble practice last Wednesday evening. It's very exciting."

Stutzman, longtime conductor of the Charlevoix City Band, referred to Timothy Topolewski, retired conductor and clarinetist who in 2006 moved to Northern Michigan after a notable career in music. Topolewski conducted the wind ensemble, taught music theory and was coordinator of instrumental ensembles in Potsdam, New York's Crane School of Music for almost 20 years.

Topolewski is a native of Michigan, has a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, a master's degree from the Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and a doctoral degree from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. He performed as a principal clarinetist with the Dubuque Symphony and the Cedar Rapids Symphony. As a conductor and clinician, he performed concerts and gave lectures in the United States, Australia and Germany.

Topolewski and Stutzman became acquainted several years ago after the former took up residence in a family home in Bellaire.

"It took a while to make musical connections. I began playing clarinet again with the Encore Winds in Traverse City. I met Gary soon after and he asked if I might help out adjudicating at music festivals," Topolewski said. "Eventually he asked if I would come and play with the City Band during the summer concert series. I played about eight or nine concerts last summer."

Learning of Topolewski's credentials and talent became the first step in Stutzman setting his sights on forming a new wind ensemble out of the current Charlevoix City Band.

"It had been in the back of my mind to form a smaller group to play more challenging music," he said. "To have Dr. Topolewski available to get on board with the idea was a dream come true. I am delighted and honored that he would consider working together on the project."

Topolewski positively reacted after the first practice with 15 dedicated Charlevoix City Band musicians.

"Something really exciting happened last night in Charlevoix. It was the first rehearsal of an ensemble dedicated to performing music specifically written to ensemble by some of the world's finest composers ... and I had the honor of being their conductor," he said.

Topolewski, ever the instructor, described a wind ensemble in an unique way.

"Think of a full symphony orchestra ... now take away all the strings. These are the very fine brass, woodwind and percussion players of the orchestra all sitting together on stage." The experience of listening to a wind ensemble playing challenging music by major composers will "challenge, broaden and inspire," he said.

Stutzman said playing under and with Topolewski is a magical experience.

"He is animated and enthralling, telling stories about the music we play."

The newly formed wind ensemble will hold five rehearsals during the next two months and perform a Christmas concert for the community at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix voters will decide on new millages

By CRAIG CURRIER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — When voters in Charlevoix County go to the polls next month, they'll find a pair of proposed millages for veterans and parks on the ballot.

The idea, which was pushed by county commissioner Chris Christensen and supported by a majority of the board, is to create separate funding sources for those two departments.

If the millages pass they'll amount to a minor tax increase in the first year, but Christensen said the board intends to lower the county's general operating millage by an equal amount in future years.

"The collection amount has already been set for next year, it's just a matter of timing," Christensen said.

If approved, property owners in Charlevoix County would pay an additional 15 cents per $1,000 of taxable value for parks and recreation spending and another 10 cents per $1,000 of taxable value to help fund the county's veterans affairs department.

The parks millage would generate an estimated $298,486 annually and the veterans millage would bring in $198,991 a year, according to county reports.

The millages will be on the Tuesday, Nov. 4, ballot, where voters will also choose the next governor of Michigan, as well as pick among candidates to represent them in the U.S. Senate, Congress and several state legislative seats, among other local races.

After speaking out in support of the new millages this summer, Christensen has continued advocating for the proposals through the last several weeks.

"We have under-served veterans right now," he said. "We would be able to increase spending for veterans through that millage."

The parks millage is to be the more controversial of the two as a portion of the revenues would be used to maintain a 15-mile non-motorized trail for which construction will begin next year. But in those who oppose the parks millage specifically because they don't want to see any money put toward the trail connecting Boyne City to Charlevoix, Christensen said there is more to his plan than that.

State grants will cover the majority of construction costs for the trail, the commissioner said, though he acknowledges money generated by the proposed millage will be needed in future years to maintain it.

If the parks millage passes, Christensen envisions creating a new county committee that will decide how to dole out dollars to various parks-related projects throughout the county.

That committee would include representatives from cities and townships throughout the county whose job would be to decide which projects to help fund and with how much money.

"The idea isn't to cover the full costs but to subsidize projects," Christensen said.

If the millages don't pass, the commissioners have said repeatedly they will not reduce funding for veterans and parks departments. Money will continue to pay for their operations through the county's general fund.

Boyne City man takes manslaughter plea

Grice admits to unintentionally causing brother's death

By STEVE ZUCKER
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — A Boyne City man who was accused of causing his brother's death in an altercation late last year has pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Christopher Mellon Grice, 29, entered the plea in Charlevoix County's 33rd Circuit Court today, Tuesday, in connection with the Dec. 23 death of his brother William Benjamin Grice, 26.

At Tuesday's plea hearing, Christopher Grice admitted that on Dec. 22 he responded to a punch his brother had thrown at him with a single punch to William's face. He said the punch caused William to fall backwards hitting the back of his head on the floor.

As part of the plea Christopher Grice said he did not intend to kill his brother with the punch, but clarified he was also not claiming he threw the punch in self-defense.

According to earlier police reports, about eight hours after the altercation, family members took William to the Charlevoix Area Hospital emergency department for treatment. He was later transferred to McLaren Northern Michigan hospital where he died on Dec. 23 after undergoing emergency brain surgery.

Both Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Telgenhof and Grice's defense attorney Daniel Hartman agreed to a forensic pathologist's report that concluded the immediate cause of William Grice's death was the brain injury caused when he fell backwards and hit his head on the floor.

Residents urged to complete survey

CHARLEVOIX — The City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority along with consultants from The Chesapeake Group are conducting a survey of area residents to help map out demographics and spending patterns for an economic development and downtown market study.

The survey is anonymous and can be taken by anyone who lives in the greater Charlevoix area, regardless of part-time or full-time residency.

"The city is issuing this study so that we can better understand who our clients are, what are their spending habits and what other types of commerce and industry can our community support," said Bethany Pearson, the city's community economic development director.

The study, funded through a recent donation by the DeVos family, will not only survey residents, visitors, and business owners; but, will also look at potential development sights, cultivate data, produce design concept alternatives, and identify current investors and businesses who are actively looking to relocate and expand.

"We have learned that if you want to have a successful and thriving community you must be proactive, you can't wait for investors to come to you. Having site plans, market research, resident data and access to spending patterns reduces the uncertainty investors have to go through when deciding what community to expand in," Pearson said. "We need to be doing everything possible to make it easier for them to pick Charlevoix."

The survey can be found at www.surveymonkey.com/s/charresv online.

The survey will be open until Monday, Oct. 20. Those without access to a computer who wish to take the survey on a paper copy can stop in city hall at 210 State St. in downtown Charlevoix or call Pearson at (231) 547-3257. Others with questions can send email to hpearson@cityofcharlevoix.org online.

The presentation is meant to give participants a new perspective and insight into what really goes into the pronouncement of sentence by the court. It also illustrates the fact that often times, in cases that are not necessarily cut and dry, the job of deciding on an appropriate sentence is not an easy one.

Kur received her bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan and her law degree from the University of Detroit School of Law. She is admitted to practice in all Michigan courts and the federal District Court for the Eastern and Western Districts of Michigan. OPINIONS yours & ours

We create our own happiness

"Don't worry, be happy" is a well-used slogan whose essence has been studied scientifically. I'll delve into this a little further, but first, I need to mention that some days it does take a little effort to be happy. The state of happiness is not a requirement for daily living; but actively seeking to be in a better mood does improve your health and mental well-being. If you turn on the television, after working all day, and view broadcasts of destruction and despair, feelings of hopelessness may set in.

Some of us have a tendency to spend money to feel good. As long as it's not emptying the entire household savings, you're among many who do the same. Others may think they would be happier if they made more money, found the perfect person to spend their life with or could lose twenty pounds, then they could finally be happy. This couldn't be farther from the truth. The science of happiness has been studied by a professor sometimes referred to as the "happiness professor." Dr. Sonja Lyubomirsky completed her research and has come up with these facts: 50 percent of happiness is genetic, 40 percent is intentional and 10 percent is circumstantial.

Being happy has more to do with how you act and think. Research by Lyubomirsky revealed individuals who wrote down once a week, what they are grateful for, experience a positive attitude which in turn brings happiness. This research also recommends practicing forgiveness, tolerance, becoming more involved in your church and savoring positive moments. Essentially, being happy for what you do have.

When I first moved to Northern Michigan, some 40 years ago, I had a tendency to drive family and friends around to see the lovely homes in the surrounding area. They would usually mention that it must be nice to live in one of these beautiful homes overlooking the lake and the lives of the occupants must be picture perfect. My usual reply was, "What they live in doesn't necessarily make them happy." It's interesting to note that happy people usually experience more success in their lives because of their positive attitude and sometimes this can lead to making more money. Wealthier individuals, who have been interviewed for studies on their degree of life satisfaction, report they are happiest when they can become involved in philanthropic activities. The act of sharing and caring brings them happiness, not having money for money's sake. We have been blessed with many happy philanthropists in our area. Thus, I may also add to my usual comment, "Yes, money buys beauty but the beholder is responsible for their own happiness."

So if you are feeling sad and you have realized it's not in your genes to be in a better mood, you need to review your circumstances. You can change how you feel by your own actions. Suggestions from research indicates that marriage does not bring happiness but a married life improves greatly when you clearly cheer your partner on for the successes they achieve. The act of hugging improves your overall feeling of wellness and happiness. For senior citizens, reminiscing about past events evokes happiness and they are doubled when this information is shared with family and close friends.

Aerobic workouts can be almost as effective as medication so it's important to take some time out of your week to increase your heart rate. Happiness can be found in a job that is meaningful where time passes quickly because you are doing something you like. Happiness isn't getting everything right, it lies in the way you live and look at the world. Volunteering in the community creates a feeling of satisfaction which in turn can make you feel better about yourself. Pursue something you enjoy and happiness catches up with you. So, even in these times, which most consider nothing to be happy about, put a smile on your face and your feelings will change to meet your thoughtful look.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Kur fair, tough and balanced

Editor:
Now is the time to step to the plate and put your mark where it belongs. I was hailf for the courts and saw Mary Beth Kur rise in the justice system. She was fair, tough and balanced. That is why we are standing with her. Use your judgment and vote Nov. 4 for Mary Beth Kur for circuit judge.

Earl Muma, Charlevoix

Supporting Hayes for character, integrity, determination

Editor:
For the past three decades, the people of Charlevoix County have been well-served by retiring Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas. The decisions made by his successor will also be very important to us.

In any walk of life, in which responsibility is assumed, the single most important attribute is character — their integrity, their inner determination to do the right thing in all aspects of their life.

In this spirit, I am proud to support the candidacy of Roy C. Hayes III as Charlevoix County's next circuit court judge.

Robert B. Neale, Charlevoix

Kur decides on investigation, not feelings

Editor:
We would like to voice our public support of Circuit Court Candidate Mary Beth Kur. Our relationship although professional has spanned 23 years in public service. 13 as a prosecuting attorney. We have seen her decision making based on investigation and pursuit of right and wrong, not allowing personal feelings or other opinions to sway that pursuit.

We know her as a very personable, hard working, fair, non-respecter of person who is driven by right and wrong that would sit on the bench with integrity. It is for that reason we are supporting Mary Beth Kur for circuit court judge.

Lawrence and Sandra Bergmann, Charlevoix

Retired state trooper endorses Kur

Editor:
My name is Dan Harrington. I retired from the Michigan State Police after 27 years of service, most of which was at the Petoskey Post. During that time I had the opportunity to work with numerous attorneys. I must say that Mary Beth Kur was one of the best.

I found her to be knowledgeable, hardworking and effective. She wasn't afraid to handle the tough cases that came her way and was always approachable. Her efforts as a prosecuting attorney made it safer for the citizens of Charlevoix County.

I fully support Mary Beth Kur, in her attempt to serve the citizens of Charlevoix County as their new circuit judge.

Dan Harrington, Petoskey

Michigan men should stand for women

Editor:
I want to take a stand for the women of Michigan. This election gives the men of Michigan an opportunity to support the women of our state. The last four years, under Governor Snyder and the Republican controlled State House and Senate, have seen women taking hit after hit. It is time for the men of Michigan to help put a stop to this nonsense.

Mark Schauer showed that he was determined to support the women of our state by recruiting Lisa Brown as his Lieutenant Governor. Lisa was very vocal on the State House floor by demanding that Republican lawmakers stop their march to limit reproductive rights of women of Michigan. This has not stopped the Michigan House and Senate from passing their "rape insurance" bill that was signed into law by Governor Snyder. That law prevents private insurance companies from covering legal abortions even after rape, incest or when the life of the mother is in jeopardy. That is unless the woman had the foresight to purchase a "rape insurance" rider as part of her policy. Republican lawmakers in the Michigan House and Senate have introduced more than 45 bills to restrict access to birth control and health care for women.

Governor Snyder and the Republican House and Senate are also responsible for cutting the $600 per child tax credit, which was an economic blow to the women of our state. This hurts all parents struggling to make ends meet during trying financial times, but especially hurts those women who are heads of households raising children with little or no support. At the same time Republican lawmakers have fallen over themselves to give tax breaks to the wealthiest in Michigan. I plan to stand with the women of our state by voting Democrat for Governor, State House and State Senate.

Richard C. Spring, Charlevoix

Kur compassionate, experienced, smart, firm and fair.

Editor:
I support Mary Beth Kur for circuit judge. Mary Beth has been my friend for a long time. I met her through my late husband, Judge Harvey C. Varnum, nearly 20 years ago. He was the district judge during the time that Mary Beth was the chief assistant prosecutor in Charlevoix, and he often remarked to me that she was smart, always very well prepared and that she exercised good judgment in her work as a lawyer.

I know Mary Beth to be a compassionate and kind woman. When my husband was terminally ill, Mary Beth took time to visit often to cheer us up and bring him her homemade cheesecake, which was one of the few things he could eat and something she knew he loved.

Having been married to one for a long time, I can assure you that being a judge is a difficult job. I think it is important for a judge to have trial experience, life experience and to also be smart, compassionate, firm and fair. Mary Beth Kur is all of those things and more. Those who know me, know I am a relentless sports fan and a longtime cheerleader for Boyne City athletes.

I ask the voters of Charlevoix County to please join me in voting for and "cheering" Mary Beth Kur onto victory on Nov. 4.

Genevieve "Gen" Varnum, Boyne City

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

In 1928, the workmen employed by Charlevoix's famed stonemason, Earl Young, were carving out a road in his new Boulder Park development, west of town, when they hit a rock sticking eighteen inches above the ground.

Thinking they could extract it easily, they were stymied when they dug and dug and still couldn't find its lower limits. The men exposed most of this face, called Young over to look at it, and the intersecting lines across it immediately reminded him of the highway system of Michigan's Lower Peninsula. Knowing that he had to have this incredible specimen, but unsure at the time for what purpose, Earl told them to keep going until they reached the bottom. The boulder was big. Approximately 6 by 6 by 3 feet and weighing more than 9 tons, the men had to bring in a team of horses and chains to remove it. Once it was up and out, they dragged the boulder a quarter-mile into the woods, dug another hole and buried it again.

The stone lay underground again for 26 years until Young knew exactly the place for it. It was to be the spectacular capstone of the main dining room fireplace in his new Weatherlane Restaurant, opened in 1954, where it has boggled the minds of countless diners for the past 60 years.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Charlevoix Elementary hosts Gran-friends Day

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Last Friday, Charlevoix Elementary School celebrated some people who are very important in the lives of their young students. This special person's event is known today as "Gran-friends Day" and is observed annually on the Friday of Apple Fest weekend.

"It was originally called 'Grandparents Day,'" according to past school principal Vane Smith.

"Ralph Raymer started the tradition in the early 1980s," Smith said. "It was held on a Wednesday during the first few years. I came on board as principal in 1985 and the following year my secretary Joane Gruhaug and I decided it would be a good idea to move it to the Friday before Apple Fest. Many grandparents had to travel long distances to make the event, and we thought this way, they could spend the whole weekend with their grandkids."

As the years went on, the principals and teachers noticed that many children were not able to have grandparents attend, so these children were "adopted" for the day by other grandparents or relatives or friends of the family.

"Sometimes we asked members of the Coast Guard (then stationed in Charlevoix) or police or sheriff's department officers to make the day special for these kids," Smith said.

It was during the tenure of principals Dick Swenor and, currently, Doug Drenth when the name officially changed to "Gran-friends Day." Students are able to invite grandparents or anyone else who may be important to them.

"The whole purpose is to make each student in our school feel comfortable and special," Drenth said.

It also creates an occasion at which the community may come into the building to see what is happening in education. This year students welcomed more than 800 "gran-friends" into the classrooms for grades 1-6, and everyone received a fried chicken lunch.

East Jordan students participate in 'Hat Day for United Way' program

EAST JORDAN — Students from East Jordan Middle School and Mary Anderson's kindergarten class showed off their support for Charlevoix-Emmet United Way by wearing hats on "Hat Day for United Way" at East Jordan Public Schools on Friday, Sep. 16.

The teachers got in on the fun by holding a "Jeans Day for United Way" fundraiser. Contributions to the Char-Em United Way were rewarded by allowing students to wear their favorite hat for the day while the teachers dressed down.

The event annually happens at East Jordan Public Schools as part of its United Way workforce campaign. Teachers invest in the community by contributing to United Way through payroll deduction, in addition to the everyday contribution in our community's future through their work with our youth.

Equine therapy group hosts inaugural event

Pumpkin carving fundraiser planned for Oct. 26

BOYNE CITY — On Sunday, Oct. 26, Northern Michigan Equine Therapy will host its inaugural pumpkin carving fundraiser. This event is open to families, future clients and all community members. The fundraiser takes place at the facility at 05025 Church Road, Boyne City, at the corner of Horton Bay and Church roads.

This event has something for all ages. Aside from pumpkin carving, there is pumpkin howling, farm animals, many games, trick or treating, and the spooky horse aisle way. With your creative pumpkin carving talents, your pumpkin will be proudly displayed in the ultimate jack-o'-lantern light exhibit. All pumpkins are provided, though donations to participate in all activities are appreciated.

There is a silent auction, with funds going to scholarships and maintenance of horses and facility. Items include a horseback riding lesson, art, gift baskets, local business gift certificates and a lot more.

While using a horse as the primary treatment tool, the facility provides occupational, physical and speech therapy services. Its programs use the natural movement and demeanor of a horse to help with physical and mental disabilities. The business announced a new program called HorseSense. HorseSense uses a horse as a natural therapist to bring out confidence in everyday life. This belief is the backbone to the facility's programs.

To learn more about Northern Michigan Equine Therapy or to donate, visit www.nmequine.com or contact Courtney Angell-Sumpter at (231) 881-5590 or email nmequine@gmail.com.

EAST JORDAN

Pumpkin Festival returns to East Jordan

EAST JORDAN — The fifth annual East Jordan Pumpkin Festival pumpkin pie contest is scheduled for 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 18, in downtown East Jordan in Memorial Park.

The pie contest is part of the annual East Jordan Pumpkin Festival and is sponsored this year by Save-A-Lot of East Jordan.

"We're encouraging people to get those recipes out and start baking those pies," said Mary Faculak, president of the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

Aside from the pie contest, the annual festival coordinated with participating downtown businesses to allow kids to trick-or-treat with them in costume before Halloween.

"The kids love it, we love it, they get an extra chance to wear their Halloween costumes," Faculak said.

The Leaf Pecker Craft Show, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., takes place in the East Jordan Civic Center during the pumpkin festival. The Sleepy Gypsies will perform in the handshell from 1-4 p.m.

Pumpkin howling, pumpkin-themed games, face painting, balloon animals, opportunities to kayak, explore the color tour and more are also available for entertainment.

Faculak hopes the entertainment will draw new visitors and community members to the downtown area for the afternoon and afternoons to come.

"We're very appreciative of the sponsors, groups and organizations who help make this possible," Faculak said.

Registration and pie drop-off takes place from 2-2:30 p.m. in Memorial Park with judging from 2:30-2:45 p.m.

The first place winners along with second and third are scheduled to be announced at 3 p.m. in the handshell.

"This is a wonderful family-friendly event and our judges are ready to taste some good pie," Faculak said.

BookTalkers discuss book by Charles Belfoure

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Public Library's book discussion group, BookTalkers, will review Charles Belfoure's "The Paris Project" at 6 p.m. Monday, Oct. 20.

Charles Belfoure, an architect by profession, delivers a disturbing and captivating portrayal of a fictional Vichy, France. The novel takes place in Nazi-occupied Paris with a gentle protagonist, Lucien Bernard, who is relatively unsympathetic to the plight of the Jews under Axis rule. So, when a wealthy industrialist offers Bernard a large sum of money to devise places of refuge for the Jews, Bernard is torn between the desire for gain and the need to play it safe and save his own skin. When greed wins the internal struggle, Bernard throws himself into designing clever hideouts. But what happens when one of his hideaways fails? The suffering of a people becomes incredibly personal and he can no longer deny reality.

The BookTalkers gather the third Monday of each month to discuss books selected by the group. New members are always welcome.

Mary Roach's book, "Packing for Mars," will be examined at the Nov. 17 session.

For discussion questions, visit the book discussion page on the library's website at www.charlevoixlibrary.org online. If you would prefer to speak to a person, call Beth at the library at (231) 237-7340.

Autumn shoulder season rakes in success

Color tour proves popular, more visitors expected

SHIRLEY MCWHIRTER-
O'DONNELL
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — There's a way to keep the momentum of summer tourism season going right on into the autumn, and Charlevoix folks figured that out years ago with an annual festival.

Now that the fall highlight in downtown Charlevoix is past — the 36th annual Apple Festival — area officials and shop owners alike take stock of their stores and look to the rest of the seasonal color tour to bring even more leaf-peepers to town. Some say the cooler, rainy weather hasn't helped, while others say it really hasn't hurt, either.

"The colors have been absolutely amazing this year," said Amanda Wilkin, of the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau. "Even the rain hasn't stopped people from coming for fall."

Hotels and motels that belong to the bureau are reporting positive numbers for this fall, she said, with reservations on the books, as well.

"Last year was an incredible fall season for us, and this year is looking to turn out just as good, if not better," Wilkin said.

across Michigan for the recent fruit-focused festival, such as Jeremy Woods and Mandy Mowen, of Mount Pleasant, who said they brought their 16-month-old daughter, Brooklyn, to Charlevoix to celebrate the harvest season. The dressed-for-the-weather family gathered at the Apple Festival petting zoo on Oct. 11, on Mason Street, where Brooklyn passed carrots to the noisy goats and sheep which craned their necks toward her.

Nearby Keweenaw Excursions, which operates the Keweenaw Star passenger cruise ship out of Charlevoix's marina in East Park, kept the boat busy during this colorful season with sometimes narrated trips around Lake Charlevoix and the South Arm to take in the views — and the stories.

"Those have gone great. We've had full boats, especially with the history tours," said Derek Chowen, of the cruise ship company. "We've got a couple more bus tours coming and then we're done."

Chowen said the chilly, damp weather conditions certainly impacts "walk-up" traffic, but the company remains strong with prebooked tours that come by bus coach from across the region and state.

Tim McQueer, assistant manager at Beaver Island Boat Company in Charlevoix, said the ferry business realized a drop in passengers during the recent rainy weeks. However, those who own property on the island are traveling out to close up cabins and homes, he said.

"Our last big bump was a group of birders at the end of September," McQueer said.

Wilkin said visitors bureau officials are very proud to have launched what seem to be a successful Pure Michigan radio ad campaign for Charlevoix, focused on autumn themes and broadcasted in Fort Wayne, South Bend, Toledo and Grand Rapids. She added how bureau officials also are thankful for financial support for that ad campaign from the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority and Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce.

In the meantime, officials remind both locals and potential visitors that autumn isn't even over yet.

"We have been getting calls and emails for weeks asking about the colors and when should they visit. The rain has not been a deterrent at all," said Alison Hubbard, chamber president. "I am sure we will continue to see the volume of people for the next few weeks as fall has just begun."

The National Weather Service confirmed that likely will be the case, especially since some trees around Charlevoix haven't yet changed out of their green, summer leaves.

"There are probably at least two weeks in Charlevoix yet. Those coastal sites really hold over until the end of October," said meteorologist Justin Arnett, of the weather station in Gaylord.

"The green stuff is going to improve with colors," he said. "As long as people don't mind dodging raindrops, it doesn't look too bad."

The area can expect to face repeated "bouts with light showers" during the coming days and into next week, Arnett said, along with a return of even cooler temperatures.

Local families to receive Thanksgiving cheer

CHARLEVOIX — Neighbors in Need, a popular giving program, will once again be stepping up to serve those in need of help this Thanksgiving.

The employees of Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant will be collecting donations to supply local families with Thanksgiving meals. Restaurant staff will work with local health and human service agencies such as the Salvation Army, local churches, Manna Food Project, Charlevoix Area Food Pantry and the Women's Resource Center to identify families in need. They are also working with Charlevoix teachers to seek families who would not request aid, but are grateful to be recipients.

"In this difficult economic time, we are hoping to make Thanksgiving a truly memorable one for each and every family in Charlevoix County," said Jeff Sprecksell, general manager of Stafford's Weathervane. "With the generous contributions of our neighbors and Stafford's Hospitality, I know that the possibilities are endless. Thank you for your support."

As part of the program, Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant employees and other volunteers will raise funds for dinners, prepare and package them in the restaurant kitchen and deliver the meals to area families. "Our staff wants to make this Thanksgiving special for everyone," Sprecksell said.

To make a monetary or time donation, or if you have the names of those in need, contact Jennifer Donker or Jeff Sprecksell at (231) 547-4311.

Library, Edward Jones offers Social Security talk

CHARLEVOIX — Social Security? Blah! No one wants to think about Social Security when they are young and healthy. But that is exactly when financial futures should be explored and planned. No one plans to fail, they fail to plan.

The Charlevoix Public Library and Edward Jones Financial Advisors have stepped up to assist and answer questions about financial pitfalls and Social Security unknowns at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 21, in community room A.

Ben Muladore, from Edward Jones, will explain how to make informed decisions about the future based on Social Security benefit options. His primary focus is Social Security planning and defining benefit levels and to explain how different retirement decisions may affect those benefit levels.

How many times have we heard from our elderly about what Social Security will or will not pay? This workshop wants to help minimize the difficulty of pursuing financial goals that seem vast due to information and process. Everyone wants to sidestep the economic potholes after retirement and being informed is the best way to ease into the process.

Register for the class at www.charlevoixlibrary.org/calendar online, or call (231) 237-7340.

EAST JORDAN

Sports bar/bowling center under new ownership

MICHAEL KADE MORROW
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

EAST JORDAN — New local owners plan for much to remain familiar at East Jordan's The Zone, but some enhancements are planned for the sports bar and bowling center as well.

Greg and Jessica Porter recently acquired The Zone, 214 Main St., from longtime owner Bill Warner.

"It was always a dream of ours, we joked that if Bill decided to sell the place we would like to buy it," Greg said. "We have lived in East Jordan for 15 years, always enjoyed the place. We have a little one that will be starting school in a couple of years. This gives us more time with the kids. We have two older kids that go to Boyne City, the kids can come down and have a family night."

Greg continued, "I was in pharmaceuticals with a medical background for about 12 to 15 years. I was always gone, gave me the opportunity to be home and more integrated in the community. Bill stressed that he wanted The Zone to go to a local resident, someone that had an interest here in the community, someone that lived here and understood the community."

Greg Porter emphasized that major changes aren't in store for the business.

"We really aren't making big changes, people don't like a lot of change, we just want to make it so the people can come to the same place they have always come," he said.

Jessica Porter added, "There is no reason to reinvent the wheel. The previous owners did a wonderful job, we really appreciate what they have done."

The Zone does have a couple of improvements in the works.

"We are looking to upgrade the menu items — just better quality, not change them," Greg said. "Prices will stay the same."

Jessica added that happy hour will follow a longer and more consistent schedule, from noon-6 p.m. seven days a week.

"We have a really good staff in place, we were very blessed with that. We are certainly moving on the right track, we know our clientele. We pay attention to what the customers appreciate," Greg said.

He also noted some opportunities in the bowling area.

"We still have some leagues available, still have a spot on men's league Monday night, mixed doubles available every other Sunday," Greg said. "We have kids' leagues starting in October. That is the future of sustaining the business. The date of start depends on what is going on with the school programs. It will cost $6 — that includes the shoes, bowling and a little banquet at the end of the 18 to 20 weeks."

He added, "I will be going to Brunswick school, (which) allows me to be ... certified to repair the equipment in the back. We just want to show the commitment and make sure everyone has a fun time."

Jessica said she wants to extend "just a huge thank-you for everyone that has come out and supported us."

For more information about The Zone's offerings, call (231) 536-2411.

Construction of Chestonia Bridge topic of coming meeting

EAST JORDAN — The nonprofit group Conservation Resource Alliance scheduled a meeting to discuss the erection of the new Chestonia Bridge at the Jordan River and Old State Road crossing.

The project meeting will be at 1 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27, at the Friends of the Jordan Watershed Center, 101 Union St. in East Jordan.

The alliance, after introductions, will discuss the status of fundraising efforts for construction of the new bridge, review the bridge design plans and engineer's estimate, and give the current status of recreational access considerations as given by the Antrim Conservation District, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Friends of the Jordan River Watershed.

There will be an on-site visit to discuss bridge location, substructure, guardrail and more, plus to discuss the recreational access considerations and options about vehicle access, boat access, restrooms and other issues.

Finally, alliance officials will plan the next steps and action items which include permit applications to the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and state DNR Natural Rivers Division.

The nonprofit alliance established in 1968 and considers itself as a steward of the land.

"Our understanding of regulations and funding control help many groups take advantage of opportunities, mobilize resources, minimize red tape, cut through bureaucratic layers, touch all bases, avoid surprises, and see that change proceeds fairly for all parties involved," said Kimberly Balke, of the group.

For more information, contact Balke at (231) 946-6817, or send email to kim@rivercare.org online.

Grice pleaded guilty to the crime with which he was originally charged, Hartman informed the court of some matters both sides agreed to prior to the plea.

Hartman explained that although there is agreement between the two sides the facts of the case support an involuntary manslaughter conviction, there is not total agreement about the facts of the case as far as what will be included on the presentence report for the judge to consider at the time of sentencing.

The differences surround the fact that the autopsy report indicated that William Grice had further injuries, that, while not significantly contributing to his death, could be indicative Christopher Grice hit his brother more than once.

Hartman said the defense has an expert who has opined the additional injuries were likely caused when William Grice had a seizure following the altercation and fell between the bed and the wall. Hartman said there was also a witness to the altercation who said Christopher only hit his brother once.

Hartman also told Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas at the time of sentencing he will be asking the court to depart downward from the state's sentencing guidelines in the case.

In most felony cases the state's sentencing guidelines establish a range in which the judge may set the minimum sentence for a crime. The range is determined by many factors including the circumstances surrounding the crime and the defendant's criminal record.

A judge may set a defendant's minimum sentence above or below the range specified by the guideline scoring if he or she finds "substantial and compelling reasons" to do so and places those reasons on the record. The range in Christopher Grice's case will be determined once the pre-sentence investigation is completed prior to sentencing, which is set for 9 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 7.

Involuntary manslaughter is a felony that carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

In a news release issued following the Tuesday's plea hearing, Telgenhof explained: "Involuntary manslaughter occurs when an individual causes the death of another either by acting in a grossly negligent manner or where the individual intended only to injure the victim, but caused death."

"I am relieved that this matter could be resolved without the necessity of a trial," Telgenhof said in the news release. "It would not have been easy for the family to go through a trial and to re-live these events."

A Charlevoix City Council vote to pursue an expansion to the city marina is drawing continued questions.

recommends approval or non-approval to the council, and the council appoints the planners," Novotny said.

Council write-in candidate Mary Eveleigh, of Ward 1, testified at the city council meeting on Aug. 18 that she also believes Brennan should not have spoken during planning commissioners' decision-making on the marina. Eveleigh further asked city officials to address this.

City attorney Scott Howard isn't so sure there's a problem here, though.

"Presenting information at a planning commission meeting is not a conflict of interest, per se," Howard said at that Aug. 11 meeting. "I always advise people in your position to be careful about what you say and I know you are."

Howard further explained how there is both a distinction between government decision-making on proposed private and public projects, as well as a legal difference between when officials present information at public meetings, but not advocate for a decision one way or another.

"I think because she (Brennan) was on the committee, she was trying to put forth some information that was useful," said councilman Lyle Gennett.

Later, Howard said via email that there are "court cases where statements to a board have been found to create a legal issue and cases where statements to a board have been held to be perfectly lawful. So it really depends on the comments that were made and circumstances that they were made in."

But then, there's more. Both Gibson and Novotny secondly contend Brennan should not only have not spoken at the planning commission meeting, but also should have abstained from one or the other vote on the marina: either on the marina committee level or on city council.

"If there's an appearance of an ethics or conflict of interest issue, then it's up to the council member to recuse him or herself," Gibson said.

Multiple city officials recused themselves from votes about this marina expansion proposal along its way to final approval. For example, mayor Norman Carlson Jr. recused himself from the otherwise unanimous vote on July 28 when the Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority board approved a marina expansion recommendation to council. Charlevoix Planning Commission members Judy Clock and Sherri Chamberlain also recused themselves on Aug. 11 from the same vote on their public body because of personal business connections.

"There's a question in my mind about whether council member Peggy Brennan should have recused herself from the council vote, like mayor Carlson appropriately did as a voting member of the DDA when it was on their agenda," Gibson said.

At the city council, Gibson voted against the project and Brennan voted favorably.

City council has not officially asked Howard to further investigate the legalities of the marina vote and committee process, he said.

decisions when he cast deciding votes on multiple controversial issues, including: the city marina expansion proposal; a resolution opposed to a potential land exchange between Fisherman's Island State Park and St. Marys Cement company; whether to bar Larry Sullivan from taking his elected city clerk seat while still serving as a Charlevoix County commissioner; and, even whether two private companies can operate kayak and paddleboard liveries from within two popular city parks.

Campbell served a two-year term as mayor just prior to Carlson's first term. He also said he served upwards of 12 years on the Charlevoix City Council, both before and after his time as mayor. Now he wants the job again.

"I'm not really happy with the way things are going," Campbell said, adding he did try to encourage others to challenge Carlson, but ended up taking on the Campbell said he opted to run for office again because he is dissatisfied with decisions made about the marina, as well as public discussions about privatization at the municipal golf course and Mount Mc-Sauha Recreational Area. Finally, it appears there are problems which need to be remedied at the city airport following the sudden resignation of former manager Scott Woody, Campbell said.

More details about the candidates, specifically their responses to various questions, will be published in a regional voters guide that will be included in the Oct. 31 edition of the Charlevoix Courier.

A WOMAN'S CANCER

Nothing represents femininity in the public mind more than a woman's breasts. Breasts beautify and define a woman's figure and nourish her newborn babies. Breasts, situated so close to the heart, embody comfort, love, and the place where sorrows are healed.

Breast cancer effects women in their most tender, secret places. And it is from these depths that they must find the resources to drive out the intruder that has invaded their most intimate space.

A breast cancer diagnosis, given after a long and agonizing wait, has a devastating effect. However, treatment success rates for this type of cancer encourage women to take immediate action in order to quickly regain their health.

Wisely, most women can confide in their family and friends, ask for help, and participate in support groups; this step is all about finding allies in their battle. These women can thus better focus on their healing, knowing that their positive attitude is an advantage. However, that doesn't mean that they should become disconnected from their emotions and ignore all the ups and downs they are bound to feel.

To cross these tumultuous waters and stay the course, each woman must find her own path and invent oases of peace where she can recharge her batteries. Massages, relaxation, a makeover, solitary walks, and outings with friends are therapeutic. The recovering woman must dare to give in to her impulsiveness! The intruder will quickly understand that she is very much alive and still master of her destiny.

When a woman receives a cancer diagnosis, her world collapses around her. This is the time for her to draw on both her mental and physical resources.

IT'S TIME TO ADMIT IT, GENTLEMEN!

The breast cancer message is almost always wrapped up with a pink ribbon, isn't it, fellas? That's not so surprising, given that the number of women affected is huge, compared to that of affected men, but the reality is that men do get breast cancer. And in all the breast cancer awareness publicity, it can be hard for a man to find his place.

Many men would swap breast cancer for prostate cancer, if they only had the chance. A lot of people have the mistaken belief that only women have breasts, simply because the female chest is more pronounced and more eroticized. By believing in this fiction, men who find a lump in their breast tissue may feel that their manhood is threatened and enter into a game of denial for which they pay a heavy price.

Already less inclined than women to consult a doctor, men tend to guard their secret in order to avoid ridicule. Inwardly, they feel angry and frustrated, which prevents them from channeling their energy in the right direction. They deprive themselves of all the benefits normally sought by women, such as demystifying the disease, getting professional support, sharing with family and peers, dealing with fear, and getting empathy and respect from friends.

Gentlemen, this ridiculous situation has gone on long enough. Hold your heads up and drive away your feelings of discomfort. Bet on essentials rather than trivialities, solidarity rather than isolation. Choose your battles!

Now that you know that breast cancer does not have a sex, how about adding a bit of blue sky to the monochrome landscape of the pink wave? You're still hesitating? Then forget the pink wave and think of the billions of drops in the ocean—each one has its own color, and you are one of them.

Gentlemen, assert yourselves. If you have breast cancer then you have a right to understanding and empathy.

Speed key to homecoming win

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Speed

was the key to the homecoming win over East Jordan on Friday, that doesn't make it any less true.

Four of Charlevoix's five touchdowns either came on running plays of 40 yards or more or were set up by a running play of 40 yards or more as the Rayders used its speed on the edge to pull away from the Red Devils.

Charlevoix quarterback Nate Moon was responsible for two of those plays, rushing for touchdowns of 46 and 59 yards on top of a 6 of 6 passing performance for 70 yards.

"We studied film, and we noticed that when teams ran the option against (East Jordan) they went after the pitchman hard, but not the quarterback," Moon said. "I saw an opening and took off, and got some great blocks, especially on the second run from (offensive line-man) Spencer Bruce that just opened everything up and left nobody between me and the end zone."

Ben Boss finished with 114 yards and two touchdowns on seven carries as well for the Rayders, including a 75 yard run for a score early in the fourth quarter.

Bryan Noirot scored on a 1-yard run for the Rayders' final touchdown after Malcolm Williams went 43 yards late in the fourth quarter to set up first and goal.

"We've got some speed and some pretty talented players, so our goal is to use that to our advantage when we run the option," Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi said. "If we do it right, and they make one mistake or don't play their assignments, then it usually results in a pretty big play for us."

"That's something we really work on here, and you saw why tonight."

Defensively, the Rayders showcased a different kind of speed, knifing into the backfield repeatedly and finishing with seven sacks and 13 tackles for loss to snuff out several promising East Jordan drives.

All that negative yardage meant that Charlevoix held its opponent to under 100 yards of total offense for the second straight week, and earning its second straight shutout in the process.

Williams led the defense with seven tackles, a sack and a tackle for loss, and Mick Hinkle and Caleh Hart each made two sacks as well.

Moon intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble for the Rayders, whose second straight strong performance on defense is starting to erase the bad memories of a four game stretch earlier in the season when Charlevoix gave up 42 or more points three times.

Rayders achieve hard-fought victory

NOAH CERTA

EAST JORDAN — The Charlevoix Rayder junior varsity football squad put together a solid display on the field this season.

Coming into the game unbeaten, they went toe to toe with the East Jordan Devils on Thursday night. The Rayders ran for three early touchdowns into a 19-0 lead en route to a hard fought 32-18 win over the Devils at Boswell Stadium.

"It was a game where we started out fast, and ended poorly. Particularly on the defensive side of the ball," said Charlevoix assistant coach Brian Certa. "We scored the first five touchdowns in the game. Each one came in the first half of the game."

The running game was a bright spot for the Rayders.

Sophomore Brad Klinger sparked the scoring with a 21-yard run in the first quarter. Klinger ran for 72 yards on seven attempts. He also completed three passes for 35 yards on the night.

Sophomore Jared McLean put the Rayders up 13-0 with a four-yard run of his own. McLean had three touchdowns on the night, and finished with 116 yards rushing on eight attempts. Sophomore Jomar Williams ran for 77 yards on 10 attempts with a touchdown in the game. Sophomore Tyler McCallum added a touchdown for the Rayders, too.

Coach Certa remained exuberant by the way the running game performed.

"Our running game has performed well all season long. The majority of the credit is due to the play of the offensive line. They're the ones who open up the holes for our running backs," he said.

East Jordan tried to make a comeback in the second half with touchdown runs of 3, 17, and 65 yards. Their comeback ultimately came up short.

The Rayder offense outgained the Devils in yards, 302-99.

On the defensive side of the ball, the Rayders continued to be ferocious. McLean had a team high five tackles. Sophomore Caleb Hart pitched in three tackles on the night.

"I was proud of how the boys started the game off. On defense, the boys started out fast, not allowing any points throughout the first half. It was a good test before our big game against Frankfort."

Certa said.

Next for the 7-0 Rayders is a home game against the

SOCCER

Elks spoil Rayders' senior night, force split of LMC title

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix boys soccer team never found its rhythm in its regular season finale against Elk Rapids on Thursday, Oct. 9.

The cost was the outright title in the Lake Michigan Conference.

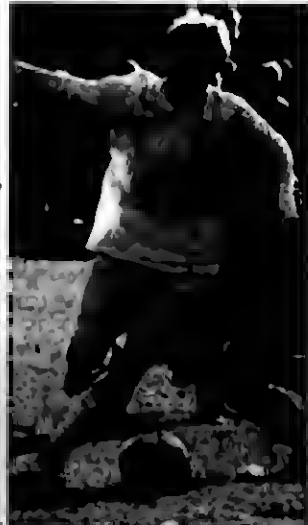

Instead, the Rayders had to settle for a co-championship with the Elks after a late comeback fell short in a 2-1 Elk Rapids victory.

Christian Matye scored Charlevoix's goal, getting on the end of a long throw-in attempt and chipping the ball past the keeper with 15 minutes to play to give the Rayders a spark and cut into a 2-0 Elk Rapids lead.

But the Rayders couldn't find the equalizer in the last 15 minutes, struggling to build possession and turning the ball over.

That inability to connect passes and control possession was a common theme throughout the game for Charlevoix, which had great difficulty playing with the crispness the Rayders have shown over the course of the season.

Charlevoix got off on the wrong foot before the game even started, as disciplinary issues forced the team to sit a couple of regular starters for the start of play.

The change in lineup meant a change in Charlevoix's formation and tactics, away from the style that the Rayders had deployed all season and toward one which Charlevoix had little experience with.

The Elks took advantage of the switch almost immediately, as senior Marty Raymond scored on a defensive breakdown just over a minute into the match to give Elk Rapids a 1-0 lead.

"(The adjustments we were forced to make) really affected the way we were able to move the ball offensively in the first half," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said. "We hadn't played that way all season long, and what we tried to do early just didn't work."

"It was definitely a difficult half for us."

Charlevoix came back to even out the play in the first half, creating several dangerous chances, but strong defensive play from the Elks and missed connections kept the Rayders off of the scoreboard.

"We had a lot of opportunities in the first half, but we just weren't able to capitalize," Boss said. "The positive thing is that despite everything else, those opportunities were still there for us, and hopefully that's something we can continue moving forward."

Two minutes before the half, the Elks got another goal when a Charlevoix player accidentally headed a dangerous free kick from the Elks' Zach Watson into his own net to give Elk Rapids a 2-0 lead.

Shortly after that goal, Charlevoix caught its first break of the game when an Elk Rapids player was issued a red card for unsportsmanlike conduct, forcing the Elks to play a man down for the entire second half.

However, despite having a man advantage and playing with its full starting lineup, the Rayders struggled to break down the Elks' defense in the second half.

"We were playing antsy in the second half, and we let the fact that we were down 2-0 affect us," Boss said. "We weren't able to connect on our passes or maintain ball control consistently."

"We have to be able to overcome facing a deficit like that, and it's something we're going to have to work on heading into districts next week."

The Rayders, who beat the Elks 3-2 on the road earlier in the season on the way to locking up a share of the LMC title, finish the regular season at 17-4.

Charlevoix can't afford to dwell for long on this loss, as the Rayders opened district play at home 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 15, at against Bellpire.

The Eagles beat Charlevoix

3-2 in last year's district final and clinched their third straight NMSL title with a 2-1 win over Harbor Light Christian on Thursday as well.

"They graduated a lot of players off of last year's team, but (Charlevoix assistant) coach (Anton) Matye been over to scout them and they're still a solid team," Boss said. "You can't take anything for granted in district play, and you have to be ready to go in every game if you want to keep advancing."

that need to be done (on defense)," Bindi said. "In two years here, I've never seen our defense play as physically or swarm to the ball the way they did tonight."

"They moved the ball on us a couple of times, but our players stepped up and made the adjustments quickly."

The Rayders jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first seven minutes of the game behind touchdowns from Moon and Boss, and it looked like Charlevoix might run away with the game.

East Jordan came to life toward the end of the first quarter, going on a long drive that finally stalled just outside of the red zone, then forcing two three and outs and holding Charlevoix scoreless in the second quarter.

"That fight is just who our kids are," East Jordan coach Allan Peterson said. "After getting behind, not a single head was hanging on the sidelines, they were ready to go play and to rally."

"I'm so proud of them, they just keep fighting every game, right to the last gun. Every one of them is spent right now, they left it all on the field."

Ryan Graham led East Jordan with 42 yards rushing on 15 carries, and Marco Mara finished with six rushes for 36 yards.

Defensively, the Red Devils recovered two fumbles, and Wyatt Crick finished with three solo tackles and six assists to lead a unit that stymied Charlevoix heading into halftime.

"We came in at the half, got on the chalkboard and figured out what they were doing to us and how to adjust," Bindi said. "Our line was missing assignments and wasn't blocking the way it should have in the first half, but once we got that sorted out, we started to roll."

Charlevoix came out and seized control of the game in the third quarter on another touchdown run from Moon, then Boss put the game away with his 75-yard run less than two minutes into the fourth quarter.

The Rayders finished with 313 yards rushing on 28 carries on the night.

"That's kind of how the season has been, we get some stops, make the ball go a little bit, but we give up too many big plays," Peterson said. "We're a couple of athletes away from being a pretty good football team, and that's hard, but these kids never give up."

Charlevoix (4-3, 2-1 NMFL-II) kept its playoff hopes alive with the victory, but needs wins in its final two games to automatically qualify for the first time since 2009.

The Rayders travel to Frankfort Friday, Oct. 17, for a tough matchup against the 6-1 Panthers, a dangerous team with a dynamic passing attack.

"Frankfort's a perennial playoff team, and you've always got to respect whoever you're playing," Bindi said. "It's a big game, and we're going to have to do a lot of extra work this week to get ready."

East Jordan (0-7, 0-4), meanwhile, continues the hunt for its first victory at home against Harbor Springs on the same night.

VOLLEYBALL

Rayders knock off rival Ramblers

DREW KOCHANNY/NEWS-REVIEW

BOYNE CITY — There hasn't been a whole lot of tests for the Charlevoix volleyball team this season.

One would come for the Rayders on Tuesday, Oct. 7, however, as they met rival Boyne City.

The Rayders would still come out with a three set Lake Michigan Conference win over the Ramblers in the Boyne City High School gym.

"It's always exciting to play a rival and usually we know a lot about this team, but we really didn't other than they were having success against other conference teams that we already played," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "We were happy with our win during homecoming week."

In the first match of the night, Boyne would keep things close with the Rayders early, leading with an 8-7 score, then tying the Rayders, 10-10.

That would be about as close as Boyne would come in the match, though, with Charlevoix pulling ahead from a 15-11 score, to a 23-14 and eventually a 25-15 win.

The second match would be just the opposite, as Boyne held tough with the Rayders throughout, jumping ahead 8-4 to start.

Their lead would be stretched to a tie at 11-11, then the Rayders would pull ahead 18-16, before another tie at 20-20.

Boyne's next lead would come in a 22-21 game, before Charlevoix came out with the 25-23 win.

The third set would go much like the first for the Rayders, as they came out with a 25-19 win, to finish off their rival on the road.

Leading the Rayders on the night, Olivia Storm had 20 assists, five digs and one block.

Madeline Boss had 16 kills, six digs, two aces and two blocks and Gloria Greene finished with nine kills, nine digs, three blocks and two aces.

Also for the Rayders, Alexis Tribfelner had 12 digs and one ace, Hannah Zipp, two kills, Hailey Berry, four aces and Emily Zabawa had a 100 percent serve receive, while adding one block and one kill.

For Boyne City, Ashlyn Kartes had 19 assists, five blocks, one kill, Paige Hornbeck had 13 kills and one ace, Abby Gardner had four blocks, two kills and one ace and Celena Brzezinski had six kills, one block and one ace.

Kartes, Hornbeck and Gardner all also served at 100 percent on the night.

The Ramblers welcomed East Jordan on Thursday, Oct. 9, for their next Lake Michigan matchup, while the Rayders, now 27-6-4 overall on the season, hosted both Elk Rapids and Bellaire on Thursday.

VOLLEYBALL

Charlevoix takes dual match wins over Elks and Eagles

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Non-conference or conference this season, the Rayders have proved formidable against both.

That would continue on Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Charlevoix High School gym, with the Rayders coming out with a four match win over Elk Rapids and three match win over Bellaire.

The wins move the Rayders 29-7-4 overall on the year, while victory over the Elks gives Charlevoix an 8-2 stand in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"It was a good team effort on the offensive and defensive side tonight," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "Some girls really stepped up in various roles, shining nicely."

The first matchup, against Elk Rapids, got off to a great start, with the Rayders taking the first match, 25-5.

The second game would also go to the Rayders, 25-13, however Elk Rapids would take the third, 25-22. In the fourth, focus would come together once again for the Rayders, as they finished off the Elks, 25-9.

"I'm very proud of the girls," said Randall. "They had a tough set three with the Elks and the Elks momentum was rising, but the girls stayed on focus in the fourth set, shutting them down 25-9."

The next matchup against Bellaire was a team the Rayders hadn't seen much of over the years, if any time at all.

Charlevoix would take it in three, with wins of 25-10, 25-16 and 25-19.

"It was the first time we played Bellaire that I can remember, they have a great group of girls and we are glad they came to play," added Randall.

Leading the Rayders on the night, Madeline Boss had 41 kills, 35 digs and two aces, while recording a 91 percent serve receive on the night. Olivia Storm added 67 assists, 22 digs and two aces, while Alex, is Tribfeller had 38 digs and an 88 percent serve receive.

Also for Charlevoix, Emily Zabawa had 19 kills, five digs and two blocks, Gloria Greene had 17 kills, 15 digs, six aces and five blocks, Hannah Zipp had four kills, two blocks and two aces, while adding a strong night serving. Yogi Hang had 35 digs, Hailey Berry had four kills and one block and Becca Moon had four kills.

Rayders inch closer to regionals

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Although it's not the biggest event on the calendar, with only four teams, the venerable Belvedere Run still plays host to some blazing fast times.

That was true again on Tuesday, Oct. 7, at Belvedere Golf Club, as runners from host Charlevoix, Petoskey, Traverse City Central and Elk Rapids had strong performances on the hilly 2.9-mile course.

Leading the way on the men's side was Petoskey's Thomas VanSlembrouck, who took the lead early on in the race and pulled away at the mile mark to win by more than a minute, in 15:07.

"There were a few runners who took it out really fast, and I just went with them, and tried to run my own race and stick with the plan from there," VanSlembrouck said. "I've been doing a lot of long distance work lately, so I've been kind of tired, but I felt really good today."

"I wasn't too sold on my lead for the entire race, and I thought the other runners were going to come back on me and kick me down at the end, but it didn't happen."

Andy Frampus took third as well for Petoskey, in 16:25, and Chase Gregory and Max Meyerson finished fifth (16:35) and sixth (16:36), respectively for the Northmen.

Jacob Kromm took eighth for Petoskey, in 16:56, Riley Norton finished 12th (17:24), and Mason Norton took 14th (17:28).

"Every meet, we can see our guys' team taking another step forward in terms of time and effort, and every week they're able to maintain a little bit faster pace," Petoskey coach Jim Harrington said. "We had a good performance today, and I'm feeling good about where the group is at."

Host Charlevoix also had a number of strong finishes on the boys' side, led by Luke Buday's fourth-place effort (16:34).

JAMES GENSTERBLUM/NEWS-REVIEW

Nicholas Plude took seventh (16:48) as well for the Rayders, and Micah Peebles finished 15th (17:29).

Lucas VonLau finished 18th (17:33), Noah Jeakle finished 19th (17:42), and Jonathan Pischner took 20th (17:43) for Charlevoix.

"Luke is running really well up front, and Nick did a good job running today with a head cold," Charlevoix coach Ken Plude said. "The most important thing is that our back end keeps dropping time and getting better and better with every race."

On the girls' side, Traverse City Central's Courtney Stewart took home top honors, in 18:06.

Sarah Gohle led Petoskey with a runner-up finish, in 18:24, and Sydney Hopp and Brittney Bunker took eighth (19:41) and 11th (19:52), respectively.

Katherine Edwards finished 20th (21:31) for Petoskey, Brittany Winter took 29th (22:04), and Courtney Coveyou finished 30th (22:08).

"Sarah has been running well all season long, and Hopp and Bunker have been right behind her and strong as well," Petoskey coach Jen Smith said. "We keep getting healthier, and as girls start coming back from injury we've had a constant battle for the fifth, sixth and seventh spots."

"It's nice to have that kind of competition because they push each other and the times keep getting better."

Katie Mousseau finished 18th (21:01) to lead Charlevoix, Ali Schweip took 23rd (21:41) and Kourtney Putman took 24th (21:42).

Natalie Nessburg finished 26th (21:47) for the Rayders, and Ellie Way finished 28th (21:57).

"This meet was a good tune-up for us, because we've got the conference meet next week," Charlevoix coach Mary Plude said. "It's great that we can get Traverse City Central, Petoskey and Elk Rapids here and have a gear-up meet for all of us as we head into big meets the next two weeks."

"The course is hilly, but because it's short, I think it's a great confidence boost for runners. They see their time and come away knowing they can go even faster, and having that confidence is so crucial because it builds a positive attitude heading into those end of season meets."

All four teams run in conference championship meets next week. Petoskey and Traverse City Central travel to Gaylord on Tuesday for the Big North Conference final, and Charlevoix and Elk Rapids compete in the Lake Michigan Conference final in Grayling on the same day.

"This meet is scheduled at a good time to get us ready for the last few courses we run," Harrington said. "The course at Gaylord is on a golf course as well, and it's very similar to this one, a lot of long, rolling hills."

JAMES GENSTERBLUM/NEWS-REVIEW
Charlevoix's Katie Mousseau competes in Belvedere Run. Mousseau led the Rayders with an 18th place finish.

"We run a lot of hills in Petoskey on a daily basis, but it's always nice to get more experience on hilly courses heading into a big meet."

Much like the course at Gaylord, the LMC championship course at Grayling is also very hilly, making Belvedere ideal preparation for Charlevoix and Elk Rapids as well.

"Running here gives us another strength day of training heading into a conference meet where strength is key, so that's important," Ken Plude said. "After that, the courses start to flatten out a little bit, and we can start to focus more on our speed."

The undeniable glow behind Friday night lights

Friday, Saturday, Sunday. In the fall, it's an American tradition for many. Friday high school, Saturday college, Sunday NFL. Heck, this week alone, there are televised football games every weekday except Wednesday.

This remains a football-crazed country, despite the national discussion related to health issues in the game.

And in Northern Michigan, where community pride remains high, that pride is no more visible than on Friday night. In many of these towns, the local football game is the biggest thing going on all weekend, and it is the social highlight of the week.

But this is not a column about football. This is a column about those programs which stand outside of the "Friday Night Lights," yet cast an undeniable glow. Some of Northern Michigan's best athletes and successful teams can be found on the cross-country trail, the tennis court, or soccer pitch.

Gaylord High School cross-country coach Jeff Kalember knows a thing or two about running a successful program in the shadow of football.

Kalember took over for the legendary Dave Wenzel and the program hasn't skipped a beat. The Blue Devils have a great developmental program and are always regional and state-level contenders. The 2007 Gaylord girls' team even won the state championship.

To this day, covering the state championship team and its subsequent schoolwide assembly ranks among the most fun things I've ever done as a sports writer.

"The whole experience was great," Kalember said. "Being ranked No. 1 from the first week of practice to actually following through with a win is hard to beat from a coaching perspective. Support was great. The newspaper did a huge article that is now posted in the GHS showcase next to our trophy and the schoolwide assembly was a nice pat on the back for the girls."

Despite this nod to a job well done, cross-country and all other fall sports pale in comparison to football in terms of spectator attendance and media coverage.

Kalember, a man dedicated to his athletes and promoting their accomplishments, believes a good football program and cross-country program can run hand-in-hand.

"We know the culture of football draws in more fans, generating more interest for the newspaper and TV," he said. "When we do well, we get plenty of coverage, and the kids are rewarded with the experience of having set goals and met them. It's really all we need for a pat on the back. I have had people stop me at the store or at the basketball/football games and say 'those cross-country teams are always good." It seems that just about everyone knows the Gaylord High School cross-country teams are good, year-in and year-out, and we appreciate it."

Kalember is an avid football fan — and offers an anecdote about the popularity difference between cross-country and football.

"What if U of M football was ranked No. 1 and MSU was ranked No. 2 in the country right now," he asked. "Imagine the publicity. Imagine the hype. Well, did you know those rankings are true for women's cross-country? I bet nobody in town knows that! That's just the way it is, and now that I'm approaching the end of my career (year 26), I accept it better than when I was younger."

This isn't just about cross-country. The Petoskey boys' soccer team is top-notch. So is the Charlevoix volleyball team. Ditto for the Boyne City cross-country team. And the Harbor Springs girls' golf team. There are plenty of others.

It has been a great year for football in places like Gaylord, Petoskey and Boyne City, but there are many good sports teams local fans should be proud of this fall.

I asked Kalember to describe what makes a good cross-country runner. His response, in part:

"Intelligent, goal-setting athletes make the best runners," he said. "Many cross-country runners are also internally motivated. They don't need a gym full of huddles lifting weights. They don't need a team around them all summer to practice. True cross-country runners who really give to our team go all out on their own every day and log their miles."

The practice method, rules and playing surface may be great but an argument could be made that the aforementioned sentence could be the blueprint for individual and team success on the football field. Or in life, for that matter.

The beauty of sports is that it teaches the same life lessons no matter what the sport — goal-setting, working together, self-sacrifice, learning how to handle both success and adversity.

Whether it is under the Friday night lights or along the Tuesday afternoon trail, success is all around us.

Jeremy Speer is sports director for the Petoskey News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times and Charlevoix Courier. He can be reached for comment at jspeer@schurz.com.

Pop Warner loses on Saturday

Charlevoix Midgets

The Charlevoix Midgets played a tough Boyne City team last Saturday under cold, wet conditions. Charlevoix fell behind early but made a great comeback in the second half. Nevertheless, they fell to Boyne 28-20.

Tony Illenden had a breakout performance for the young Rayders with multiple key receptions on offense and interception on defense. Charlevoix's points came from a 1-yard Cole Wright touchdown run in the first half, and Jake Snyder had one touchdown run and 42 yards in the second half.

Cole Wright also stripped the ball from a Boyne running back in the second half for a takeaway. The Midget Rayders play Mancelona on Oct. 18 in Mancelona.

Charlevoix Pee Wees

The Charlevoix Pee Wees lost Saturday, in Pellston, to a strong Petoskey Bulldog team 14-8. This is the PeeWee team's first loss and they stand at 15-11. This game was decided in the trenches, with both offensive and defensive lines battling hard all game long.

Offensively, the Rayders were led by Isaac Moor, whose 55-yard touchdown run capped the scoring. Max Ostrum converted on the two point conversion, and the Rayders were in business and up by two. However, the Petoskey offense made one more play than the Charlevoix defense, and the score at the half, was also the final score of the game as a late drive to the Petoskey 10 yard line was stifled by Petoskey.

Defensively, the Rayders were led by Ostrum, Dmitri Bell and Spencer Weber. Eric Arlt also got in on a tackle for Charlevoix. The Pee Wee Rayders will end their season in the annual Jam-boree game, where they will play the Petoskey Spartans.

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix city leaders accepted the resignation of Joe Zielinski, Charlevoix's city treasurer, who found other employment.

"Thank you for the opportunity to serve the city," Zielinski said at Monday's city council meeting, adding he received wonderful support from across city departments.

City manager Rob Straebel said Zielinski achieved much in his one-year tenure with the city since the retirement of longtime city treasurer Rick Brandi.

"I would like to thank Joe for his time with Charlevoix, though it was much too short," Straebel said.

Later, Straebel added to his thoughts about Zielinski's time as Charlevoix's city treasurer.

CHARLEVOIX — There will be several meetings regarding Fisherman's Island State Park's future in coming days, but they won't all be open to the public.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources will on Monday, Nov. 3 host two open-door meetings to inform the public about the start of a general management planning process for the locally beloved and Charlevoix-based state park situated along the Lake Michigan shoreline. But five days prior to that, on Wednesday, Oct. 29, St. Marys Cement will host its last private, closed-door meeting with its company-created committee to discuss a widely debated concept to swap some of its business-owned land for some state parkland.

And before any of that happens, the nonprofit group Friends of Fisherman's Island State Park will host an open house from 10 a.m.-noon on Saturday, Oct. 25, in Community Room A at Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St. Representatives of the organization will distribute yard signs that convey opposition to any such parkland swap with the mining company, plus share pertinent information with attendees.

State-hosted sessions

The DNR-hosted meetings will be from 2-4 p.m. and 6-8 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 3, in Community Room B at Charlevoix Public Library. Each session will provide an overview of the department's general management plan process, including a timeline and future opportunities for stakeholders and public involvement.

"It's long-term goals for us to aim for in our state parks," said Debbie Jensen, DNR park management plan administrator.

The 2,678-acre Fisherman's Island State Park includes more than six miles of Lake Michigan shoreline in Charlevoix County, with 80 rustic campsites, a picnic area and abundant foot trails. But it's not all about recreational amenities, Jensen said.

"What we also struggle with is balancing natural resources protection with recreational demands," she said.

Ultimately, the management plan process launched by the DNR about

One last 'Fall Fun Saturday' at Friske's

CAROLYN SHERK
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

ATWOOD — The autumn season is in full swing and the folks at Friske's Farm Market in Atwood are celebrating the harvest with a last "Fall Fun Saturday" events on Oct. 25.

The event will feature tractor rides, a petting zoo and pick-yourself apples for kids of all ages. The apple varieties available in the self-pick orchard include Ida Red and Red Delicious. Friske's offers 18 different varieties of apples in the market which range from the firm and tart for cooking to the extremely sweet for snacking.

The event begins at 8 a.m. and both apple strudel and pumpkin pancakes will be featured on the breakfast menu. Apple paninis are the specialty for the lunch menu, which are a turkey and apple treat. Fall favorite fresh-pressed cider made right on the premises is accompanied with homemade doughnuts of many varieties in the bakery.

The rainy weather put a damper on the harvest this season and a group of 20 apple pickers stayed busy, working days and nights to gather and sort the apples from the 300-acre orchard. Gathering is expected to be extended into November.

The "Fall Fun Saturday" event provides the community an opportunity to get out and enjoy the beauty of fall and celebrate the harvest tradition.

"We are hoping the weather will cooperate with us," said Tim Collins, the assistant manager at Friske's

Shanahan Field gets $260,000 overhaul

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Township recently completed a yearlong project updating Shanahan Field.

The 16.9-acre area, located behind the township office off Waller and Old Orchard roads, includes soccer fields, a baseball field, tennis courts, a basketball court, pickle ball courts, playgrounds, picnic areas and a pavilion. The township completed updates to the baseball field in the spring of 2013 and wanted to complete the remainder of the park in accordance with its recreation plan.

"The play area was unsafe and needed upgrading, the picnic pavilion was deteriorating and the former BMX race track had not been used in years," said Chuck Center, township supervisor. "We are so excited about the updates, because it means more families and individuals are able to utilize the park, making it a real family destination."

The majority of the $260,000 project came from a general fund established by the township. It was followed by a $45,000 Michigan Department of Natural Resources Passport Grant and a $6,000 grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, a public charity dedicated to improving and enriching the lives of people in Charlevoix County. The handicap-compliant project repaired and enhanced the pavilion, replaced the playground with new and safe equipment that supports usage by people with disabilities, the BMX track was removed, the pavement was extended to include additional parking, a turn-around area and a safety gate. Also four new picnic pods with grills were added.

"We are proud to partner with the township on this project," said Maureen Radke, program officer at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "The township provides recreational facilities free of charge to anyone, not only township residents. Adding this walkway improves the park for everyone, including people with disabilities."

In the past, concrete paths and the lack of a good drainage system had caused water to build up in areas of the park, parking lots and on the concrete paths. As the water froze, concrete cracked and the ice buildup created hazards for park goers. The renovations also included a new, extensive underground drainage system that runs throughout the park.

Architect Klaus Heinert, of Gosting Czihak in Traverse City, designed landscaped areas to utilize native grasses and sand as well as a variety of other permeable surfaces instead of concrete, which allow for natural drainage and alleviate water and ice buildup. The sustainable areas require virtually no maintenance.

CHARLEVOIX — A new wintertime festival is coming to downtown Charlevoix, joining the existing annual New Year's Bridge Drop, all to increase snow-blasted tourism opportunities.

City leaders on Monday approved the inaugural Groundhog Shadow Fest to occur between Feb. 6-8, 2015, in the downtown area. The idea comes from local resident Tim Fore, who said he wanted to create an economic boost for Charlevoix during the cold and sometimes financially barren winter months. See, he used to come to town only during the summer boating season.

"I never realized how few

"We're pulling together something to bring more people into Charlevoix during winter," Fore said, adding how ultimately, the goal is to help local shops and motels with a financial boost during the depths of winter.

Only one question came from the council.

"Will there be any live animals there?" asked Jeff Porter, of Ward 1.

Fore responded that they haven't managed to arrange for a live groundhog, and no petting zoo animals will be at the event, he said. Despite that, documents provided by the Change

There are a few ecological laws. They are not easily expressed in mathematical terms as are the laws of physics. But, they are no less true.

The first, and probably the most important rule is, "Everything is connected to everything else."

EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

All the earth's organisms and all its physical and chemical parts are connected. The connections may not always be obvious, but they are there.

The second law is, "The larger such an interconnected system is, the more slowly it can change." An interconnected system like the earth changes with what must be called glacial speed. Global climate change is difficult to understand because it occurs on a time scale that humans have trouble comprehending.

The third law is, "There is no such thing as a free lunch." Actions have consequences. Whether the actions are burning coal or developing solar power or nuclear energy. All have consequences.

If you live near it for a time, it becomes obvious that Lake Michigan is slow to change. Organisms thrive and fail, overall water quality changes and the future of shorelines is difficult or impossible to predict. Ecology's second law tells us that.

Our American economic and political organization surely qualifies as a large interconnected set of systems. We should not expect it to change quickly, and we certainly should not expect that such a complex system will change back to what it was some time in the past.

The ordinary citizen's opportunity to in some small way affect the future of that complex system is at hand. We should hardly expect rapid change. The wisdom of our founders was that we have senators, representatives and local officials who are elected for a period of years. That sounds like sound thinking. Why don't we have presidential elections every year? Because change is slower than that.

There is some tendency in this electronic age to expect almost instant change. We should get over that. We cannot change ecological laws, even though we change legal ones. We have a very complicated economic and political system. It will change, only slowly.

We can change it by voting. I think that one possible reason for minimal turnout in some of our national elections is disappointment when change does not occur right away. Obey the laws of ecology. You have no choice in that. But you can choose to alter the course of our future by participating, however minimally, in making the future.

Vote boldly and often, but only once per election.

LETTERS to the editor

Hayes ran positive campaign

Editor:

The candidate for circuit judge must have integrity, honesty, compassion, and be morally fit to fill the current position. The candidate must have experience in the various courts, both criminal and civil, at the state and federal level. They must have the strength of character to put aside their own views to follow the law. These characteristics are learned in life by example, and demonstrated on a daily basis in and out of the courtroom.

Joe Hayes has all of the characteristics that will make him a great judge. He is intelligent, he is honest, he is compassionate, he is morally fit, he has integrity and he has the ability to see all sides of an issue.

Joe Hayes stated at the beginning of this campaign that he did not want the campaign to be negative. Unfortunately, however, his opponent has thrown out negative and inaccurate comments about him. She is making the fact that he was raised by an outstanding and well-respected attorney, Roy ("Joe") C. Hayes Jr., now deceased, as a negative against him. Joe Hayes researched and wrote opinions for a Missouri Supreme Court Judge. Joe was asked by the National Board of Medical Examiners to give the closing argument at their trial, which resulted in a successful outcome for the medical examiners. Joe has given hours of time pro bono to the WRC providing legal advice. Joe represented a local woman being sued by her rapist in federal court resulting in the case be dismissed. He wasn't able to accomplish these positive outcomes because of who his father was, but because of who he is, an outstanding attorney dedicated to do his best for everyone.

Joe Hayes has never been involved in lawsuits because of inappropriate and unethical behavior and wrongdoings. Joe Hayes has not cost the Charlevoix County in excess of 1 million dollars for inappropriate and unethical behavior in lawsuits by employees while employed by the county. His opponent cannot say the same.

Joe chose to maintain his office in Charlevoix to serve the people of Charlevoix County. By electing him he will continue to serve the people of Charlevoix County. He will make informed decisions in the courtroom, and will be a credit to the position. Please vote for Roy "Joe" Hayes III for circuit court judge on Nov. 4.

Joey Phelps, Charlevoix

Joe knows compassion, commitment, integrity

Editor:

I would like to encourage voters to join me in voting for Roy C. "Joe" Hayes on Nov. 4. I am proud to call him a friend. Those who know him know him as Joe, and Joe knows ...

Joe knows compassion. Joe has been my family's friend and attorney for several years; as his father was before him. As my mother fell ill recently and needed legal assistance, Joe was there for her. He was patient, kind and compassionate, and always made her feel like she was important to him. Joe knows integrity. I have worked as a law enforcement officer for two different agencies in Charlevoix County for almost 20 years. My experience with Joe is he is a professional that always puts his clients first. Joe always follows the law and never takes cheap shots; he sticks to the facts and the law and is quite successful.

Joe knows commitment. Joe is a Charlevoix native, successful attorney and beloved family man. Being successful at all three of these endeavors require a great deal of commitment. Joe could have moved to seek bigger paydays and more prestige, but he didn't. He chose to come home and be part of the community that helped raise him.

Joe's compassion, integrity and commitment are just a few of the reasons I will be voting for Roy C. "Joe" Hayes on Nov. 4, and I encourage you to do the same. Joe is the right choice for our community.

Robert W. Scholey, Marion Township

Confidently voting for Hayes

Editor:

Take a moment and contemplate the famous line: "People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones." That is the thought that continuously comes to mind when I see ads printed by the opponent in this election. Stone throwing and mudslinging come from politicians who are afraid of their own past, not of their opponents. They feel it is far easier to keep the glare elsewhere than for it to shine in their own dark closet.

I personally invite voters to investigate each candidate and see for themselves what qualities they deem important in our next circuit court judge. Stop by and personally talk to each one; see for yourself who holds the qualities we want to see in our next circuit court judge. Ask yourself, who will sit with honor and integrity on the bench? Who will be a role model both on and off the bench for our community? Those are the attributes we must seek.

Not only will Roy C. Hayes III display honor and integrity as our next circuit court judge, he will be a true role model that our community can stand behind. His professional demeanor, true character and solid commitment to the law is what I admire in Roy C. Hayes III and what I deem as requirements in our community's next circuit court judge.

I will be voting with confidence and assurance on Nov. 4 for Roy C. Hayes III.

Catherine A. Kerr, East Jordan

Hayes will bring dignity like Pajtas

Editor:

I've been thinking about the election for circuit judge and who would best fill the position.

In the past, Judge Richard Pajtas brought dignity and respectability to this judgeship. I am voting for Joe Hayes because I know he will bring that same dignity to the judgeship.

Sue Erber, Charlevoix

Marina charges are politically motivated

Editor:

After reading the Friday, Oct. 17, front page article concerning the marina vote I am compelled to respond to the trumped up and politically motivated charges. For a councilmember and this paper to belabor this issue and ask for another legal opinion at taxpayers' expense months after the fact is disingenuous.

At the Aug. 8 city council meeting, city attorney Scott Howard stated, "That presenting information at a meeting is not a conflict of interest per se." He cautioned council to be careful when presenting and not advocate for something specific at other meetings.

Questions were asked at the planning commission meeting. As chairperson of the marina committee, I had answers to those questions. All information presented was factual providing a better understanding of the dock design and process. A member thanked me for presenting the information so that they could make a decision based on knowledge.

It is with precedence, that council members serving on committees, vote upon matters when presented to the full council. For instance, members of council on the airport, outdoor dining, city clerk and city attorney selection committees have all voted on motions tied directly with their committee without a single one recusing themselves including councilmember Gibson. (Councilmember Gibson as member all of these committees and chairing one.

proceeded to vote at full council meetings.) Nor has anyone questioned their ethics when doing so.

Will the legality of every vote that has been made by a council member who has served on a committee over the last several years be called into question? What about every planning commission meeting when a council member gave a presentation? Will a legal opinion be sought for each and every motion regarding such? If not, why? Will a legal opinion of a legal opinion be sought? If a concern of ethics is really an issue then this really must be investigated. Legal fees add up quickly, not to mention the possibility of potential lawsuits: Is this how taxpayers' money is responsibly spent?

The council voted to move forward with the permitting process to determine what type of dock, if any, could be built. Council has made no commitment to construct the dock at this point. We will continue to allow residents ample opportunity to comment on this issue.

Collectively, a majority voted to proceed with the permitting process. This is how a representative style of democracy works. Efforts to undermine the democratic process at a cost to our taxpayers is truly unacceptable for the residents of Charlevoix. We should expect much higher standards from our elected officials.

Peggy Brennan, Charlevoix

Question about Kur advertisement

Editor:

I am a seasonal visitor to the Charlevoix area. Recently, while looking at a local paper, I ran across an advertisement for Ms. Kur and I am quite curious — why did 33rd Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas letter of recommendation that was dated June 21, 2012, appear in her paid political advertisement? Why did he not take the time to write a letter today, stating his current views on her?

It makes me wonder: Has his opinion changed and he is no longer willing to give her a glowing recommendation as he did more than two years ago? Does he no longer have the same opinions of her record and work ethics?

Is he no longer willing to recommend or support her for this position? Still yet: Is this archived letter an attempt on her part to mislead the voters of this fine county? I sincerely hope that the voters in this area seriously consider the background qualifications on all candidates on the ballot before voting — As I stated earlier, I am a seasonal visitor to this area and unfortunately I cannot vote for any candidates, however I would like to believe that the people of this area vote in the candidates that are the best qualified people for the positions they are running for.

Story puts paper in Ward 2 race

Editor:

Wow! What a great job in planting a free political ad on the front page of your newspaper. You certainly have placed yourself and the newspaper in the middle of the 2nd Ward political campaign. Hopefully the value of this is taken into account by all parties and people involved in proper reporting.

This issue was discussed and legal opinion was given at the request of council at the meeting of Aug. 8. You were there then, weren't you? Why did no major reporting occur at that time if this is such an important issue?

How much will the taxpayers pay for this? What is the precedent? Are all previous actions similar to this now brought into question? Will you investigate?

Also, good timing! From publication time to deadline for response is approximately eight hours. How much time did you have?

You use the word "testify" in your article. What definition of the word are you using?

Support Hayes in judge race

Editor:

I have lived here in Charlevoix County for more than 40 years. My three youngest children, now adults, went to Charlevoix schools.

I would like to know why Mary Beth Kur advertised that she prosecuted Sheriff Lasater's assaulter back in 2002. Sheriff Lasater supports and recommends Roy C. "Joe" Hayes for Circuit Judge. Judge May is a local retired judge and has had cases tried before him by both candidates. He supports and recommends Roy C. "Joe" Hayes.

Who really cares about a bunch of downtown judges and who they recommend? They can't even vote here.

How much money did the Charlevoix County have to spend defending itself from Mary Beth Kur?

Let's get real here. Roy C. Hayes was an honorable man, lawyer and friend. So is his son.

Carol Morris, East Jordan

We need a judge from the trenches

Editor:

I was a police officer in Charlevoix County for many, many years. Mary Beth Kur made our community a better place to live when she was our prosecutor. She will do the same thing, if elected, as our next judge.

We need a judge who has been in the trenches doing jury trial work in the courtroom for decades. We need a judge who has a history of supporting the police in their efforts to keep our community safe. We need a judge who believes in holding people accountable for their criminal behavior.

That person is Mary Beth Kur. Please vote on Nov. 4.

William Cousineau, Boyne Falls

Kur has excellent trial work experience

Editor:

I was on duty as a deputy and was with former Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater when he was brutally assaulted in the face with the barrel of a shotgun. It was Mary Beth Kur who brought his attacker to justice and that person remains in prison to this day because of her excellent trial work in the circuit court.

As a prosecutor, Mary Beth Kur supported law enforcement officers every day and assisted and guided them so that criminal cases were properly investigated and won at trial.

This experience she has is invaluable for a circuit court judge to have. She is the only candidate with prosecutorial experience. We need a person who has prosecuted violent felons to sentence the future violent felons who appear in our circuit court. She has my support and I hope she has yours as well.

ANNE KELLY/COURIER

Shelia Davis, Nathan Davis and principal Phoebe Gohs are hopeful Nathan's entry will become a finalist in a nationwide Uncle Ben's Rice contest.

Local student a finalist in Uncle Ben's contest

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Winning a contest currently sponsored by Uncle Ben's Rice could be a dream come true for one Charlevoix boy and his family.

Nathan Davis, 12, is a student at Northwest Academy in Charlevoix, which he has attended since preschool. He also is a child with autism who is much-loved by his family and classmates. His mom, Shelia, gave nothing but praise for the support her family received from the teachers and Nathan's classmates.

Part of the dream would be to give Nathan the confidence and satisfaction that comes with achieving a goal and being successful. The other part would be to "pay back" Northwest Academy for all the kindness they have shown Nathan, even during difficult times.

"The whole thing started when Nathan saw a commercial on TV back in September," his mother said, "and asked if he could make a video for it."

The contest was sponsored by Uncle Ben's Rice and involved making a video of the preparation of a favorite recipe using their product. Ironically, Uncle Ben's Rice is one of only about 20 foods which Nathan eats in his very limited diet. This selectivity is typical in an autistic child, according to Shelia.

"Ben's Beginning Cooking Contest" stems from the premise that children may make healthier food choices if they become interested in cooking at an early age. Entry was open to children in kindergarten through eighth grade. Nathan persisted and finally just days before the deadline, Nathan's sister Hannah videoed Nathan and his mom cooking Uncle Ben's Rice, just the way he likes. Nothing fancy, just plain.

"I was hesitant to do it at first because it is something he had never done before and I just wasn't sure how it would affect him if he wasn't selected," his mom said.

"At first I didn't even know what the prize was and just wanted to do it because Nathan took such an interest in it," Shelia said. It wasn't until

Bergmann Center client recognized for employment

Eric Scojnacki honored for National Disability Employment Awareness Month

GERI DIETZ
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Good work habits have paid off for Bergmann Center client Eric Scojnacki.

The Boyne Mountain Resort employee is recognized as part of October's National Disability Employment Awareness Month, which is tasked with raising awareness of disability employment issues. On Wednesday, Oct. 15, Scojnacki hosted state Rep. Greg MacMaster (R-Kewadin) at his job as part of the campaign's "Take Your Legislators to Work" day. MacMaster job-shadowed Scojnacki and met his co-workers.

Scojnacki, 26, has Asperger's syndrome, a form of autism. He worked at Boyne Mountain for the last 14 months and was nominated for recognition by the Bergmann Center's community connection coordinator Kris Mihelich.

"I've worked with Eric for two years," said Mihelich, who handles job development and job coaching for the center. "His goal was to get a job in the community, and he's done an amazing job."

Scojnacki is equally complimentary.

"She's awesome," he said. "She's my hero and she helped me to get this job."

Scojnacki is a porter at the resort and has a variety of duties, including cleaning public areas and vending rooms, plus delivering linens. He said he would like to make a career at Boyne Mountain Resort and hopes to eventually find a position assisting guests as part of the bell staff at the resort's Mountain Grand Lodge.

Steven Scribner, director of guest services, is Scojnacki's supervisor.

"Eric goes above and beyond for his job," Scribner said. "He is detail-oriented, task driven, and we know that when he starts a job, he finishes it. It's a good fit, and it's good for Boyne. We're able to break barriers and work together on a daily basis."

The developmentally disabled are considered a valuable resource for employers.

"My clients are on time; they don't call in sick; and they do what is asked of them," Mihelich said. "Those in my program must be high functioning and must have a desire to work. I could place anyone in a fast-food restaurant, but my clients want to feel fulfilled in their jobs, just like the rest of us."

In fact, her 18 clients hold jobs as diverse as light industrial, public libraries and eldercare.

"We all want to be challenged in our jobs, and these young adults do, too," Mihelich said.

Meredith Smith, communications representative for the Michigan Developmental Disabilities Council in Lansing, also attended the day's events.

"This recognition shows the legislators, and the public that people with disabilities strengthen the workforce," she said. "They should be seen for their abilities rather than their disabilities."

Scojnacki and his parents will attend a reception Wednesday, Oct. 29, at the state Capitol in Lansing. There, Scojnacki will be joined by other honorees and legislators from around the state.

Of the recognition, Scojnacki said, "I worked hard to get my job, and I feel lucky and important."

LETTERS to the editor

Parks millage an economic tool for growth

Dear Editor:
This letter is in support of the proposed Charlevoix County parks millage. The park system is more than recreational facilities. It is an important economic tool in our increasingly tourism-based economy in Charlevoix County. We need to continue the development of our existing parks system, including redevelopment of Whiting Park sites to they are level and have electricity, construct a small boat launch facility, develop a pavilion with restroom facilities at Thumb Lake Park, development of walking and skiing trails at Porter Creek Park and the expanded Whiting Park facility, have funds available for further non-motorized trails throughout the county and have the ability to assist townships and municipalities in their recreational projects.

The cost of this millage out of 0.15 mills on a $100,000 SEV property will be $15 yearly. According to several county commissioners, the board will ultimately reduce the county's operational millage by a like amount, thereby having a zero increase in your tax bill. This will also be done for the veterans millage.

I urge your support of this millage request when you vote in the November 4 election.

Dennis Jason,
Eveline Township

Charlevoix County taxpayers can't afford more taxes

Editor:
On Nov. 4, we voters will be asked to vote to double the budget of the parks department and the veterans department. Once you increase a tax, it never goes away and these departments have the option of getting more money from the county commissioners, if an emergency should arise.

The Charlevoix County Veterans Office is responsible for burial allowances, soldiers relief and to assist veterans to secure benefits from federal and state levels. A help line for military veterans started in September. Veterans who need help navigating government agencies can call (800) MICH-VET during business hours and 211 after hours and on weekends.

The citizens of Charlevoix County cannot afford any more taxes because of the following reasons: unemployment is 9.7 percent; the cost of food has increased 3.5 percent in 2014 and is expected to increase again in 2015; gas in Charlevoix is usually 20-30 cents higher per gallon than in Traverse City; Charlevoix schools have 41 percent free or reduced lunches and East Jordan Schools have 56 percent free or reduced lunches; it has yet to be determined which state tax will increase (gas or sales) to repair our roads; in five years, the median household income has dropped by $2,420.42 (U.S. Department's American Community Survey); according to 2013 Kids Count Michigan Report, 33.3 percent of young children are eligible for food assistance in Charlevoix; there are 19.1 percent of children living in poverty in Charlevoix County; heating costs are 13 percent higher in 2013/2014 and we are expecting another harsh winter; the elephant in the room, the national debt, is nearing 18 trillion dollars. When do we start paying that off?

Obamacare, the employer mandate, will be enacted next year and how is that going to affect employment in 2015? The average employee deductible has increased 47 percent since 2009 to $1,217 annually. We have costly unknowns with Obamacare, a war in the Middle East, immigration and how will these issues affect the 2015 economy? Citizens of Charlevoix County need to be able to keep more of the disposable income. For some families, a few extra dollars is the difference between making it from one payday to the next. We cannot afford any more taxes.

Nancy La Croix,
Charlevoix

Regarding the impacts of Republican attitude

Editor:
Recently we had guests from India who came over as students with the plan to stay in America. He has a master's degree in engineering and she is doing her residency in Chicago and plans to specialize in oncology. They talked very candidly about American politics and said that after observing the Republicans during the Obama administration and watching the Republicans do everything they could to thwart him, they are disillusioned about remaining in the United States. They said if the Republicans win control, they will move back to India. They said the Republican Party is disgusting and contrary and is ruining America.

It's pretty sad when young, bright professionals would choose any other country over ours!

David Petty, Charlevoix

Hayes will bring best balanced approach

Editor:
Recently there was a letter as to how Roy Hayes, who is running for Charlevoix County Circuit Judge, was backed by "good old boys" and that he hadn't been a prosecutor.

Knowing both candidates and some of the key players, for both, each has backing from a group of "good old boys."

As to not having been a prosecutor, our current sitting judge was never a prosecutor. He has done an outstanding job. In my 30-plus years working in the criminal justice system I have known and worked many circuit court judges across Michigan. Many of whom, were never prosecutors.

I am supporting Roy Hayes for judge; I believe he will bring the best balanced approach to the bench.

Don Hengesh,

Kur the most qualified candidate

Editor:
I have observed Mary Beth Kur over many years. She has been a highly respected lawyer and prosecutor. She is known for her intelligence and her diligence. She listens to all sides of issues and makes fair decisions. We are fortunate to have her as the most qualified candidate for circuit judge. Mary Beth Kur has depth of experience and has received unqualified endorsements from members of the law enforcement community, fellow lawyers and judges.

In this non-partisan election, I urge you to join me in voting for Mary Beth Kur.

Sara Gay Dammann, Hayes Township

After doing homework, voting for Hayes

Editor:
I am a fairly new resident of Charlevoix, so I needed to do my research regarding the upcoming election for circuit court judge. Having run for office myself, I know ads can be very deceiving and don't necessarily always tell the true story.

After much research, and Googling both opponents, I am voting for Roy "Joe" Hayes III. He is clearly the most qualified, with the highest level of integrity and honesty. A judge has to be honest and fair and never mislead people with double talk and half-truths.

I hope everyone who reads this will do their homework, and they too will see that Roy Hayes is the best candidate for this important position.

Ret. Major James B. Swenor
USAF, Charlevoix

Hayes shows compassion, honesty, fairness

Editor:
In three weeks we will be electing a new judge. Joe Hayes is my choice; he has shown compassion, honesty and fairness.

Joe has met with many of our senior citizens as well as going to the high school to talk to the senior class. I have also been told that he has done pro-bono work for some of our citizens.

I feel he will keep the professionalism to the office that Charlevoix County citizens expect.

Roberta Whitley,
Charlevoix

Urging a vote for Hayes

Editor:
I have known Joe Hayes for over 40 years and am strongly urging the voters in Charlevoix County to consider him as your next circuit court judge.

Joe is a great family man and extremely passionate about the law. He is fair-minded, honest and has great integrity. He is and always will be a dedicated jurist and will use good judgment to protect the rights of the citizens of Charlevoix County.

I am endorsing him for circuit court judge because of his strong qualifications and his ability to make sound decisions that will result in fair judgments. His years of legal experience in the federal, state and local court systems makes him the best candidate for circuit court judge.

BUSINESS

Merger is a go

Members vote to combine Bay Winds and Members Credit Unions

CHARLEVOIX — Members of two area credit unions voted to combine the institutions and form 4Front Credit Union.

Ballots submitted by 3,810 members in the recent vote indicated that 2,900 (76.1 percent) voted in favor of the partnership and 910 (23.9 percent) opposed. Incomplete ballots that did not have a vote numbered 299. Voting was concluded at a special meeting of the membership on Wednesday, Oct. 1, and the vote was tallied and certified at the meeting by a third-party accounting firm.

The proposal to combine the two businesses was announced by the volunteer boards of directors of the two institutions last June. The efficiency of the merger is notable through the speed of its progression.

The new company expects

4Front credit union

to offer members enhanced value through leading edge products and services, increased long-term strength and security and broadened convenience through a larger network of locally-owned financial institutions in Northern Michigan.

"4Front epitomizes the type of institution we are confident we can be," stated David Leusink, CEO/president of Bay Winds. "It's creative like the way we solve financial answers to keep our members out in front of an ever-changing world and economy."

The credit unions' consolidation is slated to begin operation in early 2015. In the interim, both institutions will continue operations as usual.

"Both institutions put our members first in everything we do," stated Andrew Kempf, CEO/president of Members Credit Union. "At the very core of this partnership is a shared commitment to offering creative, best-in-class financial solutions provided with passionate service and unwavering purpose."

More information about the proposed partnership can be found at www.baywindsfcu.com/partnership or at www.memberscu.com/partnership online.

Library hosts 'Weekly Story Time'

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library hosts an early educational program for children ages birth-5 years at 10:30 a.m. every Thursday called, Weekly Story Time, which provides an outlet for kids to listen to stories with other youngsters.

Ms. Laura, storyteller extraordinaire, reads stories, sings songs, interacts with finger plays and sometimes even dances with the kids. Instilling a love for the written word in children, by reading aloud to them, has proven successful in preparing children for school. Ms. Laura invites parents and caregivers to attend in order to provide broader understanding for the program as well as supple-

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Hospital Foundation is ringing its jingle bells for its annual Holly Daze fundraiser.

This year's theme is "Candy Cane Express" and Foundation members are asking people and businesses to hop aboard this train, which benefits the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The holiday tradition is planned for Friday, Dec. 5, at Castle Farms, 5052 M-66 North, Charlevoix. The festive atmosphere will provide a beautiful backdrop for the purpose of raising money to benefit Charlevoix Area Hospital's new Chemotherapy-Infusion Center and to provide expansion of one of Charlevoix Area Hospital's primary care facilities, Boyne Area Medical Center. Both projects are considered required to meet the growing needs of the community. Both are part of a continual effort to provide high-quality, compassionate care close to home.

The Holly Daze celebration will begin with hors d'oeuvres, followed by a three-course dinner from Grey Gables. There will also be the ever-popular silent auctions and live auctions featuring many local items.

Those who wish to be an event sponsor or who wish to donate an item can call (231) 547-8501.

Holly Daze tickets are $100 per person. A portion of the ticket price is tax deductible. Space is limited and interested parties are urged to contact Faye Parrish at (231) 547-8501.

To the Voters of Charlevoix

The Facts:

- Charlevoix is a Resort Community
- Round Lake & Charlevoix's Harbor & Marina are a huge asset that most Communities would love to have, but do not...
- There are many caring, giving, and loving people who live in Charlevoix's Community
- It does not matter what Charlevoix was 20-30 years ago... It does matter what Charlevoix should look like in the NEXT 20-30 years.
- 12 years ago, Charlevoix High School enrollment was at 440 students; Now it has 312 students (Loss of Families and Jobs)
- City SEV 10 years ago was 296,000. Now it's 266,000.

As you prepare to vote for elected officials who will make decisions that affect our community in the future, ask yourself "Is this candidate living in the past, or looking to the future?"...

Do they represent the BEST interest of the community residents, or just their own interests? Board members on any board are directors, not operators.

With that said, I would highly encourage you to support 'Write In Candidate' Luther Kurtz, Boogie Carlson, and Peggy Brennan on November 4th. I believe these candidates have the vision to keep our community vibrant and moving forward!

Charlevoix woman celebrates 102nd birthday

DEBBIE MCGUINNESS
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CHARLEVOIX — Residents and staff at American House, a senior living community in Charlevoix, celebrated the 102nd birthday of one of its residents, Marie Gasdritza on Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Gasdritza was raised on a farm near Standish, along with her parents and six siblings. She attended school in the town and, following graduation from high school, attended a one-year Normal College program for teachers.

She said school teaching jobs were difficult to get and said, "If you didn't know the school board you didn't get the job."

She took a secretarial course at Pleasant Valley and then went to work as a waitress.

"Jobs were very difficult to find. My mother's brother lived in Detroit so I went there to look for work. I met a girl from Grand Rapids who was working as a waitress at the Fort Clark Hotel. She asked her boss if he needed another waitress, and so I got a job. The hotel's top floor, I think, had rooms for men to rent."

Marie met her husband, Carl J. Gasdritza, at the hotel restaurant, and was 25 years old when they married. The Gasdritzas lived mostly in Michigan, Marie said.

Marie Gasdritza speaks of her life Tuesday in the American House assisted living facility's library. Gasdritza was 102 years old Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Carl worked at the large grocery chain Kroger as a truck driver.

"He was very careful, a very good driver. He received many good driving citations from the police department."

The couple did not have any children.

"My husband loved to fish so I learned to fish. We spent our vacations fishing, and Carl said to me, 'You're going to have to bait your own hook.' I learned that the harder you held a wiggling worm, the more it would wiggle. You've got to hold them gently to get the hook in so they don't even feel it."

Marie referred to her German grandfather frequently and could recall things he said to her as a child.

"The war came along. Guess where I got a job?" Marie asked with a laugh. "In a factory. I was like Rosie the Riveter!"

Her husband was in the service during the war.

Marie said she prayed that her relatives still in Germany would be safe and was sad about the war.

Brenda Keller, assistant life/enrichment director at American House, said Marie still has a living cousin in Germany.

Keller also describes Marie as an avid Wii bowler who uses "Gassy" as her Wii name.

"Marie is quite a good dancer and dances whenever entertainers perform at the assisted living facility," Keller said.

The Gasdritzas also loved to travel.

They visited England, and in North Africa Marie rode in a camel caravan.

She especially liked the people in Australia, she said, because they spoke English.

Her secret for longevity?

"Tough ancestry. Also, have a great deal of determination. Enjoy life, have a good attitude, and if you don't enjoy it, try something else."

Another resident who recently celebrated her 102nd birthday in September, Angie Supemaw, said Marie really is something at the facility:

"She's sharp, she gets around on her own, and she's one month younger than I am," Supemaw joked.

Charlevoix kids trick or treat for UNICEF

ANNE KELLY
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Elementary School students Paige Pembie, Abby Beaudoin and Caleb Stuck were inspired by an article read to the class by fifth-grade teacher Carol Madison.

"It was about how girls in other countries are not able to get enough education," Abby said.

Discussion on the topic led to learning about UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund), the organization that raises donation money to work on purposes just like that. The students found out that they could give a child 40 days of clean water, $5 could feed a malnourished child for 5 days, $10 could vaccinate 280 children, $100 could protect 100 kids from malaria, and that $500 could install a water pump to service a whole village.

These facts proved pretty

Charlevoix students Paige Pembie, Abby Beaudoin and Caleb Stuck plan to collect funds for UNICEF on Halloween.

mind-boggling to Charlevoix kids, most of whom have pretty much everything they need for meeting basic needs, including Halloween candy.

Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF began in 1950 as a way to help kids who need more than candy. Since then, children all over America have gone door-to-door on Halloween calling "Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF." The organization ensures 91.2 cents of every dollar collected goes directly to help children.

"We are hoping to get the whole school involved in taking UNICEF boxes home for trick-or-treating this year," Abby said.

"It's great for the world," Paige added.

Caleb, who says he's the "money man" in the group, said they hope to raise at least $500 for their project.

So, if area residents find children at their doors on Halloween bearing a little orange box designated for the UNICEF collection, organizers ask that participants be generous. A candy treat for their efforts might be appreciated, too.

looking into it more closely that they realized the prize was $15,000 to be awarded to the (K-8) winner's family, and a $30,000 cafeteria makeover for his/her school.

"We got very excited at the chance to help (Northwest Academy)," she said.

As a small, chartered school, the school receives the bare minimum of per pupil allowance funding, and struggles to make ends meet. The school has an enrollment of 75 students, kindergarten through grade 12. There is a cafeteria, but no kitchen in the facility which houses the school. As such, the school is not eligible to receive the benefit of free and reduced hot lunches for its students.

There is a refrigerator in a storage room. Students bring their lunches and use a microwave to heat them up if necessary. Nathan's video is one of about 400 to have been chosen for the semi-finals. When he showed it to his classmates after they got word that his had been selected in this first round, the reaction was heartwarming.

"They played it on the smart board in his classroom and he stood in front watching too. His body movements changed and I looked into his face to see an expression I haven't seen much in two years and never this big — pride — he was so proud of himself, it touched me so deeply. And then when his friends were saying 'good job, Nathan' and 'wow, Nathan,' he just said 'Thanks, oh I mean Thank You.' It was an amazing moment in my life to experience that moment," Shelia said.

Online voting began Oct. 15 and goes until Oct. 29.

"We should be notified on or about Oct. 30th if Nathan has made it to the 25 finalists," Shelia said. "Voting will be open for the finalists on Nov. 12th through Nov. 26th."

The winner will be announced before Christmas.

Win or lose the actual prize money, Nathan already feels like a winner. By making a recipe, going through the process of making the video, and entering the contest, he accomplished a task that many autistic children would find daunting.

"We told him if he wins he can spend some of the money for whatever he wants. He says he wants to go see Mary at the Work and Play John Deere Store in Atwood, and Target, John Deere and Disney cars are two of his favorite things," Shelia said. "He also wants to take me to my favorite restaurant, Olive Garden. One thing that he said to me is that when they (Northwest Academy) get a kitchen, they can make rice for him all the time."

To see Nathan's video and vote, visit www.bensbeginnerscontest.com/brand/gallery online and search "Nathan" or "Nothing Fancy."

Officials extend site plan deadline for townhouses

Charlevoix Pointe granted another year to begin construction

COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — City planning officials this week granted a one-year site plan extension for the Charlevoix Pointe project on Pine River Lane.

Charlevoix Planning Commission unanimously approved the extension on Tuesday during its rescheduled session at city hall. City planner Mike Spencer explained how the city's zoning ordinance allows for up to a one-year extension without developers being required to start anew the site plan review process.

Spencer said Charlevoix Pointe, the seven-unit townhouse complex of three buildings, requires a significant financial investment up front, especially because this project is required to upgrade the city's water line to the residential buildings. The trouble is, the builders had a buyer back out at the last minute, Spencer said.

Mike Brown, of Mid-town Development which is behind this development, confirmed a buyer backed out and pushed the whole timeline back.

"It was primarily the buyer backing out," Brown said.

The land where the townhouses are proposed is among the only developable sites within Charlevoix city limits and already is zoned for high-density residential. Developers said they still hope to secure another buyer and break ground this autumn, though it's expected that could be delayed until spring.

In November last year, when the project received initial approval by the Charlevoix City Council, one concern by an elected official is the architectural design of the townhouses. Councilman Jeff Porter, of Ward 1, complained how he didn't like the size and type of windows, the mix of exterior building materials and the gables used in the design, further saying that it "looks like it came out of ninth-grade architecture class."

Prior proposed developments for the site included a 30-unit hotel or an 18-unit single family clustered housing development.

BOYNE CITY

Economic alliance partners with Vistage Michigan for leadership summit

BOYNE CITY — The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, a resource provider for communities and entrepreneurs in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties, will partner with Vistage Michigan, a business and CEO coaching service, to host a leadership summit 8:14 a.m.-12:45 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 30. The Northern Michigan Leadership Summit will be at Camp Michigan, 3006 Camp Sherwood Road, in Boyne City.

The summit will feature nationally known business expert Dan Barnett as its speaker.

Barnett regularly appeared on CNBC's "Squawk Box" to speak about CEO growth and leadership. Barnett has headed corporations such as Nestle, Pillsbury and Weyerhaeuser in addition to running smaller companies.

According to NLEA administrative assistant Jessica Lovay, the summit's agenda includes preliminary networking, small group exercises after the guest speaker and a lunch.

Summit cost is $50 per person. To register, call (231) 582-6482 or visit www.northlakes.net online.

city show the festival may offer horse-drawn carriage rides, which would involve live animals.

The other wintertime event council members signed off on this week actually will come first — the third annual Charlevoix Bridge Drop on New Year's Eve. That event will include live musical entertainment, an alcohol sales area, children's activities and the fireworks display above the Pine River Channel.

Rick Randall, one of the Bridge Drop volunteer organizers, said the fledgling New Year's event has a $20,000 budget and the proceeds of the beer tent will go back into funding the downtown community party that's grown in popularity each year so far.

"Our goal is to create a fun energy," Randall said.

Porter again asked whether any live animals would be involved in the event, a concern arisen after complaints during last year's events about two camels brought to town during wickedly frigid winter weather to participate as part of a petting zoo outfit. "Last year they had these camels there," he said.

Porter further complained that the camel at the petting zoo during the recent Apple Festival was "shivering" until "they finally put a blanket on it," Porter said. "There were a lot of negative comments about the camel at Apple Fest."

Randall assured Porter there would be no camels, nor any other petting zoo creatures, at this year's Charlevoix Bridge Drop.

"This year is going to be better than ever before," Randall said.

ing Attorney Allen Telgenhof said in a news release.

Telgenhof said during the investigation of those break-ins, police interviewed a witness who implicated Cutler.

At the preliminary examination, Telgenhof played a number of telephone calls that were recorded by the Pugsley Correctional Facility, where Cutler has been incarcerated.

Charlevoix Deputy Chief of Police Scott Hankins identified the voices on the recordings as Cutler and the witness.

Throughout the calls, Cutler told the witness not to testify against him, to say that she didn't remember anything, to say she was under the influence of drugs during her police interview, to say that she had been harassed or intimidated by the police into giving her statement and to exercise her Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination, according to the release.

Though the witness eventually did testify in the underlying case, Telgenhof argued that under the witness tampering statute, it was enough that Cutler attempted to willfully impede, interfere with or obstruct the ability of a witness to testify or give information in a court proceeding.

The case will now move to Circuit Court where a scheduling conference will soon take place. Witness tampering is a felony that carries a maximum penalty of up to 10 years in prison in this case.

In August of 1921, the Charlevoix Courier expressed deep concern about the effect the burgeoning popularity of the automobile might be having on the morals of local young women.

To wit: "THOSE SPOONING AUTOISTS ARE A PUBLIC NUISANCE. Not infrequently, and in daylight, one sees some fellow holding a girl on his knees as she attempts to guide the car over the road. One can invariably detect this combination from afar by the way the car comes seesawing along the road. One wonders if it will escape the ditch or manage to go through the sides of the bridge. And often the held girl is not in the driver's seat but occupying a place in the tonneau (rear passenger compartment) where she is being hugged, and where she is apparently enjoying herself. One sees much of this sort of thing and the thought accompanying the sight is unpleasant. One also sees many cars in the woods with the lights out, at night, and we believe such cases are fit subject for examination by the police, state and local.

The matter is one of sufficient seriousness to warrant very close attention by the authorities. Parents ought to pay a little more attention to where their girls are of nights. A little attention to them might save much sorrow later. The automobile is proving a curse to many girls throughout the country."

one-year contract, the elected city officials kicked the document back in city employees with orders to extend it in a five-year deal that can be negotiated, should a marina expansion ever occur.

Councilwoman Shirley Gibson said she understands how much of an uncertainty it can be to operate a business with a one-year lease in place, so she recommended a five-year agreement. Funkey responded that he currently takes reservations for 2015 with hopes the company will still be moored in Charlevoix's marina at that time.

"You bring a lot of business into town and I'd like to see you stay," Gibson said. "We'd like to stay here. I would like a little security, is all," Funkey said.

City manager Ron Straebel explained how the city attorney, Traverse City-based Scott Howard, recommended a one-year rental agreement with Keweenaw Excursions because of the possibility of a marina expansion and how that would change more than just docking logistics. Engineers recommend more than a floating dock to moor the 130-passenger vessel, which means new pilings set within Round Lake, he said. Straebel also said it's yet to be determined what amount Keweenaw Excursions should pay toward the pilings construction.

"I'm not sure they should shoulder any of the cost. It's the city's project and the city's idea," Gibson said.

Councilwoman Peggy Brennan said she also supported a five-year lease agreement with Keweenaw Excursions, while councilman Jeff Porter said he would be OK with either a one-year or five-year lease that's negotiable.

"The concern really is whether this dock is going to be constructed," Porter said.

At that, councilman Leon Perron interjected a point. "We're going to know after the election which way the expansion is going to go," Perron said, adding all the candidates made clear where they stand on this divisive issue. Perhaps the city should table this lease contract until after the Nov. 4 election, he said.

Trouble with that is Funkey will be gone to warmer climates after a few more weeks in town for autumn color tours.

Therefore, Straebel said he will bring back a re-written five-year docking lease agreement with Keweenaw Excursions at the next city council meeting, currently set for one day prior to Election Day.

A move toward a five-year deal is an about-face for the downtown Charlevoix tourism-related business. In August, Funkey told city planning commissioners during a public meeting that a city official had suggested he shouldn't express his critical opinion about the marina expansion plan, particularly because his city lease is up this year for renewal.

The Keweenaw Star this year celebrated its fifth year in Charlevoix off Lake Michigan, since relocating from its 10-year home in Houghton, off the Keweenaw Waterway and Lake Superior.

"In his short tenure with the city, Joe has accomplished much and brought a fresh perspective in municipal operations. I appreciated his business-like approach and willingness to question the status quo," Straebel said. "I sincerely wish Joe all the best in the future."

Zielinski will work through Nov. 3, according to his letter of resignation, which also states his new job is "more closely aligned with my career aspirations." Later Zielinski said his new job is within the private sector.

Straebel said the city already started recruitment efforts to find a new treasurer, advertising with the Michigan Municipal League, statewide treasurer associations and in both local and regional newspapers. The city treasurer is a council-appointed position, so an interview committee must be developed once applications are received.

Zielinski will leave the city payroll just as the process gets going to set next fiscal year's budget.

Straebel said Brandi agreed to come back and consult with city officials regard-

"It will be a team approach, but I think we can pull it off," he said.

eight years ago is intended to — for each state park, one by one — clearly define what areas within park boundaries should be listed as important for natural resources protections, and in which areas recreation is a more important goal, Jensen said.

"The DNR is excited to have funding in place to start the general management plan process for Fisherman's Island, which has been a priority for many years," said Gaylord DNR parks district supervisor Rich Hill. "These meetings will provide an opportunity for members of the public to be fully informed regarding the upcoming planning effort."

Each meeting will begin with a short presentation to describe the planning process, but members of the public are encouraged to attend at any time during either of the two-hour meetings to review the planning material and talk to DNR employees.

Additional information on the state's general management plan process is available at www.michigan.gov/park-managementplans online.

Private land swap talks

The last in a series of private, closed-door meetings of a "community committee" chosen by St. Marys Cement officials is set for 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 29, once again in a private dining room at Stafford's Weatherlane restaurant in downtown Charlevoix. The topic of discussion is meant to be whether the company should abandon plans to exchange any land with the adjacent state park, said one committee member.

Anne Zukowski is a company committee member who repeatedly and publicly expressed her opposition to any such land swap between St. Marys Cement and the state park. She, in past weeks, revealed the company committee spent considerable time talking about what St. Marys would be willing to pay for throughout Charlevoix in order to create an equitable trade — perhaps even from $2 million to $5 million in state park upgrades, or money spent toward other projects around the community.

That knowledge prompted top official Ron Olson, DNR parks and recreation division chief, to last month remind those in the Charlevoix community how Fisherman's Island is a state park, not a local park over which local officials can harter. He also said the outcome of the general management plan process would determine whether the company's idea would even be feasible.

"We wouldn't do anything — no matter whether (St. Marys Cement) submitted a land exchange proposal — until that management plan is updated," Olson said in September.

St. Marys Cement officials began in 2013 to publicly discuss an exchange of some of its acreage for some state park land after park users questioned why test drilling occurred in October last year along some hiking trails within the state park. Then, a series of public meetings about the land swap concept began in March, spurring widespread community concerns that resulted in petition drives, an issues-driven Facebook page, public hearings and, in Charlevoix Township, a government resolution standing opposed to any official application for just such a trade.

The state parkland stretches across Charlevoix and Norwood township boundaries.

Courtney Schmidt, who is St. Marys Cement's official point person for the land swap concept, could not be reached this week for comments.

Zukowski also reported only about a dozen members of the company committee attended the recent Oct. 15 company committee meeting, down from the more than 20 members with which the group began in July.

Grassroots opposition

Zukowski said the non-profit Friends of Fisherman's Island State Park will host its 10 a.m.-noon open house on Oct. 25 at the library not only to distribute land swap opposition yard signs, but also to share information about the coming DNR general management plan meetings.

"It will be a good process and will raise awareness of the issues going on with the state park," she said.

Charlevoix resident JoAnne Beemon said anyone who wants a land swap opposition yard sign but can't make it to the open house can call her at (231) 675-6045. Otherwise, a lot can be learned at the group's planned open house, she said.

"We want to let people know that the DNR is going to be working on the management plan for the park and that's the appropriate time to have input on what will happen with the state park," Beemon said.

The cement company committee's efforts seem premature before there even is a management plan in place for Fisherman's Island State Park, Beemon contended.

Charlevoix Public Library offers two new services

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton St., announces two new services available for its patrons.

The library is now a demonstration site for the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (LBPH). Patrons who either have visual impairments or physical impediments and cannot read or hold a book may qualify for LBPH services.

As a demonstration site, the Charlevoix Public Library now has the LBPH equipment on site and can show patrons how to use the equipment. The staff can also walk patrons through the process of signing up for services.

People who qualify for the services receive special equipment with large buttons that are braille coded. The LBPH has thousands of digital talking books to choose from. The equipment and book selections are mailed directly to the patron's home.

"Becoming a demonstration site has made it much easier for us to explain the actual services available now that we have samples in house to show our patrons," said librarian Linda Adams.

Another new service, offered to patrons at the Charlevoix Public Library, is the use of credit cards. If patrons are purchasing used books, paying fees, or even making a donation, they can now use a credit card if those items are over $10.

"We are excited to finally offer this convenience to our patrons," said Julie Burgess, circulation supervisor.

The library has a Square and an iPad mini, purchased with monies from a donor advised fund at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, to allow patrons the flexibility of using a credit or debit card for their transactions.

Charlevoix D steps up in road upset of Panthers

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

FRANKFORT — The Rayders are rolling, and not a second too soon.

Led by a dominant defensive effort and a big game from running back Ben Boss, Charlevoix crushed host Frankfort 27-6 on Friday night, a huge upset that puts the Rayders on the cusp of its first playoff berth since 2009.

Charlevoix's defense held its opponent under 100 yards of total offense for the third straight game, this time shutting down a powerful Frankfort attack that came into the game averaging 46 points per game.

Bryan Noirot and Spencer Kilpatrick combined for six sacks and three tackles for loss to lead the Rayder defense, and Nate Moon returned an interception for a touchdown as well as Frankfort managed just 38 total yards.

"Our defense set the tone right away, and I was really impressed with how we got to the football and played our assignments all night," Charlevoix coach Ron Bindi said. "We brought a lot of pressure that forced them into errors, and we were able to capitalize."

"If we can keep playing with this hunger defensively, we'll be in good shape."

Offensively, Ben Boss rushed for 135 yards and three touchdowns to lead

Young Rayders fall to Frankfort

NOAH CERTA
COURIER CONTRIBUTOR

The Charlevoix Rayder JV football team has come together all year long.

On a brisk Thursday night at Kipke field the 7-0 Rayders took on the Panthers of Frankfort in a league game. Despite an early lead and back and forth play throughout the game, the Rayders dropped their first game of the season by a score of 18-13.

"This was a very tough game. The coaching staff was proud of the effort and aggressiveness that the players displayed," Rayder coach Todd Klinger said. "It was such a close game that if we could have changed one or two plays it would have changed the outcome."

Sophomore Brad Klinger started the offense off with a big 56-yard touchdown run to give the Rayders an early 7-0 advantage. Frankfort responded with a touchdown run of its own, but with a failed two-point conversion, the Rayders still held a 7-6 lead.

Klinger extended the Rayders lead when he hooked up with freshman Colin Smith on a 19-yard touchdown reception to put the Rayders up 13-6.

Unfortunately, that was all the Rayder offense could produce that night as Frankfort responded with 12 unanswered points to record the victory.

Klinger ended the game with four completions for 82 yards and a touchdown. He also had 56 yards on 12 carries. Sophomore Jomarr Williams led the rushing for Charlevoix with 121 yards on 20 carries. Sophomore Camden Alden was a threat at the receiver position, catching two passes for 55 yards.

On the defensive side of the ball, the unit was once again the one strong point of the game. The Rayder defense created four turnovers on the night. Sophomore Tyler McCallum had a team-high six tackles. Williams was right behind with five of his own. Freshmen Jake Cox had a fumble recovery. Smith also had two interceptions to his credit.

"The defense has continued to play at an aggressive level. Their knack for getting turnovers has given our offense lots of opportunities all season long," Klinger said.

The Rayders last game of the year is a league contest against the Rams of Harbor Springs. Kickoff is set for 6 p.m. Thursday in Harbor Springs.

host Harbor Springs 25-12, 25-14, 25-18 to spoil the Rams' senior night.

Charlevoix beat Harbor Springs with consistency, especially at the service line.

Junior Hannah Zipp led Charlevoix with five aces to go along with six digs and a block, and senior Gloria Greene had three aces along with a team-high 14 digs, four kills and one block.

Both Zipp and Greene were perfect from the service line, and each sparked long runs in the first two sets to help the Rayders pull away.

"Our goal tonight was to be 100 percent from the (service) line, and we got to around 96 percent," Charlevoix coach Audra Randall said. "We have some incredible servers on this team, and we've been working hard on placing our serves and keeping our intensity up when we're at the service line."

Madeline Boss led the Rayders offensively with 20 kills, two blocks and 10 digs, and Emily Zabawa chipped in eight kills as well.

"We had several hitters getting involved tonight, and if our servers weren't getting an ace, more often than not our players would get it done at the net," Randall said. "Emily and Madeline were both hot tonight; Emily was making great contact and Madeline put a ton of ball away."

Olivia Storm finished with 25 assists and four digs for the Rayders, and Alexis Tribelner and Yogi Hang chipped in 10 and eight digs, respectively.

Charlevoix rode fast starts in both of the first two sets to victories, jumping out to a 15-5 lead in the first set and a 16-8 lead in the second behind its serving.

Harbor Springs struggled with serve receive and the pace of the game in the first two sets, a common story this season for a young team of mostly juniors.

"The speed of a varsity match is a lot different than what our players were used to at the JV level last season," Harbor Springs coach David Thom said. "This year has really been a learning year for them, and hopefully next year will be a different story for us."

Not wanting to go down quietly on senior night, the Rams rallied in the third set, battling Charlevoix to a 13-13 standstill to start the set.

However, the Rayders kept their composure and used a mid-set mini run to pull ahead and close out the match.

"We talk a lot about those points in a match where you're a little shook up and the other team is starting to make a run," Randall said. "You can't show that you're shook and start playing out of fear; you have to keep your confidence and poise and respond, and we did that tonight."

Senior Sydney Elkins led the Rams offensively with nine kills, and junior Mikayla Dickinson chipped in seven blocks.

Haley Rushing finished with 19 digs to lead Harbor Springs defensively, and Alexa Jensen-Phillbrick added 22 assists.

Charlevoix (31-6-4) was off until Thursday, Oct. 23, when the Rayders traveled to Northport to play in a tri against the hosts and Leland, the top-ranked team in Class D.

Harbor Springs, meanwhile, finishes out the season with league matches against Elk Rapids and East Jordan, and a nonconference match with Inland Lakes.

the Rayders, who had to resort to a straight-ahead style as field conditions deteriorated under heavy rain.

"Ben carried the load for us, and a lot of credit goes to the offensive line as well," Bindi said. "The field conditions made it so that you couldn't really run outside, so in order to get yardage you had to go straight ahead and win one-on-one battles at the line of scrimmage."

"Our linemen did a great job of winning those battles and opening holes."

Charlevoix (5-3, 3-1 NMFL-II) hosts Harbor Springs in its regular season finale, and can earn a playoff berth with a win.

"We're not in the playoffs yet, and we have to take care of business next Friday if we want to be," Bindi said. "Harbor Springs is a tough, physical team, and we have to continue to control the line of scrimmage and play our assignments defensively if we want to win."

CHARLEVOIX — The third time is a charm for the Rams.

Harbor Springs lost both Lake Michigan Conference games this season to the conference champion, Charlevoix, 6-2 and 3-2.

Friday during the Division IV district final, the Rams would get a game winning goal from freshman Nick Bonter at 12 minutes 21 seconds of the second half and ultimately, the team won the title.

Harbor Springs will move on and play in the regional semi final game against the winner of the Grand Rapids Wellspring-Muskegon West match at 4 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 21, at Muskegon Catholic Central.

Harbor Springs, 15-5 overall, advanced to the district final with two shut out wins over Harbor Light and Burt Lake Northern Michigan Christian, while Charlevoix advanced to the championship match with a win, 9-4, over Bellaire.

"We definitely played our best game against a very good team," Harbor Springs coach Aaron Reily said. "They (Charlevoix) have a real good team, a lot of talent, but tonight we came out on top."

Charlevoix, 18-5 overall, would get the game's first goal, with the wind and rain in their face, off the foot of Noah Carson, assisted by Walker Drost, with 1:20 of the first half.

The Rayders would lead at halftime, 1-0.

"This game proves the old adage, it is hard to beat a team three times in a season," Charlevoix coach Jon Boss said. "We had a hard time controlling the ball tonight, and they were able to take advantage of our misfortunes."

The Rams Kolton Jacobs, assisted by Joe Claramunt, would get the game-tying goal at 29:28 of the second half.

"We didn't make any big adjustments at halftime," Reily said. "We just kept our game plan, and it worked for us."

At the 12:21 mark, a crossing pass was sent by Rams forward Lampton Kamalii to Bonter who headed into the net and a 2-1 Rams lead.

"We had so many guys who really stepped up to put Nick (Bonter) into that position to score," Reily said. "John Bailey, Mitchell Corey, Sam Bailey, Jimmie DeCamp and many others really came to play in this game."

Goalie J.J. Wachler started for Charlevoix and made nine saves, while Harbor Springs goalie Parker Fairbairn made seven saves for the win.

CROSS COUNTRY

Rayders take a pair of third place finishes in Lake Michigan finals

DREW KOCHANNY
PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

ELLSWORTH — When it's come to Lake Michigan Conference cross country this season, the one consistent atop the race finishes has been the Harbor Springs boys' and girls' teams.

On Monday at the Lake Michigan Championships, that was once again where the Rams would be, as each Harbor team pulled in a conference title at the Antrim Dells Golf Course in Ellsworth.

Over the recent years, conference championships have really been nothing new to the Rams, led by Emily and Mike Kloss.

"We were pretty pumped," Harbor coach Emily Kloss said. "That was the eighth one between the boys and the girls. The girls have won seven out of the last eight."

Ranked No. 9 in Division IV by MichiganCrossCountry.com, the Harbor girls have won three straight conference titles, while the boys have taken two of the last three, being edged out by Charlevoix a year ago.

"I was pretty happy just the way the kids have raced lately," said Kloss. "All the girls I thought stepped up and raced really well. The same with the boys. We were pretty excited."

The Harbor Springs girls team would take first overall with 26 points, placing five runners within the top 10. Following the Rams, Traverse City St. Francis placed second with 42 points, followed by Charlevoix, 66; Grayling, 122; and Boyne City, 126.

Charlevoix's Amber Way would finish as the conference champion on the girls' side, running a time of 18 minutes, seven seconds to claim the top spot. Holly Bullough of St. Francis would take second in 18:28, followed by East Jordan's Kayla Keane in third, in 19:17.

Harbor would place five girls in the top 10 of the race, led by Salix Sampson in fifth place, running a time of 20:45.

Known more for her sprinting during track season, Kloss always knew Sampson had what it took to be successful in cross country, which she's shown this season.

"I knew she's always had it in her," said Kloss. "Once she got the confidence, it's pretty exciting to see what she can do. Especially once we get on a nice course, with good footing. We've had a lot of mud this year and yesterday was no different."

Following Sampson for the Harbor girls' team, Charlotte Cullip placed sixth in 21:00; Jill Gretzinger, seventh, 21:17; Kyra LaRue, eighth, 22:04; Hannah Wagner, 10th, 22:22; Emily Bosley, 15th, 22:47; and Jessica Wonn, 20th, 23:14.

Without runner Claire Fleming on the day, Kloss also came away impressed with Gretzinger and Wagner, who continue to climb the ranks.

"She's a freshman and she ran phenomenal," Kloss said of Gretzinger. "Our sixth, seventh and eighth have been switching around a bit, but Hannah is really coming on strong the last two races. She was our fifth girl. I think they've all been pushing each other."

The Harbor Springs boys' team finished with 45 points to lead the race, followed closely by Boyne City in second with 50 points. Charlevoix placed third with 63 points, followed by Elk Rapids, 125; East Jordan, 128; Traverse City St. Francis, 148; and Kalkaska, 165.

Harbor's Marcus Garrow placed first overall with a time of 17:32 to claim the conference title, while Nick Meddaugh of St. Francis took second in 17:46, followed by another Harbor runner, senior Michael Gorman, in 17:48.

"He had a phenomenal race yesterday," added Kloss on Gorman's performance. "And Zach Hunt, he's running pretty well for a sophomore, he and Kurtis Alessi."

Hunt would place eighth for the Rams, running a time of 18:07, while Alessi placed 13th in 18:36, followed by Max Sydow, 20th, 19:28; Zach Mills, 21st, 19:33; and Jacob Young, 25th, 19:47.

Luke Buday just sneaked in an All-Conference selection with a seventh place finish to lead the Charlevoix boys' team, running a time of 18:05. Noah Jeakle finished 11th in 18:17, followed by Nick Plude, 12th, 18:29; Lucas Vonlau, 15th, 18:49; Brendan Gregory, 18th, 19:08; Micah Peebles, 23rd, 19:43; and Jonathan Pischner, 27th, 19:53.

Following up Way for the Charlevoix girls, senior Kourtney Putman finished second for the Rayders in 14th place, running a time of 22:40. Following Way and Putman, Natalie Nesburg finished 17th in 23:07; Katie Mousseau, 19th, 23:12; Ellie Way, 26th, 23:49; Ali Schwein, 28th, 23:59; and Rachel Nesburg, 29th, 24:11.

Ethan Book led the Rambler boys with a fourth place finish at 17:53, followed by Kory Skop, sixth, 18:02;

Charlevoix runner Noah Jeakle placed 11th overall in the boys' race of the Lake Michigan Conference Championships, running a time of 18:17.

Derek Willis, ninth, 18:11; Eli Haas, 14th, 18:38; Garrett Fogo, 17th, 19:08; Dominic Saptina, 19th, 19:22; and Trevor Day, 22nd, 19:38.

The Rambler girls were led by Veronica Sosa in 13th place, running a time of 22:40, followed by Courtney Caverly, 27th, 23:53; Sidney McLeod, 43rd, 26:01; Annika Bergquist, 44th, 26:17; Madison Bates, 45th, 26:20; Brianna Burnell, 49th, 26:33; and Ashley Lutterbach, 52nd, 27:14.

Along with Keane for the East Jordan girls, Raven Joseph finished in 35th at 25:02;

Rebecca Barkley, 50th, 26:35; and Emma Herriman, 66th, 30:45.

For the East Jordan boys' team, Gabe Hawley placed fifth overall with a time of 17:56, followed by Wenzel Kirsch in 26th, 19:51; Teddy Nachazel, 30th, 20:02; and Josh Ziebarth, 46th, 21:44.

Harbor Springs will head to the Division IV regionals on Friday, Oct. 24, at Central Lake, while Boyne City, Charlevoix and East Jordan will take part in the Division III race Saturday, Oct. 25, at Grand Traverse Resort, in Traverse City.

Plenty of options ahead for playoff football fans

If you are a Northern Michigan high school football fan, you are going to have plenty of options next week.

We're looking at an unusually high number of local teams entering the playoff field, as six Emmet-Charlevoix-Otsego schools will likely be headed to the postseason.

That's double from last year, where just three schools (Boyne City, Inland Lakes, Johannesburg-Lewiston qualified). Boyne City and J-L both made it to the District Final, where both lost.

Once again, Boyne City, Inland Lakes and Johannesburg-Lewiston are already in the field, as is Petoskey. Gaylord and Charlevoix would both qualify with a win this week and even with a loss, each could slip in.

Not only will there be more playoff teams than any time in recent memory, there is reason to believe at least one district champion (and maybe more) will come from our area.

Boyne City is playing like a team poised for a run. The Ramblers are 8-0 and close calls against Traverse City St. Francis and Elk Rapids — both strong teams — have proven Boyne can hang on in a close game. In past years, the Ramblers have been pitted against strong Upper Peninsula Division 6 programs such as Negaunee and Calumet, but neither is as good this year as in the past.

Negaunee is 4-4 and desperately needs a win against a 6-2 Ishpeming Westwood team this week. Calumet is 5-3 ahead of this week's game against Gladstone. While still dangerous, these two proud programs appear to be down a tick this season and there is no doubt if Boyne City takes care of business against Grayling Friday, the Ramblers will host at least two playoff games.

Still, when it comes to Northern Lower Peninsula teams playing Upper Peninsula teams, the records tilt heavily in favor of "U.P. Power." The counterbalance to that is that this time, any U.P. team looking to advance will have to play on the blue-circled home field of Boyne City, with a community which is absolutely rabid about Rambler football behind it.

Boyne City's bracket in Division 6 could include some familiar schools, too. According to snootzotyou.com, if the playoffs were to begin today, the Ramblers would be in a bracket that includes 2014 opponents Charlevoix and Elk Rapids.

The Rayders (5-3) have a huge home game Friday against Harbor Springs. The Elks (4-4) should beat East Jordan at home Friday and will be watching the brackets Sunday to see if they get in with five wins.

Jeremy Speer

My guess is that Boyne City, Charlevoix and Elk Rapids will all get in.

In Division 3, if Gaylord (5-3) can defeat Alpena at home Friday, the Blue Devils will be in the dance for the first time since 2007. A potential first-round opponent could be Petoskey. Nobody from either school will forget the epic 49-42 Blue Devil victory against Petoskey on Oct. 14 in Gaylord. One difference this time around — if the teams do meet in round one, the game will almost certainly be at Petoskey's Curtis Field.

The other two schools in snootzotyou.com's Division 3 bracket are Marquette (6-2) and Mount Pleasant (5-3). Marquette has won four games by 10 points or less and has a tough battle Friday at Menominee. Mount Pleasant has a traditionally strong program and plays in a very tough league. However, the Oilers, who have gone to the regional live of the past seven years, may not be as good this year as in the past.

If these are the four schools in the Division 3 bracket, you could roll dice to figure out the favorite. My belief is that any of the four would have a legitimate chance at a district title.

Division 8 also appears to be the home to a pair of local playoff teams in Inland Lakes and J-L. As usual, about half of the state's Division 8 playoff teams will come from north of U.S. 10, meaning the scenarios are endless as to who will play whom where.

All we know is:

- Both the Bulldogs (7-1) and Cardinals (7-1) are in.
- They play each other Friday in Indian River
- The team who wins that game will probably host a Week 1 playoff game.
- The team who loses that game probably will not.

It will be a toss-up in Division 8 as a favorable draw could mean a potential district title for either school. It could also mean a difficult Week 1 matchup and potential early exit.

All the scenarios will be muted Sunday night, when the playoff field is released live on Fox Sports Detroit.

Expect six local schools to be included in the brackets, and expect Northern Michigan to have an opening week of playoffs unlike any other.

Two council seats, mayor up for vote

CHARLEVOIX — Voters in Charlevoix will choose city council members in two wards, along with a mayor when they head to the polls on Nov. 4.

The News-Review asked candidates in Wards 1 and 2, along with the two mayoral candidates three questions related to current issues in the city.

Ward 1

Mary Eveleigh, 61, and Luther Kurtz, 37, are both write-in city council candidates for Ward 1.

Eveleigh has lived in Charlevoix for the last 28 years and has worked as an office manager and also at John Cross Fisheries. She has served eight years on the Charlevoix Zoning Board of Appeals, an appointed position.

Kurtz grew up in Charlevoix and after living and working away from home and just visiting in summers, moved to the city in 2013. He is an entrepreneur in skydiving companies and current owner of the Charlevoix Cinema III. He serves as a member of the appointed Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Board.

Question: Do you support the continued pursuit of a Charlevoix city marina expansion in Round Lake, should state and federal regulators sign off on any version of such a project, and why?

Eveleigh: "I do not support the continued pursuit of a Charlevoix city marina expansion in Round Lake and for this reason: In 2005, an application and site plan for renovations for existing moorings were proposed for review by Land Water Management, Department of Environmental Quality, Michigan State Waterways, and the U.S. Coast Guard. There was a use line established for navigation and safety. All agencies agreed to that use line, which meant all boats must stay within that line. State and federal regulators should not approve this new proposal which eliminates the use line altogether which would undermine the safety and navigation of all boats.

Kurtz: "I am in favor of finding ways to keep our downtown vibrant and filled with people enjoying life in Charlevoix. Expanding the marina could help further this goal, although projects that promote year-round enjoyment of the downtown are better. There are also many concerns to consider before deciding to expand the marina.

First, safety is a top priority for Round Lake navigation. A few local maritime businesses, including Beaver Island Boat Company, have expressed concerns about the marina expansion. As a community, I think we should place a high value on our strong relationship with Beaver Island and the Beaver Island Boat Company. If the regulators sign off on safety, it will be interesting to see how Beaver Island Boat Company responds.

Second, many people, including myself, are concerned about obstructing the view that we all enjoy from East Park.

Finally, the dock expansion should not require any city subsidies. If use of the new docks will generate positive net income, the extra money could support other community-minded projects, like the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course and/or Mount

Charlevoix DDA:

More discussion needed about holiday lights

JORDAN SPENCE
(231) 439-9397 • jspence@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority is re-examining how long to display holiday lights.

"This has been an ongoing discussion, we're just looking to get some direction on what we want to do for the next budget year," said Bethany Pearson executive director of the DDA.

She said if they were to be lit year round it will cost $15,000 to $20,000 a year. She added the lights were left on for a year-round basis for the last three years.

"If we choose to cut that back and keep the holiday lights on only during the holiday season they will last five years, and cost $8,000 to $11,000 a year."

John Yaroch, a DDA member brought the idea to the authority of placing the lights only around the lampposts.

The DDA came to the consensus to create a committee and have a couple meetings to solve the issue before the budgeting process is finished.

"I think it's a good idea to have a meeting, but we don't want to wait until next summer to do it either," said DDA vice chair Jeannine Wallace.

Hayes or Kur? Voters to decide whose experience matters more in judge race

STEVE ZUCKER
(231) 439-9346 • szucker@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — If there is one thing that Mary Beth Kur and Roy C. "Joe" Hayes III can agree on, it's that when it comes to who will serve as the next Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge, experience in the courtroom matters.

It's how much, and what kind of experience where the two differ.

Kur and Hayes, both of Charlevoix, emerged as the top two out of five candidates who ran in the non-partisan August Primary Election.

Hayes received 2,326 votes, while Kur received 1,596, a difference of 730 votes. The next closest candidate was Valerie Snyder who received 1,396 votes. The other two candidates were Thomas Schraw and Edward Engstrom.

Hayes and Kur will square off on Nov. 4 to see who will succeed current Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas, who is barred from seeking re-election by a state law that prohibits a person more than 70 years old from being elected to a judge's post. Judge Pajtas first took office in 1985 and will serve to the end of this year.

Roy C. "Joe" Hayes

Hayes, 46, grew up in Charlevoix and is a 1986 graduate of Charlevoix High School. He has an undergraduate degree from the University of Notre Dame a law degree in 1993 from the Washington & Lee University Law School in Lexington, Va. In law school, Hayes spent summers working for Michigan Supreme Court Justice Patricia Boyle, and also for the Criminal Division of the United States Department of Justice in Washington, D.C., assisting federal prosecutors with legal research.

After law school, Hayes worked as a law clerk to Justice William Ray Price of the Missouri Supreme Court. Hayes returned home to Charlevoix after his judicial clerkship in 1994 to practice law with his father, the late Roy C. Hayes Jr.

Last year, Hayes was appointed by Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette to the position of Public Administrator for Charlevoix County, which requires Hayes to represent

What does a circuit court judge do?

"The circuit court is the trial court with the broadest powers in Michigan. In general, the circuit court handles all civil cases with claims of more than $25,000 and all felony criminal cases (cases where the accused, if found guilty, could be sent to prison). The family division of circuit court handles all cases regarding divorce, paternity, adoptions, personal protection actions, emancipation of minors, treatment and testing of infectious disease, safe delivery of newborns, name changes, juvenile offenses and delinquency, juvenile guardianship, and child abuse and neglect. In addition, the circuit court hears cases appealed from the other trial courts or from administrative agencies. The friend of the court office is part of the family division of the circuit court and handles domestic relations cases where minor children are involved." Circuit court judges are elected for six year terms.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Karen Wolletz, a crafts instructor at the Charlevoix Senior Center, is looking for a few more crafters for the annual Christmas Craft Bazaar known as the "Hunters Widows' Bazaar."

The event will be from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix. This is the fourth year Wolletz has been organizing the craft show, each year designating an organization to which profits might be a benefit. This year, the bazaar will donate proceeds to The Charlevoix Christmas Project.

The Christmas Project, well known and much anticipated in the Charlevoix area, was begun in 1982 and has lent a helping hand to area families in need at Christmastime ever since. The first year, 13 families were included in the philanthropy.

Last year, more than 250 families had a happier Christmas as a result of the efforts of many generous donors and volunteers. The Project, in tandem with the Charlevoix Food Pantry, provides community donated gifts, a turkey or ham, all the accompanying food essentials for Christmas dinner and breakfast the next morning, as well as paper products. In addition, coats, hats and gloves that have been donated by community Volunteers drawn from the 270 member Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) will wrap toys and pack meals and other items at Bethany Lutheran Church a week prior to the delivery date of Friday, Dec. 19.

The Christmas Craft Bazaar will feature crafted items, hiked goods and a silent auction of a hand-crocheted afghan and needlework pillow donated by Wolletz. Rosalyn Goldstick, another organizer of the event, will be among the crafters selling knitted and crocheted articles as well as her two poetry books, "Do You Remember" and "I'll Never Forget."

A soup and salad luncheon will be served from noon-2 p.m. for the price of a donation to the Project.

tables," said Wolletz, and only 22 are filled. "We are encouraging all crafters to come forward and participate for fun, fellowship and for a good cause."

A free lunch will be served to all crafters. They will be asked to donate 10 percent of their sales up to $15 to the Christmas Project.

THE TRUTH MATTERS

Why you should care about Mr. Hayes' lies, liens, and cash flow problems.

Before you vote, think about this:

WOULD YOU ELECT A TOWNSHIP TREASURER WHO...

- Admits to having cash flow problems
- Had a $34,000 IRS lien placed on his property for unpaid payroll taxes
- Did not pay this $34,000 in overdue payroll taxes for 3 1/2 years
- Paid his real estate taxes 2 years late
- Just 2 weeks ago, was fined $2,000 by the State for violating election laws
- Had a total of 4 liens filed since 2010 and on top of that, lied to you about it.

...OF COURSE NOT.

If you wouldn't elect Mr. Hayes as your Township Treasurer, WHY would you elect him as our next Judge?

I genuinely feel that you, as a responsible voter, must know the truth before casting your ballot. I asked Mr. Hayes to discuss these issues at a public debate. Regrettably, he ignored me, and most importantly, he ignored you, the voters.

Hear for the Holidays!ReSound LiNX™

Enjoy conversation with your friends and family this holiday season. ReSound LiNX™ is the world's smallest wireless hearing system with the ability to connect with today's technology. Utilizing surround sound, it was designed to give you the most natural sound experience by adjusting both aids simultaneously to help you hear better in almost any setting. Let Petoskey Ear, Nose and Throat put you back in the picture this holiday season.

5 ways to better hearing this holiday season:

1. Admit that your hearing isn't what it used to be. Most people wait too long before solving their hearing problems, often an average of 5-7 years. It is time to start enjoying the benefits of improved hearing!
2. Keep a positive attitude while you seek help. There are many different hearing aid options. Keeping a positive attitude through the process will help you and the best hearing solution that fits your needs.
3. Learn all you can about your hearing problem. As you learn the facts about your hearing loss, you are better able to communicate your hearing needs to your audiologist.
4. Set realistic expectations. Hearing aids are designed to improve your hearing and may not be able to create a hearing experience you had prior to hearing loss. Communicate your expectations and set realistic goals with your audiologists.
5. Practice, time and patience yield success. Adjusting to anything new takes time. It's no different with hearing aids. Once you feel and hear the benefits the rewards are more than worth it.

Charlevoix Elementary School is no exception. Halloween motifs are starting to appear on bulletin boards and almost every student can tell you what his or her costume will be.

The annual Halloween Parade of students in grades 1-6 will be leaving from the school at 1:15 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 31, walking down Division to Bridge Street and proceeding downtown where they will be treated by many participating business. Parents are welcome to view and take pictures of their kids along the way as they travel around town and return via State Street. Kindergarteners will be bused down to join the rest of the students. Preschoolers will not be participating in the parade.

Trick-or-treating in the city of Charlevoix will be from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday.

Halloween for many children is almost better than Christmas. What could be more fun than getting dressed up in a costume, going out at night with your family and/or friends in the dark, and trick-or-treating for large sacks of candy? However, certain cautions should be taken, according to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Tips from Sheriff Don Schneider for Halloween safety

To ensure this Halloween is safe for your children, Sheriff Don Schneider offers the following safety tips:

- Costumes should be short enough to prevent tripping. Masks should not be too restrictive with adequate holes for proper respiration and peripheral vision. Consider using cosmetics to create fun or scary faces instead of masks.

- Watch costumed children around pets. The pet may not recognize the child and become frightened, especially if the child is using a prop such as a sword or dagger as part of their costume.

- Avoid hard plastic or wooden props, opting instead for items made of foam rubber which is soft and flexible.

- To help make the child more visible after dark, trick-or-treaters should carry a brightly colored bag and a flashlight or glow stick. Add reflective tape to the sides, front and back of the child's costume.

- At all times, watch for traffic and avoid walking in the street whenever possible.

- An adult should always accompany young children. A parent should stay within close range of young children at all times, and children should never be allowed to go down to a street alone. Walk with your children to each house and wait near the porch or front entrance of the home until they return.

- Older children should travel in pairs or in groups at all times while trick-or-treating and never venture down a dark, empty street.

- Parents should know the route that their children are following. Children should always walk together to the front door of each house and only cross the street at crosswalks.

- Dark, unlit homes should be avoided.

- Children should save their candy until they get home so you can inspect it. Discard any unwrapped or suspicious looking goodies. If your child does get sick, call your family doctor or the hospital emergency room immediately and save all wrappers. It is also helpful to determine what he or she ate and which house it came from.

- Keep flammable items, such as your jack-o'-lantern, away from small children, pets and flammable materials such as draperies, furniture and paper decorations. Never leave a candle burning unattended.

"Halloween is a fun time in Charlevoix County," Schneider concluded. "Let's make it a safe time as well."

Two injured in two-vehicle crash

CHARLEVOIX — Two people were injured in a two-vehicle traffic crash south of Charlevoix on Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as the drivers, Nataleigh Musser, 21, of Charlevoix and Douglas Paulus, 59, of Onaway. Musser was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix Ambulance to be evaluated for possible injuries. Police said Paulus complained of being sore following the crash, but refused medical treatment.

Deputies said the crash happened at about 2 p.m. on Barnard Road at Ferry Road in Marion Township.

According to authorities, Musser was traveling on Ferry Road when she failed to yield to a vehicle driven by Paulus traveling northbound on Barnard Road. Deputies said Musser pulled out in front of the vehicle on Ferry Road where her vehicle was struck by Paulus' vehicle.

Deputies said Paulus reported he saw Musser pull out in front of him and he tried to avoid the collision, but could not.

Both drivers were wearing their seatbelts at the time of the crash, authorities said.

The Charlevoix Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

Skaggs was transported to Kalkaska Memorial Hospital by ambulance where he was pronounced dead.

Police said neither speed nor alcohol appear to have been factors in the crash.

OPINIONS yours & ours

A time to say fare thee well

This will be my last article (for now), as I venture forth to take in different scenery and forge new friendships while continuing another chapter in my life.

It was truly a gift the day I walked into the Charlevoix Courier office that warm and sunny day, not thinking about work, but drifting in my own thoughts while on an afternoon stroll. When I entered the front door of the newspaper office it was with the purpose of congratulating Julie Withoelt on her new position as editor. Our conversation was fun and it was good to catch up. But she surprised me with what she shared next: a job offer. An offer that didn't take too long to think about as I had retired from my school counselor position, and I'm not one to sit still for too long. Julie must have sensed it. But what will I write about? Julie was quick to respond with "You've led an interesting life so let's call it 'A look at life' and the rest will come naturally." And so it did.

There have been columns where I have probably shared too much, but when followers of the column say reading it is like getting a personal letter, I felt a connection with them. In high school, I was an avid disciple of news columnists; Emma Bombbeck was my favorite. I remember when the paper boy would drop off the Detroit Free Press and mom would open up the paper to page three and read the current thoughts from Ms. Bombbeck. It always put a smile on her face as she connected with this woman. Emma Bombbeck's creative writing turned a sad or troubled day into a better one just with her written word.

In my columns, I have shared my life story of growing up adopted, the "how to" of caring for an elderly parent, the birth of our grandchildren, the rewards of being a teacher and, lest I forget, the best things Charlevoix has to offer. Writing has and always will be the best way to connect with others personally. I have recently reread all of my parent's letters they wrote to each other while they were dating and the heart-breaking messages they shared while dad was stationed in Pearl Harbor. Seeing things written in their own hand and now viewing it through my adult eyes, I realized how they faced difficult times, felt insecure about themselves and sometimes worried about decisions made, but they always remained hopeful. Words expressed beautifully sometimes with a saddened hand but always with a grateful heart.

After reading my columns, if you were able to glean a little information on a new topic or were inspired to do something differently, this educator and writer feels like she set out what she accomplished to do. If I made you smile, laugh aloud, shed a tear or you may have even clipped out the column and shared it, my heart swells with pride and warmth and I thank you.

Saying goodbye is never easy, so I'll just end with farewell until we meet again. I'm dedicating this column to my mom who inspired me every day to do my best, be honest and brighten someone's day with a smile or kind word. I think of her every time the paper comes out as I know deep inside she is happy for me. Even though she will never have the opportunity to see and touch the fine print, her heart is behind my work... always. I have also dedicated this column to my birth mom who has the unique gift of storytelling and had the courage to give me life and then give me up for adoption to a loving family that inspired the stories I tell. You are my biggest fan as I know you have kept every copy of this paper when my column is in it. Thank you Julie for seeing the storyteller in me, confirming what my former teaching nuns kept telling me all along, "Miss Gayle you tell a good story, now get back to work."

Charlevoix-Emmet United Way offers thanks to volunteers

Editor:
The Charlevoix-Emmet United Way offers thanks to the teams of volunteers who helped support their recent Day of Caring.

Volunteers who receive special recognition are: Bergmann Center Aktion Club, 102.9 Big Country, Charlevoix School's seventh and eighth grades, Charlevoix-Emmet County Department of Human Services, Circuit Controls Corporation, Consumers Energy, East Jordan High School, Grantham Building and Remodeling, Harbor Industries, Huntington Bank-Charlevoix, McLaren Northern Michigan, North Central Michigan College classes with Deborah Olson-Dean, Northwestern Bank-Charlevoix, Petoskey High School-FFA Class, Petoskey News-Review, Petoskey Noon Rotary, Rotary Club of Little Traverse Bay Sunset, RSVP, St. Marys Cement and Petoskey Sunrise Rotary Club.

Six hundred twenty-nine volunteers completed 66 service projects this year. Without the participation of area agencies, schools, organizations, service clubs, businesses and many individuals, Day of Caring would not be a success.

Janes and Tim Petrosky.

The 11th annual Day of Caring made a huge difference for many agencies and individuals in Charlevoix and Emmet counties. Your generosity was greatly appreciated and acknowledged throughout our communities. We look forward to another successful Day of Caring next year.

Township resident supports county parks millage

Dear Editor:
This letter is in support of the proposed Charlevoix County Parks millage. The park system is more than recreational facilities. It is an important economic tool in our increasingly tourism-based economy in Charlevoix County. We need to continue the development of our existing parks system including redevelopment of Whiting Park sites so they are level and have electricity, constructing a small boat launch facility, developing a pavilion with restroom facilities at the Thunh Lake Park, development of walking and skiing trails at Porter Creek Park and the expanded Whiting Park facility, and having funds available for further non-motorized trails throughout the county, and having the ability to assist townships and municipalities in their recreational projects.

The cost of this millage of 0.15 mills on a $100,000 SEV property will be $15 yearly. According to several county commissioners, the board will ultimately reduce the county's operational millage by a like amount, thereby having a zero increase in your tax bill. This will also be done for the Veterans millage.

I urge your support of the millage request when you vote in the Nov. 4 election.

Proposal is respectful of Native Americans

Editor:
My wife and children are proudly Native American, so our family cares deeply about tribal culture and heritage.

We are pleased to know that my employer, St. Marys Cement, has completed an archeological study in conjunction to the proposed land swap in and next to Fisherman's Island State Park.

As we all know, Native Americans lived and thrived in many places across Michigan long before there was a Fisherman's Island State Park and long before there was a St. Marys Cement. Many places throughout Northern Michigan are very important to the culture and heritage of Native Americans and must be respected and preserved. The archeological study helped produce a land swap proposal that is respectful of Michigan's native people.

Basketball, actually rough and tumble, sometimes bloody pick-up games, was introduced in Charlevoix in 1909 on the top floor of Bonthron's Plumbing & Heating building that stood about where the road leads down to the Beaver Island Boat Company dock on Bridge Street.

The basket, in the beginning a bushel basket, was used mainly for shooting practice since the space was too small for regulation games. That changed in 1910 when the game was moved across Bridge Street into the Lewis Grand Opera House, which stood at the southwest corner of the bridge, where the seats in the auditorium were removed. Now the first regulation games were played not only with high school boys but also girls. The opera house served for two years until the game was transferred to the roller skating rink on the south shore of Round Lake where it remained until 1923.

Shown are the first two 1910 teams.

Charlevoix Area Community Pool announces Great Lakes Challenge

The Great Lakes Challenge is underway.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool, 11905 U.S. 31, Charlevoix, is offering a challenge to area swimmers — Swim the Great Lakes, but don't be afraid. Swimmers can go the distance, minus the killer waves, freak storms and drunken, summer boaters. The challenge can be completed in the much safer environment of the Charlevoix Pool.

The program runs from August 2014 through August 2015 and currently has several dedicated swimmers including Mike Costa, Dennis Halverson, Jeanette Kling, Steve Nelle and Sue Schlaybough, who have all completed enough laps to cover Lake Ontario, the first of the Great Lakes challenge.

Each lake has its own swim cap, which is presented to participants after they finish the completed equivalent laps. Exclusive Great Lakes Challenge swim caps will be offered after the entire distance of the Great Lakes has been

With ten lengths of the pool equivalent to one mile, it would take 2,060 lengths to complete Lake Huron, the middle child, at 206 miles long. A swimmer will need to cover 12,970 lengths to complete the entire challenge.

As the program will run for an entire year, new swimmers are invited to join the

Hospice to honor Michigan Veterans

Hospice of Northern Michigan will be honoring veterans on Veterans Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11, from noon to 1:30 p.m. at the American House of Charlevoix, 615 Petoskey Ave., and from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the American House of Petoskey, 2000 E. Mitchell Road.

The resident veterans will be recognized with a special pinning ceremony.

Veterans representing each of the military branches will be presented a certificate reflecting their branch of military service. The pinning ceremonies may also include a special "Missing Man" ceremony honoring MIA/POW servicemen, a candlelighting ceremony honoring the sacrifice of family members of veterans, a rifle volley or a performance of taps.

These Veterans Day observances are a part of Hospice of Northern Michigan's participation in the "We Honor Veterans" program, which is a partnership between the Veterans Administration and the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization. The program was developed to enhance care for veterans at the end of life and includes both educational and ceremonial elements.

"Many military veterans have never been formally thanked for their service to our country," said Dr. Michael Paletta, executive director of the Hospice of Michigan Institute, and retired colonel and flight surgeon.

"Our pinning ceremonies not only provide well-deserved recognition for our veterans, but they also allow time to reflect on the sacrifices made by members of the military in an effort to preserve our freedom."

Hospice of Northern Michigan's pinning ceremonies are open to the public and the media.

Health department promotes breast cancer awareness

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, but breast cancer kills women every day of the year. And every day, thousands of women — whether or not they're employed — must make a choice between paying the bills or taking care of their own health.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan wants to remove all obstacles women face in seeking the care that might help them detect and prevent breast cancer.

Joy Klooster, a women's health programs coordinator for the Health Department, said breast cancer affects every member of the family, and everyone can help save the lives of the women they love.

"We encourage husbands, boyfriends, kids, parents, bosses and best friends to help make it a priority for EVERY woman in their lives, EVERY year."

Klooster said the Health Department's Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program (BCCCP) targets women age 40-64 who have no insurance, or who have high insurance deductibles for diagnostic procedures such as ultrasounds and breast tissue biopsies.

"We also have ways to help women ages 25 to 39 who have abnormal breast findings and need mammograms," she explained. "We provide follow-up for abnormal findings, and if a cancer is found, we can help them through the Medicaid Treatment Act."

Every woman who is 40 or older should seek a mam-mogram, every year. If you find a lump and don't know where to turn, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan will guide you to the right screening program.

To learn more about the Health Department's Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program, visit www.nwhealth.org.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality health care, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

Call (800) 432-4121 for more information or to schedule a mammogram.

Fox Charlevoix helps raise $2,850 for Charlevoix Elementary

Fox Charlevoix helped raise $2,850 in funding for Charlevoix Elementary with Chrysler brand's Drive for the Kids program. The fundraising event was on Oct. 10, in conjunction with the Grand Friend Day. Participants earned a $10 contribution to the school on their behalf from the Chrysler brand by taking a brief test drive in a 2014 model Town and Country minivan and other Chrysler vehicles made available for test drives thanks to Fox Charlevoix.

At the conclusion of the 2014 program, the school with the highest number of test drives in each one of the five geographic regions: Southeast, Northeast, Central, Midwest and West will win an additional $5,000 for a total of $25,000 in additional funding from Chrysler through the Drive for the Kids program.

Chrysler supports schools in the communities where the company does business. Since 1993 when Chrysler introduced Drive for the Kids, Chrysler dealers have worked with parents and educators in communities across the nation. Circuit court race robed in controversy

(231) 439-9346
szucker@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — It's been nearly three decades since voters in Charlevoix County have had the opportunity to decide who will serve as their next circuit court judge.

Making up for this lull between judge's races, the race between the two candidates who are running for the post — Roy C. "Joe" Hayes and Mary Beth Kur — has been robed in continuousness in recent weeks.

In the weeks since the August primary election in which Hayes and Kur emerged at the top two (respectively) finishers in a five-candidate race, the atmosphere surrounding the race has become increasingly contentious.

Here are some of the issues that have cropped up:

Hayes' tax liens

In her campaign, Kur has made much of the fact that in recent years the IRS and state officials have filed several liens against Hayes' personal real estate for unpaid federal withholding and state unemployment taxes.

Hayes response was that the liens are real, but only one was legitimate.

Hayes explained that 2008 was tough financially for his former law firm Hayes Turkleson & Groat P.C. and the firm was unable to pay some of its financial obligations, including for three quarters of 2008 totaling $34,830.81 in unpaid withholding taxes. This led to federal tax liens being placed against all three shareholders in the corporation, including Hayes.

Hayes said the liens were released in 2011 when he sold some of his personal real estate to pay the entire unpaid tax bill.

Hayes said the other three tax liens filed by the State of Michigan this year for a total of $1,743.08 for three quarters of 2013, were filed against his former firm in error.

He explained that the firm Hayes Turkleson & Groat P.C. was dissolved in 2012 and the proper paperwork was filed with state officials notifying them of the corporate dissolution, but that information apparently never made it to officials with the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs.

Hayes provided a copy of the releases of all three liens by the state dated Sept. 29, 2014, and a copy of an email from Neal Rifkin, an account examiner with the collections unit of the state's unemployment insurance agency that the state liens in question "should have never been submitted to the Charlevoix County Register of Deeds for recording. The submission was issued in error, after payroll had ended in December 2012. The paperwork to inactivate the account ... was processed late by our agency."

On hearing Hayes' answer, Kur responded, "It's inconceivable to me that a lawyer, when he received three liens this summer, wouldn't do anything about it until recently."

Answering for an answer

On a matter related to the tax liens, Kur, in her campaign materials, has pointed out that when filling out responses to another media outlet's voter guide questionnaire, Hayes answered "No" to the question "Have you ever failed to pay your taxes on time?"

Hayes told the News-Review when he filled out the questionnaire he thought the question was about personal taxes, not withholding taxes for the company in which he was a shareholder. Hayes has since submitted a revised answer to the question in which he explains the situation.

Kur responded that if Hayes was uncertain about the question, "as a trained lawyer, he should have asked for clarification."

Campaign finance issues

On Oct. 17, state election officials issued Hayes' campaign a late filing fee of $2,000 under the Michigan Campaign Finance Act. The fee has to do with a $5,000 loan Hayes' wife made to the campaign in late July. According to a correspondence from the state, filings show that the contribution/loan was made on July 24 and was reported to the state on July 31. In the correspondence state officials said the loan should have been reported within 48 hours of its receipt.

Hayes said the late filing was a result of a misunderstanding by his committee treasurer on when the loan should be reported. "This is the first time any of us have been through this process. The plan is to appeal the assessment of the late fee. Obviously, if the appeal is denied, the fee will be paid immediately," Hayes said.

Signs of the times

Kur has also had issues with campaign laws.

Here had to do with a complaint that during the campaign leading up to the primary election some of her campaign materials — some signs, a billboard and for a time her campaign's website, did not carry any or a properly formatted "paid for" notice. The complaint was filed by county resident Robert Taylor.

In her response to the complaint, Kur wrote that all of her campaign's yard signs contained the proper disclaimer. She said she has designed and from time to time has edited her campaign's website. "I am reasonably certain that in the past, I have had the address of my committee on it, but evidently at some point when it was edited, the address was inadvertently omitted."

Kur wrote that she fixed the website problem as soon as she learned of it.

She also conceded that she did have a billboard that was up for four weeks ending in March that did not have the address of the committee on it, only the name.

"The omission was made in error. It was difficult, if not impossible to remedy the address omission after it was posted," Kur wrote.

On Oct. 7, state officials sent Kur a letter indicating that, after completing their investigation, "While the department believes that evidence tends to show that some of your campaign material failed to contain a complete paid-for-by statement, (the law) requires the department to 'endeavor to correct the violation or prevent further violation by using informal methods such as conference, conciliation, or persuasion.' The department is satisfied that you took appropriate corrective measures once the potential violation was brought to your attention."

The letter goes on to say the department considers the matter closed and will take no further action against Kur at this time.

An infamous flyer

On her website, Kur has posted portions of a flyer that people were handing out in downtown Charlevoix during the community's recent Apple Festival. The flyer attacks Kur for several things, but perhaps most notoriously about the fact that, as a child, Kur was one of many victims in a criminal sexual conduct case in the Flint area. The flyer seeks to place blame on Kur for not taking action to prevent some of the other crimes or situations surrounding the case.

Hayes told the News-Review that although some people have assumed as much, he has no connection whatsoever to the production or distribution of the flyers or the group of people who did so. Hayes called the flyer "nasty" and said its origins lie with a person or group of people "who have an ax to grind" against Kur and several other public officials. He said he suspects they are only supporting him because he's running against Kur.

Kur said she was deeply hurt by the fliers, and added that while she doesn't blame Hayes for them, she was "disappointed that he didn't immediately denounce them."

On Oct. 14, two days after the end of the Apple Festival, Hayes posted a statement on his campaign's

Facebook page in which he disavowed any connection to a negative blog or the flyer. However, Kur was critical of the fact that in the statement Hayes named the blog and thereby gave it more publicity.

Hayes statement read, in part, "I have worked hard to run a clean and positive campaign. I would never resort to personal attacks against someone whom I have considered a friend for the past 20 years. I encourage all Charlevoix County voters to ignore the negative attacks and focus on the positive attributes of both candidates."

Lawsuits

Hayes said although his aim had been to run a positive campaign, in light of the fact that Kur has been making much of the tax lien issues, he's begun reminding people about the contentious issues that surrounded Kur near the end of her time serving as Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney.

Kur was at the center of several lawsuits in which she and the county were named defendants. In one of the suits, a jury ultimately awarded two of her former support staff members a combined verdict of $1.1 million. In the verdict, the jury found that Kur had "constructively discharged" the two former staff members — that is, made the work environment in the office so difficult that the employees had no option but to quit. The suit alleged that Kur had targeted the two employees in retaliation for their testimony in another lawsuit against Kur. In the other lawsuit, Kur's former chief assistant prosecutor, John Jarema, filed a claim under the Whistleblower's Protection Act, claiming that Kur fired him in retaliation for the fact that he was about to make allegations of office mismanagement. The case was ultimately settled for $50,000.

In response Kur said that "both candidates have been sued."

She added that the litigation all stemmed from her firing Jarema. She also noted that most if not all of the strategy decisions regarding the cases were decided by the county's insurance carrier, which also paid most of the settlement and judgment costs, and also decided not to appeal the jury's verdict in the constructive discharge suits.

"They want you to believe that I mistreated the people who worked for me and nothing could be farther from the truth," Kur said. "I'm not going to say that I would have done some things differently, but the underlying decision (to fire Jarema) was the right thing to do."

EXPERIENCE

Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board, and in 2007 she was appointed to the Executive Clemency Advisory Council.

Additionally, she has served as an appointed Special Assistant Attorney General to the Michigan Attorney General to prosecute people in Northern Michigan delinquent on child support payments.

Experience

During a candidates forum prior to the primary election, both Kur and Hayes said they believe that trial experience is a very important factor in choosing who will serve as they county's next circuit court judge.

Both candidates claim to have extensive trial experience, but the devil is in the details.

Kur recently has said numbers she has obtained from the Charlevoix and Emmet county circuit court offices show Hayes has had only two jury trials in either circuit court since 1995 to her 35 (31 as a prosecutor and four as a defense attorney) in that time.

However, Hayes has countered that although he has not taken the time to compile all the data, his trial experience has been extensive and has been in both jury and many bench trials in both circuit and district courts in many counties around the state and covering a wide array of topics.

Kur argues that experience in jury trials (more so than trials that a judge will decide) is especially important for someone who will be a judge because jury trials — especially at the circuit court level — are often very complex and require a judge to be very careful about trial procedures and what a jury is allowed to see and hear.

Hayes argues that although criminal cases, especially the high profile ones, get a great deal of attention, circuit court judges spend much more of their time handling civil and family matters. (He cites state statistics that show criminal cases typically make up about 17 percent of a circuit court case load.) He contends that's where his more diverse background is an advantage.

What if you are elected?

Both Kur and Hayes have expressed interest in establishing a "drug court" if they are elected. Such a court would divert certain substance abuse-related cases into a special program that focuses on treatment for the offender in hopes of breaking the cycle of re-offending.

Kur also said she wants to make it easier for attorneys and the public to access court files and other documents through the county's website.

What else is important?

Kur said she was disappointed when she lost the election in for county prosecutor in 2004, but said in hindsight it's been great for her professionally.

"When I lost election in 2004, I thought that was the worst thing that ever happened to me, but it's turned out to be the best thing. I was always a prosecutor, but now I've done everything. It's given me a perspective I didn't have before ... It's a really important thing to know what it's like to be sitting in both (the prosecution and defense) chairs," Kur said.

Kur added: "Who you are, and what you are made of matter and what you stand for also matters."

Hayes said this race is important because: "Voters will be choosing the person who they want to be in charge of circuit court. They want someone who is going to be fair to all of the people, not to be showing favoritism, and who will be respecting and upholding the rights of all when making decisions."

The Volunteer Connections site is accessed through the Char-Ein United Way site, www.charemunitiedway.org. Once there, click on the volunteer link, which will take you to charemunitedway.galaxydigital.com. The volunteer link is a virtual volunteer center that matches volunteers with local non-profits. It is a free resource that benefits the community, by allowing volunteers to match their skills, interests and availability to causes that are open throughout the area.

Area organizations interested in learning how to use or improve their use of Volunteer Connections are invited to the training session. This will be an interactive training session and attendees are encouraged to bring a laptop or tablet with them to get the most out of the training. Organization registration, volunteer registration, event posting and volunteer contact messages are some of the topics that will be discussed and demonstrated.

Since the site went live on Jan. 22, 2014, there have been 1,144 visits to the page by potential volunteers. Currently, there are 405 registered users and 73 active agencies, with 78 volunteer needs posted.

The training is free and is open to all area non-profit agencies or organizations. Space is limited and reservations are encouraged. To register, contact Lisa Luehke by Tuesday, Nov. 4 via email at info@charemunitedway.org, or by calling (231) 487-1006.

Shipwrecks focus of fall lecture series

The Charlevoix Public Library, 220 W. Clinton Street, announced the schedule for their fall lecture series focusing on Great Lakes Shipwrecks. The Gales of November will be presented at 6:30 p.m., on three consecutive Tuesday evenings, beginning Nov. 4, in the community room at the library.

On Nov. 4, "She Died a Hard Death: The Sinking of the Hennepin" will be the featured topic. "She died a hard death," was the explanation given to those waiting at the dock when Captain Ole Hansen returned to port without his barge. Seventy-nine years later, author and explorer Valerie van Heest and her team discovered the wreck in 230 feet of water. Through research and underwater exploration, Valerie pieced together the true account of the sinking and placed this vessel in its proper historical context as the first self-unloading steamer and one of the most significant vessels ever to sail the Great Lakes.

Nov. 11 brings "Through Surf and Storm: Shipwrecks of the Sunset Coast" to the library. The busy Lake Michigan harbors between Pentwater and Holland have been home to these "ships gone missing" like no one else, with a full multi-media presentation utilizing amazing images, narrative and music.

To round out the series, "The LaSalle-Griffon Project" will be presented on Nov. 18. Hear the latest information on the quest to identify the remains of the 1679 lost French ship, "Le Griffon." This ship is often referred to as the "Holy Grail of the Great Lakes," and as the first (actually the third) ship to sink in the Great Lakes. This presentation by Steven J. Libert, a 34 year veteran of underwater explorations, includes video, oral commentary and time for follow-up questions.

For more information about the Shipwreck Series, contact the information desk at (231) 237-7340 or visit them online at www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

COUNCIL, MAYOR

McSaubu. If the city will need to subsidize the docks then we should not build them. Considering the ideas discussed above, and other ideas that people express, we should continue the conversation regarding the marina expansion. In fact, all suggestions intended to help promote a positive downtown experience for everyone should be respectfully considered—especially other suggestions that will promote year-round enjoyment of the downtown for locals and visitors alike."

Question: Do you support the continued pursuit of a potential land exchange between St. Marys Cement and Fisherman's Island State Park, a recreational facility outside city limits, yet with a direct impact on the entire community's economy and quality of life, and why?

Eveligh: "This is a widespread concern of all citizens in the area. I am against this potential land swap. First off, I would want to be assured that the cement plant is in compliance with air, water and soil requirements of state and federal governments. Secondly, I believe that Fisherman Island State Park is a community treasure, and we must retain its unspoiled environment."

Kurtz: "Specifically, I do not support the continued pursuit of a land exchange. I am serving on the land swap committee because I care a great deal about Fisherman's Island State Park—especially the proximity of the north entrance to the city. I grew up in Charlevoix, and I enjoyed spending time riding my bike and camping at the park. I have spent over 40 hours of my personal time, outside of the committee meetings, researching how this land swap might impact the surrounding community. I have walked the boundaries of the potential land swap. I have studied the potential costs and cost savings to the community and St. Marys, and I have learned a great deal about how this process will interface with the State of Michigan. I have also learned about the environmental considerations that would be both positive and negative if the swap were to occur. At this point, St. Marys has not made any proposal that I would support."

I understand from several people that St. Marys is a more community-minded business to work with than previous cement plant owners. Additionally, St. Marys is a large employer in the community, providing good year-round jobs. Considering all these factors, even though I don't support the "pursuit" of a land exchange, I think we should respectfully and thoughtfully consider any proposal before we react to it. I promise to do that for all issues at city council meetings."

Question: How best do you feel Charlevoix city officials should approach the continued operations of both the municipal golf course and Mount McSaubu area, in order to reduce costs for taxpayers and yet maintain these valuable public resources?

Eveligh: "The golf course and ski hill belong to the citizens as a recreational asset and should remain that way. Let's keep these facilities public. I have first-hand knowledge that privatization does not work. In Lansing, public golf courses were privatized, and now they are no longer in existence. All have been closed and jobs were lost. Boyne Mountain bought Avalanche in Boyne City and now it is closed. We need to engage our community and get their input on how we might reduce costs and yet keep these recreational facilities as public assets. We need to hear the will of the people on this issue."

Kurtz: "I grew up spending time on the golf course and skiing at Mount McSaubu. I truly love the fact that these activities are provided by the community and not by a private enterprise. As a citizen, I support the use of some of my tax dollars going toward the funding of the ski hill and the golf course. That being said, I want to make the Mount McSaubu recreational area and the municipal golf course self-sustaining, if possible."

The approach the city officials should take is to first try some of the ideas that were suggested at the city council meetings over the last few months. One idea I particularly liked was to generate a volunteer base that would assist the city in reducing the labor costs in connection with the two facilities. If a base of community volunteers were involved in the operation then it would build on the idea that these facilities are owned and operated by the community for the community."

Ward 2

Peggy Brennan, 61, is the incumbent appointed to Ward 2. She is 61 and has lived in Charlevoix for the last 10 years after retiring nearly 20 years ago after selling two radio stations she owned. She serves as Charlevoix city councilwoman since her appointment in February.

Brennan

Bill Supernaw, 71, is a write-in candidate for Ward 2. He is a lifelong Charlevoix resident; retired radio announcer, former cinema owner and currently volunteers as the voice of the annual Charlevoix Venetian Parade. He formerly served on the appointed Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority Board.

Question: Do you support the continued pursuit of a Charlevoix city marina expansion in Round Lake, should state and federal regulators sign off on any version of such a project, and why?

Brennan: "The management and sustainability of our marina is of the utmost importance to Charlevoix. With the best natural harbor on Lake Michigan and being a tourist destination we need to utilize all marina space."

Due to lower property values since 2007, the DDA is capturing less revenue than previously anticipated. A shortfall will occur when our bond payments increase significantly in the near future. The $100,000 annual income from this space will help pay the bond payments and can be used after the 2027 last bond payment to refurbish the docks at the end of their 35-year life span.

We currently have six names on a waiting list for spaces over 60 feet. The space also offers docking for the excursion boat and additional shoppers' dock. It can be built with prepayment of slips. No bonds. The rate of return is five years, a business dream come true. The Waterways Commission will not have control of this space as they currently have of Docks A, B, C and D.

Marinas are the economic engines that drive the vibrancy of adjoining downtowns. Researchers at MSU state this space will produce $188,000 in revenue impact, support 3.3 full-time job equivalents and generate $62,000 in wages and salaries. The viability of downtown and marine-related businesses is directly impacted by boaters. The bigger the boat, the bigger the spending. Sales make salaries.

As a fiscally responsible councilmember the answer is, yes."

Supernaw: "It's likely that what happens to the Charlevoix Harbor in the future will be decided by agencies of the State of Michigan and the United States Coast Guard."

You may recall the comments of former Coast Guard Commander Bills when he appeared before the city council this past summer. Bills statements, I felt, explained professionally and plainly what was involved with the proposed project and his conclusions came from a professional. At that time, I assumed that council and city staff would have concluded "Well, that's our answer..."

port the continued pursuit of a potential land exchange between St. Marys Cement and Fisherman's Island State Park, a recreational facility outside city limits, yet with a direct impact on the entire community's economy and quality of life, and why?

Brennan: "DNR officials have clearly stated that the area is a state park not a local park. If a proposal is actually presented they will make the determination of what is in the best interest of the state just as they did when the area was changed from a state forest campground to a state park."

In addition, City Charter for the City of Charlevoix, Article V Ordinances and Resolutions, Section 5.2 Legislation, C: The power of the Council to act by resolution is limited to matters required or permitted by law or by this Charter, and to matters pertaining to the internal concerns of the City.

This matter was addressed by the full council months ago. Therefore my neutral opinion is immaterial."

Supernaw: "Once again, the councilperson from the 2nd Ward of Charlevoix has no official input into the decision-making process for the proposed land exchange. It appears the State of Michigan will be the decider. However, citizen involvement on the local level is peaking, which is encouraging."

Question: How best do you feel Charlevoix city officials should approach the continued operations of both the municipal golf course and Mount McSaubu area, in order to reduce costs for taxpayers and yet maintain these valuable public resources?

Brennan: "A new Golf Advisory Committee has recently been created to analyze the golf operation. Obtaining creative ideas to address challenges will be the focus of the focal individuals making up the committee all of whom have strong business backgrounds and affiliations in various sectors of the sport."

A new assistant recreation director with strong media skills will be hired in the near future. The use of social media to promote our recreational facilities will be most advantageous in securing the financial sustainability of both entities."

In regards to the Mount McSaubu Recreation Area, the first item to be addressed is the lack of internal control systems, procedures and insufficient audit trail for revenue collection surrounding the Ski Hill Operations as noted in the latest audit. The recommendations made by the auditors should be implemented immediately.

The biggest cost of operation at the ski hill is the water used for making snow. Not only is the use of the municipality's water cost prohibitive but the supply is also inadequate to efficiently operate the snowmaking equipment.

A new, large well could solve this problem.

An advisory board for this operation would also be most helpful in making recommendations for facility improvements and implementing new programs. The new recreation director and new assistant director will also be more hands on in the operation which should lead to better efficiency."

Supernaw: "In the short period that has ensued since these issues surfaced, it has become obvious that neither of the proposals should be taken seriously. Mountain McSaubu and the City Golf Course aren't going anywhere."

Mayoral candidates

Norman Carlson Jr., 47, is the incumbent and has lived in Charlevoix for the last 40 years. He is a local construction company owner and has served as Charlevoix mayor for the last 10 years.

Carlson

Challenger Gabe Campbell, 81, retired 16 years ago from the former Medusa cement plant. He served two years as Charlevoix mayor and 12 years as city council member.

Campbell

Question: Do you support the continued pursuit of a Charlevoix city marina expansion in Round Lake, should state and federal regulators sign off on any version of such a project, and why?

Carlson: "My position regarding the marina is similar to my approach on all issues facing the city. We should always pursue a healthy balance which protects the city taxpayers and promotes our local economy. A limited expansion of the marina would generate significant money for the city through dockage fees, which could help pay city expenses and prevent potential increases in taxes. Our downtown businesses would also benefit from greater customer spending, which will allow them to hire more local employees. I do not and will not, however, support any proposed marina expansion which would extend into Round Lake further than the existing docks, or any expansion which would be unsafe for navigation."

Campbell: "I don't support this project because I feel it is unsafe. I don't believe we should have spent that money before the people spoke."

Question: Do you support the continued pursuit of a potential land exchange between St. Marys Cement and Fisherman's Island State Park, a recreational facility outside city limits, yet with a direct impact on the entire community's economy and quality of life, and why?

a recreational facility outside city limits, yet with a direct impact on the entire community's economy and quality of life, and why?

Carlson: Once again, I will support an approach which protects the city taxpayers and promotes our local economy. As someone who was fortunate to grow up in Charlevoix, I have enjoyed the natural beauty of Fisherman's Island State Park throughout my life and will not support any proposition which would harm the park. At the same time, we should appreciate the economic benefit of the St. Marys Cement operations and its benefit to the city in providing good paying jobs to city residents, which enables them to own homes within city, pay property taxes and support local businesses. I am not yet able to reach an informed opinion on this issue, however, since a specific proposal has not yet been provided."

Campbell: "I'm not in favor of it because I believe it's beautiful as it is. I'm in favor of the cement plant."

Question: How best do you feel Charlevoix city officials should approach the continued operations of both the municipal golf course and Mount McSaubu area, in order to reduce costs for taxpayers and yet maintain these valuable public resources?

Carlson: "Charlevoix has always distinguished itself from cities throughout the entire country in its abundant natural and recreational resources, which include Mount McSaubu Park and the City Municipal Golf Course. Charlevoix has for many years found a way to sustain and support Mount McSaubu and the City Course, and we should continue to pursue creative ways to do so for the benefit of current and future generations."

I do not support closing Mount McSaubu or the City Course or leasing them out to third parties. A third party simply does not have the same incentive to maintain and reinvest in the facilities, which creates an unacceptable risk that they could be turned back to the city in poor physical or financial condition."

We do need, however, to reduce the costs of these operations to the general fund of the city. A creative and fair approach to funding would be creation of a recreational bond which would also be paid by neighboring township residents, so that city taxpayers do not bear the full expense. Such a recreational bond would have to be passed through an election and would provide a fair means to share the operating expenses with all area residents, including those in the townships, who also benefit from these wonderful facilities."

Campbell: "I think we should approach the township and ask them if they will join us in supporting both, as it is good for both the city and township."

Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra and Castle Farms present Sunday Series Recital

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra and Castle Farms, 5052 M-66 North, Charlevoix, will present Henry Purcell's aria, "Dido's Lament" and the cantata, "Didone Abbandonata" by Niccolò Jommelli.

The program will be performed at Castle Farms at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 2.

The Sunday Series Recital is part of the orchestra's effort to provide the community an opportunity to experience an intimate, musical event through the generous support of Carolyn Klönder. The free event allows local and rural areas to enjoy live orchestral performances that provide entertainment, education and inspiration for Northern Michigan. This series encourages individuals who seldom have the opportunity to experience classical orchestra functions to attend and revel in the uncommon art of music director Libor Ondras as he conducts the orchestra with the soprano Amy Joy Cross as she sings "Dido's Lament."

Both the Purcell and Jommelli works are based on the ancient story of Dido and Aeneas, recorded by Virgil in the epic, first-century B.C. poem, "Aeneid."

Dido is queen of Carthage and her lover, Aeneas, son of Venus, are under siege by enemies and all is lost, including chivalry. Aeneas is commanded by the gods to depart, leaving Dido to die in the flames of Carthage.
